They were speedily rounded up, loaded into three school buses, requisitioned for the purpose, and brought here, where they are confined in a curling rink. Since the wholesale arrests at Nelson last Sunday and May 1, the Graham ranch brethren have been restive and have been reported appearing in the nude on their own property. Last week they started to march to Nelson, but turned back.

Law Moves Speedily.

Yesterday at Nelson the law moved speedily to send 77 male nudists to penitentiary. They were convicted and sentenced to three years each in just 70 minutes. To-day 55 women go on trial. Previously 116 men and women had received three-year terms.

The inhabitants of Nelson jail are staging a hunger strike in protest against their confinement, and more particularly against separation from their children. With the object of caring for them in Government institutions, authorities have taken 31 boys to the coast. Further dissatisfaction among the prisoners is expected when the female children are taken away in the near future.

Since their incarceration the Doukhobors have spent a good part of their time singing. Now, however, with empty stomachs and a growing realization of their predicament the spontaneity is fading from their vocal efforts.

At Prince Albert, Sask., preparations are going forward for the appeal of Peter Verigin, leader of the Orthodox Doukhobor Community, from his conviction and sentence to three years for perjury. The nude parades of British Columbia are a dissenting sect and do not acknowledge Verigin's leadership. Disputes between the two factions are blamed for recent troubles in the Doukhobor colonies.

MINE ISSUES LOWER TO-DAY

NORANDA SELLS OFF 30.

TORONTO, May 13 (C.P.). — Prices displayed an irregularly lower tendency in quiet turnover on the Standard Stock and Mining Market in the forenoon to-day. Some of the leaders appeared to be under pressure, with base metal issues soft.

Hollinger Consolidated moved up in early sales and showed a net gain of 15 at $4.80, when taken at midday. Teck-Hughes also was a little stronger at $3.50, but Dome, dropping yesterday's late recovery, was off 35 to $10.80. San Antonio, strong the last few days on announcement that Hollinger had undertaken to finance the treasury, was up another couple at '42. Premier eased a cent to 38.

Noranda sold off 30 to $14.50 and International Nickel 25 to $5.75; while Hudson Bay, on rumors that unsettled copper market conditions and low price levels might force suspension of operations, dipped 10 to a new low for the bear market of $1.10. Mining Corporation, which holds substantial interests in Hudson Bay and other base metal enterprises, lost another 4 to 61.

CAPTAIN D. WATSON INSPECTS HAVELOCK'S SMART CADET CORPS

Boys Draw Compliments for Smart Drill—Instructive Talk Given.

MEDALS PRESENTED.

HAVELOCK, May 13 (Examiner Correspondence).—Under the azure sky of a perfect spring day, the annual inspection of the local Cadet Corps took place on the campus at 10.30 on Thursday morning. Captain D. Watson, of Military District No. 3, Headquarters Staff, was the inspecting officer, and he highly commended the boys on their splendid showing. The musketry drill was especially good.

The company was drawn up in a double line along the north side of the field. At the sight of the visitor coming in the eastern gate, the boys were promptly brought to attention and as he approached the officer in charge shouted the command, "Havelock Cadets: General Salute — Present Arms!" The flag was unfurled, and the whole body saluted, a slight pause, then back to the "slope arms."

After bringing his company to the slope, Nelson Chiles, company commander, advanced to meet the Captain, and accompanied him on his tour of inspection. Each platoon leader fell in behind them as they came to their sections. He chatted with the boys and queried when he noticed their several medals, won in various shooting competitions. Chief among these were the Strathcona Trust, Laura Secord, and D.C.R.A. The older boys who qualified as Empire marksmen in 1930 having graduated from the Corps were not present.

The saluting base was situated on the south side of the grounds, and was marked with the signal corps' flags. Principal G. F. Coates was the only one to accompany the officer at the "march past." Having marched in fours to the west end of the field, the company was "dressed up" and marched past in a perfect double line. This is always the most impressive part of the ceremony, as they are given the command "eyes right," and the flag unfurled.

Smart Drill.

The platoon commanders then took charge of things. Military exercises were well done and the musketry drill executed with smartness and precision. Several new games in the physical training portion proved very interesting to the large number of citizens who assembled to witness the spectacle.

Captain Watson spoke briefly, telling the boys there were two main things to learn in life. First, to take commands, and secondly, to give them. Obedience and discipline were obtained through the Cadet movement. At his request the whole school was granted a half-holiday in the afternoon.

Medals were then presented to the following: Officer in Command, Captain Nelson Chiles; No. 1 Platoon, Grey Kemp, lieutenant; No. 2 Platoon, Gordon Vance, lieutenant; second in command, William Rose; section guides, W. Post, Fred Kennedy, James Covert, Jerome Voyer. Two medals were awarded for efficiency in the ranks. These went to Bruce Jones and Robert Hagerman. A precedent was created by the inclusion of the officers in the contest for the neatest and best Cadet. Never before have the officers been eligible in this field. Grey Kemp was the neatest and best Cadet on parade.

Led by Captain Watson, the Corps gave three cheers for the King and the instructor, G. F. Coates. The boys followed with three cheers for the inspecting officer, and after being dismissed, marched to Fleming's Confectionery for their annual treat.

Canadian production of tobacco in 1931 totalled 51,300,000 pounds valued at $7,177,540.

RUSSIA ALLOWS MORE FREEDOM IN GRAIN SALES

Food Shortage in Towns Relieved by Moscow's Changed Policy.

STIMULATE PRODUCTION

MOSCOW, May 13.—An important decree granting enlarged opportunities for free trade with a view to stimulating the productivity of peasants, whether collective farm members or individual owners, thus relieving the food stringency in the towns, was published here Saturday.

A food shortage was very noticeable in the towns, especially of the Ukraine, last winter and spring. Hitherto state and co-operative agencies endeavored to purchase every surplus bushel of peasants' grain, and this policy applied with somewhat less strictness to his other products.

The peasants' main grievance in this connection was that while the price paid him was theoretically fair in relation to the cost of manufactured goods, city products were often available in very inadequate quantities, so he was obliged to resort to the private market, where fantastically high prices prevail, in order to cover his requirements.

The new decree which is signed both by Mr. Joseph Stalin and by Mr. M. V. Molotoff, president of the Council of the People's Commissars, relaxes the rigor of the state purchasing system, prescribing that state agencies shall collect from the peasant 6,000,000 tons less than last year, assuming that the harvest is an average one.

Peasants may freely sell their remaining produce either in a private market or the special so-called collective farm bazaars where peasants are able immediately to purchase city goods with the proceeds of the sales of their farm products.

The new peasant tax low recently enacted pursues the same objective of improving the food supply by giving more scope to the private initiative of peasants, freeing taxation, for instance, on cattle which a peasant owns individually and the fodder which he may raise.

Obituary

BEN A. SAYERS

MADOC, May 13.—There passed away at his late residence in the ninth concession of Thurlow, a well known and highly respected member of that community in the person of Benjamin Sayers, as a result of an illness of some duration. The late Mr. Sayers was in his 66th year. He was born in Huntingdon, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sayers, but had lived the last forty years in Thurlow. He was a member of the United Church and at the time of his death was an elder of the Bethel United Church. He was a councillor for the township of Thurlow for three years and at last year's election dropped out owing to impaired health. For a time he was president of Zion Cheese Factory. A man of fairness in his dealings with others, and a man of activity in the community life of Thurlow, he will be sadly missed in that section of the county.

The immediate family remaining to mourn his loss are the widow and a son, Earl, at home, one brother, Walker, of Peterborough, and two sisters, Mrs. John Geen, of Fuller, and Mrs. Wesley Parks, of Plainfield. To those bereaved is extended the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

UNSUSPECTING DANGERS

BURLINGTON.—Dangers hitherto undreamt of may lurk in the kind intentions of teaching a man how to dance. A young hockey player, of this place, somehow tripped up his partner in his heroic efforts to master the new art. They both fell heavily to the floor. The young woman, in falling, struck her head against the corner of a chesterfield and was unconscious for some minutes, but no serious injury resulted.

TRAVELING MAN ENDORSES ALL-BRAN

Says It Brought Relief From Constipation

"I want to take this unsolicited means to tell you what ALL-BRAN has done for me.

"I am on the road all the time, and this has a tendency to constipate me, or any one who travels all the time. I used to suffer a great deal from constipation, until some one told me about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since I have been eating this cereal, I have been cured of constipation. I heartily endorse it to any one suffering as I did."—Mr. B. F. Pollard. (Address on request.)

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN provides both. At the same time, it supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Being a natural corrective ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming.

How much better than risking pills and drugs — so often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation—serious cases, with every meal. If you have intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

INTERESTING REPORTS READ AT LAKEFIELD INSTITUTE MEET

OFFICERS ELECTED.

LAKEFIELD, May 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon in the Town Hall with the president, Mrs. Ridpath, in the chair. Following the regular business routine, the president gave a brief address thanking the members for their support in the past year. The attendance has not been as large as in former years, but weather and local conditions have militated against the meetings.

One piece of unfinished business was left over, not because of diminished interest, but because of the difficulty in getting the executive together. This was the matter of decorating the stage of the Town Hall. In spite of difficulties during the year, much has been accomplished. It is hoped that the institute can co-operate with the commissioner appointed to fix up the old cemetery on the Peterborough road. The institute could make better use of the classes provided by the department and which are so very useful in a practical way. There has been a great increase in interest during the past year, and also keener and more general discussion, both being encouraging signs.

Secretary's Report

Miss Margaret Sanderson read the secretary's report. There have been thirteen meetings held in the past year, all in the Town Hall, through the courtesy of the Village Council, to whom the institute owes a debt of gratitude. During the past year some valuable members were lost to us owing to the organizing of a branch at Hall's Bridge, and these ladies were so much nearer to Hall's Bridge than Lakefield that they transferred their membership. One member, Mrs. Aaron Davis, died during the past year. There were nine addresses given during the past year, including one in January by Mrs. Rothwell, of Norwood, who presented the report of the convention held in Toronto, and in February by Mr. J. B. Nelson, our agricultural representative, on branches of agriculture suited to women. During the year there was, as usual, a campaign to assist the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, having an old friend, Mr. H. C. Treneer, as the representative. There also was held an annual grandmothers' day, a pie social and contributed toward the Fall Fair.

Miss Ethel Blakeley gave a very interesting report of her trip to the Royal Winter Fair as one of the girls who were guests of the Ontario Government. The secretary paid a kindly tribute to the work of the publicity secretary during the past year.

Treasurer's Report

Mrs. Howard Bullock, the treasurer, gave a report of the finances for the past year, which are in a very healthy condition indeed with a balance on hand of $68.31.

Mrs. Davis, convenor of the educational committee, reported both for the agricultural and educational committees. During the year Mr. Nelson had given an address which had proved of value to all who were present. It had been planned to have a debate during the year, but it was dropped, owing to illness among the principals.

Mrs. Yale gave a report of the committee on legislation, which was featured in the April program and which brought out many valuable points regarding the laws relating to women, and also much discussion which also imparted useful information.

Mrs. Kingdon reported for the relief committee, of which she has been a very efficient convenor. This department has been especially busy during the past year. Several families have been helped and layettes were provided for several needy mothers. Christmas cheer was distributed in the village and a shower of fruit and vegetables helped out the relief committee of the municipality. Two families who had lost their homes and contents by fire, were aided in making a fresh start. The expenditure in cash was not great—in fact, the amount of work accomplished compared to the cash spent showed a relief committee working full time and rendering splendid community service.

The president paid a special tribute to Mrs. Kingdon's good work as convenor of the relief committee.

Miss Edna Blewett reported for the flower fund, which showed receipts of $15.26 and expenditures of $11.10, leaving a cash balance of $4.16.

Mrs. Pearson, convenor of the visiting and strangers' committee, reported having called on newcomers and made them welcome and invited them to the institute.

Mrs. A. Davis, past president of the branch and vice-president of the district, took the chair for the election of officers on the request of the president, Mrs. Ridpath.

Officers Elected

It was decided to have open nominations and vote by ballot. The following were elected: Honorary president, Mrs. W. M. Graham; president, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath; 1st vice-president, Mrs. A. Davis; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Stanley Higgins; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. John Blakeley; secretary, Miss Margaret Sanderson; treasurer, Mrs. Howard Bullock; district director, Miss Mary Adams; pianist, Mrs. S. E. White; auditors, Mrs. A. E. Higgins and Mrs. G. H. Spence.

It was decided to leave the appointment of the directors till a later date.

Convenors of committees: Agriculture, Mrs. J. H. Moore; legislation, Mrs. W. W. Yale; relief, Mrs. S. Pearson; education, Mrs. Clarence Bell; home economics, Miss Edna Blewett; strangers', Mrs. O. E. Kingdon; health, Mrs. A. E. Higgins; flower committee, Mrs. G. H. Spence; social, Mrs. T. B. McMaster; publicity, Miss B. Graham.

Mrs. N. S. Higgins was appointed as convenor of the local committee for the district annual meeting, to co-operate with the Young's Point committee. Mrs. Higgins was empowered to choose her own local committee.

Fair Date Set.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Lakefield Agricultural Society, the dates of the Fair were set for September 28 and 29.

Mr. Robertson, who came to Geneva as head of the Canadian delegation to the World Labor Conference, collapsed last Thursday following a dinner. The Senator and Mrs. Robertson will embark at Cherbourg.

It is felt in Canadian circles here that important private conversations between representatives of the Great Powers, suspended because of the illness of Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald and unsettled conditions consequent upon the French general elections, will not be resumed before the Lausanne Economic Conference. As a result many chief delegates to the World Disarmament Conference are temporarily leaving Geneva.

Sir George Perley, head of the Canadian delegation to the Disarmament Conference, will return home on the same date as Senator Robertson. He will spend some time previous to embarking, with Lady Perley at Aix les-Bains. During his absence, Hon. Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General for Canada, will become head of the Canadian delegation.

Miss Winnifred Kydd, Canada's woman delegate to the Conference, is at present attending meetings of the International Council of Women here, but hopes to sail for Canada some time next week.

ENGINEERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

SUPPER WITH Y'S MEN.

That he believed there was room for a drive for affiliated members of the branch, was one of the observations made by A. B. Gates, A.M.E.I.C., chairman of Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada following the presentation of the various reports at the annual meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. last evening.

Attended by forty-two members of the local branch, the first part of the proceedings constituted a joint meeting of the Engineering Institute and the Y's Men's Club, who sat down to supper together. Before the Y's Men retired from the meeting, the chairman expressed the pleasure at having had the opportunity of meeting together under such pleasant circumstances.

The chairman reviewing the past year noted with gratitude the fact that the membership had remained constant and that the branch had concluded the season's activity with a credit balance of $107.34, and in conclusion tendered his thanks to the executive and the secretary and treasurer. They had all given him the utmost co-operation, he said.

From a ballot of sixteen names, the following executive was elected for the ensuing year, and from which the officers will be appointed at some future date: W. F. Auld, B. L. Barns, W. M. Cruthers, R. C. Flitton, V. S. Foster, A. L. Killaly, B. Otewell, and H. R. Sills. The scrutineers for the election were Roy Parsons and E. R. Shirley.

Hubert Sills tendered the report of the meeting and papers committee, stating that during the season twelve technical papers had been presented. With the exception of the branches at Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto, he stated, the local branch furnishes the most technical and ambitious programs of any other body of engineers in the Dominion.

He mentioned Mr. Chapman's address on Electric Welding as having been the most outstanding during the past year, to which Mr. Gates also added that of Mr. Newman, chief engineer of the C.P.R.

Attendance figures were provided by D. J. Emery, who stated the total attendance for the year's twelve metings was 473, as compared with 482 for the previous year. There were approximately 125 present on the occasion of the annual meeting at the Empress Hotel and which was addressed by Brigadier General Mitchell, and 86 at Mr. Newman's meeting.

Secretary W. F. Auld, J.E.I.C. presented a characteristic report in which he also reviewed the past year's activity and thanked the chairman and executive for their co-operation.

A bowling tournament in which eight teams competed was afterwards played on the Y.M.C.A. alleys, providing a fitting conclusion to a most successful meeting.

65 CANDIDATES ARE CONFIRMED

Dr. T. D. Owen, Bishop of Niagara, Conducts Ceremony at St. John's.

WITNESSES FOR CHRIST.

In one of the most impressive confirmation services ever held in St. John's Anglican Church, 65 candidates were administered the rite of confirmation last evening by Rev. Dr. T. Derwyn Owen, Lord Bishop of Niagara.

Of those confirmed, 41 are members of St. John's Church and 24 are numbered among the members of the Stoney Lake Mission under the leadership of Rev. C. E. Moore. The church was thronged during the beautiful, solemn service by the friends and relatives of the candidates. Among the candidates 41 were men and boys and 24 were women and girls, who were costumed in pure white and wore white veils.

Archdeacon Dr. R. C. Blagrave, rector of St. John's welcomed Lord Bishop to his confirmation service in St. John's on behalf of his own congregation and that of the Stoney Lake Mission, expressing his deep gratitude for his attendance here.

"At such a service as this there exists a sense of deep emotion for those whose sons and daughters are being confirmed," said Bishop Owen during his sermon which was directed mainly to the candidates. "It carries them back in memory to the day of their own confirmation or some day of special significance in their lives."

He stated that confirmation came directly from the Bible and is recorded in the beginnings of the church. "The hope expressed in the baptismal service is that you become 'a living member of the same,'" the Bishop continued. "Confirmation has to do with membership, since it means taking on the responsibilities and duties of membership in the church. I hope that membership will be always real to you and that you will take your place in the work of the church."

He expressed the hope that all would become "livewires" in their work in the church, since then they would be connected with the source of power, God, Himself. But he warned that they must keep in constant touch with that Power.

That they each should continue eagerly and earnestly their studies of the church and its principles and the word of God, was another hope expressed by Bishop Owen. That each by his real interest in his membership in the church should become witnesses for Christ, was his concluding admonition.

Bishop Owen was assisted during the service by Rev. E. R. James and Rev. C. E. Moore. The anthem sung by the choir was "Fight the Good Fight" by Harold Rhodes and the Bishop's hymn was "Come, Holy Ghost."

"I'm not lonely NOW, Peter"

Peter used to be home every night at six, but then the firm sent him out on the road. It was what he had been working for, but how he and Marion dreaded being apart all week!

The very first Monday night, Peter was so blue and lonely that he telephoned home. "Extravagant," he told himself, but when he paid the bill he found it was only the price of a magazine or a package of cigarettes.

And now, their troubles are over. Every Tuesday and Thursday at 8.30, when night rates begin, Peter calls home. They are the hours Marion waits for to break the week, and the few cents the calls cost pay big dividends because Peter has a freer mind for his new job.

Long Distance is so easy to use, so speedy and surprisingly inexpensive.

Evening rates on "Anyone" (station-to-station) calls begin at 7 p.m. and still lower night rates at 8.30. Just give "Long Distance" the number you want—it speeds up the service.

COAST FISHERMEN TO ADVOCATE CANCELLATION OF SEAL TREATY

Fur Seals Interfere With Salmon and Halibut Fishing.

COVET PELTS.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 13 (Special to The Examiner). — Halibut and salmon fishermen on the British Columbia coast are advocating cancellation of the sealing treaty between Canada, Great Britain, United States, Japan and Russia. This agreement prohibits the taking of the fur-seal anywhere in the North Pacific by other than Indians, and then only with spears. The fishermen contend that the fur-seal, among the many enemies of the salmon and halibut, is the most destructive. Not satisfied to get their food legitimately by matching their speed against the near-surface swimming salmon or exerting themselves to seek the halibut on the bottom, the sleek fur-bearers are apparently becoming educated and allow the fishermen to go to all the trouble of luring the fish to the hook, getting it almost alongside of the boat, when Mr. or Mrs. Seal swims leisurely up and bites out the part his or her appetitie particularly fancies, leaving the remainder of the salmon or the nalibut, as the case might be, unfit for commercial purposes.

Probably because the general depression is affecting all markets, and there is not much of a price paid for fish of any kind, the desire on the part of the fishermen to be possessed of guns and pick up the odd seal'skin as its bearer comes invitingly near their boats may not seem altogether unseemly, but it would be just too bad if the condition of the seal herds were in only a comparatively few years ago should be permitted to occur again. This is not likely to happen. Had the sealing treaty not been negotiated the seal would have been practically extinct by now. From the few thousands that were left the herds now total 1,250,000, and more young bulls will be killed this year because of the existing agreement that the total seal herds numbered when it became effective. Canada is assured under the agreement of a certain revenue for all time, which is of infinitely greater benefit to the country at large than the indifferent amount which might have accrued to one province and a few individuals as long as enough seal survived the annual onslaught to make the outfitting of sealing vessels profitable.

Now on their way north to the Pribiloff Islands in Behring Sea, the great seal herds in moving leisurely along the coast, are apparently taking some toll of salmon and halibut. It has always been so: and no matter how much legislators may be prevailed on to enact laws, the seal herds will migrate and feed on the provisions of nature as they go.

Telling of his troubles on the halibut banks off the Queen Charlotte Islands a few days since, the skipper of a six-man halibut craft stated there were hundreds of fur-seals on the banks, and that, as they hauled in the trawling gear the seals tore the fish off the hooks before the surface was reached. He estimated a loss of several thousand pounds of fish on that one trip. The banks are deep there, he stated, and the seals evidently do not care to go to the bottom for the fish. They know, of course, that the fishermen will be overhauling their trawls, so they wait and feed intelligently.

Somewhat similar is the story related by the skipper of a salmon troller. He and his crew could see the seal taking the fish off the hooks as the lines were being hauled in. If the fish didn't happen to be large enough to satisfy the seal or it only obtained a part of the fish, it would appear on the surface, the skipper stated, looking up at the kindly-appearing crew in the boat, begging for more, just like a dog.

All of which and possibly more is being reported to the Department of Fisheries by the skippers of the craft referred to, who will also petition that the treaty protecting the seals be abrogated, so that the fishermen may be able to leave something in the way of fish for posterity, and at the same time pick up a little side money for themselves while posterity is waiting "just around the corner." Pursal skins are worth just $2.50 each on the coast right now, for that is all the traders are paying the Indians; so it would take a lot of shooting of seal's to bring even temporary prosperity to the fishermen if they had the privilege of killing them.

TRAFFIC OFFICER FATALLY INJURED

Motorcycle and Automobile Collide at Intersection on Highway.

SKULL FRACTURED.

BRAMPTON, Ont., May 13 (CP) —Traffic Officer Charles Hefferson, injured last night when his motorcycle crashed into the side of an automobile, driven by Everett Middlebrook of Malton, died to-day.

When rushed to hospital it was found Hefferson suffered a compound fracture of the skull.

Middlebrook was travelling east at the time and claims to have stopped before starting across the highway.

Two eye-witnesses of the accident, Helen Might of Britannia and Hazel Ross of Streetsville, who were sitting in a parked car close to the spot where the crash occurred, were questioned by the police. From what can be gleaned, the officer was proceeding north, and approaching the intersection of the side-road, when the Middlebrook car, travelling east, apparently crossed the highway.

Unable To Dodge Car

Hefferon's motorcycle, despite the officer's attempts to dodge, crashed into the rear right fender of the car. Hefferon being thrown clear over the handlebars by the impact which the machine received, and landing head first on the pavement. He was found to have sustained severe injuries to his head and legs, and was immediately rushed to the Peel Memorial Hospital at Brampton, where it later became necessary to perform an operation without delay. This was done by Dr. M. Kay Gordon of Brampton, who had attended the officer at the scene of the accident.

Provincial Inspector Sydney Hunter and Provincial Officer Arthur Bosworth, of Port Credit, who investigated, preferred a charge of reckless driving against Middlebrook, who later supplied bail in $2,000, and was released.

Says He Slowed Down.

The approach of northbuond traffic along the Centre Road is somewhat obscured to drivers coming along the Meadowvale sideroad by a small store near the corner, and Middlebrook, who claimed that he slowed down at the intersection, declared that he did not notice the motorcycle coming north until he was on the highway.

Following the operation, Dr. Gordon announced that the officer had sustained a severe fracture of the skull. It was announced at a later hour that the injuries would probably be fatal.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

ARCHIVIST SHEDS LIGHT ON SUNDAY TRADING IN QUEBEC

HEAVY FINES

MONTREAL, May 13.—The gradual change in public sentiment in regard to Sunday trading was traced recently by E. Z. Massicotte, archivist, in a statement to the Montreal Gazette. As late as 1781 cabarets, grocery and butcher stores were open on Sunday except during the hours in which mass was celebrated and vespers chanted in the city churches. Today the moving pictures are open on Sunday afternoon while restaurants, tobacconists' stores and places where newspapers are sold are allowed to do business. The regular theatres are not permitted to open except for concerts.

The first crime on record against Sunday observance in Quebec was committed by one of old Ville Marie's most prominent citizens, M. Jean Leduc. He was denounced on April 17, 1663, by Abbe Gabriel Souart, cure of the parish, for having "scandalously labored his oxen and carters on Sunday and transported wheat for the militia, the whole against the express command of God and His Holy church."

Leduc was arraigned before Paul de Chomedy, Sieur de Maisonneuve, and was fined ten pounds sterling, the money to be donated to the church. Mr. Leduc paid his fine and later, as a result of his penitence, was named a church warden. Four years later, a Hugenot merchant, one Daniel Bialle, was fined £100 for unloading merchandise on Sunday. His plea that the merchandise belonged to the Sieur de la Tour Loyer of Quebec was rejected.

From 1781 on, sales on Sunday fell under an authoritative ban, though "necessities" could be purchased on the Lord's Day. And about 1842, when the Hon. Peter McGill was Mayor of Montreal, a by-law was enacted allowing butchers and makers to sell meat and bread at their houses until 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The ruling came as an amendment to another by-law which enacted that "no person shall sell or expose for sale on Sunday in the town or suburbs, any fruit, eatables or provisions whatever, under a penalty which shall not be less than five shillings nor exceed forty for each offence." Armed with this privilege, butchers and bakers throughout the city indulged in "open shop" just before Mass, and many a pious citizen of the old days, on Sunday, would make his or her way first to a butcher shop to purchase blood pudding or lamb chops, and then to church. Such Sunday sales were a necessity as many people worked late in Montreal offices on Saturday night and by the time they received their pay the stores were closed. Purchases, therefore, had to be made on Sunday morning. This law permitting such Sunday sales was in vigor for many years, and was only repealed when the city succeeded in inducing hard-headed business men to pay their employes on Fridays.

BELGIUM KEEPS DRASTIC LIQUOR CONTROL LAWS

PASSED IN 1918

BRUSSELS, May 13.—By 91 votes to 70 the Belgian Chamber yesterday rejected the bill providing for loosening the stringent liquor control regulations operative in Belgium since the armistice which ended the World War.

The revision proposal aimed at re-establishing full freedom of alcohol sales. It was sponsored by the Belgian National Federation of Inn and Hotel Keepers, a powerful group which in a country of only 8,000,000 inhabitants controls 105,000 hotels, restaurants and cafes—the latter term describing on the European continent houses of refreshment where drinks of all kinds are obtainable.

The 1918 law deprived these establishments of the right to sell on their premises any alcoholic drinks except beer and wine. The sale of other alcoholic beverages is authorized in special shops, but retailing is strictly prohibited. Nobody may purchase less than two liters—a little less than two quarts—of alcohol at a time. Coupled with prohibitive taxation this regulation has been quite effective in placing liquor out of the reach of the wider masses of the population.

Despite a carefully organized propaganda campaign and the enormous electoral influence of the federation, its onslaught upon the Belgian alcohol controlling legislation was doomed in advance.

The special commission of the Chamber appointed to report upon the matter not only declared itself in favor of the maintenance of the present system, but suggested a reinforcement of penal measures against the lawbreakers in adding imprisonment to the existing system of fines.

A determined stand against the measure was taken by the Belgian Socialist Party, led by M. Emile Vanderveld. Countless petitions addressed to the Parliament by women from all parts of the country whose protests against revision had the support of M. Janson, former Minister of Justice, also contributed greatly to the defeat of the "revisionists" and the maintenance of an effective alcohol control in Belgium.

CHROMIUM PLATE LATEST JEWELRY

Newest Costume Jewelry is Made of Same Material as Costume.

By BETTY TWIST

LONDON, May 12 (Special to The Examiner)—Dress details are important. They are the whims and fancies of fashion, and to achieve smartness a woman must follow them instanteously, for in these days of rapid copying a fashion becomes a commonplace in a week or so.

Something new in costume jewelry has just been launched which will give the nimble-fingered needle-woman a chance. It is the necklace incorporating the same material as the costume it accompanies, and the fewer the beads it contains the smarter the necklace. For instance, with a dress in capucine crepe de chine, the new red which is a cross between tomato and coral, a collar necklet is worn composed of six roulea x of crepe de chine stiffened with cord which are passed through two pleated rings and joined at the back with a stitched strand of the same silk. Woollen material can be treated in a similar way, or another method equally effective, is to take a series of bone rings, cover them and join them with buttonhole stitch in wool leaving two ends to dangle over the bodice and tying them in front with a little bow of the costume fabric. Bracelets can be made to match.

Use Chromium Plating

At the other end of the scale, but no less up-to-date, are dress accessories in the so-called metals. Chromium plating has the advantage of looking heavy without feeling it. Threaded in innumerable fine strands it makes a Vandyke collar to be worn with an open-neck blouse. Heavy links of the metal round the neck and clanking at the wrists remind one of the massive watch chains with which our grandfathers decorated their waistcoat fronts. Pendants in untarnishable nickel conceal a minute powder box. Buckles and belts and bags have a decoration of white metal, while buttons with the same shining surface trim all kinds of garments the smallest of all being reserved for the white pique collar and cuff sets and the biggest for raincoats and proofed gabardines.

A more discreet and certainly a prettier mode is the necklace of blown glass. One of the clever effects evolved in this medium is a gleaming snake which coils tightly round the throat. There is, too, the goldfish in bowls necklace which is composed of hollow beads filled with water in which float tiny colored fish.

Restraint in Evening

These glittering baubles, however, are only for the daytime. Restraint is the keynote of evening jewelry. Pearls, therefore are popular because of their softness and because they are an effective foil to the off-white shades. Ropes of pearls are worn to match girdles, pearl embroideries decorate many gowns, while shoulder straps of plaited seed pearls make all other jewelled ornaments superfluous. Even the sparkle of sequins is dulled, for, though they are still used plentifully on embroidered fabrics, a veiling of net or chiffon is superimposed to blend their multi-colors into one harmonious scheme.

SURPRISE VISIT.

LONDON.—The Prince of Wales has paid a surprise visit to the new out-patient department of Guy's Hospital and talked with the patients. As president of the hospital, he presided over a meeting of the General Court. The new department was built and equipped at a cost of $250,000 provided by Lord Dulverton. The Prince also visited the nurses' home, where he inspected the new library and class room, built as a memorial of the late Lord Revelstoke.

SPANISH PRINCE BECOMES CLERK

First Cousin of King Alphonse Joins Ford Staff in Paris.

PARIS, May 13.—A new hand reported for work at 8 a.m., to-day, in the Ford plant outside of Paris, and punched the clock as Mr. Orleans. In better days his chief claim to distinction was that King Alfonso of Spain was his first cousin, and that Isabella II of Spain was his grandmother. That was when he was Infante Alfonso d'Orleans.

He wrote Mr. Henry Ford some time ago asking for a job at Detroit, and Mr. Ford offered him a place in the French assembling plant. He accepted, hoping he will be transferred to the home factory later. He is a clerk now, but will have a working permit in two weeks and will move to a job in the plant.

Nervous, Woman's Weakness

MRS. THOS. JOHNSON.

Gormley, Ont. — "At the age of twenty-four I was completely broken down in health. I suffered from nervous exhaustion and woman's weakness. My nerves were in a very bad state, I could not sleep, lost in weight, and was extremely weak," said Mrs. Thos Johnson. "I doctored for some time, but the doctor's medicine seemed so strong for the weak condition of my stomach. Feeling much discouraged, I wrote to Dr Pierce for advice. Acting upon his advice I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I also used Dr Pierce's Lotion Tablets, and received real results from these medicines."

NEW Y.W.C.A.

LONDON.—A membership of 2,000 is expected at the new London Headquarters of the Young Women's Christian Association recently opened by the Duchess of York. Designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens, the building constitutes a superb club, possessing a library, large concert hall, cafeteriar, piano and sewing rooms, and even a laundry. This will be the only organization in London at present catering on a large scale for the professional and business woman.

Young women will be able to entertain their men friends. "Mixed" tea parties can be given in the lounge and dances will be held regularly. A roof garden, giving a wide view over London, and a gymnasium are now being constructed. Before the swiming bath, which will be a great boon to city girls, can be built and the chapel and other rooms finished the Y.W.C.A. will have to raise a further $250,000.

The cafeteria is open to the public, and between 800 and 900 young men and women already take meals there. Young men from the Y.M.C.A. headquarters across the road crowd into the sister building for breakfast.

DIVORCE ACTION INSTITUTED ON THRESHOLD OF NORTH POLE

Lonely Trapper and Wife Sue Each Other for Divorce and Alimony.

CANNOT TRAP

CALGARY, May 13 (Special to The Examiner)—Out beyond the 70th parallel of latitude the courts have reached their fingers to intervene in the marital affairs of a lonely trapper and his wife at Point Pearce, across the Amundsen Gulf from Banks Island—open your atlas and have a look at it. There, on the threshold of the Pole, Hermangild Lessard, plies his craft of trapping and there he is to be served with an injunction restraining him from selling his trap lines or withdrawing his money from the bank until his wife's suit for judicial separation and alimony is tried.

Service of the document cannot be affected until next August. It has to be taken into the Arctic by way of the Pacific coast and through the Behring Sea.

The action taken by the lonely trapper's wife is a counterclaim against a divorce suit instigated by the man himself. Through solicitors in Edmonton, Alberta, he claimed an annulment of his marriage to the woman on the ground that she is, he alleged, the wife of one James Baxter whom she is said to have married in the United States in 1904. She, however, claims she was divorced from this man but she has applied for judicial separation from Lessard alleging cruelty, non-support and being compelled, with her children, to live with him in shacks on his travels in the Arctic. An application to have Lessard restrained also from selling his furs until the dispute is settled was refused by Mr. Justice Ford on the ground that this would virtually be to prevent his making a living.

Spring Millinery Shows Low Crowns

Hats for spring and summer are showing less crown than ever. Indeed, in many shapes there is actually no crown at all; a mere undulation in an almost flat surface posed on a deep bandeau at one side, is all that is shown. The Dolly Varden crown is one of the striking features in English millinery.

Some of the plateau shapes are held to the head by bands of flowers on one side, allowing the hair to show between. A pretty shape is illustrated in the accompanying in vogue with scarfs to match. In the new caps the Scotch Balmoral and Glengarry shapes have given place to the Chinaman effect, with upturned brim and tuft in the center, as seen in the top left-hand corner sketch. A jaunty air is given to the caps by the additon of a sharp upstanding little quill, a knot of ribbon, or a wing-shaped motif set at a rogish angle. A smart little black cap, composed of row upon row of thin satin-covered cord, had two little white wings; and a green straw cap had a Chinese-red quill shooting up at the back of the head, bright yellow was trimmed with royal blue and light green.

Straws are thin and rather fragile in appearance, and many are highly glazed. A simple basket weave, made of strands of straw about one-eights of an inch wide, predominates. This simple style gives the appearance of a tiny check and is seen in most morning shapes. The more dressy shapes are made of glycerined raffia in intricate platting. The pliability of this fabric makes it particularly adaptable to a complicated design. Trimmed with velvet ribbon or flowers, these straws are most becoming.

The tendency in the new fashions is to use color in blocks, either in flowers or ribbon. A brown straw hat, for instance, has the crown encircled with reversible petersham ribbon in brown and Chinese red, the band showing alternate sections of brown and red, with the bow "en suite." Straws in bright green or blue are also trimmed with Chinese red, or with touches of white and black. Undoubtedly the season will be one of brilliant colors and vivid touches.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

MEASURING THE RATE AT WHICH YOUR PROCESSES WORK.

A new instrument that is now finding its way into the office of the physician is what is known as the basal metabolism machine. Basal simply means the lowest, and metabolism means the building up and breaking down of the tissues of the body. Thus basal metabolism means that the lowest or natural rate at which these processes work when the body is at complete rest and no digestion is going on.

You can readily see that if you have been exercising, your heart and lungs will be going faster to supply blood and oxygen to the muscles that have been exercising. And if you have food in your stomach or intestine, that is being digested or absorbed, these organs will be working, not resting.

What does it mean if you are at complete rest and have no food being digested, and yet your basal metabolism is much above normal?

It means that something is wrong perhaps the thyroid gland is affected and making the processes work harder. The individuals are usually very thin.

What does it me an if the rate is much lower than the normal rate?

This usually means that the thyroid gland is not working hard enough, not making enough juice to keep the tissues working at the normal rate. These individuals are usually overweight.

However, physicians usually make more than one test. You may be excited the first time it is done, and this will send up the rate. This may occur the next time or even the next.

Should the physician find that on any one day your rate is normal he knows that there is nothing wrong with the thyroid gland.

There are some weak, thin individuals, who, instead of showing a high rate show a low rate and the use of thyroid extract, by stimulating the whole system, actually builds them up physically.

Where the individual has a low rate and is greatly overweight, the use of thyroid extract so speeds up the rate that many pounds of weight are removed.

As you know where the rate is very high and threatens life, a portion of the thyroid gland is removed by surgery.

You can thus see that a physician by the careful use of this machine may remove the fear of operation from the patient when he finds that the basal metabolism rate is about normal. Should the rate remain high after rest and medical treatment, operation can be performed before it is too late.

Mrs. Ann Stansall, of London, who recently celebrated her 102nd birthday still does her own housework, and declares that people die young because they do not work hard enough.

Yesterday we considered foods in connection with health.

• • • • • • •

To-day let us see how thoughts effect health. Both pure foods and pure thoughts have their health-giving effects on the human constitution.

• • • • • • •

The reverse is also true; poor food and bad thoughts, either or both, can pull down a person's constitution and make him ill. In speaking of bad thoughts, it does not signify that they are evil but that they are opposed to good and elevating thoughts.

• • • • • • •

The former are destructive not only of one's peace of mind, but actually destructive to healthful fluids and to tissues of the body. The latter are constructive and upbuilding.

• • • • • • •

All this, then, goes to show that if a person really wants to be well, he or she must guard against unwholesome thoughts as carefully as against unwholesome foods.

• • • • • • •

Even good foods can be so effected by depressing thoughts, by fear, hate and all misery—creating ideas that the system does not benefit by the food.

• • • • • • •

It is up to each person to keep himself or herself fit in so far as right thinking is concerned. If you want to be well you must feed your thoughts with the right kind of food.

• • • • • • •

You must want to be well enough to do this. There are many persons who actually shirk being well because they hesitate to accept the responsibilities of life.

• • • • • • •

Of these people it may well be said they enjoy poor health. Of course no one will willingly acknowledge even to herself that she hesitates to get well and strong.

• • • • • • •

When persons are determined to get well, they are very apt to succeed.

• • • • • • •

Is it possible to imagine any more agreeable medicine to take than a good dose of happy thoughts? These thoughts are at everyone's command.

• • • • • • •

If life seems particularly hard and wearisome just now, seek among the treasures of memory until you find the happiest moments of your life. Relive them in your mind feed your thoughts with them.

• • • • • • •

They will stir the health-giving emotions of pleasure, of joy. They will bring a smile to your lips and smooth away the lines round your mouth and in your forehead.

• • • • • • •

Now you are taking the right food for health. Tone up your mind to discover the good things in the present and you will bring cheer to yourself and to your household.

• • • • • • •

Happiness is contagious and it is the finest kind of mental food.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

FULFILLING A PREDICTION

There is a never ending charm in brilliant and accurate play, as great perhaps as the charm of brilliant and accurate bidding. As I have often pointed out, bidding is simply playing the hand in anticipation. A bid is a prediction that at a certain contract you will make a specified number of tricks. The play of the hand, if you become the Declarer, is simply a visible demonstration of the accuracy of your mental process, provided of course, the contract you have undertaken has not been forced upon you as a defensive measure. Some hands are just stodgy. The tactics to be used in their development are an open book and opportunity for strategy in the plan of play is entirely lacking, but today's hand, while presenting no particular problem in the mental play, did give the Declarer the opportunity to display his skill in the actual play.

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

	♠ A 8 4 ♡ A Q 8 5 ◇ A K 10 ♣ 6 5 3
♠ 3 ♡ 7 6 3 2 ◇ 8 6 4 2 ♣ J 10 9 8	N W E S	♠ 7 5 2 ♡ K 10 9 ◇ Q J 9 5 ♣ A K Q
	♠ K Q J 10 9 6 ♡ J 4 ◇ 7 3 ♣ 7 4 2

After passes by South and West, North opened the bidding with one heart. East doubled and South prevented West from making any response whatever by a bid of three spades. North raised this bid to four and this became the final contract.

West opened the Knave of clubs and East won three rounds in that suit. South can lose no more tricks if he is to fulfill his contract. The method by which he attained that end is interesting in the extreme. East returned the diamond Queen. His Takeout Double of North's Opening bid almost certainly indicated the possession of the King of hearts, so to take the finesse in hearts would be equivalent to conceding defeat. South had a much more beautiful and accurate way of insuring the success of his contract and that was by means of the play known as the Vienna Coup, which is the establishment of an apparently winning card in the hand of an opponent to use it later to compel the unguarding of that suit or of another suit. Winning the diamond lead, South led two rounds of trumps and then laid down the Ace of hearts. He then returned to his own hand with Dummy's remaining trump and continued to lead trumps. At the eleventh turn of play, the situation had simmered down to this:

♡ 7 ◇ 8 6	N W E S	♡ K ◇ Q 9
	♠ 9 ♡ J ◇ 7

South led the nine of spades. West's play was immaterial. North discarded the Queen of hearts, but East was hopelessly squeezed. To discard the King of hearts would give South a trick with the Knave. To discard a diamond made both diamonds in Dummy good. It had cost South some mental effort and extremely accurate play to make good his prediction in the bidding, but the result was sufficient reward.

REPEATED TO-NIGHT.

(By Jeanette)

A piece of Old England, in the times when the "the yeoman, the bowmen, the lads of dale and dell" held sway in forest and dale, was transported last night to the stage of the auditorium of St. Andrew's Sunday School hall, when the choir of the church presented the light opera, "Sherwood's Queen," depicting a historic event in the life of Robin Hood.

Robin Hood, it will be remembered, was the robber chieftain of Sherwood Forest, the son of a nobleman and impoverished by reason of his uncles' trickery. He became an outlaw for having shot a King's deer and, escaping from the sheriff, took up his abode in the forest, with his merry men, to take toll of the rich and give to the poor.

This light opera, in two acts, brings into its unfolding the famous characters of that old and entertaining story. Here is Maid Marian, beloved by Robin Hood; here is Alice, her maid; Will Scarlett, Robin Hood's attendant; Friar Tuck, confessor and chef in one; Allan-a-Dale, the minstrel of the band, and Littlejohn, the bold leader of the men.

The scene is staged in Sherwood Forest, in both acts, with a simple but effective setting simulating a forest green. The chorus, which has some robust and tingling melodies, is composed of men and maidens, the former with jerkins of green, with long bows and quarter staves, dirks and half swords, the maidens in frocks of yellow and green and white, in the fichus and flowing skirts of an oldter, picturesque time. These gaily dressed choristers, their voices blending in merry tunes, make a very attractive adjunct to the presentation.

Pretty Maidens

The same period outfits distinguish the main actors. Maid Marian, Sherwood's Queen, whose coronation is one of the prettiest scenes in a presentation which is of an attractive length, taking less than two hours to portray, is Mrs. Ross Williamson, while her attendant, Alice, is Miss J. McKone, both wearing pretty frocks with flowing mantles and the blonde wigs that are a feature of the chorus also.

Robin Hood, chief of the outlaws, is Arthur V. Phillips, who has some exceptionally lovely duets with Mrs. Williamson. The two fine voices blend so beautifully that there is plenty of applause for these attractive numbers.

Then there is Will Scarlett (R. Francis), attendant to Robin Hood, wearing a costume that matches his name in hue; and Allan-a-Dale (H. Doleman)) troubadour to the band, in his green jerkin and long hose; a widow who has a pretty song, is well portrayed by Mrs. C. H. Phillips; while C. H. Phillips is John Arthwell, a Nottingham citizen and father to Maid Marian.

Last, but not least, is the famous Littlejohn of the old story. James Johnson has this part and depicts it splendidly, his very fine voice rolling out in the merry staves of rollicking tunes.

Thomas Phillips is the musical director for a score that abounds in tuneful, attractive melodies, jolly, roubst choruses and lovely solos. Mrs. F. McNeely is directress, Mrs. P. Hansman has charge of costumes and music is played by Miss Olive Prest at the piano and Harold Kitney, organist. J. Ridyard is stage anager.

The chorus of foresters and maidens includes Mesdames Nelson, Sherratt, E. McLaren, P. Hansman, the Misses E. Stacey, H. Tremain, D. Tremain, J. Edwards, G. Phillips, Cameron, J. Puttick, Rome, Cocks, M. Emmerson, Patoine, M. Weir, M. Crowe, Heffernan, and Messrs. F. E. Kerr, J. Petrie, E. Petrie, J. Ridyard, O. Phillips, H. Phillips, H. Francis, J. Branston.

About two hundred people, in a most appreciative audience, saw the first presentation last night. The second performance will take place to-night, when the orchestra of George Street United Church will play during intermissions.

"Sherwood's Queen" is a bright and tuneful offering that is full of color and melody and picturesque happy atmosphere. It depicts a woodland life and a manner of existence that had its sway many long years back and brings to modern times a glimpse of a freer, jolly mode of living, when men roamed the forest in search of food and stayed to help the poor and afflicted. It is like a breath from another age and is very pleasing entertainment. The music is exceptionally attractive.

Owing to illness last evening of Messrs. Jim and Earl Petrie, their parts were taken by J. Branston and J. Ridyard.

YOUTH!
Girlish Complexions Restored By Amazing Product Obtained From YOUNG ANIMALS

NO MORE WRINKLES

Prof. Dr. Stejskal of the University of Vienna has startled the world by an amazing discovery that lines and wrinkles are caused by a deficiency of Biocel tissue in the skin. The supply of this tissue diminishes as a person grows older. After thousands of experiments Prof. Dr. Stejskal has at last succeeded in extracting this precious Biocel Tissue from carefully selected young animals. Used in hospital tests on women of 55 to 72 years of age, wrinkles completely disappeared in six weeks (see full report in Vienna Medical Journal). The sole rights of this amazing discovery have been acquired at enormous expense by Tokalon, and this Biocel Tissue is now combined with other skin nourishing ingredients in Crème Tokalon Skinfood, Rose Colour, according to the special formula of Prof. Dr. Stejskal. By its use an aged, faded skin can quickly be rejuvenated, wrinkles disappear and sagging facial muscles be toned up and tightened. Women of 50 or even 60 may obtain complexions that might well be the envy of many a young girl.

Try this test. Use Crème Tokalon Skinfood, Rose Colour at night, White Colour in the morning. You will be amazed at the improvement even over night. Successful results guaranteed or money refunded. White 40c, Rose 50c.

FREE: By arrangement with the manufacturers, any reader of this paper may now obtain a de luxe beauty outfit containing the new Tokalon Skinfood creams (rose for the evening, white for the day). INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION NEAR FOR FOUR FAMOUS VITAMINES Important Discoveries Are Made by Two Young British Scientists.

AT CAMBRIDGE.

(By Philip H. Myring—A.S. Staff Writer).

Copyright, 1932, by the A.S.

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., May 13. — Industrial production of the four famous vitamins, A, B, C and D, was believed to have been brought much nearer to-day by the announcement of a series of discoveries made by two young British scientists, Drs. F. B. Bowden and C. P. Snow of Cambridge University.

The discoveries of the two young men were described by Sir Frederick Hopkins, president of the Royal Society, and world-famous authority on vitamins, as of "major importance."

In making the announcement, Drs. Bowden and Snow said they had evidence indicating they had produced vitamin A from a substance called carotene by treating it with ultra-violet rays of a certain wave-length.

Found In Carrots.

Carotene is described as a reddish substance found in carrots, which gives them their characteristic color.

They also have evidence, they said, that they have succeeded in identifying that part of the molecule of vitamin B which is responsible for its biological effects.

They said they discovered a method of distinguishing between two rival theories regarding the nature of vitamin C — whether this vitamin is hexuronic acid or whether it is produced from narcotine by the action of light.

Besides these findings, they said they were able to suggest improvements which will increase the efficiency of the present methods of manufacturing Vitamin D, which is known commercially as calciferol.

Their discoveries, they said, were made through the development of precise methods of spectroscopic analysis, using rays of light of one precise color which they obtained with a powerful apparatus involving the use of large crystals of natural quartz. The apparatus was capable of producing pure and intense rays of any desired wavelength. This enabled them to choose rays which would convert pre-vitmins into vitamins, without the new vitamins being decomposed again into their original form.

Different Treatments

Heretofore pre-vitamins, the substances from which vitamins are resolved, have been treated with mixed rays of light and some of the component parts of these mixed rays have decomposed the vitamins as fast as they were produced, nullifying the experiment.

Drs. Bowden and Snow said their method, which is applicable to any complicated molecule, makes it possible to weed out any decomposing rays in the irradiating beam.

Besides its aid in the artificial manufacture of vitamins, they said, their discovery is also expected to enable scientists to obtain a more precise and deeper knowledge of the materials of living tissues.

Drs. Bowden and Snow are physical chemists. Their experiments represent something of a departure from the usual in vitamin research, for most of the work previously has been done by biochemists or organic chemists.

REVIVAL CAMPAIGN IS GOING STRONG

5,000 Churches in America in One Year Withotu a Convert.

"Current Events as Fulfillment of Prophecy" was the subject of Evangelist John Bostrom of California in the Grand Opera House last night.

Mr. Bostrom stated that many people who believe that Jesus came in the fulfillment of prophecy as the Saviour of the World, do not know that He is coming back again, though there are eight times as many Scriptures referring to His second coming than to His first coming.

Regarding the time of His second coming the Scripture says: "neither the day nor the hour knoweth no man," but it also says that the times and seasons will be known by current events that will characterize this great event.

The evangelist declared that most every modern and new invention was an indication or sign of the Lord's coming, referring to: the telephone, radio, motor cars, airplanes, and also poisonous gases which would be used in the next war, taking such Scriptures as Daniel 12:4, the increase of knowledge; Nahum 2:4, the automobile; Isaiah 6:8, the airplane—all these a direct fulfillment of prophecy for the end time.

Mr. Bostrom also referred to 2 Timothy 3:13, as prophesying of the moral and religious conditions that would precede the coming of Jesus. "Crime," he said, "would be on the increase and in place of the world getting better as some say, it would according to this Scripture, get worse.

The hard times of to-day is a fulfillment of Scripture, spoken of in Timothy as "perilious times."

The worst of all, Evangelist Bostrom declared, was the fulfillment of 1 Timothy 4: 1-2, and Revelation 3:14-22, the church departing from the faith, turning to doctrines of devils. This could not be fulfilled in a more pronounced way than it is to-day. The denying of the deity of Jesus Christ and atonement through His Blood as taught by many modernists, could be nothing less than a doctrine of devils striking at the very foundation of the Chritsian faith.

The preacher asserted that in one year in America there were 5,000 churches without one single convert.

At the close of the address, an invitation was given for any who would come for prayer in a room prepared at the rear of the stage, to which a large number responded.

Mr. Saulsbury, the negro tenor, sang two selections, namely: "Sunrise" and "Jesus Saviour Pilot me," which were very effectively rendered.

Mr. Bostrom announced the subject for Friday night would be "Can Pentecost be repeated."

SCHOOL CADETS ARE INSPECTED

Militia Inspector Congratulates Instructor and Officers of Lakefield Corps.

Present Fine Appearance.

LAKEFIELD, May 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The cadet inspection was held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was attended by a large number of pupils, parents of cadets and other interested citizens. An error in regards to the date was responsible for the disappointment on Tuesday morning. The weather was much more propitious on Wednesday and the grounds were in very good condition. The corps, which numbered about seventy, presented an especially fine appearance and reflected credit on the instructor, T. W. Chaplin, the cadet captain, Hugh Morrison, and the platoon commanders, Dominick White, Russell Elliott, Fred. Hampton and Herrick Brown, and also on the individual members of the company. The marching and company drill were especially good, and the march past the saluting base was never better in the years the corps has been in existence. The physical drill under Platoon Commander D. White was very good and several new features were introduced.

Capt. Isbister complimented the instructor, officers and cadets on the showing made; the marching and company drill had improved. The cadet corps develops assurance in its members, and also better still, character, for the cadet is not only learning the drill but learning to walk straight, and in other ways. Boys who learn to take and obey an order are learning to give orders. In closing, Capt. Isbister expressed thanks to the boys and to Mr. Harvey and Mr. Chaplin.

Following the inspection, the entire company marched down town for the accustomed treat which is the welcomed sequel to the ceremony. During the march down the boys were admired by many citizens, who take a great deal of natural and justifiable pride in the Lakefield High School cadet corps.

FINDERS OF BABY WORK AS USUAL

Negro and Companion Repeat Story Before Newsreel and Talkie Cameras.

POLICE GUARD THICKET.

HOPEWELL, N.J., May 13.—Two men whose discovery gave to the world the fate of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby, reported for work as usual at 7 a.m. to-day at the home of W. S. Titus.

They were visibly embarrassed when they entered the Titus yard at Marshall Corner, three miles from Hopewell, to find the back yard a setting for newsreel cameras and sound reproducing apparatus.

William Allen, of Trenton, a slight negro of 43 years, who was the first to see the body of the baby at the edge of the wood yesterday afternoon, posed in his work clothes for pictures and the "talkies." He repeated his version of the finding or the body three or four times and as he finished, with the machines still grinding, he said:

"I don't know any more to say than that."

Then his companion, Orville Wilson, 49 year old negro with grey hair, took his turn.

"O' course I didn't tarry there very long," he said, "and you know you wouldn't be sure afterward."

He said that when Allen made the discovery he called simply, "Come over here." When they were sure they had found the body of a baby they drove to Hopewell to inform the police.

State troopers to-day guarded the spot where the body was found and permitted no one to approach it.

FLEAS DO NOT DE TER HOBOS WHO DRAW LINE AT BED BUGS

So Town Marshall is Thinking of Introducing Some Into the Cells.

KEEP OUT BUMS

SACKVILLE, N.B., May 13 (Special to The Examiner)—Town Marshal Crossman, of Sackville, has been endeavoring to discourage drifters from seeking protection in the town police station cells. During the past year, there has been such an over dose of requests for accommodation in the cells, that the town marshall decided to try scaring the tramps away.

The first applicants for use of the cell bunks after the local police chief arranged his plan of campaign, came from two young men. One said he was from England, and his companion was from Prince Edward Island. They had become pals while riding freights in Ontario.

"The lockup is full of fleas!" said the marshal in his most discouragin tone.

"We are used to fleas and plenty of them" revealed the two itinerants. They added they "drew the line solid at bed bugs, so Crossman is thinking of shooting a few of the bigger insects into the cells so they can multiply and create real annoyance for the bunk applicants. The marshal has found practically all the hoboes do not object to fleas but detest bed bugs as the latter keep the roadsters from sleeping soundly and solidly.

As a protection against a scarcity of cereal crops, the Government of Peru has issued orders that there must be an intensive cultivation of such products, under government armed potection if necessary.

JOHN AIRD JR. CALLED BACK TO EXPLAIN MADAWASKA DEAL

Chicago Interests Attempted to Purchase the Property.

"AIRD WAS OVERPAID."

TORONTO, May 13 (C.P.)—The tangled skein of evidence regarding the payment of $50,000 to John Aird, Jr. of Toronto, by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for his part in the negotiation for the purchase of Madawaska Power, was slowly unwinding to-day as Mr. Aird himself was called to the stand. He had barely started his story of the negotiations when the Royal Commission Enquiry adjourned for lunch, and will carry on this afternoon.

Efforts of Paul Reize of Chicago, representing "certain interests" to obtain the power site was outlined by Fred Roberts, Toronto lawyer, who represented Reize in some negotiations, but whose efforts failed after the Ontario Government had definitely outlined its policy of developing its own natural resources. Roberts had received a total of $300 from Aird and R. W. Millard, the latter's partner, for his efforts on their behalf. Although Aird had negotiated the contract with the Hydro Commission while he himself was still negotiating with the Reize interests.

Another witness, Winthrop Green, whose wife and Aird's wife are sisters, testified to having cashed a cheque for $1,650 for Aird, and declared he had returned the money to John Aird in $50 bills. He could not recall unusual occurrence in connection with this and soon was released from the stand.

Appeal for Assistance

The entire file regarding the Dominion Power and Transmission Limited purchase by the Hydro for $22,000,000 was placed in evidence to-day by W. N. Tilley, K.C., commission counsel, who, with Mr. Justice J. F. Orde, commissioner, appealed for assistance from any one who could cast further light on either the manipulations of stock or the actual purchase of the concern.

Aird went on the stand shortly before lunch, and told of first entering the Madawaska negotiations through J. G. G. Kerry, consulting engineer, and his partner, Millard. Kerry had obtained an agreement to sell from the J. A. O'Brien interests of Ottawa, owners of the power right on the river, and Aird had visited the then Premier of Ontario, G. Howard Ferguson, regarding sale of power to the Hydro. Mr. Ferguson, now Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, had told him to go and see C. A. Maguire, at that time Hydro chairman, he said.

A letter written by Kerry to O'Brien, stated Aird had been told to submit tenders to the Hydro by Magrath, and also said "Magrath apparently wants Aird to consult him at each step." This, Aird, maintained, meant the Hydro chairman wanted to know what plans would be used in developing the power on the river.

They had intended to sell 60 per cent. of the power developed to the Hydro Commission, retaining 40 per cent for their own use. Too, they had planned to break up the various power sites on the river, some being sold at prices around $50,000 and others as high as $500,000, but the total price for all would be around $2,500,000, he said.

When the investigation resumed to-day, Fred Roberts, Toronto, solicitor, was called to the stand.

He had talked to John Aird, Jr., on June 28, 1928, regarding the Madawaska development. Aird had written him later outlining the project and stating if certain interests wished to buy the property there seemed little doubt the Hydro Commission would be interested later.

Chicago People Interested.

In the event the property was sold through Roberts' efforts, he was to get one-third of the profits. The people he represented were "'Reizes' of Chicago," he said. "My people were to come up and look over the property with a view to purchase. Aird and Millard, I understood, had an option on the property," witness said.

He had written to Paul Reize regarding the deal later, he said, and the latter wired back pointing out there was no price quoted. Later Roberts quoted $3,000,000, declaring $1,250,000 had already been spent. Reize had then written Roberts asking if he could get all the information possible on the Dominion Power and Transmission Company of Hamilton, as Reize's group of associates were interested in purchasing the D. P. and T.

A price of $80.00 per share for D. P. and T. had been quoted Reize, while the Hydro was bidding $62.50.

Ferguson's Speech.

However, negotiations eventually fell through. A speech made by then Premier G. Howard Ferguson here, in which he outlined definitely the Province's policy with regard to public ownership, was called to Roberts' attention by R. W. Millard, Aird's partner, as indicative of the Province's intention not to sell power rights to United States concerns.

Voluminous correspondence passed between Roberts and Reize on the two projects, and a mass of telegrams and letters were entered as evidence.

Finally, Aird had written to him, witness said, enclosing a cheque for $150 and later Millard paid a second $150 this was to conclude the work Roberts had done.

Someone told him, Roberts said, that Aird had received the Hydro payment of $50,000. He felt he was entitled to more than $300, Roberts said, because he did not know Aird was dealing with Hydro while he (Roberts) was at the same time dealing with Reize.

He denied his assistance was on the basis of obtaining information from Fred Gaby, Hydro engineer, although he had seen Gaby regarding previous negotiations for the purchase of power by the Hydro. Eventually Hydro bought the property and developed the power itself.

However, he did see Gaby regarding the second negotiations and the Hydro engineer had told him "it was still an open question."

He had known Gaby for some years, he said.

Mr. Slaght then took over the witness. The parties who held control of the D. P. and T. stock had been offered $62.50 per share, but he did not recall who had given him that information, Roberts said, in reply to a question.

Mr. Slaght suggested that after Aird Mr. Millard had learned the Hydro did not agree to the initial contract, they had sent Roberts to see Gaby as a "final try." Witness agreed to this.

"I suppose you were surprised to hear Aird got $50,000 eventually?"

"Yes, I was."

"And you couldn't understand why he got it?"

"No," I couldn't."

"Because he had done nothing to earn it?"

"Yes," said witness. "I felt he had done nothing to earn it."

ALTERATIONS MADE COST $110,743.94

him, Mr. Bennett declared. After the general election of 1930 the matter was again referred to, and in October it was indicated to him that the cost of making alterations would involve $50,000. The Prime Minister was then in London and had cabled to Sir George Perley intimating that these changes should not take place. He had a memorandum from Sir Henry Thornton which set forth the $50,000 as the maximum charge.

He was not aware until this year that the expenditures had reached the $110,000 figure, Mr. Bennett continued. He had not moved in immediately.

Last September the manager of the hotel spoke to him and the Premier had enquired what the rent of the suite was. Mr. Bennett's suggestion was that 6 per cent of $80,000 would be a reasonable sum, This was before the Prime Minister learned what the total cost had been and when he was still under the impression that the $50,000 figure had been adhered to.

The Arrangments.

Finally it was agreed that if the Prime Minister would spend "substantial sums in the hotel, in the way of hospitality," the suggested arrangement would be desirable and satisfactory.

The Prime Minister assumed occupancy of the suite on Sept. 17, 1931. He did not keep any accurate amount of the moneys disbursed in the hotel, but yesterday he had secured from the ledger-keeper a statement of his expenditures. These amounts, Mr. Bennett laid before the committee.

Part of this would be repayment of cash he had received in the way of small accommodations inasmuch as he did not carry much money around with him, said Mr. Bennett.

"I still think there must be some error as to the amount spent in the alternations," the Premier said. "There are a number of small rooms in the suite. But I still think the figures are out of all proportion to the expenditures."

The Premier declared he had always paid what he was asked to pay in the Chateau and other hotels.

Accepted No Services

"I am only too anxious to make known to the committee that I have not availed myself of any officials in any department for gratuitous services to myself," the Prime Minister declared. "Neither the Experimental Farm nor the Department of Public Works, or any other department, has contributed any services to me."

R. W. Grey (Lib., Lambton West) took up the examination of the Prime Minister. "You have lived a great deal of your life in hotels?" he asked.

Mr. Bennett: "Yes."

Mr. Grey: "And you are thoroughly conversant with hotel rates."

Mr. Bennett: "Yes, I know they are computed on the percentage of occupancy."

To the question of the size and cost of his former quarters in the hotel, Mr. Bennett said he had four rooms and he believed the cost was between two and three hundred dollars per month.

Mr. Grey: "And now you are paying $400 per month for fifteen rooms."

Mr. Bennett: "That is what I am asked to pay and I always pay what I am asked."

Mr. Grey calculated it would amount to about $13 per day. "Do you think that a fair rate to pay for fifteen rooms that cost the Canadian people more than a hundred thousand dollars in capital expenditure?" he asked.

Refuses to Answer

Mr. Bennett: "I am not going to answer that because I am not the manager of the hotel. But you must remember that is on a yearly basis."

Mr. Bennett said he thought there must be some error in the figures given as being the cost of the alterations and improvements. He had been familiar with the hotel for many years and he could not understand how the changes could cost so much.

Mr. Grey persisted in his question as to the Prime Minister's reaction when he was given such a low rate knowing that the suite represented a capital outlay of $11,000. "You must have considered it not as plain Mr. Bennett but as the Prime Minister of Canada," Mr. Grey insisted."

He could not be expected to do business for both sides at once, Mr. Bennett replied. "And I still think there is some mistake in those figures."

"I would like to know if it is the Prime Minister's idea of statesmanship to occupy that suite built at the cost of the people of Canada at a rate of $13 per day" said Mr. Grey.

Mr. Bennett repeated his assertion that if the hotel asked for a higher rate he would pay or vacate. He was not in the habit of conducting the business of those who were doing business with him. He had really not been anxious to occupy the suite at all, Mr. Bennett declared.

Adjustment Suggested

"Now that you have learned of the actual cost of the suite, and when you have proven the figures to be correct, will you be prepared to make some adjustment, in view of the financial state of the Canadian National?" Mr. Grey asked.

Mr. Bennett expressed surprise that a member of parliament would ask such a question. He could only repeat that if the hotel asked more he would consider the proposition and either pay it or vacate.

TO AID COMMUNISTS.

HALIFAX. — A representative of the Canadian Labor Defence League is on his way to Halifax to arrange defence for nine alleged Communists held in Halifax for deportation hearings, it was learned to-day. As far as is known only two of the prisoners have been represented by counsel at the tribunal presided over by R. N. Munroe of Ottawa. Now it appears each of the men will be given representation.

Venture Results In Blasted Hopes

MONTREAL, May 13 (C.P.) — Disgruntled purchasers of a "going concern" that in their opinion had gone too far already, Auguste Abadia and Eugene Braiteau took their troubles to court and obtained a judgment refunding their capital investment in the Canadian Sand Blast Company Limited, a firm devoted to scrubbing the faces of soiled stone buildings.

Where were the $150 a week profits? Abadia and Braiteau wanted to know. R. F. Bertrand, who sold them the business, had promised them a handsome living from the business, they claimed, but there were too few landlords who wanted the facade of their property subjected to a compressed air sand shower.

A newspaper advertisement was produced in court. The owner of the business was willing to teach the purchasers the intricacies of laundering skyscrapers. "No trouble, no losses, easy; will teach business, the chance of a lifetime"—ran the advertisement.

Abadia, a carpenter, and his partner Braiteau, a rooming house keeper, found it far from easy. Bertrand, they said, disappeared without giving them any lessons. He also took Louis Gauthier, their sole experienced employee, along with him and started up again in the same business. Bertrand admitted in court he had neglected to tell the purchasers that it was only a good business for six months of the year. Braiteau and Abadia said they made net profits of $10 a week—and net losses of $50 a week.

Mr. Justice Desaulniers was sympathetic and ordered the contract of sale annulled. Bertrand must also pay the pair $2,850.

BRAVES DEFEAT CHICAGO 8 TO 3 IN WINDY CITY

Charlie Root Combed for Nine Hits, Most of Them Bunched for Runs.

CARDINALS WIN EASILY.

Gift Run in Ninth Inning Enables Indians to Take 5-4 Victory.

(By Gayle Talbot, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Bill McKechnie's Boston Braves may not win the National League flag this year, but they promise to establish a lasting record for demoralizing the opposition.

For some reason, possibly the fact that McKechnie has his players fighting for the breaks and taking advantage of every opening opposing teams have found it hard to retain their equilibrium.

In 22 games the battling Bostonians have been helped along by 48 opponents' errors, an average of more than two per contest, and in only six games have their rivals failed to boot at least one. It affords one of the very good reasons why the Braves are in second place today.

The Giants have suffered most from the jinx. In six engagements with the braves they committed 17 bobbles, eight of them in one afternoon and five another. Brooklyn made 10 in five games with the McKechniemen, Philadelphia seven in five.

That would seem to have approached the limit, but now come the league leading Chicago Cubs with a threat to surpass anything previously done. Facing Boston for the first time yesterday they were limited in number of errors only by the fact they had to desist after nine innings. In the allotted time they managed to compile seven, more than sufficient to give the Braves an 8-3 victory behind Ed Brandt.

The Cubs' prize young infielders, Bill Herman and Bill Jurges, divided most of the hard luck between them, Herman with four errors and Jurges with two.

Brandt had the Cubs completely baffled until the last of the ninth, when Johnny Moore nicked him for a homerun with two on for all the Cub's runs. The loss cut Chicago's lead over the Braves to two games.

Dodgers Get First Blood

The Brooklyn Dodgers won first blood in their long-awaited series with Cincinnati, 5-2, as Babe Phelps hurled scoreless ball after the first inning. It also was something of a moral victory for the Dodgers, proving for the time being, at least, that they beat the Reds in their big player swap this spring. Joe stripp and Tony Cuccinello, former Reds, played a big part in the victory with their bats.

Jess Haines made his initial start of the year for the St. Louis Cardinals and was good enough to beat the Phillies, 8-2. The Cards knocked Jim Elliott from the hill in the second and continued to plaster his three successors.

The giants' opener at Pittsburgh was rained out, and only one of four American League engagements escaped the elements. Cleveland nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 5-4, when Dick Porter's double scored Cissel after two were out in the ninth. Earl Webb lost the ball in the sun.

BARNES HURLS LEAFS TO WIN SECOND BATTLE

Skeeters' Sluggers Reach Cantrell for Sixteen Hits in First Session.

MATTINGLY INJURED.

TORONTO, May 13.—After a week's lay-off due to rain and cold weather, the Maple Leafs went into action again at the Stadium yesterday afternoon and managed to get an even break in a doubleheader with the Jersey City Skeeters. The visitors won the first game by 7 to 3, but the Leafs annexed the abreviated seven-inning affair by 4 to 1. About 1,500 fans witnessed the pastimes.

The Skeeters' victory in the opener broke their six-game losing streak, but it cost them the services of one of their best pitchers. Earl Mattingly, husky righthander, recently sent to the Skeeters by the Brooklyn National League club, started for the visitors, and was unfortunate enough to receive a fractured tibia of the knee joint when he collided with Catcher Bob Smith at the plate in the fourth inning as the Pests were putting over a four-run rally. Mattingly scored the second run of the rally, which came after Guy Cantrell had two men out. The visiting pitcher was on second when Hunnefield singled to centre. Hughes's throw to the plate had him beat, but Cantrell intercepted the ball. Cantrell attempted to relay the ball to Catcher Smith, but his hurried toss was wide, and as Smith lunged for it he collided with Mattingly, who was in full stride. The injured pitcher was thrown heavily, and had to be carried off the field and attended by the Toronto club physician, Dr. Smirlie Lawson. When the extent of his injury was revealed, he was removed to the General Hospital, accompanied by Richard Cloke, business manager of the Jersey City club.

Mattingly will be out of the game for a period of two months. It was necessary to put his leg in a cast, where it will be kept for three weeks at least. He will remain in hospital here until Monday next, when he will be removed to his home near Washington, D.C.

Frank Barnes, whose only other victory this season was scored over the Skeeters in Jersey City, proved too much for them again in the second game. He held them to six hits and had them shut out until the seventh, when "Poisonous Joe" Brown was inserted as a pinch-hitter for Clancy. Brown, as usual, lined a single to left, and finally scored the visitors' only run. A single by Bob Morrow, another pinch-hitter, a base on balls and a couple of force-outs sent Brown around.

Ed Pipgras, brother of George of the New York Yankees, was the Skeeters' starting pitcher, but he encountered a storm in the sixth and had to be relieved in favor of Laurance Irvin, former Rochester southpaw. Pipgras went well until the fourth. In that inning, only three Leaf batsmen faced him, but two of them singled. Fritz led off with a single, but Doljack hit into the only double play of the afternoon. Then Walker dropped a hit into left and was snuffed out at second trying to stretch it into a double.

In the fifth, Pipgras walked Owen to start with and then Hughes doubled to centre. Stack hoisted to centre, but Barnes slashed a single to rgiht and drove Owen and Hughes in: More hart doubled to centre, sending Barnes to third and the pitcher scored on Michaels' single to the same field. Morehart counted when Fritz forced Michaels at second.

STAGE ALL SET FOR BIG OPENER

Caddock-Marchioni Promises to Provide Plenty of Interest For Wrestling Fans.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAM.

To-night at the Brock street rink Jack Corcoran, Toronto wrestling promoter, will hold the first of a series of shows and the program he has arranged promises to do much to add to the popularity of the sport which local fans have already had a sample. Corcoran has strong connections with Jack Curley of New York and is in a position to secure outstanding men for his Canadian shows.

In tonight's main bout Abe Kashey, the Armenian champion, will attempt the feat of beating and unmasking the unknown heavyweight, who is known as "The Masked Marvel." If he acomplishes either purpose he will have done something some highly rated wrestlers have failed to do for The Marvel has to his credit a long string of victories over highly rated mat stars.

The Marvel, according to all reports, is possessed of the "killer instinct" which made Frank Gotch in wrestling and Jack Dempsey in boxing such outstanding champions. He tears into his opponents with a furious attack and often catches them by surprise with the fierceness of his offensive. Kashey, however, has both ability and experience and has every confidence in himself. He weighs over 200 pounds and is both fast and strong.

In the semi-final "Babe" Caddock, nephew of Earl Caddock, former champion of the world, will meet Adolpho Marchioni of Italy and the records of these two indicate that they are very closely matched. Caddock is one of the most versatile men in the sport and the bout should be contested at a lively pace. Rounding out a splendid array of talent is an opening bout between "The Dutch Adonis", Frankie Hart, and Arthur Dick of Evansville, Indiana whose use of the flying tackle makes him dangerous at all time. The complete card in the order in which the bouts will be held is as follows:

Preliminary

Arthur Dick, Evansvile, Ind., vs. Frankie Hart, Holland; one fall, 30 minute time limit.

Semi-Final.

"Babe" Caddock, New York, vs. Adolpho Marchioni, Italy; one fall, 45 minutes time limit.

Main Bout.

The Masked Marvel vs Abe Kashey, Armenian champion, best two-out-of-three falls, two hour time limit.

EIGHTH INNING RALLY WINS FOR MONTREAL CLUB

Six-run Session Gives Royals Their 13th Victory of Season.

BEARS BEATEN 4-0.

Bisons Have Easy Time Taking Third Victory From Reading 10-1.

(By The Associated Press)

Unbeatable for two weeks, the Montreal Royals had pushed into a virtual tie with the Newark Bears for the International League lead to-day on the wings of a 13-game winning streak.

The Royals have won 17 games and lost nine compared to Newark's record of 16 and 7. The percentages, however, still favor Newark, .682 to .654.

The Royals' latest victory, a 6-2 conquest of the Baltimore Orioles yesterday, did not come without a struggle. Tauscher, on the mound for the Orioles, was in rare form for seven innings and held a 2-0 lead going into the last half of the eighth after Regan's double drove in a pair of runs in the second. But in the eighth with the Royals drove him to cover and continued a bombardment against Beryl Richmond that finally netted six runs and the ball game.

Newark Takes Drubbing

Newark, meanwhile, was finding Del Wetherell of the Rochester Redwings a constant puzzle and a 4-0 beating was the result. Wetherell gave up only five hits and a fast double play in the ninth ended Newark's only real chance to score. Jim Weaver gave the Redwings only five hits but lost his own game through wildness. He walked seven men all told, two of them with the bases filled in the first inning. George Puccinelli, Rochester outfielder, hit safely in his 22nd straight game and boosted his batting average to an even .500. The victory moved Rochester into fourth place in the standings, ahead of Baltimore.

Herd Downs Keys 10-4

Buffalo's Bisons, in third place, trounced Reading, 10-1. Joe Bloomer gave up only three hits and Reading failed to get a man past first base until Barton clouted a homer with two out in the ninth. Ollie Carnegie drove in five Buffalo runs with a home run and two doubles.

75 ARMED FARMERS HUNT DESTRUCTIVE WILD DOGS

INGERSOLL, May 13.—Following a series of depredations, which include an attack on a heifer, a large number of farmers in the Vefshoyle district, Dereham Township, have organized for the destruction of a ty five farmers armed with guns five farmers, armed with shotguns and rifles, combed a wide area of the township yesterday but were unsuccessful in sighting the marauding canines. The dogs have apparently been doing much night prowling, and seemingly depend upon their ability to kill to obtain sufficient to eat.

CHAMPS LOSE IN RING TESTS

Two Canadian Titleholders Are Beaten in Olympic Trials at Toronto.

SEVERAL TECHNICAL K.O.'s.

TORONTO, May 13 (C.P.). — A marathon fight program, including 28 bouts and lasting into the small hours of the morning, brought to a close early to-day the preliminary rounds of the Canadian amateur boxing championships and Olympic trial tournament. Sluggers and boxers alike from every section of the Dominion matched speed and stamina in bruising contests which lead to Canadian titles and a trip to the 1932 Olympic games.

Four technical knockouts dotted the card, but so closely were the contestants matched that an outright "K.O." was not experienced.

Four Canadian titlists of last year are included in the long entry list and only two of these remain in the picture to-day as the remaining pair fell by the wayside in their effort to annex 1932 laurels. Paul Frederickson, broad-shouldered Winnipeg youth, possessor of the 135-pound title, was the only champ who failed to show his wares last night. He will swing into action in the finals to-night as he, along with several other featherweights, drew byes in the preliminaries.

Fades From Picture.

First of last year's titleholders to fade from the 1932 picture was John Bihisick of Fort William, who bowed to Ken Robinson, rugged Camp Borden, Ont., scrapper. Unleashing a whirlwind attack, the hard-punching airman thoroughly trounced the Canadian middleweight champion, and was awarded the bout in the second round on a technical knockout.

Another of the few surprises of the night came in the 126-pound class, when Jimmy Fisher, peppery young Hamilton mitt man, cuffed his way to a decision over Tommy Neilson, the Winnipeg youngster who held the bantamweight crown last year. Adding weight since the last Canadian championships, Neilson was forced into the heavier ranks, but failed to show the speed which perched him at the head of the bantams last season.

Featherweight scraps held the major interest for the small crowd that sprawled about the Maple Leaf Gardens. Ani Johannesson, king of the 126-pounders last year, showed he is still a top notcher in his class, punching out a decision over the Fort William hopeful, Eddie McIntyre.

What was considered by many the best bout of the night ended in a rather unpopular decision when Johnny Keller, Montreal speedster, was given the nod over Ray Cook, Eastern Ontario champion.

Another bout stopped before the regulation time gave Tommy Ball, Winnipeg bantam, a technical "K.O." victory over Gilbert Watson, an Ottawa entrant.

Hard-plugging Eddie Heatherfield, Quebec champion, showed plenty of promise in his bantamweight scrap with Eddie Carroll of Toronto, and won by knockout route.

Hard luck man of the evening was W. Pollard, well-built Edmonton boxer, who outlasted Neis Scarelli of Fort William to take the decision after a bruising battle. Pollard, besides winning the decision, received a gash over his right eye which required stitches. It was feared he may be forced out of further competition.

AUSTRALIA DRAWS CUBA.

HAVANA, May 13 (C.P.).—Back in the Davis Cup arena after a year's absence, Australia drew Cuba as its first opponent in the international team tennis competition to-day.

Two players alone were to carry the full burden of three days' play for each country. Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman for Australia, and Gustavo Vollmer and Ricardo Morales for Cuba.

Opening singles pairings sent Crawford against Morales and Hopman against Vollmer. These pairings will be switched for the last two singles duels Sunday after the same four players have battled away in doubles Saturday.

HAVELOCK ALBION CLUB WOULD ENTER JUVENILE TEAM IN LOOP

Entries Received From Two Junior, Two Juveniles and Three Bantam Teams.

SET ENTRANCE FEE.

Likelihood of a strong twelve-team City Baseball League was the optimistic note that marked the City League meeting in Duffus' last night. Plans were made to approach a number of prominent sportsmen and several of the service clubs with a view of having four teams entered within a week in each of the three league sections, junior, juvenile and bantam.

There was a fair representation on hand, including a number of City League veteran managers. In the absence through illness of President Dinsdale, the business was conducted by vice-president Art Moffat. Following the reading of the minutes, it was moved that the secretary apply to the city at once for permission to play league games at Stevenson Park as in past years.

Entries were called for, with the following results: Juniors, Fosters and the East City Indians; juveniles, Maple Leafs and All Saints; bantams, Rotary, Kiwanis and All Saints. An application to enter a juvenile team was received from Havelock and will be considered. It was thought likely that both the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs might be willing to enter teams in either the juvenile or junior divisions, or both. A letter will be sent to both clubs inviting them to do so, and one will be sent also to the Kinsmen Club inviting them to enter a team in any division.

The feeling of the meeting was that there should not be a great deal of difficulty in rounding up the City League to the strength it once enjoyed. Father Moloney, head of the Canuck Athletic Club, Father Masterson of St. Peter's, and Jim Matthews of the Sunshine Dairy, will all be approached in this connection within the next few days, and perhaps some others.

A motion was passed setting the entrance fee at five dollars a club, the club being enabled to enter one or more teams for this sum. The previous motion of five dollars a team was rescinded. It was decided that no certificates would be given out until the next meeting, thus giving prospective teams an even chance with those already entered in regard to signing up players. The certificates will be given out at the meeting next Thursday night, May 19th, at 7.30 in Duffus'.

All entries and entrance fees must be in by this date, and the matters of schedules, umpires, etc. will be decided upon. With no further business on hand, the meeting adjourned.

CITY LACROSSE LEAGUE RULES

Three Teams to Enter—Invitation to Millbrook.

FLOCK OF PLAYERS

The City Lacrosse League has definitely boiled down to three teams, Orde's, C.G.E. and Brinton Carpet Company, but in a desire to square the group the executive last night decided to invite Millbrook to enter a team. They would be assured of at least three home games, and the prospects of a double schedule would give them six engagements.

A tentative slate of rules was drafted last night. Each city league team may sign fifteen players. No man who signs with the intermediate O.A.L.A. team of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club will be allowed to play in the City League. On the other hand any City League player who gets a chance to play with the intermediates may play two games and still return to his original City League team. O.A.L.A. rules will govern all games.

A Big Turn Out

The steady progress of lacrosse in its appeal to the young men of the city was shown by last night's intermediate practice at Exhibition Park when nearly thirty were out under Bud Fisher's management. Many of them are still comparatively new to the game, but the fact remains that interest is growing keener, and the boys are bound to make rapid improvement, especially if they have any talent for the game.

Lack of sticks in Peterborough is delaying the City League teams from getting under way at full strength. One of the clubs has had an order in for three weeks without any supply coming through. The big demand has evidently exhausted the Lally factory supply. It is also reported that there has been some hitch at the factory in obtaining the essential hickory requirements.

No definite word has come through from Lakefield, and it is being assumed that they will not seek entry in the Peterborough group.

In regard to the O.A.L.A. outlook, Harry Tudhope reports Norwood getting ready, but Campbellford has been slow in starting. However, the Trent town usually has an abundance of material, and there is no doubt about them hooking up to make at least a three-team loop.

A vast number of small stores have recently been opened in Germany.

Small Field Listed In Preakness Stakes

BALTIMORE, May 13.—(C.P.)—One of the smallest fields in history is slated to go postward tomorrow in the renewal of the $50,000 Preakness Stakes, mile and three-sixteenths classic of the Maryland turf.

Bad weather and indifferent conditioning of the thoroughbreds have conspired to give the classic one of the most mediocre fields in the half century that the Maryland Jockey Club has had the feature on the books at old Pimlico.

Not more than 10, and probably two less than that number were counted as starters as the final tabulation was made of the turf kings on hand at Hilltop ready for the second of the big three year old events of the year.

CASUAL COMMENT

This is Friday the 13th, and at least three of the pro grapplers at the Brock to-night will figure it's an unlucky date after they've been picked up and carried out of the ring. That's our guess anyway, as it looks like a cinch the behemoths will lay into each other with all the trimmings that has made wrestling so popular. A record crowd is expected to attend to see the mysterious Mr. M. Marvel, Abe Kash-an-carry, Frankie Hart, and the rest.

• • • • • • •

It's years since we've seen such high hopes expressed at a City Baseball League meeting as was the case last night. Following some discussion on various entries and prospective ones, Alex Kay summed up the keynote of the session when he said: "We'll have twelve teams in it this year, just wait and see!" Incidentally Mr. Kay has accepted the chairmanship of the Peterborough Baseball Commission, while Ches Mowry and Harry Dinsdale represent the City Loop on it.

• • • • • • •

There'll be no trouble getting another bantam, but two more juveniles and two more juniors are needed to make a real circuit. If Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs are willing to enter in one or both divisions, the league will appoint experienced old ball players, and veteran managers to handle them, provided the clubs have no managers.

• • • • • • •

Both these clubs, and later the Kinsmen, have done a great deal for your athletes in Peterborough, the first two having for years been the backbone of the City League. As they have the necessary equipment now, it would be a fine thing to help bring this league up to twelve teams. They will be approached and invited to do so, as well as several other local sportsmen, and things should hum at the next meeting, May 19th.

• • • • • • •

Orde's, C.G.E. and Brintons definitely entered the City Lacrosse League last night, and Millbrook will be invited in. There was a fine turnout at the gathering and much business was handled. Fifteen players are allowed to a team, and City Loop lacrossers may only play two games with the O.A.L.A. team without quitting the local ranks.

• • • • • • •

The regular annual meeting of the East Peterborough Baseball League will be held on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in Duffus'. The election of officers, entrance of teams, appointment of representatives on the Baseball Commission, opening dates, and a whole raft of other details will be taken care of at this time. Cogs, Crescents, and C.G.E. are the only three expected to enter so far, but a fourth team may join.

• • • • • • •

Two tennis courts at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club will be open for play to-morrow afternoon, while two more will be built. Crushed granite is used for these courts, making a hard, springy footing. A tremendous amount of work is being done on the golf course, to be an eighteen-hole one, under the direction of R. MacMorran of the C.G.E.

• • • • • • •

This summer, members may practise driving on one part of the course, while an eighteen-hole putting green for practice will be made around the club house. Skating, hockey, skiing, and badminton are some of the winter sports to be enjoyed at this all-year-round club. Many visitors are going over the place now, and it's almost an education to look the work and plans over out there any afternoon.

• • • • • • •

A notice from the secretary of the C.O.B.L. points out that he has received no certificates yet from any team. These certificates must be passed by both the league and the O.B.A.A. before players are permitted to participate in any game. Amateur cards must, in all cases, accompany the certificates, or the latter will be held out until the card is secured.

Pitching one-hit ball, a single by Burton, and fanning fourteen, Field blanked the King George team down at King Edward yesterday, 11 to 0. His twirling was first-class, while both his hitters and fielders figured prominently in the win. Burton also did pretty fair on the mound for the Ashburnham outfit, chucking the ball past a dozen batters, but his support was shaky. The winners lead the first half of the schedule.

SOCCER OPENER ON SATURDAY

Packers Vs. Scots in League Game at King Edward Park.

GAME STARTS 3 P.M.

The official opening of the soccer season had to be postponed last week through the field being unplayable, and another attempt will be made on Saturday afternoon to inaugurate the schedule for the League when the Caledonians and the Canadian Packers meet on King Edward Park at three o'clock. Jack Clark will handle the whistle in place of Alex. McKinley, who is otherwise engaged.

No confirmation of the possibility of the Packers' eleven has been given, but they will have their best out to gain their first two points. In the Caledonian camp they have been making special preparation for the opener and have selected the following team: A. Frick, goal; J. Humphries and W. Agnew, full backs; J. Taylor, T. Craig and W. Rankin, halves; George Clark, W. McCracken, A. O'Halloran, A. McPhate and E. Hanson, forwards. Subs, J. Wood, T. McPhate, A. Coyle and T. Reid.

Packers' team will be: F. Foster, goal; A. Downer and E. Hakin, full backs; H. Nicholls, J. Buchan and A. Bromley, halves; G. Downer, F. Dyer, N. Downer, A. Ross and E. Jones, forwards. Subs: H. Hotston, Art Downer and M. Fletcher.

CUBS RELEASE WELCH.

CHICAGO, May 13 (C.P.). — Johnny Welch, young right-handed pitcher, to-day was on his way to join the Newark Bears of the International League, having been released by the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs sent Welch to Los Angeles on option, but Commissioner Landis decided the Cubs had sent him out on option often enough and ordered him returned.

REPARATIONS TANGLE

BERLIN. — Bernhard Grund, president of the German Federation of Industry and Commerce, declared to-day at the opening of that organization's convention, that settlement of the reparations problem is Germany paramount consideration. She cannot pay reparations, and a postponement will do no good, either to Germany or her creditors, he said.

JERRY WINS RESPECT

Respect of others to possess
Is one sure measure of success.
—Old Mother Nature.

Old Man Coyote blinked and blinked and felt like rubbing his eyes. He was finding it difficult to believe that his eyes were not fooling him. There on a rock in the bend below his hiding place sat Jerry Muskrat, or the living image of him, yet he was sure that Jerry had not come down the Laughing Brook from the place where he was last seen. Old Man Coyote got to his feet and walked along the bank until he reached the pool at the bend. He looked across at Jerry sitting on the rock on the other side of the pool.

"Do my eyes deceive me or is that you, Jerry Muskrat?" he asked, and grinned.

Jerry grinned back. "I guess there is nothing the matter with your eyes," said he.

"Do you mind telling me how you managed to get down through that swift water back there, or did you come along the bank?" inquired Old Man Coyote.

Jerry's eyes twinkled. "Do you mind telling me why you think I was up the Laughing Brook. You know I might be on my way up now instead of down," retorted Jerry.

Again Old Man Coyote grinned. "I don't mind telling you that I saw you back there a little way with Buster Bear wasting his time trying to get you by pulling over a pile of rocks and stones," said he. "You know, I'm not much of a swimmer myself, so I have been wondering if so good a swimmer as you would dare come down there."

"I might, but I didn't do it this time," replied Jerry.

"But you didn't come down along the bank," said Old Man Coyote.

"How do you know I didn't?" retorted Jerry quickly.

This time Old Man Coyote chuckled right out. "Because I was watching one bank while Buster Bear watched the other," said he. "I made a mistake."

"What mistake was that?" inquired Jerry.

"Not thinking you as smart as you really are," replied Old Man Coyote. "But you haven't told me yet how you got here."

It was Jerry's turn to grin. "On my four feet," said he.

Old Man Coyote chuckled good naturedly. "Did you really? That tells me something and tells me nothing. I was sure you didn't fly," said he.

"Perhaps you took a nap," suggested Jerry.

"No," declared Old Man Coyote. "No, I didn't take a nap. Perhaps I was asleep, but not in that way."

"Yet I am here," grinned Jerry.

"You are there," replied Old Man Coyote, "and you didn't get past me. I am afraid my friend Buster Bear must have done the napping."

"I didn't see him," said Jerry.

"Do my eyes deceive me, or is that you, Jerry Muskrat?" he asked and grinned.

"And it is evident that he didn't see you," replied Old Man Coyote. "Jerry, you are a great disappointment to me."

"How so?" asked Jerry innocently.

"By leaving me still hungry when I thought I was sure of a good meal and by being smarter than I thought you were," replied Old Man Coyote, and when he grinned this time he showed all his teeth. "I have learned something," he added. "I have learned to have more respect for you than ever I had before."

"But," chuckled Jerry, "you haven't yet learned how I got here."

"I will," promised Old Man Coyote.

Presentation Made To Bethany Pastor

BETHANY, May 13 (Examiner Correspondence) — The congregations of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Bethany, St. Mary's Church, Lifford, and Trinity, of the Marsh, who have been called upon to sever connections with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Fierheller, who have labored among them for almost nine years, assembled in the Town Hall on Saturday evening to spend a few hours in social intercourse.

Rev. Mr. Fierheller had been asked to address a meeting of young farmers, but when he entered the hall, he and his family were greeted by members of the congregations, grouped around in friendly attitude. Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton accompanied their dinner guests into the large hall which looked very attractive with a long table draped with a lovely linen cloth and centred with a basket of flowers and lighted green candles in silver holders.

The guests of honor were seated at one side and W. L. Hannah, Warden of St. Mary's Church, was chairman for the evening's program. Introducing in well chosen words the object of the gathering and expressing the universal regret by all present at the change about to take place and not forgetting to wish them happiness and continued prosperity in their new home.

William Morton read the address from the congregations to which Rev. Mr. Fierheller replied on behalf of himself and his wife, while Harry Smith, Warden of Bethany Church and Mr. Morton, of Trinity, presented the gifts of several useful pieces of silver and a dinner wagon.

Mrs. Hamilton read an address from the W.A. of St. Paul's Church, Bethany to Mrs. Fierheller and Mrs. Arthur Flack presented a beautiful silver comport in pierced design. Mrs. Fierheller thanked the ladies for this mark of loving esteem bestowed on her.

Each of the visiting wardens, also the home village representatives were asked for short addresses, and all joined in singing, "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

A dainty buffet luncheon was served by the ladies of the congregations and a pleasant social evening was brought to a close.

NEW AUTOMOBILE IN SWEDEN.

For the purpose of making and exploiting a new type of front drive for autombiles a company is to be organized in Stockholm, Sweden. The features of the car will include a synchronized gear box with free-wheeling attachment and an over-drive effect, which have been invented by Dr. Birger Lunstrom, of Stockholm.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If May 13th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m., and from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Life will run in its normal course on May 13th, and there are no previsions of any immediate turning points, or unforeseen business developments. If employed, you have nothing to fear; if unemployed, there are no new hopes. Dreary prospects for young people, who will find themselves temporarily "world weary."

The girl born on this May 13th will have an ambitious, restless nature, and will be unconscious of her charms. She will be somewhat of a Tom-boy and will show few budding traits of a housewife. The boy born on this May 13th will be studious, manly, affectionate, and a good sportsman.

You, if born on May 13th, will have a silent, self-absorbed nature, and rather shrink from the give and take of social life. Your interests are few, and circle around the home fires. You have no desire to play the nomad, and are satisfied with what your country or city has to offer. No amount of travel could ever make you an internationalist. You have a cherishing, possessive love for all things to which you can attach the word "my," and in your mind they are all elevated to exalted positions unrecognized by the outside world. You will be indelibly colored by your early environment, the dye of which no future earthly life can ever erase.

You appear to have a strong will-power, but it is to a large extent unadulterated stubbornness, often unbacked by your better reason. A false pride keeps you from admitting defeat or error. Your powers of discernment are not critical, and you often see things through prejudiced eyes. You like and dislike people and things almost for no rhyme or reason. You instinctively feel things.

You are fussy about your work, but are unsystematic, which accounts for your long hours and anxious mind. You never try to spare yourself, although you are not too robust for a breakdown if you do not husband your strength.

Face and Neck Covered With Pimples. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face and neck were completely covered with pimples. They came out in hard, red blotches and itched and burned. I scratched them and they kept getting sorer and redder, and festered and scaled over. They lasted about a year.

"I used so many different remedies but they did not help me. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief after using them. I purchased more and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Leola Vidito, R. R. 3, Middleton, N. S.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address Canadian Depot: J. T. Wah Company Limited, Montreal.

Returned Soldier Suffers a Seizure

Stiff suffering from the effects of four years' war service overseas, George Shouldice, a returned pensioner, last night took a seizure while walking north on George street. He was conveyed to Nicholls hospital by ambulance, where upon enquiry to-day it was learned he was making good recovery.

The people with whom the returned man boards on Rubidge street, first learned of his condition when informed by The Examiner at noon. It was stated that the disabled man suffers seizures of this nature periodically, and is attacked by them without the slightest warning.

He had gone out last evening with the intention of visiting a half brother who lives in the north end, and had reached the Sugar Bowl on George street, when he was suddenly stricken.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 95

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Owaza was happy as they set forth and so was the old chief who went with the party; though why the chief was happy about it was a matter Owaza didn't trouble to guess. They had marched two days into the interior when the chief sent one of his own men forward with a message. "It is to my friend," he explained, "asking him to come and meet us and lead us to his village."

A few hours later, as the little caravan emerged from the jungle on a broad plain, they saw a large band of warriors approaching. "Here comes my friend!" cried the chief. "See!" and he pointed toward a figure at the head of the blacks whose spears and white plumes gleamed in the sunlight. Owaza halted. "They come for war and not for peace," he exclaimed fearfully.

As the warriors came closer Owaza saw a giant warrior at their head, a white man whom he mistook for Esteban, whom he had so treacherously betrayed. He turned to the chief. "You have betrayed me!" he cried. "Wait," replied the old chief, "nothing that belongs to you shall be taken from you." Now the real Tarzan at the head of his Waziri warriors arrived, and greeted the old chief.

"Your runner came," said the ape-man, "bringing your message. Tarzan and his warriors are here to see what they can do for their old friend." The chief grinned. "Your own runner came to me, O Tarzan, four days since. Two days later came this fellow with his carriers bearing gold to the coast. I told him you would buy it if the gold was rightfully his."

BELIEVE BABY'S MURDER COMMITTED BY MANIAC

NEW YORK, May 13.—Assistant Chief Inspector John. J. Sullivan, head of the New York Detective Bureau, expressed the belief to-day that the Lindberg kidnapping was the work of a maniac.

"This apparently lets the gangsters out," commented the inspector who has worked on many kidnapping cases in New York. "To me, it looks like the work of a maniac. I have no direct knowledge of the case, but that's the way it appears to me now."

IN MEMORIAM

HENDREN—In loving memory of our dear sister Olive who passed away May 13th, 1929.
Some many think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the heartache
That the smile hides all the while.
We who loved you, sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year;
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are always near.

BRITISH FARMERS ARE DISSATISFIED

Want More Than One Representative at Imperial Conference.

LONDON, May 13 (C.P. Cable). Officials of the National Farmers Union to-day said farmers throughout Great Britain were "very gravely dissatisfied" with the decision of the government to appoint only one agricultural representative to the British delegation which will attend the Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference.

Executives of the union said they would appeal directly to the cabinet next week to have a representative of the farmers appointed as a second adviser who would collaborate with Sir Douglas Newton the present appointee.

In the House of Commons notice was given that J. H. Thomas, Dominions Secretary, would be asked at the end of the month what arrangement, if any, were being made to broadcast proceeding of the conference by radio throughout the Empire.

TWO MURDER SUSPECTS ARE GIVEN FREEDOM

NORTH BAY, May 13 (C.P.) — John Grear and Bentun Folland, who were held by Provincial Police here for questioning in connection with the death of George Smith, 87-year-old storekeeper at South Tetagouche, near Bathurst, N.B., April 20, were yesterday arraigned on vagrancy charges and released on suspended sentence. Word received by the authorities here was to the effect that other persons had been apprehended in New Brunswick in connection with the Smith case.

BODY OF CHILD REDUCED TO DUST BY CREMATION

Mrs. Charles Lindbergh is Ordered to Bed by Physician.

POLICE QUESTION CURTIS.

Father Identifies Child Before Body is Cremated.

HOPEWELL, N.J., May 14 (C.P.). — A baby's ashes in a simple urn rested to-day in a crematory chapel, the solemn symbol of human helplessness when madmen roam free.

These were the ashes of the Lindbergh baby, the body of a murdered child reduced to a tiny pile of dust by cremation.

In the lonesome Sourland Hill home Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh lay ill. For more than two months her fortitude has been remarkable. Last night a physician ordered her to bed.

Father Near Exhaustion.

The baby's father was near exhaustion. He had been long without sleep, save for the tortured slumber of a parent who had lived 72 days on the brink of an emotional chasm.

Yesterday had been his black Friday. His baby—his heir and namesake, in whose veins had run the blood of Congressmen and of great adventurers—had been taken in a simple casket to Rosehill Cemetery, Linden.

Three colonels had stood there in the crematory chapel. One wore the colonelcy of law— Noram Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the State Police of New Jersey, commander of th forces charged with direct responsibility for bringing to justice the murderer of Charles Lindbergh, Jr.

One was a colonel of the Great War. He was Col. Henry Breckenridge, counsel, friend, and adviser of Col. Lindbergh.

The third was Colonel Lindbergh himself—"Lone Eagle," and king of the skyways, a slim, worn bundle of nerves who could conquer the black Atlantic night in a frail airplane, who dared the airlanes from North America to Japan but who found himself helpless when mad murder came to his Sourland home.

Watched Silently.

Silently they watched, these three Colonels, as the casket containing the wasted form of the child was lowered to cremation. For a moment they gazed through the place provided for official witnesses.

They did not wait to take the ashes of the murdered child with them. The three men entered a closed car and drove away. A few hours earlier Colonel Lindbergh had tasted the very dregs of bitterness when he looked upon the body and added his verification of a previous identification. It was as horrible an experience as could come to any parent.

This must have been Charles Lindbergh's moment of anguish. As he entered the room where the body lay, just as it had been found late the afternoon before, buried hastily under leaves and brush not five miles from the Lindbergh home. The Colonel was asked:

Identifies His Body.

Col. Lindbergh, do you positively identify this baby?

The aviator stood tense. Only the head—the head which had been struck a terrific blow that caused

Kidnapped Baby Killed by Abductors

CHANCE PASSERBY FINDS LINDBERGH BABY'S BODY.

While a battalion of secret operatives and police worked assiduously all over the world in efforts to trace the myriad rumors concerning the Lindbergh kidnapping, William Allen, colored, discovered the mutilated body of the child by the merest chance as he walked through the woods near Trenton, N.J. Allen is shown here with his dog in a photograph which was transmitted by telephoto to Cleveland, sped by airplane to Buffalo, where it was picked up by airplane to be rushed to Canada.

FRESH DILEMMA BAFFLES POLICE IN BABY'S DEATH

Was it Racketeers Edging in, or Did Actual Slayers Get $50,000?

ROSNER SHOWS UP.

Officials Skeptical Regarding Sleeping Suit—May Not Have Been Tot's.

HOPEWELL, N.J., May 14. (CP) The detective brains of United States concentrated to-day on a prime dilemma in the Lindbergh mystery:

Was the $50,000 ransom collected by the actual murderers in a ghoulish swindle plot, or.

Was it collected by racketeers seeking to cash in, like parasites of crime, on an act committed by someone else?

It was a problem of paramount importance to a final solution of the case, and there was much to be said on either side.

It centred about a baby's sleeping suit, two safety pins and an illiterate note signed by a strange symbol.

Yesterday the die of opinion seemed to be swinging to the theory that the murderers got the money, but last night and to-day doubts crept in again.

The Ransom Note

The authorities were trying to determine whether the cabalistic ransom note left in the nursery when Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., stolen, could have got into the hands soon after the kidnapping, of any person save Col. Lindbergh and those working with him.

Morris Rosner, mysterious "undercover man" for Col. Lindbergh in his attempts to negotiate with the kidnappers, came to Hopewell for questioning. Rosner was said to have received the ransom note, which he took to New York. From the note, it was asserted, trac-

Old Horse Which Supplied Antitoxin For More Than 41,000 Children Dead

MONTREAL, May 14 (C.P.). — Medical science lost a valuable assistant with the death yesterday of old Doc Dobbin, a large black work horse whose blood had supplied diphtheria anti-toxin for the treatment of more than 41 children.

Old Doc died suddenly on the farm near here where 150 horses are kept for the making of serum. He was 21 years old and a native of the Western plains. Two years ago old Doc was the guest at a birthday party attended by local school children.

Mickey, a twelve-year-old bay also a Westerner, henceforth will supply the blood for the serum for children. He has been at the farm for five years.

ORDER 9 REDS TO BE DEPORTED

Appeals From All Are Understood to Have Been Sent to Hon. W. A. Gordon.

HEARINGS CONTINUE.

HALIFAX, May 14.—(C.P.)—Issuance of two additional deportation orders, bringing the total to nine, a claim of Canadian citizenship on the part of one alleged Communist held here, arrival at detention quarters of two more prisoners from the upper provinces, and preparation for the taking out of habeas corpus proceedings on behalf of eleven aliens held for expulsion from the country on charges of "plotting to overthrow the government by force and violence" were yesterday's cues in the city's role as clearing house for suspected Reds.

The stage was set for further action to-day. To the possibility that Orton Wade, who appeared before an immigration tribunal headed by R. N. Munroe of Ottawa, and who claimed to be a native of Quebec would be released from detention as an alien, was added the fact that A. H. Russell, K.C., had been retained by the Canadian Labor Defence League to apply for writs of habeas corpus. He is acting in conjunction with L. A. Ryan, who has appeared for the defence in several cases on instruction of a Halifax business man. To-night, it was reported, would see the arrival here of A. E. Smith, secretary of the Labor Defence League, from Toronto.

Appeals Forwarded.

Appeals on behalf of all the men ordered sent out of the country are understood to have been forwarded to Hon. W. A. Gordon, at Ottawa; but no indication that the minister had reached a decision in any of the cases has yet reached Halifax. It was thought probable that a week or so would elapse before the final word was forthcoming, though the possibility that the findings would be brought down to-day was not ignored. To-morrow the Polish-American liner Pulaski sails from Halifax for Gydnia.

The two prisoners who arrived here last night under escort were met at the station by Sergeant John Leopold, who has appeared as star witness, in hearings before the tribunal here, and other representatives of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and immigration authorities. It is believed that at least an even dozen men are held at the detention shed.

OCEAN COMBED FOR KIDNAPPERS

Twenty-five U. S. Coastguard Craft Begin Grim Hunt.

UNDER SEALED ORDERS.

NEW YORK, May 14 (C.P.). — A mysterious vessel believed to carry persons who may be the Lindbergh kidnappers was sought to-day somewhere between Boston and Cape May in one of the most intensive ocean hunts ever organized.

For more than 24 hours 25 U.S. coastguard craft have been darting to and fro on the Atlantic watching for the vessel, with which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is understood to have made contact Wednesday.

Wired instructions from Washington started the hunt. They contained a meagre description of the mysterious boat, but this was withheld.

There was not a major vessel at the Staten Island base of the coast guard last night. Fourteen, including six of the new 165-foot patrol boats, had left under sealed orders. Others were sent from Boston and New London, Conn.

Coastguard officers were not permitted to discuss the search.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

SARNIA—William Robert Shaw, 20, immigrant farm hand, tried to end his life in his room at the home of Charles Somes, Sarnia township, yesterday. He attempted to strangle himself by knotting his necktie and was unconscious when found by his employer. He turned the youth over to the police and he will face a charge of attempted suicide. Robert Shaw's attempt to end his life was attributed to disappointment in a love affair.

WINNIPEG, May 14 (C.P.). — Areas of the Western Canada wheat belt that were stricken with drought last year will require more rain before the end of the month if the new crop is to progress favorably, says the first general crop report of the season published to-day by the Winnipeg Free Press.

Rains late in April covering practically every section of the West, greatly improved moisture and soil conditions so that the crop is being put into the ground under conditions much more favorable than a

A Trifle Slow —But Honest

WASHINGTON, May 14. — (AP) Adelard Lemay of L'Ascension, Que., must be ranked among unusually honest men even though a bit slow at paying some kinds of bills.

Back in 1896 he subscribed to the Washburn, Wis., Times for a year or so. He never paid. To fix it up before he died Lemay wrote the weekly for a bill. The present owners sent the letter to J. E. Jones, Washington newspaperman who ran the Times in those days.

Jones felt constrained to call the account square.

CHEQUE FRAUD IS UNCOVERED IN MONTREAL

EXCELLENT IMITATIONS.

Forgeries Declared Work of Experts—One Arrest Been Made.

MONTREAL, May 14. (CP)— A cheque swindle that may involve thousands of dollars has been detected here and one man has already been arrested. Excellent imitations of Canadian National Railway pay cheques have been honored by several banks within the last day or so, it was learned. The cheques were drawn on the Bank of Toronto but none were cashed by that institution.

The forgeries were discovered when a clerk in the Bank of Toronto noticed dissimilarities among different Canadian National cheques were received from the clearing house to-day. An investigation was promptly started. The bank of Toronto has already segregated 25 forged cheques with a total face value of some $2,200. All had been cashed at other banks.

Fear Total May Rise

There was apprehension among bank officials that the total of $2,200 might be considerably swelled when all the forgeries reached the bank. It was believed a large number of the spurious cheques had been cashed by business firms and might not reach the Bank of Toronto for several days. Officials of the bank said that as the cheques were detected immediately by them the Bank of Toronto would not lose anything.

The forgeries were declared to be the work of experts. The quality of the paper, the color, printing and signatures were all stated to be decidedly similar to the genuine cheques. A bank official expressed the opinion that the forgeries were produced by a photographic reproduction.

SCOTTISH TRADE VESSEL ARRIVES

Eighty Prominent Business Men Accompany Ship From Glasgow.

RECEPTION MONDAY.

MONTREAL, May 14. (CP) — The liner Letitia, carrying the Scottish trade mission to Canada, docked here to-day. On board the vessel are 80 prominent business men bringing nearly 100 different products of Scotland, ranging from bagpipes to boilers. The Anchor-Donaldson liner reached Quebec yesterday from Glasgow and came up the St. Lawrence river last night.

The mission is headed by the Duke of Montrose as honorary president. George A. Mitchell, past president of the British Chambers of Commerce, is chairman. The enterprise is to stimulate the importation of Scottish goods into Canada. On its return voyage, if plans are carried out, Canadian exhibits will be carried back.

There were no formalities when the Letitia docked here. On Monday Mayor Fernand Rinfret of Montreal will welcome the visitors and throw the exhibition open to importers and the general public. During the four days the exhibition continues members of the mission will demonstrate the excellence of the products on board. Most of them are of a kind not manufactured in Canada.

Members of the party expressed themselves delighted with their reception and were confident that the enterprise would prove of enormous benefit both to Canada and Scotland.

POLICE KILL 2 IN RAID UPON SECRET CEREMONY

BUCHAREST, May 14 (C.P.). — Two members of a mystic sect called "The Innocents," were killed last night near Petrunia, Bessaria, by police who raided a secret ceremony in a cavern which apparently has been used for many years as a temple.

In the eric light of torches 100 nude celebrants gave battle to the gendarmes, whom they greatly outnumbered. They were winning when the police resorted to their pistols. Two of the innocents were fatally wounded and 20 others were arrested. The rest fled.

Crippled Plane, Out of Gasoline Crashes Into Sea

Captain G. Fried Spots Craft As It Flutters Down With Cracked Wing And Rushes Liner President Roosevelt To Spot—Injured Flier Picked Up In Lifeboat.

ANGRY SEAS PREVENT SALVAGING OF PLANE; FLIGHT TO PARIS ENDS 47 MILES FROM LAND.

Copyright, 1932, by the A. P.

S. S. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, May 14.—Lou Reichers, Newark, N. J., flyer, was aboard my ship today, bound for New York, after a thrilling rescue from a stormy sea last night which ended his attempt to set a new record for a flight from Newark to Paris.

Reichers, who took off from the Newark airport at 11:02 Thursday night, was picked up out of the sea 47 miles off Fastnet, a Rocky Islet near the southernmost tip of Ireland, shortly after 9.30 p.m. Greenwich mean time (4p.m. E.S.T.)

At 9:10 p.m. we sighted his plane as it fluttered down to a landing. The weather was hazy and the visibility poor. A strong south wind was whipping up a heavy sea.

I manoeuvred the President Roosevelt alongside the crippled plane near enough to launch a life boat. Chief Officer Manning went over with life boat No. 10 and worked it up beside the plane, finally succeeding, in spite of the adverse conditions, in helping Reichers out of the crushed fuselage into the boat.

Suffers Broken Nose

Reichers was suffering from a broken nose and several minor injuries incurred in his landing amid the high waves. He had several cuts on his face.

He was brought to the ship by the boat's crew and placed in the care of ship's surgeon Mulligan.

The fuselage of the plane was damaged and one wing cracked up. We were able to salvage neither the lifeboat nor the plane.

Reichers was forced down, he said, by the damage to the plane and by lack of gasoline.

UNITED PARTY LEADING POLLS IN AUSTRALIA

COUNTRY PARTY 15.

Leader, Argyle, Feels Returns Will Reassure Kindred Overseas.

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 14 (C.P. Cable).—The United Australian Party, headed by Sir Stanley Arygle, to-night appeared to have defeated the Labor Government of Premier E. J. Hogan, as returns from 65 constituencies voting in to-days general election became known.

The standing at a late hour was:

United Australian Party	31
Labor	18
Country Party	15
Independents	1
Total	65

A total of 132 candidates of whom 45 were members of the United Australian Party and 37 Laborites stood for election. The Country Party was represented by 27 candidates and there were several Independents and one Communist.

Follows Returns Closely

Sir Stanley, closely following the returns a sthey came in, characterized the trend as a decisive victory over the forces of Langism. "Coupled with the fall of Premier Lang (yesterday in New South Wales) it should reassure our kindred overseas," he said.

"With the rest of the Dominions and the Motherland," he added, "we are prepared to face difficulties, and to win out along the arduous path of work and sacrifice."

The main issue lay in the plan of Federal Prime Minister Joseph Lyons, calling for drastic economy throughout the Commonwealth and for reduction of wages and salaries in all Government services.

While Premier Hogan, who was re-elected by acclamation, favored the Prime Minister's scheme, Chief Secretary Thomas Tunnicliffe, who has been Acting Premier, refused Victoria's adherence.

CHILD IS SAVED BY MAID'S YELLS

ABOUT TO ENTER WINDOW.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 14 (C.P.).— Screams of a housemaid frightened an intruder from a roof last night and frustrated what police believe was an attempt to kidnap and hold for $100,000 ransom the daughter of a local business man.

The maid told officers she heard some one walking on the porch roof outside the nursery, saw a man, screamed, and the intruder fled.

Officers said they found a chisel on the roof, along with a dirty slip of paper on which was printed in large letters, "Ransom $100,000."

YOUTH'S TRIAL NEARS CLIMAX

Seabrooke May Know Fate To-day—Accused in Fatal Shooting.

MAINTAINS INNOCENCE.

OTTAWA, May 14. (CP)—William G. Seabrooke, 22-year-old Ottawan, charged with murder, may know his fate to-day. Following the charge of Mr. Justice Logie, the case is expected to go to the jury this afternoon.

A plea for his client's life was made to-day by Walter F. Schroder, senior defence counsel, which was followed by the address of Col. J. Keiller MacKay, crown prosecutor.

Seabrooke is charged with the fatal shooting of Paul Lavigne, service station worker, who was shot during a robbery here Dec. 12.

"May heaven forbid that an innocent man be convicted of such a gruesome murder as this on technical and circumstantial evidence" Mr. Schroeder declared in his plea to the jury.

"My client has always maintained his innocence. He continues now, through me, his counsel, to profess his innocence of this crime."

Four Terrorize Town Loot Hotel Of $400

KENOSHA, Wis., May 14. —Four men, armed with sub-machine guns terrorized the village of Trevor, west of Kenosha, after cutting communication to-day. They held up the Zorzlys Hotel, herded guests into the lobby and tossed tear gas bombs into the rooms before escaping with $400.

The robbers made an assault, almost military in its manoeuvres, on the plant of the Western Livestock Company, then they laid siege to the hotel, where they obtained the loot.

In the office of the Livestock Company they shot at and then slugged a watchman, Frank Carney, but found no money in the two safes they blew open.

COUNTY LIVESTOCK ASSOCIATION SETS 'BETTER BULL AREA' AS GOAL NEED CO-OPERATION OF FARMERS

Progress Made in Two Years Spurs Members in Effort.

AN APPEAL TO QUALITY.

Objective Set for 1933 With County Council's Aid.

With their backs to the economic wall, the farmers of the Livestock Improvement Association of this county are planning an offensive whose objective is to make Peterborough a "Better Bull Area" by 1933.

And the success of this county effort depends for the most part on the initiative and courage of the harried farmers themselves. The activating spirit is there to give the movement a strong start, but the momentum to carry it along to successful accomplishment must come from the rank and file throughout the townships.

The Association has the advantage of being already under way. Their plans were drawn up in the fall of 1928, and the members have a substantial progress to their credit but the drive needs encouragement and support from those who up to the present may have been indiferent or half-hearted about the scheme and its benefits.

The original purpose of the organization was the working out of policies for the betterment of livestock of all kinds in this county. Because cattle constitute 50 per cent of the livestock and the income from them exceeds that percentage the beginning was made with that branch. It was soon discovered that a salient question was the improvement of bulls. A lot of them were poorly bred and half of them were grades. That left a lot of scope for the Association and its first flush of enthusiasm. Educational work was undertaken, and the importance of using only purebred bulls was emphasized at every opportunity.

Arrangement were made for help from the Ontario Department of Agriculture in the preparations for the placement of better bulls. With assistance of township assessors a census of the males was taken to determine accurately the extent of situation and what was needed to be done. The Association brought in the government's bull bonus policy whereby any farmer who had been using grade bulls and purchased one that was registered and of approved quality could receive financial assistance to the amount of 20 per cent of the purchase price from the government.

For approximately two years William Knox, a former breeder of purebred cattle, acted as fieldman visiting the owners of grade bulls and locating purebred bulls for them.

Extent Of Improvement.

This campaign has already borne encouraging results. In 1930 the number of bulls in the county was 533 of which 61.5 per cent were purebred; in 1931 the number was 568 and the purbred percentage 68.8; and last year there were 560 bulls listed with percentage of purebreds increased to 70.1. These

DISEASE KILLS MANITOBA DEER

Believed to Have Been Spread by Birds From Infested Saskatchewan Areas.

BLOW TO INDIANS.

FLIN FLON, May 14 (C.P.). — Believed to have been spread eastward by birds eating the carcases of diseased animals that died in Saskatchewan, hemorrhagic septicemia has taken the lives of many deer in Northern Manitoba, according to reports reaching here.

The disease has made considerable headway in the northern section of Saskatchewan, but only a few scattered parts of Manitoba have reported its ravages. However, the possibility of the malady spreading was causing uneasiness as the deer provide the Indians' major food supply and also his clothes.

As far as is known, no active steps have been taken to stop the spread of the infection.

ISLAND IS PRISON NUDE PARADERS

Doukhobor Men Will Be Isolated in Ocean—Women Go to Portsmouth.

OTTAWA, May 14.—Government and penitentiary officials have been at their wits' ends since the recent conviction of nude Doukhobors in British Columbia to know where they were going to accommodate the offenders against the Criminal Code of Canada.

The problem has now been solved with the decision to place the made Doukhobors on an island in Pacific Ocean, and to send the women to Portsmouth Penitentiary. There was no room for either at the new Westminster Penitentiary, which is overcrowded.

The Doukhobors recently were sentenced to three years in prison for parading in the nude on the public highways. The court invoked an amendent to the Criminal Code, which was passed by Parliament especially to discourage the Doukhobors from parading without clothing. Previously there was no law under which they could be adequately punished.

STEVENS TAKES LANG'S OFFICE

Spirit of Optimism Prevails in N. S. Wales as Labor Chieftain is Ousted.

STOCK PRICES SOAR.

SYDNEY, N.S.W. May 14 (C. P. Cable).—B. S. B. Stevens, leader of the State United Australian Party, to-day was sworn in as Premier of New South Wales, replacing J. T. Lang, Labor chieftain, who yesterday was dismissed by executive authority of Governor Sir Philip Game.

Ex-Premier Lang's dismissal sent issues on the local stock exchange soaring to gains of ten per cent. over their price levels yesterday and a spirit of optimism pervaded business circles.

Political observers said they felt Mr. Lang preferred dismissal to withdrawal of letters in which he urged heads of State Government Departments not to turn over funds which Federal officials had come to collect under terms of the financial agreement enforcement act, because the Federal measure had closed all doors to extraordinary taxation within the State.

It was the former Premier's refusal to recall the letters at the bidding of the Governor that led to his ousting.

Laborites Dumfounded.

Members of the Trades Hall, Labor organization, were dumfounded at the turn in events. They declined to say what they intended to do. "Let us recover from the shock first," was their only comment.

In a broadcast speech Federal Prime Minister Joseph Lyons said "I feel sure the Australian nation, and not only the people of New South Wales, will heave a sigh of relief."

Premier Stevens, after being sworn in, promised to work in co-operation with the Federal Government and with the other states to improve conditions.

At his farm outside the city, Mr. Lang maintained silence. His only comment after his final audience with the Governor yesterday was, "I am sacked."

OTTAWA PLACES SEAL APPROVAL ON TRADE PACT

Senate Opposition Claims New Zealand Got Better Bargain Than Canada.

MARKETING BOARD UP.

Spotton Charges Stockyard Combine Exists in Toronto —Squeezing Farmers.

OTTAWA, May 14 (C.P.) — The seal of Parliamentary approval was placed on the Canada-New Zealand treaty yesterday, when it was passed by the Senate and received royal assent from Chief Justice F. A. Anglin, the Deputy Governor-General. It will come into force upon joint proclamation by the two governments. Its progress through the upper house was marked by concerted attacks from Opposition members, who charged New Zealand had secured a better bargain than Canada.

The end of the parliamentary trail was reached also by the Government's Unemployment Relief Bill. It conferred wide and elastic powers on the Ministry to negotiate agreements with the Provinces to combat distress, to bonus the products of primary industries, safeguard Canadian credit and loan or guarantee money to public or private industries.

The House of Commons grappled all day with estimates of the Department of Agriculture, only two items passing. Creation of a marketing board to direct the export sales of farm products was urged from all sides as an immediate necessity.

Urges Armistice

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Minister of Agriculture, sounded the call for a political armistice. "I think we have reached the stage in our history when agriculture is simply staggering to its fall and we can offord to ease up a little in our extreme political alignments and work in behalf of agriculture. He criticised a decreased of 33 per cent in the estimates of the department and suggested to Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, extra money be provided in supplementary appropriation.

Charges were made by George Spotton, Cons., North Huron, that a stockyards combine existed in Toronto. If ever there was an octopus —a devil fish with elongated arms squeezing the lives out of the farmers of Ontario, it is the Canada Packers of Toronto, he said. Farmers were forced to accept whatever price was offered, sometimes as low as 3½ cents a pound.

NARROW CALLS FOR EXPLORER

D. S. Wees Tells of Battling Floods and Facing Starvation in Paraguayan Jungle.

SAW ANTS INCH LONG.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, May 14 (A.P.)—A story of excruciating suffering in the Paraguayan jungle, including being almost eaten alive by ants nearly an inch long, was told here to-day by Donald S. Wees, explorer, who has just returned to civilization.

Wees, who spent three months in scientific work in the wilds of Northeastern Paraguay, in the Grand Desert, is on his way back to the United States by way of Buenos Aires.

Besides the encounter with the ants, he told of battling floods in the Acaray River with a makeshift canoe hewed from a log and a struggle in chopping his way with a machete through a jungle thick with cortaderas, plants which have knife-like leaves capable of inflicting very severe wounds.

Early in March, he said, a month after the expedition left the headwaters of the Yguasu River for the Brazilian border, his companians sickened and faced starvation. In spite of the fact that his feet were rotting from the humidity he walked 18 miles until he found some Indians with whom he was able to barter cloth, fish hooks and soap for some beans, corn and mandioca root to feed his party.

THOMAS' ATTITUDE TO IRELAND CRITICIZED BY WEEKLY REVIEW

Believe Proper Course is to Let Matter Be Threshed Out at Ottawa Parley.

DE VALERA IN WRONG.

(By Thomas T. Champion, C. P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 14.—(C. P. Cable) —British weekly reviews today were inclined to deprecate the attitude of J. H. Thomas, Dominion Secretary, in which he warned the Irish Free State passage of the Republican Government's bill to abolish the Oath of Allegiance to the British Crown would mean Great Britain could no longer enter agreements with the Free State.

The New Statesman and Nation organ of the intellectual leftists expressed the opinion Mr. Thomas threat to bar the Free State from British preferences at the Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference will have the effect of swinging a mass of opinion towards sympathy for President Eamon de Valera. The British Government's proper course the newspaper said, was to leave the problem for the whole Commonwealth to discuss at Ottawa. It suggested adoption of a high-handed attitude without consent of the Dominions would be the surest way of breaking up the British Commonwealth.

Terms Violated

The Spectator, which usually takes the Conservative viewpoint, said it was hard to see how any intelligent person could agree with the Free State Government in thinking the Oath Bill does not violate terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty. It suggested, however, that when two governments disagree on a treaty interpretation and impartial and authoritative ruling should be sought, either from a special Commonwealth tribunal or the permanent world court at the Hague. The more convinced the British Government was of the justice of its case the more willing it should be to accept an arbitral ruling on it, the paper concluded.

The Week-End Review remarked it was possible to share the Government's view regarding the Free State administration's action without approving a counter-stroke. Should Great Britain declare its readiness to submit the dispute to the Imperial tribunal and abstain from provocative action its decision in the long run might have more satisfactory results, it suggested. However, it concluded, the government has evidently decided otherwise.

HYDRO INQUIRY HOLIDAYS TODAY

Aird Admits Some of Letters to J. A. O'Brien Were Unduly Optimistic.

RESUMES MONDAY.

TORONTO, May 14 (C.P.). — Contrary to expectations, the Royal Commission investigating Hydro-Electric Power Commission matters did not sit to-day, but will resume its deliberations on Monday. Considerable documentary evidence regarding the Dominion Power and Transmission Limited, purchase at Hamilton by the Hydro was placed on record by W. N. Tilley, K.C., yesterday, while both he and Mr. Justice J. F. Orde, Commissioner, appealed for assistance from any source to help the investigation.

John Aird, Jr., central figure in the investigation, was on the stand most of the day, and outlined the work performed by he and his partner, R. W. Millard, in negotiating the purchase of the Madawaska River power sites for the Hydro Commission. The payment of $50,000 to Aird in this connection by the Hydro is being investigated.

Aird admitted some of his letters to J. A. O'Brien, of Ottawa, regarding the interest taken by the Hydro in their proposal to sell power to the Commission were unduly optimistic, and that some of them were not entirely in accordance with facts.

He said, however, they had turned a mass of data, which had taken more than two years to compile, over to the Hydro when it was ultimately decided the Hydro would buy the property and develop the power and sell a good part of it to the Hydro.

BENNETT'S CAR COST $75,554

Actual Cost of Converting Car For Premier's Use Was $50,554.

STATEMENT IS MADE.

OTTAWA, May 14 (C.P.). — The total cost of salvaging and converting coach 5043 into a car for the use of Premier R. B. Bennett was $75,554, according to a statement made to the Commons Committee on Railways and Shipping by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, yesterday. The information was given in answer to a series of questions by William Duff (Lib., Antigonish-Guysboro), a member of the committee.

Sir Henry explained that the book value of coach 5043 was $34,917, and the salvage at the time of its conversion was $25,000. The actual cost of converting the car into what which is now used by the Prime Minister was $50,554. The old car, 100, which Mr. Bennett had been using, was released and numbered 102, no money having been spent on it.

Premier Bennett was present at the time that the car was discussed and made a brief statement to the committee in respect to it.

Mr. Bennett said that he had already explained this before another committee (the Gordon committee). Soon after he had taken office he had talked to Sir Henry Thornton and the railway head had asked him if he would like a new car.

Mr. Bennett Makes Statement.

Mr. Bennett had replied that he liked the old car, but if he were having a new one he would change the layout as the one then in use was not exactly suitable for his purposes. Sir Henry had stated that the railways needed a new business car and the one then used by the Prime Minister would be suitable.

With concrete paving, the reasonable first cost is practically the last. It cuts maintenance: saves the taxpayers' money. And it saves for the motorist too, with reduced fuel consumption and tire wear.

Concrete's non-glare, low-crowned, skid-checking surface means driving comfort and safety. Advocate this all-Canadian material. It uses local labor and materials.

PRIZES OFFERED IN TIRE CONTEST

Public Asked to Estimate Number of Cords.

Everybody likes trying for a prize. The challenge to skill and judgment is often as strong a lure as the prize itself. Whether it be estimating the number of beans in a jar, solving an intricate puzzle, or choosing a name for somebody's soap, there is a satisfaction in putting one's brains to work in competition with others.

The prize contest just announced by the Goodyear Tire Company offers an unusual opportunity to those who pride themselves on their powers of education.

Never before have people been asked to estimate the number of cords in an automobile tire. Some people are not even aware that there are such things as cords in a tire. Of course, tire manufacturers know that it is the cords that give the tire its strength. But it is doubtful if even the men who make tires have ever before counted the number of cords.

Some tires contain more cords than others. For this reason, six different types and sizes of tires have been selected. Contestants are being asked to estimate the average number of cords in these six tires.

The cords do not show on the surface of a tire. They are imbedded in rubber under the tread. They are visible when a tire is cut in two; the ends of the cords can then be seen in the rubber. A section of the tire fabric showing the cords is on display at tire stores throughout Canada to help contestants in making their estimate, and entry forms can be obtained from the dealer.

The announcement states that the correct number of cords has been ascertained by officials of the Goodyear Company, and has been placed under seal until the contest ends. Employees of the Goodyear Company and of all rubber companies are debarred from competing for the prizes, so that no one who has to do with tire manufacturing is eligible. This puts every one on an equal footing.

The contest closes on June 5th, and names of the winners are to be announced shortly afterwards.

World Famous Churches

HEXHAM CATHEDRAL

WHERE the rolling hills of verdant green look down upon the River Tyne, there, nestling beneath the grassy background, you will find the market town of Hexham, famous for its market square, its ancient narrow streets, and its great abbey church of St. Andrew.

The building, as remodeled in the twelfth century, was to consist of nave, transepts, choir and a massive central tower. The Scots are reputed to have destroyed the nave in 1296, though there is some question as to whether it ever was completed. In 1536, the last prior was hanged for participation in an insurrection known as the Pilgrimage of Grace.

The church to-day is a fine example of early English with transitional details. Though the interior suffered greatly during the restoration, there are many objects of historic interest remaining. Among these are a Roman slab, carved with a horseman trampling his enemies; tombs and stones of the 13th and 14th centuries; a fridstool of stone believed to have been the original bishop's throne, and a rood-screen of oak retaining its loft.

In 1726, the crypt was discovered. It is part of the Saxon church, though its material is Roman and some of the stones bear Roman inscriptions. In 1832, a vessel containing 8,000 Saxon coins was discovered in the church-yard. Fragments of the monastic buildings remain. West of the church-yard is the Seal, once the monks' park, and now a promenade.

The church and monastery at Hexam were founded about 673 by Wilfred, archbishop of York. He is believed to have received a grant of all Hexamshire from Aethelhryth, queen of Northumbria, and a grant of sanctuary in his church from the king. In 678, the church became the head of the new see of Bernicia.

Hexam at one time was the central market town of this great agricultural district. In 1227, a Monday market and a fair on the vigil and day of St. Luke the Evangelist were granted to the archbishop, and in 1320, these were augmented with fairs on the feast of St. James the apostle, lasting five days, and of Saints Simon and Jude, lasting six days.

During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, Hexam was noted for its leather trade, especially for gloves, but this began to decline in the nineteenth century.

FORGIVENESS

By Harlowe R. Hoyt

IF ever one brother wrong another, Esau was wronged by his twin, Jacob. Led into bartering his birthright for a mess of pottage, Esau was further wronged when Jacob connived with his mother to trick Isaac into bestowing his blessing upon the younger twin. So fearful was Jacob of the wrath of his brother that he fled to distant lands; and not until many years had passed did he return to the scene of his boyhood. Even then, he approached in fear and trembling.

Time softens many things. Esau had been given to wrath when first he learned of his betrayal. He swore to slay his twin, and Jacob fled to escape the wrath that threatened. So, in after years, he came back to greet his brother, only to find himself forgiven.

"But the greatest of these is charity," we are told. Charity need not necessarily mean the bestowing of alms. It may mean charity of thought. We should be charitable when it comes to judging others. We should be willing to give them the advantage of the doubt and to remember that, whatever may happen, human nature is weak and frail.

It means charity of action. We should be charitable in our attitude toward others. We should overlook their various transgressions, even if they have been committed upon us.

We should forgive. That is true charity. Esau, grew wise with the passing of years, made tender with the thoughts of boyhood that come as man draws nearer the end of life—Esau, harking back to the time when they were lads together, forgave his twin.

Jacob, perhaps, did not deserve such generosity. Still, he had rued his action; and if a penitent and a contrite heart mean anything, it means that forgiveness has been earned through bitter bread and hours of sorrowing.

LET GOD IN ON YOUR LIFE.

PHILLIPS BROOKS told a story of some savages to whom was given a sundial. So desirous were they to honor and keep it sacred that they housed it in and built a roof over it. "Is your belief in God so reverent that you put it to one side carefully as being too sacred for daily use? Learn to use it. Let God in on your life. Let your faith inspire you to good works."—Dwight L. Moody.

A Chat with Young Peterboro

ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR MAY 15.

WHAT did Jacob learn at Bethel?" says Jennie to me. "Well," says I, "He learned two things, twenty years apart." You see, he visited Bethel twice. Once when he was running away from Esau and had the dream. The second time was twenty years later, when he was coming back home, quite a prosperous man. The first thing he learned was that God is everywhere. He thought he had left his father's God behind him at home, but he found that the same God was there wherever he went. It's a comforting thought if you believe and trust in God, but it's a terrible one if you don't, for you can't get away from God. You may leave your religion at home when you go some place else and try to forget about God, and do things you ought not to, but God is there just the same, and He sees it and knows it all.

People even in the Saviour's time used to think that they had to go certain places to find and worship God. Remember what He told the Samaritan woman. I have an idea that the reason the Saviour appeared so many times and in so many different places to the disciples after His resurrection was to make them realize that He was with them everywhere and at all times, even though they couldn't see Him. Because God is everywhere, He is near to everybody, and we can pray to Him anywhere and at anytime. And the second thing Jacob learned after twenty years was that God had been interested in Him all the time. God is not only present, but He is also attentive. I saw a butterfly once behind a window. On the other side there was a sparrow pecking at it. The poor butterfly was fluttering desperately to get away from the sparrow. It didn't know that there was an unseen glass protecting it from the sparrow. Now that's what I mean by saying that God is attentive as well as present.

I think I have seen children present in school, but they weren't always attentive. God is interested in all His creatures, and wants to guide and direct them. He does it often in spite of us and our foolishness. Things don't just happen, there is a power behind them directing them for our good. That's the second great thing, then, that Jacob learned. It took him a long time to do it and it cost a lot of suffering, too. He learned that God had been his unseen protector all the time. It's just as our psalm says: "Surrounded by Thy power I stand; on every side I find Thy hand."

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

QUESTIONS.

1. What happened when Jacob reached the home of Laban?
2. How did Laban trick him?
3. What was the outcome?
4. Whom did Jacob marry and how many children did he have?
5. Who was the most famous of these?
6. What arrangements were made by Laban and Jacob after he had served his time?
7. How did Jacob trick his uncle?
8. In what did this result?
9. How did Jacob meet Esau?
10. Where did he finally settle?

ANSWERS.

1. When Jacob reached the home of Laban, he fell in love with his youngest daughter, Rachel. As he brought no dowry, he consented to work for Laban for seven years without pay in order to wed the girl.
2. On his wedding night, Jacob received his bride veiled in the dark, after the eastern custom. The next morning he discovered that he had wed Leah, Rachel's sister. Laban defended himself by saying it was not seemly that the younger daughter should wed first.
3. Finally, it was agreed that Jacob should wed Rachel also and work another seven years for Laban, which he did.
4. Rachel and Leah gave Jacob their two handmaidens to marry. By his four wives, he had twelve children, one of them a daughter.
5. Joseph, Rachel's son, was the most famous of the children, for it was he who was sold into Egypt by his brethren.
6. When his fourteen years of service were ended, Jacob arranged with his uncle that certain of the flocks should be his. Caring for them, as he did, Jacob saw to it that his share were the strongest and best bred, and they multiplied rapidly at the expense of Laban's flocks.
7. Jacob managed this trickery by so controlling his breeding that certain markings—which were to designate his flocks—appeared upon the animals he wished. Naturally, this resulted in ill-feeling between him and Laban.
8. Finally Jacob decided that he would leave. He departed with his household, but when Laban discovered what had happened, he followed the caravan, overtook it, and parted in peace and friendship.
9. When Jacob neared his former home, he sent messengers on. They brought back word that Esau was advancing with four hundred men. In fear, Jacob sent 550 animals from his herds as a peace offering. But Esau received him with tears, embraced him, and begged him to stay.
10. Jacob, after greeting his brother, parted with him and continued on his way to Shechem in the heart of Canaan, where he bought land and established a home.

In the Land of Canaan

Sunday School Lesson
Genesis 32,33

By Harlowe R, Hoyt
Walter Scott

It was thirty seven years after he left home before Jacob saw his brother Esau again. During this time, he worked for his uncle, Laban, and was married to the two daughters of the home, Leah and Rachel. The two wives gave their husband their two handmaidens to wed, and from these unions were born twelve children, one of them a daughter. One of these, the son of Rachel, was Joseph.

Because quarrels sprang up between the household of Jacob and Laban, Jacob gathered his family together and left secretly for his former home. But Laban followed the caravan and, when he had overtaken it, rebuked Jacob for leaving without saying farewell. The two met at Mizpah, where they set up a memorial altar, and then Jacob continued his way, while Laban returned to his home.

Messengers which he had sent ahead brought word to Jacob that Esau was advancing to meet him with four hundred men. Fearing for his safety, Jacob sent out five droves of cattle, numbering 550 animals in all, to be delivered to his brother as coming from "his servant Jacob." The next day, he divided his family as best he could and went on ahead to meet what fate might be in store for him.

Great was his delight when Esau ran forward and embraced Jacob. When he had welcomed the households, Esau insisted that he remain and share his possessions. "Take my gift that is brought to thee," Jacob returned. "God hath dealt graciously with me." So Esau consented. The brothers parted, and Jacob continued on his way until he reached Shechem in the heart of Canaan and bought land for a home.

HE SHOULD BE GRATEFUL.

Premier Henry, grumbling about news leaks, has issued a denial of the report that the Ontario Government is contemplating reducing the size of the Legislature and of the Cabinet.

It seems to us that instead of being indignant at the Toronto Globe for publishing the story of this sensational program, he should thank that newspaper most highly for the idea and then go full speed ahead with the reforms mentioned.

Nothing in the direction of cutting down Government overhead would be more popular than a substantial reduction in the size of the Legislature, and if Premier Henry has the courage to put such a program into effect he will go into the next provincial campaign with a decided advantage over his opposition.

The Premier, as has been said, should be grateful to the Globe, for he should recognize that it has supplied him with a platform that might, if adopted, be the difference between victory and defeat.

If his ear is to the ground Mr. Henry must be aware of the fact that with economic conditions working strongly against him and public confidence shaken in regard to Hydro administration, his Government, despite its huge majority in the Legislature, will go into the next campaign with a real fight on its hands; he should, therefore, not discard lightly a very potent weapon that has been thrust upon him.

NOT MUCH IN THIS IDEA.

Oshawa's mayor has brought forward the suggestion that applicants for relief should sign a form agreeing to repay the amount of assistance secured when they are able to do so.

The idea behind this plan is that it would save the self-respect of many men who have never before had to seek public assistance, and who would prefer that it should be offered in the form of a loan.

There is something in that viewpoint, of course, but, on the other hand, it would be a sheer waste of time to ask people who have been in need of help for months and who as the result of unemployment have got hopelessly into debt to obligate themselves to do something that on the face of it would be impossible.

Most persons, The Examiner has no doubt, would prefer to repay the amounts they have received, but in many cases these victims of circumstances can see no possibility in the immediate future of getting out of the financial hole in which they are involved.

To require men who are in that position to sign an agreement that they know only too well they are not going to be able to keep would be to force them into a false position for which there is no justification.

Without the signing of agreements the citizen who has conscientious scruples about accepting relief can, if he wishes, repay the city when he finds himself in a position to do so; as for the rest, there would be nothing gained by calling upon them to sign forms.

STANDARD TIME.

With the annual argument in regard to the respective merits of standard and daylight saving time engaging considerable attention and the usual confusion caused by a haphazard adoption of summer time being in evidence, it should be interesting to local people to learn that the man who was responsible for the system of standard time was a former well-known citizen of Peterborough, that eminent engineer the late Sir Sandford Fleming, after whom a city street is named.

Before he sold the world the idea of a standardized system most communities had their own time, based upon the sun.

It was in 1879 that Sir Sandford advanced the suggestion that the world should be divided into twenty-four sections, and for each hour of the day and that time within those areas should be standard.

His proposal soon found favor both in America and in Europe, and in November, 1883, standard time came into effect in Canada and the United States, and the following year at a conference held in Washington the European countries swung into line, and soon the system was in force throughout the world.

As one paper puts it, "Sir Sandford Fleming's idea was one of Canada's most striking contributions to science and commerce."

Some day when this community gets round to the task of properly marking its historic sites, we will put up a plaque at the spot where Sir Sandford Fleming once lived in the city and inform our visitors that here once lived the man who gave the world its system of standard time.

HOW MUCH WORK?

If prohibition should be repealed, how many people would be put to work? is a question often heard in the United States just now. Some time ago, when the matter came up, there was an estimate of 80,000 for the beer industry alone, but not even a guess as to the number of people who might be employed indirectly in other manufacturing lines, in transportation, production of raw commodities and marketing.

An approach to determining the total number of jobs which would be provided by repeal is suggested by an analysis of the United States national income made by the Alexander Hamilton Institute. This analysis reveals that of the national income (which is usually within a few percents of the national expenditure) about 60 per cent. goes to labor and about 40 per cent. to capital.

Since the effects of liquor manufacture are felt throughout all industry, it is likely that this 60-40 ratio would apply to work created by repeal.

Accepting the mean of congressional estimates that beer alone would produce $500,000,000 revenue a year at 2 cents a pint bottle, pricing beer at 10 cents a pint, the wealth produced would be $2,500,000,000 a year. The 60 per cent. of this going directly and indirectly to labor would be $1,500,000,000 a year. How much work would this provide?

Considering that the average wage is now well under a thousand dollars a year, this would provide the equivalent of 1,500,000 new jobs. This, then, is the measure of "How much work?" But since a certain part of the wok would at first be absorbed by people now employed and on the job, the number of new jobs would be smaller. But, in the long run, the effect of such a program would seem to be to create 1,500,000 new jobs. To estimate how many existing jobs would be ruined, it would be necessary to have better statistics on bootleggers.

THE LONG DROUGHT ENDED.

The best news that has come from the Prairie Provinces for a long time is that recording the fact that at last the drought area in Southern Saskatchewan has been completely relieved. Not many days ago dust storms covered this section to such an extent that the farmers were totally discouraged, thinking it not worth while to sow their crops. In the past week the entire situation changed over a wide area of territory. Snow, sleet and rain fell in torrents, and it is said that the precipitation of moisture has been heaviest in the very districts most requiring it. Thus Mother Nature has a wonderful habit of fulfilling the confidence of mankind in her bounty. The ancient promise that seedtime and harvest shall not fail seems likely to be fulfilled in Southern Saskatchewan this season. In some places where the drought had prevailed, wet snow fell to the depth of two feet, then high winds swept eastward, and the snow turned to sleet and rain, which fell in torrents for about two days.

In certain sections of this area the farmers have failed to produce anything like a crop for three years in succession. Some of them became so discouraged that they left the district, and many others were almost constrained to follow their example. Now the patience, courage, and endurance of those who have stuck to their farms in the face of such grievous discouragements seems about to be rewarded. People throughout the entire Dominion will rejoice with those of Southern Saskatchewan at the brighter prospects that are ahead of them. If Western Canada has good crops this season, with satisfactory prices, it will bring encouragement to the entire country. After all it must never be forgotten that the wealth of a country comes from the soil and that it cannot be artificially created. It is to be hoped this good news will be completely fulfilled.—Brantford Expositor.

BRITAIN'S DRINK BILL.

The declaration in his budget speech the other day by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, that he felt that beer was overtaxed but could not see his way to relieve it as present follows immediately upon the publication of the official returns showing liquor consumption in the Old Country for 1931. There was an actual decrease of 6½ per cent. in the total amount spent by the nation upon drink as compared with the previous year, the amount per capita being $28.87 as against $31. The total amount spent on liquors of all kinds for the year was $1,297,000,000.

Yet the Chancellor points out that the revenue from the sale of beer and spirits was some £2,500,000 less than had been anticipated—which explains why he could not reduce the beer tax. This tax is now fifteen times more than it was before the war, while the tax on whiskey is five times more.

The revenue from the two taxes together serves to pay for the cost of the army and navy, old age pensions, and all public buildings, so it must be regarded as one upon which the British Government leans a little more than heavily. The nation, however, is drinking two-thirds less whiskey and one-third less beer to-day than it was in 1913. Nearly one-half of the Scottish distilleries have been closed during the past two years, and there is enough Scotch on hand to last for ten years to come, without any more being distilled.

Various explanations are given for the decline. The United Kingdom Alliance, a temperance organization, sets it down to unemployment, reduced wages, and the financial situation. Other students of sociology are inclined rather to suggest that it may be due to the increasing influence of various diversions, such as the films, radio, and automobiles, which have largely replaced the social life that formerly centred about the tavern.

Whatever the cause, there can be no doubt whatever as to the result. Britain is drinking definitely less, and the limit of taxation, according to the Chancellor, has been passed. The multiplicity of diversions has doubtless played its part in bringing about the decline, and hard times also have not been without their effect.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Whatever some people think of the C.N.R., G. A. Gaston must have found the publicly-owned railway system a good thing.

M. F. Hepburn will probably point out that the Ontario Government leaks not only in the matter of news but generally.

The man who owns a radio set is beginning to wonder what a Government system of broadcasting is going to cost him every year.

If the murderers of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby were sane, it is impossible to think of punishment befitting the enormity of their crime.

A fight a day in the railway committee at least keeps the newspaper heading writers busy.

The unanimous adoption of the radio committee's report shows that the only thing upon which the politicians can agree is a matter upon which public opinion is sharply divided.

News of Our Own Village

A rassling show was held in the village rink Fri. nite, Jack Corcoran of Toronto, west of here, bringing down some of his heavyweight grapplers to toss each other about, to the edification of all and sundry.

Summer apparently arrove here Thurs. when Tommy Hooper, our enterprising confectioner, shed his coat and vest. It is surmised they have been hocked till the cold weather, although the rates aint as high as usual.

T. Eaton's is going to put up a new general store across from Dick Bennett's Customs House this summer, showing you can't hold this enterprising berg up for any length of time.

The young fry from this great family journal et in a body at the bazaar in the village Market Hall Wed. nite and come near shoving the affair into the red, they made such a hole in the viands.

Rolly Denne's new park up Water St. North is beginning to take form, so to speak. The few horseless carriage drivers that travel slow enough at this pt. may notice it on their right as they pass north outa the burg.

Ross Dobbin, our energetic Utilities Supt., is raising a young alligator, but they aint no truth in the rumor it was found in 1 of the water mains. Your scribe has it on good authority that this here reptile come from Florida, well to the south of here.

Seeing the pickerel season opens Mon. a.m. customers will be interested in learning that same as last year. Dont' let us have no overlapping folks, say we.

The paint up campaign, your vigilant scribe notes, has been took up with new vigor by the fair sex of this village, giving the drug stores a brake.

Up to the present none of the village Sunday school teachers has had their salary cut, we cheerfully hasten to report.

Disarmament Subject To Change Of Age-Long National Policies.

By H. W. L. MaHOOD

National policies are about the slowest things in the world to change. Political parties in a nation may change, quickly. Leaders—even great leaders may arise. They come and go. They may leaven some. But the nations' policy will persist through centuries. To confirm this statement it is only necessary to examine the past history of any of the great nations.

Two things have much to do with the formulation of a nation's policy towards another nation. One is the nation's domestic interests. The other is fear of foregn invasion. The Monroe doctrine of the United States is an example of how a nation determines its international relationships. The Monroe doctrine enforced stands in the way of a European army landing on any American shore. The United States claims this to be an act of friendship and protection for the weaker American nations. It is in reality an art of security for itself. For the maintenance of this doctrine the United States would fight. The whole world understands this attitude of the United States, and will not soon undertake to test it out. No political party in the United States dare change this feature of the United States national policy. As long as the United States thinks this policy a necessity it will stand inviolate.

Britain's concern and friendship for Belgium is another example of how a nation forms its national policy. True Belgium is a weak nation, and stands in need of some good friend. Britain is her friend—dependable friend. This friendship is a national policy. Rash would be any political party in Britain to break this friendship. The British people would rise in anger to resent such a move. This is not the whole of the explanation of this attitude of the British Empire towards Belgium. In it is an atom at least of national security.

In every nation domestic interests and national security are the two factors in determining a nation's policy. The United States is determined to be dominant on the American continents. Britain holds to the policy of being master of the seas. Unitil these national concerns are secure without armaments there will be but little disarmament.

At Geneva there is a double deadlock. France and Germany are the cause of the one; and the United States and France of the other. France is responsible for the attitude of Germany. Germany is now treating the Treaty of Versailles just as France, for more than fifty years, refused to fulfil the provisions of the Treaty of Frankfort, at the close of the Franco-Prussian war. Rejection in spirit of the Frankfort Treaty became the policy of the whole French people. French governments changed, but the policy persisted. Doubtless the present policy of the German people will be as persistent. Secretary Stimson of the United States thought he might break through the French-German deadlock at Geneva, but he returns home a disappointed statesman.

Seems it not strange that France and the United States should deadlock at Geneva. France demanded the guarantee of security as the price of her sanction of disarmament. Her plan is for a police force, international in make-up, and under the control of the League of Nations. To this the United States would not be a party. The other nations would not give such a guarantee without the United States. Hence the dead-lock. No entangling alliances is the settled policy of the United States. No political party could live in that nation that countenanced any such policy.

Some national policies must change before the world will make any substantial progress in disarmament or in international friendships. A record, for holding sacred all treaties, which have been made, must be established. That will take some time. France disregarded her Frankfort treaty obligations for half a century. Japan is now treating lightly her London Conference and Paris Peace Pact agreements. Britain and the United States and Italy insist that all treaties shall be recognized as sacred. If Germany is to be released from Reparations it must be by consent of all interested parties. They also insist that any settlement of Japan with China shall meet the sanction of the League of Nations and shall be in keeping with treties already in force.

The sacredness of treaties is more important than disarmament. Regard for the sacredness of treaties must become an international policy before much progress will be made along the line that now engages the delegates at the Geneva Conference.

SON OF THE GODS

INSTALMENT NO. 19

Alanna was usually up and out of doors before her father had his breakfast; he was surprised the next morning, therefore, when she languidly entered their dining room and sank into a chair across the table from him. She wore a handsome suit of loungmg pajamas, she was pale, she moved like a sleepwalker, her lids were heavy and she eyed him as if from a great distance.

"Hullo! Hullo!" he began cheerily. "What detained you, my dear? And do I happen to be honored with—?" He paused and leaned forward, startled. "Good Lord, Alanna, what ails you?"

"Dunt esk," she said with a feeble wave of her hand. "The milk man delivered me and I haven't closed an eye. I shall never sleep again; it's a criminal waste of time. And, darling, don't be surprised at anything you hear about me, for it's only half the truth. If some watchman tells you he saw me as such and such an hour in this or that place, don't be shocked for it's true. I've been on a long journey. I have explored unknown lands and sailed uncharted seas. It's a wonder I got back with the cream bottles." The speaker allowed her dreamy gaze to wander about the luxurious breakfast room. "My! How the old place has changed."

"First, have you had your coffee?"

"I've had nothing. I've had everything."

"All right. Now then, what the dickens have you been up to?"

"Heaven! Up to the Mohammedans' paradise. No, not that; the Mohammendan women's paradise." Alanna fetched a lingering sigh and let herself sink more limply into her chair. She was boneless, spineless, inert. "I soloed last night for the first time. I did loops and spirals and wing-overs. I went into a nose dive finally and I couldn't pull out of it. Gee, I'm shattered!"

"You were out with that Lee fellow, weren't you?"

"Yes. We sat in the park all night, like a sailor and his sweetie."

"In the park?" Al Wagner's eyes protuded, his mouth fell open.

"Breathe it, darling; don't bark. Say it softly and with reverence—Under the trees, with the winking stars above us and a draught on my legs! I had no wrap. It's a wonder I didn't take my death of cold." Alanna gazed at her father in a languor more expressive than words; her lids fluttered. In a spiritless sing-song she recited: "'Behold the wreck of the Hesperus that sailed the wintry sea—The skipper answered never a word, for a frozen corpse was she.'"

"I—I'm frozen," the father managed to say.

"Which makes it unanimous. I'm asleep, my circulation has stopped, I'm delirious. But don't waken me, don't call a doctor. He might cure me."

Wagner stared as his daughter in amazement and in disbelief. "You don't honestly mean—? Is that on the level, about the park? Good God!—You—you seem to be proud of it! You rave like a lunatic. Why, you're behaving like a brazen hussy—You need a strait-jacket; you—you ought to have a ball and chain."

"Some people call 'em that."

"Out all night! With a stranger! I never heard of such a thing." The speaker was growing apoplectic, he was stuttering, but Alanna laughed.

"A stranger! Oh, father, dear father! He was, but he isn't. I know him, backwards and sideways. I'm the stranger, precious old eggplant—You'll burst an artery, darling; I say it in warning. I never knew myself, even faintly, until—going on elevent-thirty, just passed. No, Mr. Wagner, I had met your charming daughter in a casual way but I never became really well acquainted with her until last night. Such feeling, such depth, such intensity A most unusual girl and a great credit to you—He—kissed me, dad! Excuse the shiver, won't you? It was an Adventure in Souls."

Unusual and distressing sounds issued from Al Wagner. For once he was genuinely shocked. More profanity proved inadequate to express his emotions; he tried it but choked; gradually his indignation took coherency and form and he began a stern rebuke. Before he had gone far Alanna interrupted. For the first time she spoke crisply:

"Don't start singing hosannas; I'm on edge. A fine Messiah you make. How many times have you come in late? How many flat keys do you carry?"

Both were speaking at once, but at something her father said the girl cried, even more sharply than before.

"Now you're getting low and slimy in your thoughts, precious grubworm. Lift up your chin. There's no excuse to cast me off. I'm not going out into the night—"

"You've been!" Wagner growled. "Don't tell me that a decent girl can neck a fellow all night in the dark and—"

"I had practically no voice in the proceedings, governor. Honest! You don't know that man; a woman is putty in his hands, a quivering protoplasm. I was picked up, swept away—I was no more than a—a silken streamer whipped by a raging sirocco. Isn't that pretty? Of course I prayed that the storm wouldn't blow itself out and I'm not saying that I didn't advance the spark a little, now and then. But that's my business. Try and get it through that ivory wig block of yours, pious, that I'm a free agent and answerable only to myself for my conduct."

"Oh, stop your flip chatter. If I pierces your frontal bone you'll begin to understand something about the new era. But—you're a pre-war parent. Why should I destroy your illusions?"

"'Pre-war!' 'Illusions!' This freedom you talk about! I can't make out, for the life of me, whether it's freedom or license, innocence or guilt."

"Do you confuse innocence with ignorance? Possibly purity is the word you have in mind. Men are so vile."

"...stop your flip chatter! If I thought you were as sophisticated as you pretend to be, I'd strangle you. But you're just being smart, I suppose. That's post-war stuff and it's as poisonous as the other post-war stuff we're getting. For once I—I almost wish Anna hadn't divorced me. Dammed if I don't! I'm afraid I've made a botch of you." In honest distress the father wagged his bald head, he stroked it with an uncertain hand, he made moist sounds with his lips.

"Darling! Please don't cluck! Even Mother couldn't stand that. Quack if you must, but don't cluck. I've told you in a dozen ways, during the past few minutes, what you should know without being told, namely, that I've done nothing to be ashamed of. Must I use hot towels and massage it in?"

"You've got me licked." Wagner admitted. "I don't know yet whether you're l ing—"

"Lying is such a waste of effort."

"—all I know is that when a girl goes as far as you've gone with this fellow, she owes it to herself to marry him and be dammed quick about it."

"Amen! At last we're in accord."

"Of course he asked you to marry him."

"I—don't seem to recall it. Not in so many words. But we had such a lot of other things to talk about. He mentioned something about money—I told him you were mercenary—an he's well to do."

"That's a relief." Wagner was considerably mollified. "He'll need to be well fixed—Of course you love him?"

"I long for him as a taxi driver pants for rain. I'd marry him if he had six wives."

This remark brought a scowl of disapproval. The father grunted; with assumed malice he said: "I'd laugh if he turned out to be a bootlegger."

"In that case we might supply you with some good stuff."

"Lord, but you're tickled with yourself! No thought for anybody else, eh? Well, I think you've behaved disgracefully."

Alanna nodded; she sampled a melon without enthusiasm. "Disgracefully. Inexcusably. I was almost unladylike. But he liked it. I landed the order. I broke down his sales resistance—Gee! I never went so long without sleep and needed it less. I'm just one big daze with a pair of eyes in it."

"Are his people of any consequence?"

"I presume you're thinking about the Four Hundred. There isn't any Four Hundred precious seedling, or he wouldn't be so prominent—Lee! Alanna Lee! It has a nice sound. I don't care who he is."

"I hope you won't object if I investigate this giant?"

"Go as far as you like. I'm doing the same, at eleven, in a one-piece suit. We're swimming together. If he touches me I'll unravel. Whatever you learn about him don't tell me for—I'd miss you at the wedding."

"Nothing but paralysis will prevent me—Will you throw a big wedding for me, reckless? I'll bet you're thinking already about what you'll give us! It will be something nice, of course, you extravagant wretch. You'll butter us all over with generosity, for you never do things by halves, do you? No, he answered, as she knew he would. Why not a small fifteen room co-op on Park Avenue? Furnished, of course; you have such exquisite taste. And a country place on the Island. It matters not how simple it is if the stables are roomy and there's a greenhouse and a swimming pool. Surely it's worth that much to get rid of me."

"I don't want to get rid of you," the father declared with real feeling, but Alanna was concerned with her own emotions rather than with this. Dreamily she murmured:

"We'll call it the Villa Dementia. We'll plant passion flowers and hysteria and honeymoon-suckles and sunstroke flowers everywhere."

"Jove! You have got it bad," Wagner reluctantly admitted. "Well, I've tried to be a good father to you and to give you everything you want. I hope this will last and that he can handle you."

There was a malicious glint in Alanna's eyes when she turned them upon him and said: "He can!"

"You get a lot of fun out of shocking me but wait till you have a child of your own and she tries it on you.' He strode off towards his own rooms.

The spoon slipped out of Alanna's nerveless fingers, for a while she stared mistly into space and a light came into her face which not even her father had seen there. A child of her own!! A child of Sam's. Here was a thought. She thrilled, she closed her eyes.

EXPLODING BREW DRENCHES POLICE

Exhibit Held by Orillia Police Causes Disturbance in Court.

ORILLIA, May 14.—Consternation reigned in the crowded Orillia court-room yesterday morning when a few minutes before the court was called to order to hear evidence against Thomas Hill, aged 70 years, accused of possessing liquor in premises that had been declared a public place within the meaning of the Liquor Control Act, a succession of explosions, resembling pistol shots, was heard from the adjacent police office.

With visions of police engaged in a battle with bandits, several persons hurried to render assistance to the officers. When the scene was reached, it was discovered that the noise had been caused by the explosion of intoxicating brew which it was alleged, had been seized in a raid on Hill's premises and brought to court as evidence against Hill. The brew, which, it was afterward declared in evidence, tested 7.20 per cent. alcohol, drenched the ceiling and walls of the room, and soaked several police officers. Even Alderman Harry James, Chairman of the Police Committee of the Town Council, did not escape. Hill was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. He was afterward released on bail of $500 furnished by himself, pending an appeal, of which verbal notice was served by his counsel, Boulton S. Marshall.

Montreal Exchange Soft This Morning

MONTREAL, May 14. (CP) — Stock prices closed slightly lower after a short session on the Montreal stock exchange to-day. Losses among the leaders were confined to small fractions and trading was moderately light.

Shawinigan struck another new low, selling off to 10¾ to-day, ¼ point below yesterday's close. The minimum price restrictions on this stock were lifted by the exchange yesterday to be followed by a sharp break of 22 points from 33, the pegged price, to 11. The stock opened at 11 this morning but weakened at the close to 10¾.

The list as a whole was easier with New York but very little stock came out, trading being near a record low for even a Saturday.

C. P. R. at 11¼, Ford at 7½, F. N. Burt at 20½, Steel of Canada at 12⅞ were all down fractions. Steel sold below 13 for the first time. Smelters dropped 1½ points to 35½.

Dominion Stores was up slightly and other chain store stocks were firm. Walkers' issues were unchanged. Oils left off practically unchanged.

Belated Snowstorm Douses Foothills

WINNIPEG, May 14 (C.P.) — A rain and snow storm crept to-day over the western border of the Prairies and doused the foothills with moisture that farmers welcomed. But Alberta folk didn't welcome the cold weather that accompanied the precipitation. Temperatures dropped to around 30 degrees above zero.

A cold north wind swept most of Alberta and tempered the warm weather in Saskatchewan. It was still warm in Manitoba but somewhat cooler than yesterday when a blazing sun pushed the temperature to 90 degrees in mid-afternoon.

A Joy to Sell—One Wife

LONDON, May 14 (C.P.)— The Times of 1632 had the following anent the sale of a wife. "On Saturday, the 7th inst., the inhabitants of this city witnessed the sale of a wife by her husband who spoke nearly as follows:

"Gentlemen.—I have to offer to your notice my wife, May Ann Thompson, otherwise Williamson, whom I mean to sell to the highest and fairest bidder ...She has been to me only a bosom serpent. I took her for my comfort, and the good of my house, but she became my tormenter, a domestic curse, a night invasion, and a daily evil (great laughter). Gentlemen, I speak truth from my heart when I say, may God deliver us from troublesome wives and frolicsome widows (laughter). Avoid them the same as you would a mad dog, a roaring lion, a loaded pistol, cholera morbus, Mount Etna, or any other pestilential phenomena in nature. Now I have shown you the dark side of my wife, and told you her faults and her failings; I will now introduce the bright and sunny side of her....She can read novels and milk cows; she can laugh and weep with the same ease that you could take a glass of ale when thirsty.

She can make butter and scold the maid; she can sing Moore's melodies, and plait her frills and caps; she cannot make rum, gin or whiskey, but she is a good judge of the quality from my experience in tasting them. I therefore offer her, with all her perfections and imperfections, for the sum of 50 shillings."

After an hour or two she was purchased by Henry Mears, a pensioner, for the sum of 30 shillings and a Newfoundland dog. ($10).

Black Cats Plus Friday, 13th

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 14.—A black cat on Friday, the 13th, nearly killed a superstitious race driver on the Indianapolis motor speedway yesterday.

Chester Miller, Detroit, driving his car 105 miles an hour down the straightaway during a practice grind for the Memorial Day 500-mile race, saw the cat cross his path on the bricks.

Miller whiplashed his car into a dizzy spin, which ended when the back of his car crashed into a concrete retaining wall.

Neither Miller nor the cat was hurt.

Grain Reviews

AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, May 14 (C.P.) — Quiet and featureless trading again was the rule in Winnipeg's grain to Russia and release of the previously-anticipated United States Government bullish crop report created no more than a ripple in the week's news and was offset by the bearish Canadian crop estimate.

Wheat prices closed the six-day period Friday nearly a cent higher to a fraction lower, the May delivery being the only future to advance. At its close of 62¾, May showed a gain of ¾ cent. July was unchanged to ⅛ lower at 63⅛ to ¼ and October ⅛ to ⅜ off at 65¼.

Export business for the week was believed to be substantial, though actual figures were not available.

AT CHICAGO

(By John P. Boughan, A.P. Press Market Editor)

CHICAGO, May 14.—Friends of higher wheat prices are concentrating just now on a fresh aspect of the big setback shown in 1932 domestic winter crop prospects.

Special significance is affixed to disclosure that the 346,000,000 bushel loss officially forecast as compared with last year, will chiefly affect the big surplus wheat states —Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado. It is asserted that this circumstances has been practically overlooked.

An opposite market factor is that trade reports indicate the promise of this season's United States wheat crop, both winter and spring, aside from the five principal hard winter wheat States named, appear excellent.

Compared with a week ago, wheat this morning was ⅛ to 1⅜ down; corn unchanged to ⅜ lower; oats ¼ to ⅝ off, and provisions showing 12 to 40 cents decline.

Another notable decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total is expected on Monday, adding to the 19,000,000 bushel present falling off, compared with the aggregate at this time in 1931. Meanwhile, export developments are being sharply watched, Russian buying in particular, as reported purchasers of North American wheat to go across the Pacific to Vladivostok much surpass already the amounts taken any previous year, and there also have been inquiries for wheat from North America to be delivered at Russian ports on the Baltic. Advices current here continue to suggest that Russia is face to face with a crop disaster, together with possibilities of a Russo-Japanese conflict in Manchuria.

WESTERN 1931 DROUGHT AREAS

year ago, the paper reports. But southern districts, ravaged by drought last summer, have only top-soil moisture and rains will be necessary soon if the crop is to advance.

Seeding is from 10 to 14 days later than last year, says the report, but germination and growth conditions are very good on account of the moisture in the soil, aided by the return of fairly warm weather.

Well Under Way.

Wheat seeding in Manitoba is 95 per cent. completed, states the Free Press. Saskatchewan about 75 per cent., and Alberta 65 per cent. A higher percentage of wheat—about 60 per cent.—has been or will be sown on summerfallow than has been the case for many years, a fact which may be attributed to the partial crop failure in some sections last year.

Seeding of oats and barley is well under way in Manitoba, but just getting started in the other Prairie Provinces, the report mentions. Little or no damage from grasshoppers or cutworms has been reported, but reports to the Free Press indicate the hoppers are now hatching and that cutworms are active at a few points.

Continued favorable weather may produce a serious outbreak of these pests, the paper adds.

SOUTHPORT, Eng., May 14. — (AP)—Henry Cotton won the 1,500 guines golf tournament to-day for the second straight time when he defeated W. T. Twine, fellow professional, in a 36-hole play-off. Cotton's score for the two rounds was 145, Twine's 146.

The pair had tied with scores of 281 for the regular 72 holes of medal play.

OILS RESIST GENERAL TREND

Week's Net Declines Are Small, However, Due to Dull Trading.

FOLLOWS NEW YORK.

(By Thomas C. Thompson)

TORONTO, May 14. (CP)— Oil stocks provided the only element of resistance to a further downward movement of Canadian share prices this week. Trading at Toronto and Montreal was dull however, and the week's net declines, with one or two exceptions, were not large.

Although the character of trading was much the same as in recent weeks, the market's trend was emphasized by the highly disappointing action of share prices at New York.

But if the Canadian share list was sensitive to New York conditions there was at least a basis for encouragement in the upward trend of oil issues during the first half of the week. Buying was based on the theory that the International oil conference at New York will stabilize or at least strengthen the price structure and enable the industry to view the future with a clearer view of the possibilities for recovery. Imperial Oil sold as high as 9½ during the week, but reacted on Friday to close in Toronto at 8⅞ compared with nine last week after fairly active trading. British American oil was also traded at 8⅞ on Friday against 9¼ a week ago while International Petroleum declined from 11½ to 11⅛. McColl-Frontenac shows little change at 9½, although there was a somewhat firmer trend in that issue at the close of the week.

Industrial Losses Small

Industrials failed to experience even the temporary firmness of the oils, however. The leaders, including Brazilian Traction, Nickel, and Ford of Canda were not active and their losses were small but the persistent decline of the last month has carried these and other prominent issues dangerously close to their record low prices.

Traders nevertheless are aware that the decline has not been due so much to aggressive liquidation from Canadian sources as from the natural movement of interlisted stocks to conform with levels prevailing at New York and for that reason there is no widespread pessimism nor fear of Canadian economic conditions based on the action of stocks.

Meanwhile, the stock market continues to be governed by a watchful waiting policy, and this week the negative character of the situation was clear. Stocks rarely stand still, but it is a common spectacle to witness a market that sags for other reason than the dulness of trading. It was more than a coincidence that the least active members of the Canadian list were those which dropped by easy fractional stages, a fact that bore out once again the theory that the course of least resistance is usually downward. Brazilian Traction at 9⅝ shows no change for the week, but C.P.R. has declined from 12⅝ to 11½, a new low record for the Toronto Stock Exchange, and a loss of 1¼ points on the week. The railway leader was unsettled chiefly by the decline in rail issues at New York.

Light Trading Volume

International Nickel had declined to 5⅝ from last week's price of 6¼ but in the lightest volume of trading experienced by the stock in months. Similarly, Ford of Canada "A", once a leader in point of activity, sagged under dull trading to 7¾ from 8⅝ a week ago but its decline cannot be regarded as having any more significance than that of an index to the general trend. Massey Harris at 2¾ is steady and there has been little or no change in Cockshutt Plow, one of the least active members of the Toronto list. Walker's was steady at 3 for the common shares but distillery issues in common with food issues, and industrials attracted little active interest. The steels were quiet but Steel of Canada common shared the weaker tendency of the list and closed the week at 13 against 15¾ a week ago. Utilities were also dull, Bell Telephone holding around 90 in light trading but there was a mild sensation on Friday in the spectacular break of 20 points in Shawinigan when that issue was placed on the free list at Montreal. The shares closed at 11, ex-dividend, on Friday.

Apart from a mild flurry in the golds at the close of the week, Canadian Mining stocks were obviously under the influence of the trend of industrial markets. Hollinger rose sharply to $4.75 in Toronto, Teck Hughes was also higher at $3.50, and McIntyre was firm at $16.25. Base Metals were weak with Noranda showing definitely easier tendencies at the week's closing price of $14.25 on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange.

FRESH DILEMMA BAFFLES POLICE

ings were made for the use of Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bits, also chosen by the Lindberghs to deal with the underworld.

The note, after ordering Lindbergh to have $50,000 ready and declaring "the child is in gut care," indicated future letters could be identified by a strange symbol consisting of overlapping circles drawn in blue ink, with a red clipse in the overlapping part. Three small holes completed the design.

The note was taken to New York by Rosner almots a month before Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie) paid $50,000 in a Bronx cemetery to a man who showed evidence that he was connected with the kidnappers. There was no suggestion, however, that Rosner acted in anything but good faith, and a friend of his said he would co-operate with the authorities fully.

Strange Negotiations.

When Dr. Condon advertised that he would act as intermediary, he received a note demanding $70,000 and bearing the cryptic signature. Then began the strange series of negotiations in "Jafsie" advertisements and through night meetings in cemeteries.

The shadowy individuals with whom he treated produced a sleeping suit similar to that worn by the Lindbergh baby. Col. Lindbergh said it was the same kind of suit. But many of the same kind were sold by a New York specialties shop, and Prosecutor Erwin A. Marshall of Mercer County, declared:

"Whether it was the same garment or not I don't know and I can't say, and I don't think even the Lindbergh family can say."

The third link in the chain of doubt consisted of the safety pins. According to a copyrighted story in the Bronx Home News, which carried the original Jafsie advertisements, the pins were carried by Dr. Condon when he went to Woodlawn cemetery March 12 to keep a night rendezvous.

Graveyard Meeting.

As he picked his way among the graves, a man came out of the darkness. There was a conference and Dr. Condon produced the safety pins given him by Col. Lindbergh.

"Do you know where these came from?" he asked.

"Sure I do," responded the other. "They were used to pin the blanket to the crib."

The possibility that this was just a good guess by the criminal was not overlooked.

Other theories and possibilities were also entertaining. One of the latter was put forward by Marshall. He said there was just a chance a resident of the Sourland country took the baby, killed him and then by pre-arrangement turned over the sleeping garment to gangsters for a sum.

Through the winter, while their own home was being completed, Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh and the baby lived at the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, in Englewood.

There is a possibility, too, it is said, that they may go to the Morrow summer home in Maine, for the rest and seclusion they desire.

Find Broken Shovel

The metal scoop of a broken shovel was found in the undergrowth today close to the spot where the body of the baby was discovered Thursday. Police said there were indications it had been recently used.

The prosecutors of Hunterdon and Mercer counties visited the place where the body was found with various police officials and while they were their Robert Coar Jr., a Jersey City detective who was a member of the party, hunted around in the tangled bushes adjacent to the spot where the body lay.

Suddenly he stooped, thrust his arm into the dense undergrowth and brought out the shovel scoop. Hasty examination showed dirt clinging to the metal which police believed to indicate that recent use had been made of the instrument.

May Sail For Europe

NEW YORK, May 14.—The New York World-Telegram today states there is a report current that Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will sail for Europe on June 4 there to remain in the chateau of a friend until their second baby is born.

The World-Telegram does not say where the chateau is, but another report is that they have been offered the chateau of a friend in the south of France.

It is generally believed that they will never return to live in the house on Sourland mountain, which had just been finished and not yet completely furnished when their baby was kidnapped.

They had never lived in the new house until after the kidnapping, and had only passed a few weekends there. The site for Col. Lindbergh's private flying field, near the house, was never cleared. The fact that the mountain is so high that it rises above the fogs that frequently hang over the New Jersey lowlands was largely responsible for their having chosen that lonely site for their home, friends of the Lindberghs have said.

Now that there is no longer any need of their presence at Hopewell, it is generally believed they will leave within the next few days. The only thing that would be apt to keep them there would be the illness of either Col. or Mrs. Lindbergh, but the official bulletin today indicated that neither was ill.

Ground is Scraped

The walled hollow where the body of the murdered Lindbergh baby was found was scraped clear to-day and the scrapings were sent to experts for analysis in the hope that Science might show the way to arrest of the kidnappers.

As the little body was being cremated yesterday State Police built a two-foot-high wall of concrete blocks around the spot where the long hunt for the kidnapped baby ended yesterday afternoon.

Previously the police had merely stood guard over the place, but the wall was raised to make doubly sure that no bungling step might destroy possible valuable clues.

Not only was the entire surface scraped up for analysis, but a burlap bag found near the spot was also sent to the experts.

Just what it was the police hoped to find from the scientific analysis was not made clear in the morning bulletin from Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, Superintendent of State Police, in which the bare statement was made that the analysis was to be obtained. But it was learned in police circles that considerable hope for some sort of help in the investigation from the analysis was felt in official circles.

The rest of the morning bulletin dealt with the examination of Morris Rosner and John Hughes Curtis, two of Col. Lindbergh's intermediaries in the long search for the baby. John F. Condon, another intermediary who paid a $50,000 ransom in a futile effort to obtain return of the child, was released yesterday after lengthy questioning.

A written statement is being taken from Rosner, Schwarzkopf reported. Nothing in any way connecting him with the kidnappers has been disclosed during his questioning. His activities apparently were confined to endeavoring to make contact which would assist the family in contacting the actual kidnappers.

Rosner, appointed as intermediary by Col. Lindbergh because of his reputed acquaintance with inhabitants of the underworld, stated for publication at one stage of the hunt for the baby that he had positive knowledge the child was alive and well. Presumably this statement, and the basis for it, was one of the things police questioned him about to-day.

Contacts in Person

Mr. Curtis, Schwarzkopf continued, after telling of the examination of Rosner, is being questioned as to the contact he had with the alleged kidnappers. These contacts were by telephone and in person. This is being continued and the check-up on such information as we get from him is being vigorously pursued.

Curtis was with Col. Lindbergh off the New Jersey coast, preparing to make another contact with the purported kidnappers, when the body of the baby was found less than five miles from the home from which he was stolen on the night of March 1.

While police here turned to Science to-day for help in their investigation, the United States coastguard continued the chase in coastal waters and 25 craft under sealed orders combed the sea for the kidnapper-murderers.

Meanwhile the Bronx County District Attorney in New York City announced that he would begin a Grand Jury investigation next week into all the circumstances surrounding the payment of the ransom by Dr. Condon, who himself heads the list of witnesses to be called.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney of New York disclosed that he held a conference on the case last night with the Bronx Prosecutor.

Moral Imbecile Blamed

NEW ORLEANS, May 14 (C.P.)— A moral imbecile with a brilliant mind was probably responsible for the Lindbergh kidnapping, in the opinion of two leading psychiatrists attending the American Medical Association Convention.

Dr. Michael Osnato, Professor of Nervous Diseases at Columbia University, N.Y., said:

"My impression is that the Lindbergh kidnapping was done by some extraordinarily intelligent person."

He said this person probably calculated that because of Lindbergh's prominence he could put the whole thing through with minimum danger of punishment.

Then when panic-stricken as a result of the furor, he abandoned the child to sadistic criminals who committed the murder. I do not think this kidnapper would have killed the child without attempting to get the ransom. He may have employed thugs who, on the way back to return the child, became frightened, disobeyed orders and killed the baby.

Dr. Franklin G. Ebaugh, Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Denver, said the crime seemed to have been committed by a psychopahtic individual.

Real relief from CONSTIPATION

Acidity affects the appetite. What food you do eat sours in the stomach. The tongue becomes coated. The breath is bad. Sick headaches become frequent. You are constipated.

These are danger signals which should never go unheeded. Your system is fairly shouting its need of help; something to help remove the acid waste and restore alkaline balance. An anti-acid to offset the effect of too rich a diet, nervousness, excitement, etc.

Men and women who meet this need promptly with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia do not suffer. They eat well, and their food doesn't ferment in the stomach. Every trace of over-acidity soon disappears. All sour gas is dispelled. Stomach, liver and bowels have a better chance to function.

If there is the least hint of too much acid, just take a spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia today, and for several days. Feel this sweeten your stomach. Note how appetite improves. And elimination. You will wonder how anything so pleasant-tasting can be so promptly effective. 50c bottles at drug stores everywhere in the dominion.

Phillips' Dental Magnesia Tooth-paste guards against acid-mouth; keeps gums firm and teeth pearly white. (Made in Canada).

FOREST BLAZE GAINS GROUND

Flames Advance Steadily Toward Shawinigan Falls and Grandmere in Quebec.

FARMERS LEND AID.

THREE RIVERS, Que., May 14 (C.P.). — Volunteer and professional firefighters struggled to-day to halt the advance of a forest fire three miles from here on the road to Shawinigan Falls and Grandmere. A large fox farm at Renardiere lies in the path of the fire and efforts are being made to keep the flames from destroying the plant, which contains 250 valuable silver foxes.

The fire, taking origin in several spots almost at the same time, rushed quickly through dry, dead brush and old grass. Firemen were rushed from Three Rivers and Shawinigan and were soon reinforced by farmers and mill men. The fire jumped from one side of the road to the other and effectively halted traffic on the main road between Three Rivers and Shawinigan.

Girl Has Narrow Escape From Death

LINDSAY, May 14 (Special to The Examiner). — About 5.30 last night, Verna McBrien, 19 years old, who has been a domestic in the home of Mrs. Mowry Cambridge Street, but formerly of Maple Lake, Haliburton County, narrowly escaped drowning at the locks on Lindsay Street. While walking across the dam, she turned over on her ankle and fell into the swift current, and was carried downstream a considerable distance. She was lucky in being able to swim to an old punt where two of the followers of Izaak Walton were fishing for suckers. She was in an exhausted condition, when the youngsters by the help of passersby got her out safely. A doctor was called, and she was rushed to the Ross Memorial Hospital, where at a late hour last night the doctors stated no serious effects were anticipated.

Cricket Results

LONDON, May 14 (C.P. Cable).— Runs came slowly in first-class cricket matches commencing to-day. With fair weather general throughout England, several good bowling feats were recorded on drying wickets after several days of rain.

Sam Staples, the young Nottinghamshire bowler, performed effectively against Surrey, securing five wickets for 31 runs. The southern county being dismissed for 108 runs. In the same match the veteran George Gunn, opening the Nottinghamshire innings, was unlucky to be struck on the temple with the first ball he received. As he fell to the ground he broke his wicket.

Old Webber Farm Changed Into Beautiful Country Club

Kawartha Club House Complete By June 15 Is Employing 43 Men

Heated And Enclosed Verandah 20 Feet By 170 Feet Feature Of Recreation Centre.

FOUR TENNIS COURTS NOW READY ARTIFICIAL LAKE TO BE MADE.

New Grass Growing On Greens And Fairways—Mature Trees Transplanted—Stone Fence Blasted.

Fashioning ploughshares into midirons and putters is figuratively the gradual transformation of the old Webber farm into the recreational estate of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club on the Port Hope Highway a mile west of the city.

Progress since last September, highly satisfactory as it has been, discloses by contrast the full sweep of the project, the difficulties to be overcome, the eventual beauty and variety of the broad and extensive grounds, and the ample and comfortable club quarters that will be provided for members when the present plans shall have materialized in their ultimate details.

The Kawartha Golf and Country Club as its promoters have conceived it will emerge in some to-mor thm arf odwh and to-day's development and prospects are an alluring promise of what it will be. If it were only a matter of bricks and stones, an undertaking of building construction, the day could be at least approximately set when the work could be regarded as finished. But, nature is an active partner in any propect that includes the growing of grass and turf and trees, and nature takes no orders and refuses to be rushed. In her own due and measurable time she will make her contribution to this recreational enterprise, and it may be predicted with assurance that Peterborough will then consider it one of the finest in the province, and a place of which the community will always be proud to point to as a show place and also to use for the purposes for which it is intended.

Helpful Employment

As a timely scheme of employment, the Kawartha Club provided work last fall to an average of fifty men. During the winter the number varied from ten to twenty, and yesterday there were forty-three on the payroll.

Operations have included the preparation of half the planned golf course of eighteen holes, conversion of the Webber homestead into a club house, drainage, crushing rocks to provide metal for roads and parking area, planting of trees and the establishment of a nursery as an arboreal resource for the future, dismantling the immense barns for the site and foundation of a proposed recreational building, erecting a power line from the city, doubling the tennis facilities and putting them in readiness for the first games that were played today, sinking wells for a water supply, and various other details all under the supervision of R. MacMorran who has an office on the property.

Good Catch of Grass.

The first satisfaction of Spring has been the splendid catch of Clarkson bent, a pure strain of creeping grass that is specially used on golf greens. It has made rapid growth and is flourishing in every place where it was planted last fall. The fairways were seeded with grass, and are also showing the verdant color of the young shoots. Traps and bunkers of the nine holes on the south course are practically complete. Nature hasn't failed anywhere, for the elderly maples of thirty-five years' growth that were transplanted near the highway entrance and the eleven-year old elms set out near the house are all in bud, and apparently have not suffered by their removal.

3,000 Feet Of Tile

Last winter's work was largely confined to the draining of the cedar swamp at the southeast corner of the property. Three thousand feet of tile, ranging from nine inches to four, were laid, chiefly under eight fairway. Probably the most difficult job on the course has been around number two green and number three tee. Trees were felled and the stumps drawn, and on the base of peat or "black muck," thoroughly drained, that part of the course is being built up with sand from a nearby pit that was opened because of the convenient supply. Topsoil will be spread on the sand and will be rolled, topdressed and seeded, this work being scheduled for completion in another two weeks.

Stone Fence Blasted.

Blasting operations that reverberated over the city last fall were required to get rid of a stone fence in the knoll south of the house. The boulders were too big and heavy for easy handling, so they were shattered where they stood. The broken pieces were drawn to the stone crusher on the property, obtained from the Corporation of North Monaghan, and were crushed last winter, furnishing excellent material of red and gray granite for road material, the base of the tennis courts, and also for the base of a wide parking area which will be converted into a skating rink in winter. The sand, crushed rock and topsoil have been incidental assets found on the property.

New Bridge and Pond

Some of the men are now working on a new concrete bridge over the creek that crosses the roadway from the south entrance to the house. At the bridge a dam will be built to form an artificial pond on the west side of the driveway, and an ornamental spillway on the east side. This little lake will greatly enhance the beauty of the estate leading to the club house and will add a water hazard to number 9 fairway. The plans provide for a fountain to be built in the centre of the pond, an electrically illuminated fountain similar to the one at the city's pumping station, with the addition of an intermittent gusher that will shoot a geyser of water twenty-five feet into the air every two minutes.

The Club House.

An addition on the north side enlarges the original spaciousness of the Webber house, but the main feature of the club quarters is the wide verandah that has been built on three sides of the house. It is twenty feet wide and its total length is 120 feet. Entirely enclosed it will be steam heated for winter use. Four of its bays are fitted with two hundred panes of vitaglass, the new health glass that is pervious to the utra-violet rays in sunlight and is used in modern solaria. Pillars of field stone rise to the roof of the verandah which is built on a solid foundation of concrete and steel beams. The floor will be of hardwood, and the whole enclosed space will provide an expansive room for dancing. Steel casement windows and French doors throughout are other details of the club house.

Off the verandah is the lounge with a big stone fireplace. There is also on the ground floor dressing rooms for women, also toilet rooms with terraza floors and tiled walls done in white with a green border. The upstairs wil lbe exclusively for men, including four guest rooms, one of them with a private balcony facing the south east. The showers and toilet rooms have also tiled walls and terraza floors.

These are some of the features of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club that are in project or actually in course of completion. The four tenis courts will be used this season, but golfing is doubtful except four practice greens and an eighteen hole putting ground. Other phases of the ultimate development will serve for reference as they are undertaken.

TWEED CADETS COMPLIMENTED

SNAPPY DRILL.

TWEED, May 14. (Examiner Correspondence).—On Friday morning the annual inspection of the Tweed High School Cadet Corps was held on the school premises, and carried out everything to the satisfaction of the inspecting officer, Capt. Wilson.

The corps followed the usual procedure of present arms, the march past, company drill and platoon drill. The boys displayed considerable good judgment in carrying out the commands of their officers, especially in rifle drill and physical training.

Following the exercises the pupils gathered in the school when the inspecting officers and school board complimented the boys on the work and extended their compliments to cadet instructor Mr. Calnan, B.A.

The remainder of the day was proclaimed a holiday.

COUNTY LIVESTOCK

figures are not absolutely correct, and not quite up to date, but they are sufficient to show what was achieved in a short time. If during the next year there are no men returning from purebred bulls to grades only 55 have to be replaced to make the county eligible to become a better bull area.

Such is the problem facing the Livestock Improvement Association. That it can be done with concerted action can be seen from the number replaced during the last two years. It must also be remembered that grades sold and not replaced improve the situation, and purebreds placed where no bull has been kept also helps.

Appeal to County Council.

Acording to the "Protection of Cattle Act 1927" the council of a county may declare that county a "Better Bull Area" when evidence is submitted that at least 80 per cent of the bulls in the county over eight months of age are purebred. From figures on hand it would look as though such standing could be attained by June 1933, if the Association keeps up the interest that has been established during the last two years.

The evidence for the use of the county council is usually secured by the Assessors of the county taking a census on their regular rounds. A delegation from the Association could meet the county council at its June session this year, asking them to require the assessors to secure the census in 1933. This census could then be used as a basis of work next spring. A definite intensive campaign could then be carried on for the elimination of grades and the 80 per cent purebred standing be attained by June, when another delegation would ask the council to pass the necessary by-law.

Bonsus In Three Years

Bonuses paid or pending have been as follows:

Year	Number	Amount
1930	5	$123.50
1931	27	469.90
1932	21	212.80
Pending	7	70.00

The county association hopes that Peterborough will be the first east of Toronto to adopt the "Better Bull Area" but it all rests with the response from the farmers. In spite of the low prices of commercial cattle a large number of grades are being replaced by farmers who are taking advantage of the reduced prices of purebred stock. This factor is a present help, but against is the loss of the services of Mr. Knox as fieldman, due to departmental economy, a condition which places more responsibility upon the members of the Association and all those who wish to see its plans fulfilled.

BODY OF CHILD REDUCED TO DUST

death—was to be seen. A sheet covered the rest.

As though speaking himself, Lindbergh said:

Take that off.

The covering was removed. He stood thus, and the room was empty, save for him.

Half an hour and the ordeal was over. The body was taken from Trenton to Linden for cremation. Police authorities remonstrated mildly. They felt that further examination might provide some clues to the killer. Col. Lindbergh, however, was insistent that cremation be not delayed. His wishes were respected, as they have been throughout the days, since March 1, when the child was kidnapped from his crib in the Sourland home.

Story Too Much for Mother

The illness of Mrs. Lindbergh followed the recital to her—at her own insistence—of details concerning the condition of the body of her baby when found. These details had been kept from her. Two months of exposure to Spring rains under its scant covering of leaves had been cruel to the little body. It was not a pleasant story to tell. The telling, physicians said, was too much for her to stand in her condition.

The action of the physician in ordering Mrs. Lindbergh to bed was said not to imply that her condition was in any sense serious. It was, rather, of a precautionary measure. Neither Mrs. Lindbergh nor her husband has had much rest in the days of the search for the child.

Negotiators Questioned

Questioning of Dr. John F. Condon ("Jasfie"), the Bronx negotiator, and of John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk, Va., intermediary, satisfied State Police that the negotiations of both men in an effort to effect the baby's return were undertaken in good faith.

For the first time the circumstances under which separate negotiations were conducted were made known. Each felt that he actually had established contact with the kidnappers or their bona fide representatives. Colonel Lindbergh himself was convinced; for he had given Dr. Condon $50,000 which was paid to the kidnappers and he had made out a cheque for a similar sum to Curtis, to be paid if the baby were returned.

With the tragic revelation that the men with whom they dealt could not deliver back the stolen baby alive and well as they promised, the negotiators have spread their information before the authorities in the hope at least of bringing to justice the men who sought thus to traffic on the emotions of parents.

Off On Secret Mission

Curtis, accompanied by two detectives, was off to-day on another mysterious journey, this time in quest of the men with whom he had been negotiating. Where they went was not revealed. It was only a few days ago that the kidnappers informed Curtis that they were ready to put the baby in Col. Lindberg's arms on payment of ransom money; and they urged haste, declaring that the baby was pretty bad off from seasickness.

Federal agents were lending their support to the hunt for the murderer, giving quick evidence of President Hoover's earnestness when he announced yesterday that the government would assist in the hunt until these criminals are implacably brought to justice.

A theory of accidental death entered the case and was being studied, although it had no general credence. It was that the kidnapper, attempting to descend from the second floor nursery by ladder, may have lost his grip on the baby, dropping the child to the stones below.

Barred to Spectators

The spot where the body was found Thursday afternoon by the negro truckman, William Allen, was barred off from curious eyes last night by walls of cement blocks. Investigators have searched the burial locale several times, thoroughly, bue the wall was built to preserve the spot for future examination as developments may make necessary.

Fate wrote another page in man's unsuccessful effort to duplicate Col. Lindbergh's New York-to-Paris flight, even as Col. Lindbergh was preparing for the cremation. Lou Reichers, Newark flier, fell into the sea off the Irish Coast, thus failing in his effort to reduce by half the New York-to-Paris flying time made by Col. Lindbergh.

Coastguard craft were joined today in the search for the group of men with whom Curtis conducted ransom negotiations. The Norfolk shipbuilder expressed the belief the men would attempt to flee from the country, following the collapse of their extortion plot.

Actual Kidnappers

"I am sure they were the actual kidnappers," Curtis said. "They knew too much, they had too many definite bits of evidence to be any other than the murderers themselves."

There was some reason to believe, authorities intimated, that the men with whom Curtis negotiated were prepared to go as far as to have a substitute baby ready to give Col. Lindbergh if he persisted in his refusal not to give them ransom money until the child was in his own arms.

Morris Rosner, another intermediary whose services were held promising of success because of certain lines of communication he had into the underworld, was questioned at length last night, and again to-day.

A circumstance that interests the investigators is the fact that the communications which Dr. Condon —the Jafsie of the newspaper advertisements—had from the men with whom he was negotiating were signed with the strange, cryptic symbol of colored circles that appeared on the original ransom note left in the nursery the night of the kidnapping. Even police investigators did not know the nature of this symbol, Col. Lindbergh having kept the original ransom note carefully guarded so as to have a definite means of knowing he was negotiating with the actual kidnappers.

No announcement was made early to-day as to what funeral arrangements are contemplated. An undertaker was instructed to call to-day at the crematory and take custody of the urn awaiting orders from the home of sorrow in the Courtland Hills—hills now green with growing things and echoing with the song of birds.

BENNETT'S CAR

He suggested that they exchange cars, the railway fitting up the proposed new business car to suit the Prime Minister's requirements, and taking the old car for business purposes.

When he returned from the 1930 Imperial Conference he found that this had been done. While in London he had cabled Sir George Perley, then acting Prime Minister, that he did not desire any capital expenditure to be made on a new car for his use. He did not believe the new car had meant any additional expenditure as it would have been required in any case.

"It is not a matter of importance to me whether I have a private car or not," Mr. Bennett said in concluding his statement.

He had always taken the view that the Prime Minister of Canada was entitled to a suitable vehicle in which to travel, Sir Henry informed the committee. He stated that that the "York" was formerly a wooden under frame car, which would necessarily have to be fitted with a steel frame if it was to be used on the system. He took full responsibility for the changes.

In answer to questions, Premier Bennett reiterated that he was told the railway needed a new car for its own purposes, and that the management simply turned the reconditioned car over to him and took the car which he had been using.

CHATAUQUA OPENS AT CAMPBELLFORD

Play Features First Performance of Annual Four Day Run.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 14.—The Canadian Chautauqua four day circuit opened in Campbellford last evening when a full house witnessed the three act play "Bought and Paid For" presented by those ever talented artists, the Peerless Players. The play, which was staged in the Regent Theatre, gives indications of a successful run this season of what has become an institution in Campbellford.

"Bought and Paid For" is a strong drama with just sufficient humor in it to make a well time balance. It has excellent dramatic qualities and a true-to-life story, being full of human interest and with a personal appeal, running through it. The play was exceptionally well acted and contained a simple story, real and true which abounded in gallantry, courage and comradeship.

Other features on this year's program include the appearance of Hugo Brandt, distinguished Polish pianist and composer, Elwood T. Bailey in a lecture "All Aboard"; Sue Hasting's marionettes; and a play by the Havelon Players "Old Crusty Takes the Air."

Elite Restaurant And Court City's Swanky Social Centre

Smart as the implications of its name, Elite Court, the club dining annex to the Elite Restaurant, completes and elaborates one of the finest and most pleasing restaurants in Eastern Ontario.

With no sparing of expense that would accomplish the general plan of beauty and convenience, Elite Court provides a delightful place for private parties, bridge and wedding luncheons and club affairs. It can accommodate from eighty to one hundred persons, and has already attained a well deserved popularity as a social centre, furnished with every convenience and appointment to enhance its comfort for patrons.

The atmosphere of Elite Court is notably bright and cheery, with a rich harmony in its decorative features that creates an immediately responsive impression of a swanky ensemble of panelled walls and ceiling, and tiled floor of marble slabs.

The name "Elite Court" was coined by Mrs. McNabb, mother of Alderman McNabb, from the large number submitted in a competition, and its atmospheric overtone was so striking and appropriate that it was easily the first choice. A simple name "Elite Court," but it possesses a singular fitness.

For the attractive tiled floor, the marble slabs were purchased from the Vermont Marble Company. Marble from Italy, Greece, Scotland and America provide a rich effect that is matched throughout in the furnishings.

Elite Restaurant has been recently redecorated, the work having been done by Harris and Boddy in a very attractive plastic finish of Gyptex of two blended colors of old ivory and light blue, the panelling effect being particularly well done. The walls present a pleasing blend of two shades of blue. In this expenditure for redecoration the management has been actuated by a desire to give to the Elite a tone of mural beauty that will be appreciated not only by the regular patrons from the city and district but also by tourists who will associate their impression and memory of Peterborough by the service and agreeable surroundings of the Elite.

Elsewhere on this page are display announcements by the local purveyors to the Elite, a convincing reminder to the Elite's discriminating patrons of the quality of its food. This fact is borne out in the names of the various producers whose reputations are so favorably established that they need no further recommendation.

GRAIN, CATTLE, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, May 14.—Though receipts of butter were light yesterday on the local market, the demand was not quite so good as previously. However, brokers held prices at steady levels and were not quoting any choice lots below 17½c for No. 1, and 16½c for No. 2. During the week the Montreal market weakened to some extent, but on the local market supplies were too heavy, and steady prices were possible. Second grade butter was fairly scarce the middle of the week, and some sales were reported at prices within ½c of No. 1 quality.

Cream Firm.

Cream buyers were content with the levels reached recently and continuerd to quote them this week. Country shippers were offered 16c to 17c for special, 15c to 16c for No. 1, and 12c to 13c for No. 2 f.o.b. country points.

Cheese Down.

The demand for new cheese was slow and, as country boards found difficulty in securing 9c, and prices sagged at Montreal, quotations locally were down to lower levels. Brokers quoted new makes at 9c to 9½c for large, 9¾c to 9¾c for twins, and 9½c to 10c for triplets. Wholesalers reduced their levels on both new and old cheese, the former being offered at 11c for large, 11¼c for twins, 11½c for triplets, and 13½c for stiltons, and the old cheese at 17c for large, 17¼c for twins, and 17c for triplets.

Eggs Easier.

Local wholesalers found receipts of eggs light and quoted steady prices to country shippers and retailers. But brokers found difficulty in disposing of carlots and were forced to lower their prices on storage packed and eggs in used cases. Storing activity was not large, many buyers still remembering adverse conditions encountered last year when selling time arrived. Country shippers were quoted 14c for extras, 12c for firsts, and 10c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Retailers were quoted extras, in cartons, at 20c, extras loose at 18c, firsts, loose, at 16c, and seconds, loose, at 14c per dozen. Brokers offered graded eggs, in used cases at 15½c for extras; 13½c for firsts, and 11c for seconds, and storage packed at 16c for extras, and storage packed at 16c for extras, and 14c for firsts.

Poultry.

Apart from freer offerings of spring broilers receipts of fresh poultry are running extremely light. The demand for broilers is slow at present, but is expected to improve as the season advances. The movement of broilers to market is confined so far to Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal. Barred Rock and other heavy breed broilers are in best demand. At Montreal some dealers are refusing to take Leghorns. Stocks of frozen broilers, held over from last year, are interfering to some extent with the movement of fresh supplies.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 14.—With supplies on hand remaining light and receipts on the small side, the butter market here yesterday stiffened in tone, with very little No. 1 quality available below 16½c per lb. The morning range was 16¼c to 16½c. A sale of a carlot to the Maritime Provinces was confirmed as well as other out-of-town sales. Arrivals numbered 1,173 boxes.

The egg market ruled steady. Some Western quotations for shipment were as low as 17c for extras, 15c for firsts and 13c for seconds, but these were for cars very light on extras. Cars with any large amount of extras in them were 17½c on extras, with firsts and seconds at 15c and 13c per dozen, respectively. Ontario eggs were at the latter quotations. On spot eggs sold as high as 18c for extras in some instances. Receipts were 2,910 cases.

The cheese market was steady at 9c to 9¼c for current receipts. Arrivals were 964 boxes.

No Bermuda new potatoes arrived and were not expected to be on the market until Monday. No. 2 Floridas and old potatoes were unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 14. — Despite crumbling of stock market quotations grain values averaged higher yesterday, helped by active chartering of vessels to carry North American export wheat.

Southern hemisphere wheat offerings to Europe were less pushing, and surplus supplies both in Argenina and Australia were reported as below normal. Advices indicated that the acreage of United States spring wheat would be somewhat smaller than in 1931, with a larger acreage of feed grains.

Advances Are Small.

Wheat closed firm at the same as Thursday's finish to quarter up, corn ⅛ to ⅜ advanced, oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 15 cents.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 14. — Firm Liverpool wheat quotations and buying, for Continental account gave a fractional lift to the wheat prices in the grain pit yesterday. Steady at the opening, wheat closed ⅜c to ½c higher for the day.

May closed ⅜c higher at 62⅜c, July ½c higher at 63¼c, October ⅜c higher at 65¼c.

Opening slightly higher, the market held to higher levels throughout. Lack of offerings more than anything else, accounted for the firm tone.

Broomhall reported a lessening of selling pressure from Argentina, and predicted Europe soon would need foodstuffs. Australian and Argentine surpluses are below normal, he said.

Demand was shown for Nos. 3 and 4 Northern cash wheat at spreads ¼c higher. Barley for export featured the coarse grain section. Prices were little changed.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind.

CAVAN

Cavan Women's Institute is very much interested in having music taught in the schools of the East Durham Inspectorate.

At recent meetings it has been discussed and the secretary was kept busy writing to gather information on the subject. All such communications were brought to the monthy meetings and read to the members and discussed.

West Durham has made a success of music in the schools and the Inspector, Col. Snider has been very helpful, giving experience in launching the project and in carrying it on.

Interest has been aroused and Col. O'Dell, the East Durham Inspector, has volunteered to write the various school boards and solicit their co-operation. The Institute is hopeful that arrangements may be completed in time to commence the teaching of music when schools re-open in September after the mid-summer vacation.

BEAUTIFYING SCHOOL GROUNDS

As Arbor Day has recently been observed in the majority of rural shools in our district, the attention of Institute members has been re-aroused in the subject of "Beautifying rural school grounds".

Year by year one sees a greater interest taken in the work of making beautiful the grounds of our rural schools. This is because, year by year, knowledge is being disseminated and examples of the results are becoming evident here and there.

In order to be fully successful in laying out the grounds of rural schools prime consideration should be given to the nature of the subjects. Their hardiness should be unquestioned. They should be of a permanent nature such as trees, shrubs and herbaceous perennials. They should also be chosen largely because of their usefulness for certain positions and should not be as we have often seen scattered indiscriminately through the lawn areas where in isolated loneliness they suggest a lack of knowledge of landscape design on the part of the designer of the plans or that no design was available. Wherever permanency of planting is achieved the initial cost of outlay is practically the only cost.

The area to be beautified should be that immediately surrounding the school front, rear, and if possible the sides. In other words the immediate environs of the school should be the beautified portion and this should be visible from road or street or whatever may be the approach.

The playing areas may be separated from the beautified parts by means of fences, hedges or plantings of shrubs. Borders of shrubs or perennials should be so arranged as to frame in the lawns. The lawn as far as possible should be kept open and free from individual shrubs dotted here and there.

Only where trees and shrubs will serve really useful purpose should they be planted in the lawns of school grounds. If a shrub planted near a grouping at the side of the lawn will in any way pleasingly accent the grouping or enhance its beauty such a specimen shrub may properly be planted. It must, however, be planted closely to and bear relationship to the major feature of the grouping so that it will harmonize. For trees proper positions are where they will give shade just where needed. Also probably where they will serve as a background to the building and bring it into relief. If within the limits of the area to be beautified deciduous trees can be planted so as to shade the ground near the school, less radiation of heat will be possible during late spring and early summer and the school will be more comfortable for the children. A few well placed trees will suffice.

Evergreens are a great asset to rural school grounds. Planted as windbreaks they exercise a moderating influence during stormy winter days, keep the school cosy and cut down the expense of fuel. Massed boundary plantings of evergreens will be more pleasing than straight lines. Tall hedges are sometimes quite effective. Evergreens beautify the winter's landscape as can nothing else and should be more generally used.

The planting of only the hardiest and enduring types of shrubs and perennials is advised on rural school grounds. Often labor adequate to properly maintain is not procurable thus subjects which are at all fastidious in their cultural requirements or are not fully hardy should not be planted. In all the work of beautifying school grounds economy should be kept in mind.

In summing up the question of the beautifying of rural school grounds we will surely be forced to the conclusion that it is work worth while. Whether from the utilitarian or aesthetic viewpoints we study it, we must agree that it is of great importance. If for economic reasons alone, however, we should plant twees and shrubs imparting as they do coolness in summer and warmth in winter. Above all they impart cherfulness for they are not only useful but beautiful. Thus rural school grounds which are unbeautiful are void of any example to stir the imagination of youth; are void of inspiration; are not suggestive of life and of beauty and so the best days of growing childhood are spent amid surroundings which are dull and drab and at this its most impressionable age.

Women's Institutes do well to offer prizes for best kept grounds, encouraging as they do trustees, teachers and all who may be interested sufficiently in the welfare of the children and in the making more beautiful of this wonderful land.

MILLBROOK

A visiting secretary, at an Institute branch, gave an interesting talk on the place of fruits in the housewife's daily menu, pointing out that in days gone by most homemaker's looked upon the citrous fruits as luxuries, and not to be included in the menu except when company came, or some other special occasion occurred in the family circle.

"The small bitter oranges were valued mostly as medicine, and were used when someone fell ill, and we took them for much the same reason as we took any other liver pill, in the hope of improving our complexions. But nowadays it is quite different; what used to be a luxury only for the rich has become part of the daily fare of rich and poor alike, and we are certainly better in health in consequence."

Listing the members of the citrous family as oranges, grapefruit and lemons, as the one with which we are most familiar in this country, though tangerines are also fairly well known and popular, the speaker emphasized that these are all much better raw than cooked. "Cooking detracts from their taste and flavor, and though we may use them in some of our recipes where cooking is necessary, yet to obtain the best results in every way, I strongly recommend their use in the natural state—as indeed do medical men and trained nurses generally."

"As a breakfast or luncheon dish the serving of grapefruit by cutting it in two, removing core and seeds, loosening from the outer rind with the point of a sharp knife or scissors, then separating in sections and sprinkling with fruit sugar, adding a garnish of maraschino cherries, and serving very cold, can hardly be surpassed. It makes an excellent dessert served in this manner, or if it is furnish the first course of a "company" dinner, try this manner: Prepare as for breakfast, but instead of the sugar and cherries, scoop out enough pulp to make slight hollow wherein place two or three oysters, or clean clams, and pour over these a tomato catsup containing grated horseradish, and seasoned with salt and tobasco."

"It might not appeal to you rural women to go to the trouble of the above," the visiting officer stated, "but in towns where people are always looking for something novel to serve, I have found the recipe just given a popular one with many homemakers."

A grapefruit sherbet was recommended as delicious especially for a sick person, and particularly in hot weather, made by putting one cup of brown sugar, or pure maple syrup, in a saucepan, adding six cups water and letting all come to a boil. When cool stir in one large cup of grapefruit juice and the stiffly beaten white of an egg. Serve very cold. As a frozen dessert this is particularly good.

As a beverage the speaker reminded her hearers that citrous fruit juice should always be strained and chilled; then slightly dilute with cold water—say one of water to two of the fruit juice, and sweeten a little. "It will taste less acid this way, ad yet lose none of the flavor of the fruit, and as a beverage a combination of orange and lemon juice is very attractive, using one lemon for each two oranges and diluting with water as above then sweetening slightly. A bit of fresh mint is also an improvement, but not essential."

An orange pudding was copied down in many note-books: Three cups cold rice; one quart of milk; quarter cup chopped suet; one orange and three eggs. Boil rice in milk then add sugar, suet, and juiece and grated peel of the orange, mixing together thoroughly and then baking in a butter pudding mould.

FOUNDATION PLANTING

In the beautification of home grounds it is highly important that the foundation planting be properly done. As the term implies foundation planting is the placing of shrubs along the foundation walls of the house in such a manner as to give the most pleasing effect. The use of a single variety should be avoided, but such selections of shrubs should be made as will give a natural effect.

One of the purposes of foundation planting has often been expressed as a means of tying the house to the grounds, that is to say when the planting has become established it should give the house the appearance of rising out of the adjacent growth. Irregular planting is advisable for most situations unless the grounds immediately about the building are to be laid out formally. It is important that plants of different heights should be be chosen so as to avoid any rebuilding. Variety in width is also necessary for a similar reason. The lower growing bushes may be placed below the windows and along the sides of the building but the height should be increased at varying intervals, and in most cases, more particularly at the corners and on either side of doorways.

While all the foundation wall should not be hidden, the planting should be so arranged as to conceal the alignments of the foundation and also to minimize its height. The smaller the property the more important relatively are these points.

The smaller the grounds the higher does the house usually appear to be. Small lot dwellings usually disclose less architectural interest in the foundation than larger homes. What may be called mass planting in such properties cannot be followed with safety. Desirable effects in foundation planting are grace of outline individual points of interest and adequate provision of cover for the foundation.

Graceful outline is obtained by the selection of plants which are themselves graceful in form, and individually give a soft and pleasing effect. For individual points of interest plants should be chosen that exhibit a variation in color and texture of leaves and which present an interesting play of light and shadow. To adequately cover the foundation such plants should be chosen as have a fairly spreading habit, and supplement these by a facing or cover planting of smaller lowheaded shrubs at the openings.

In positions favored with good sunlight a few carefully chosen perennial plants may be used to give color effect. Peonies are useful for this purpose, because, not only of their beautiful bloom at their proper season, but because the foliage remains attractive during the whole season.

In shrubbery the use of evergreen is desirable for winter effect, especially and for accent points. It should be remembered, however, when mixing flowering shrubs and evergreens that the latter will suffer from too close crowding of the deciduous plants. Very fine effects are obtained by using evergreens exclusively. At entrances they are very attractive, the tall spiral forms being useful at narrow doorways while the broader types may be used where more width is needed.

Evergreens grow in ordinarily well-drained soil. Heavy clays should be deeply dug and well rotted manure and sand added. When the plants are young, the ground for two or three feet around the trunk should be kept cultivated all through the growing season. For the first few winters a mulch of well-rotted manure is beneficial and in the spring this can be dug into the soil. This treatment should also be tried on older trees that are not thriving. Young and newly transplanted trees must not be allowed to suffer from lack of water.

Early spring is considered to be the best time for transplating evergreens. It is very important to remember that the roots of evergreens must never be allowed to dry. When planting they must always be kept covered with wet moss or pulp. The hole must be dug wide and deep enough so that the roots can be spread out and the tree set a little deeper than it was in the nursery. Place the tree upright in the centre of the hole and throw some good earth around the roots being careful that no spaces are left underneath. When the hole is two-thirds full tramp the soil down firmly and then fill up with the poorer soil which should be kept cultivated. Large plants especially in positions exposed to strong winds should be tied firmly to trunk stakes as the swaying of the trunk is very harmful to a newly planted tree.

The view is held that the judicious use of both the deciduous and evergreen material is most pleasing for the base or foundation planting with possibly the evergreens predominating.

Marmora Institute To Try Novel Idea

MARMORA, May ·· (Examiner Correspondence)—A new idea is to be tried out by the Marmora Women's Institute during the next twelve months. The difficulty confronting this society as many more in the locality has been the scarcity of women who will take official positions. A different chairman is to be tried at each monthly meeting. Thereby more members will become familiar with the work of the Institute and also relieve the president of this duty. The membership fee for the 1932-1933 season which commences next month has been paid already by a large percentage of last year's members so that the branch can be said to be still flourishing.

Reorganize Team

A very successful meeting was held at the home of John Wellman in Rawdon Township on Wednesday evening to reorganize the independent softball team to compete in the Marmora and Deloro League for the coming season. The officers elected were as follows: president, Allan R. Morrison; secretary-treasurer, John Wellman; manager, George Wellman; captain, Clifford McInroy.

Donations were given which amounted to five dollars. After the business part of the meeting, music was supplied after which the National Anthem was sung. About fifteen members were present.

Obituary

CHARLES PREST

HASTINGS May 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—It was a shock to Hastings people to hear of the death of Charles Prest, a former Hastings resident.

The late Mr. Prest died in Windsor on Wednesday, May 11th, at the age of 49 years. He was the son of the late John and Elizabeth Prest, and for years resided in Hastings, having gone to Windsor to live, about seven years ago.

Besides his wife, formerly Miss Annie Martin, he leaves one daughter and two sons, besides several sisters and brothers.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon from Comstock's Funeral Parlor, Peterborough. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

FRED S. BROWN

LAKEFIELD, May 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Fred S. Brown was held on Thursday afternoon and was very largely attended. A short private service for the family was held at his late residence and the public service at Regent Street United Church at 2.30.

The church was filled with friends of the deceased and his family. Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A., officiated, assisted by Rev. S. A. Kemp, B.A., Rev. H. M. Wesley, and Rev. R. J. Burton. The funeral address was given by Rev. David Wren, M.A., of Trinity Church, Peterborough. The members of Clementi Lodge, No. 313, A.F. and A.M. (of which the deceased was a member) were present in a body and there was also a large delegation from the Peterborough Kiwanis Club. Mr. Brown had been a Kiwanian for some years and took a great interest in its work for the betterment of the community.

The choir of the church was present, with Mrs. H. E. Moore at the organ, and three favorite hymns were sung, "Oh God, Our Help in Ages Past," "Forever With the Lord," and "For All the Saints Who From Their Labors Rest."

Rev. D. Wren took the text for his address from the words of David mourning for his friend, Thou shalt be missed because thy seat is empty."

The experience of looking at the vacant chair in our homes is one common to all of us, for none are immune from death. Life itself is a mystery, begun, continued and ended in a mystery none can solve. Our deceased friend was called suddenly from his work and in a brief period his home was bereft of a kind husband and father.

He will be missed in the sacred cloister of his home, in society and in the business world; he had lived for the inculcation of the highest ideals and noblest principles.

The pall bearers were Messrs. A. B. Burrows, J. A. Dewart, Dr. Walter Brown (brother), Dr. A. A. Fraser, C. McCoy and G. Palmer.

Interment was made in the family plot in Hillside cemetery.

The tragic accident and subsequent death of Mr. Brown cast a gloom over the entire community where his life had been spent and where he was held in high regard and reepect and not only his immediate family but his community mourned for the loss of a citizen, known to every person for his kindly sympathy and gentle manner.

Official estimates place the amount spent by foreign tourists in Canada during 1931 at $250,776,000; the expenditures by Canadians touring in other countries at $76,452,000; and the favorab'e balance from tourist trade at $174,324,000.

POPULAR PLAY AT MILLBROOK

Grace Presbyterian Young People Show Marked Talent in "An Irish Stew."

W.M.S. QUILTING HELD

MILLBROOK, May 14 (Examiner Correspondence) — The play, "An Irish Stew," presented by the young people of Grace Presbyterian Church in the Sunday School room on Wednesday evening, was well patronized and given with marked talent by the various characters taking part.

Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., minister of the charge of Millbrook and Centreville, acted as chairman, and the brief program which preceded the play provided excellent entertainment, the items including a piano duet by Misses Mary and Dorothy Armstrong; a violin solo by Miss Ruth Thorndyke; Miss Grace Johnson presiding at the piano; and a reading, "Mrs. Smart Learn How to Skate," by Miss Ethel McKnight. Also a quartet, "Sunbonnet Sue," by Misses Ruth Thorndyke and Vanita Ingram and Joe Thorndyke and Dick Williams, the recall being "When I wore my father's black derby, and you wore your mother's blue gown." A recitation, "An Essay on Scotland," by T. Samuelson, called forth warm applause, a recall being demanded, and a brief and humorous response given.

The 'Irish stew' developed from domestic complications in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hogan owing partly to the advanced ideas and the love affairs of their two children, Marian (Vanita Ingram), whose lover, Gaston Marcel (Norman Armstrong) the father particularly despises; and Donald (Joe Thorndyke), whose fiancee is Lenore Schmitz (Margaret Armstrong).

The ruse adopted to collect the two hundred dollars which Tim Toolan (Dick Williams), "a miserly tightwad," owes Mr. Hogan, involved the latter's pretending to be dead, his widow begging the money then from her one-time lover in order to have a respectable funeral for her lamented husband. Many ridiculous situations develop, Mr. Lahey (Tom Samuelson) who had the brilliant idea of decease for Mr. Hogan, coming in for some strong condemnation from that gentleman as the embarrassing and ludicrous happenings continually occur.

The colored undertaker (T. Hassan), and Mrs. O'Flaherty (Jessie Armstrong), a widow with a weakness, apparently, for the deceased Dennis, were intruders that added to the merriment, but in the end all tangles were happily straightened out, the money secured, and the climax reached with the married lovers pleasantly spending an evening at home, the young folk being at a masquerade ball.

Annual Quilting

The annual quilting featured the May meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church, four quilts being competed by early evening, and a band of at least forty workers being on hand, some in the morning preparing the work in readiness for the afternoon, the gathering taking place on Wednesday, beginning at 1 p.m.

Shortly after three o'clock the president, Mrs. Jones, called the meeting to order when a brief program was proceeded with, the literature secretary, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, reading a letter from headquarters regarding the annual report which must be ordered before May 31, and the leader continuing with a leaflet on "The Ministry of Prayer."

Mrs. J. Albert Brown read the next paper on "Prayer is Intercession," Mrs. Thornton "The Rewards of Prayer," and Miss M. E. Hetherington "Hindrance to Prayer." At the close of the study Mrs. H. E. Smith led in a consecration prayer.

The Sunshine Mission Band, under its superintendent, Mrs. M. McDowell, Mrs. J. Ridge and Miss Phyllis Kidd, served tea making a small charge to add to their funds, the tables being daintily laid, and the boys and girls seving the fifty or more guests quite capably.

The social hour having been thoroughly enjoyed, the workers resumed their task about the quilting-frames, and the president's suggestion that the next quilting be held on June 1, when four more, it is hoped, will be finished, was adopted. Some of the quilts will be for sale as there are several more than are called for in the Auxiliary's allocation.

DURHAM COUNTY STAGES INITIAL MUSIC FESTIVAL WITH SUCCESS

Entrants From Cavan District Set Up Proud Record With Two Gold Medals.

HELD AT BOWMANVILLE

MILLBROOK, May 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Durham County Musical Festival Association, in the initial year of its organization, staged a most successful musical festival on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of this week at TTrinity Church, Bowmanville, classes being well filled in all cases, the attendance large from the opening session at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, and talent of excellent quality well to the fore in every section of the competition.

The adjudicator, Peter Kennedy, Mus.Bac., of St. James' Church, Vaughan Road, Toronto, assisted by Mrs. B. Whyte, secretary of the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music, Toronto, in co-operation with the local committee, have had charge of the event, smoothness of procedure, a timetable rigidly adhered to, and a sustained interest at every session featuring the first musical and elocutionary competition ever held in Durham County.

In announcing his decisions, after each class, Mr. Kennedy remarked the high average of marks attained, seventy-five being the maximum for a gold medal, yet several competitors had gone well over this figure, the kindly and constructive criticism of the adjudicator constituting a "school of instruction" that will undoubtedly aid both teachers and taught to make further practical progress in their respective lines of study.

Cavan Did We'l.

Cavan has every reason to be proud of the record established by its entrants at the Festival, two gold medals coming to the township, Mary Elizabeth Carveth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Carveth, and pupil of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, being tied for first place in the class in elocution under 15 years, with K. O'Neil, of Bowmanville; and Clare Winslow and Walter Sayles, pupils of Mrs. (Rev.) W. C. Allen and Mrs. Bingham respectively, carrying off the laurels in the male duet class, the competition being quite a stiff one in each instance. Other honors coming to the township include: Second place for Tom McCamus in the bass solo class heard on Thursday afternoon, and third place for Walter Sayles in the same competition, while Clare Winslow also took third place in the tenor solo section; second class honors mean silver medals as awards, and third class bronze medals.

There were thirteen entrants in the mezzo-soprano class, also heard on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. (Rev.) Whithame of Cavan being one of the competitors, and in the preliminary test receiving 70 marks and high praise from the adjudicators. Among the pupils of Mrs. L. H. Winslow who took part in the competition, Juan Shields, of Mount Pleasant, was accorded 78 marks in piano solo for girls under eighteen, and the same fine standing in the vocal solo class for the same years, having a place in the finals of the latter competition and only losing out from winning the gold medal by two marks.

Velma Staples Third.

Elocution held the spotlight on Thursday morning, Velma Staples, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Staples, and pupil of her aunt, Miss Helen Staples, being an entrant in the class for girls under 10 years, and holding third place in a closely contested and popular event, which came first on the day's program. Bernice Colville, of Bowmanville headed the list with 81 marks; Gwen Tamblyn Orono was second with 80; and Velma Staples 78 had 78 marks. The selections for competition were "Fairies" (Fyleman) for the girls, and "Peterkin Snow" (McKay) for the boys.

School's in Colonel R. F. Snyder's temperate, with Mrs. Robb of many years at the opening of the Orono as instructor, carried off competition on Wednesday morning the honors including, in the Rural School Chorus (unison): Providence 81, Clarke Union 78, honorable mention Orono Junior (Miss Orchard) 77; Rural School Chorus (part singing): Orono 77, Providence 75, honorable mention Clarke Union; Boys' Chorus (open class): Orono School Boys' Choir (Mrs. Robbi 85, St. John's Anglican Church, Port Hope (Mr. Cohu) 78, Bowmanville Boys' School (Miss Helen Morris) 77.

Splendid Showing.

Local contestants of Thursday had the following standing in their respective classes. Recitation class for girls under 15: Mary Elizabeth Carveth and K. O'Neil tied for first place, 82 marks; Bass solo, "Son of Mine" (Wallace): 1, Alden Haw, Orono, 75; 2, Tom McCamus, Ida, 73; 3, Walter Sayles, Millbrook, 70. Tenor solo, "By the Banks of Allan Water" (Shaw): 1, Norman Friedler, Bowmanville, 78; 2, Alexander McGregor, Bowmanville, 77; Clare Winslow, Cavan, 68. In the male duet at night on Thursday, in which Walter Sayles and Clare Winslow carried on the gold medal, 80 marks were accorded by the adjudicator.

The closing of the Festival took place on Friday evening, when the first prize-winners in all the competitions repeated their numbers, for which gold medals were awarded, thus bringing to a close a most successful and popular event, which will be looked forward to with great eagerness another season.

Melville Staples, Orono, is president of the Durham County Musical Association, and E. P. Bradt, Bowmanville, secretary. Local accompanists who were at Bowmanville playing for competitors included Mrs. (Rev.) William Cartwright, Allen, Mrs. L. H. Winslow, and Miss Mary Burnham.

In his opening and closing addresses the president emphasized the fact that the competition was not merely for the winning of the medals or shields, as the case might be, but primarily to prove of educational value, and to stimulate a healthy rivalry and increased interest in and desire for a musical education among the young people of the county.

Mrs. W. McKee Bingham accompanied her pupils to Bowmanville for the event, a regrettable feature being that so little interest was taken locally, practically no citizens being at the Festival except those taking part and immediate members of their families.

CITY REST ROOMS OPENED TO PUBLIC

New Rest Rooms on Market Square Were Opened This Morning.

Situated at the south end of the Marquet Square, the Rest Rooms recently erected by the City Trust were opened to the public this morning, fulfilling a long-felt need on the part of the travelling public and to the large number of regular visitors from the surrounding countryside.

In design and appointments the Rest Rooms combine orderliness with simplicity, and are rated as being among the best public conveniences of their type in Canada.

The closing event for this season of the Dramatic Club of the Lyceum Women's Art association took the form last night of a very successful High Tea held at Walker field House and followed by a brief program of sketches from Dickens' "Picwick Paper." Arrangements were in the capable hands of a committee composed of Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. L. J. Pettit, Mrs. A. Barton, Mrs. V. S. Foster and Miss Tena Mathers. The ladies were received by Mrs. W. Blackwell, president of the Art Association, and Mrs. L. J. Pettit, convenor of the Dramatic Club. The high tea was served at long tables arranged with silver baskets filled with purple iris, lilies and yellow daffodils, while the same spring colors appeared in the dainty serviettes and place cards. Mrs. Pettit, presiding, spoke very appreciatively of the work done by the members of the Dramatic Club, also of the support given by the Art Association and Mrs. Blackwell, whose time, interest and energy are always at the disposal of the auxiliary clubs. Mrs. Blackwell spoke a few words in appreciation of the club's efforts and of Mrs. Pettit's splendid leadership, sentiments which were echoed by Miss S. A. Tomkins, one of the club members. Later, the scenes were presented, in a series of brief sketches that evoked much amusement and interest. They had to do with the courtship and elopement of the spinster, Miss Rachel Wardle, one of the characters in Dicken's captivating story, "Pickwick Papers." With the aid of a few 'props' and some old-time outfits, the ladies, under the leadership of Mrs. Pettit, contrived some very charming and entertaining scenes that were watched with increasing interest. The Pickwickian scenes were preceded by an aesthetic interpretation of Poe's "Raven", given by Mrs. Pettit in graceful flowing Grecian draperies, who interpreted in pantomime the stanzas which were read by her daughter, Miss Shirley Pettit. Taking part in the romantic scenes from Pickwick, staged at Dingley Hall, where Miss Wardle's admirers in turn essayed to win the heart and, incidentally, the funds of the simpering spinster, were Mrs. N. D. Seaton of Oshawa, (Miss Rachel Wardle); Miss A. Barton as Tracy Tupman; Mrs. F. C. Webber as Joe, the fat boy; Miss Irma Methers as old Mrs. Wardle; Miss Isabel Connelly as Alfred Jingle; Miss Viola Fusee as Mr. Parker, and Miss S. A. Tomkins as old Mr. Wardle. Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

It is said that white carpets are the last word in floor coverings.

• • • • • • •

They are reminiscent of the one-time white druggets which were fashionable to have spread under a dining-room table. This was prior to the rage for white in every appointment which eprtained to the kitchen or to sanitary equipment.

• • • • • • •

A favorite use for the white floor coverings is for nursery carpets. Also for bedrooms and dining-rooms. The pile is high and the carpeting soft.

• • • • • • •

The textile is not only for floors, but it is for bed-coverings also. This adds greatly to its interest since it reverts to the old-time adaptable use of rugs.

• • • • • • •

The name might mean a covering for a table or bed, or for a floor. We still use the word rug in connection with carriage blankets which go by the name of carriage robes, or rugs, as well as blankets.

• • • • • • •

The word blankets was not used formerly to indicate a covering for persons but for horses Gradually the word has gained place with robe and the word rug has become less adaptable.

• • • • • • •

So in the light of these considerations there appears no incongruity in having a modern textile which is adaptable both to floor coverings and to bed coverings.

• • • • • • •

The color does seem a trifle difficult to recognize as compatable with modern housekeeping. Time was when a house was comparatively free from dust.

• • • • • • •

To have a speck of dust on even the most highly polished furniture reflected on the homemaker's efficiency.

• • • • • • •

Yet rooms were not dusted more than once a day, sometimes not even that often. To-day dust and dirt filter badly into houses in cities or along country highways.

• • • • • • •

It becomes a time-consuming task to keep rooms dustless.

• • • • • • •

In connection with these soft, luxurious white carpets, it may be said that it is quite the thing to have them dyed to suit any color scheme of a room. The floor and the bed may each have the identical colored coverings making a distinctive ensemble of an unusual sort.

EXCHANGE AIDS ENGLISH PLAYS

Sir Barry Jackson Grossed $221,950 in Canadian Tour.

AMERICANS OUT

TORONTO, May 14.—Drop of the Canadian dollar and demand of American producers for American money only, meaning a 10-20 per cent boost at settle-up time, left the Canadian theatre field, during the season now closing, wide open for English companies who mopped up before American producers realized that Canadian tours were good business despite exchange fluctuations.

American companies are now jumping in belatedly at close of the season and are doing fair business, but nothing like English outfits now trekking back from one coast and playing return dates on the strength of good-will at the start of the season.

Sir Barry Jackson's company, now closing a 26-week trans-Canada tour and return, has grossed $221,950; Sir John Martin-Harvey, also finishing a similar booking for 17 weeks, has grossed $140,510; while the Colbourne-Jones duo, in a whirlwind 4-week tour, grossed $61,050.

Stratford-Upon-Avon Players finishing American tour, jumped into Canada at Vancouver and did about $38,000 in five weks, allowing for cross-country hops. Troupe did about $11,00 in Vancouver in two weeks; $7,000 in Winnipeg, one week, and $19,00-$20,000 in Toronto in two weeks.

JILL ESMOND OF THEATRE FAMILY

Daughter of Henry V. Esmond Now In Films.

In the cast of "State's Attorney" is a young woman named Jill Esmond who came over from England to assist Noel Coward and Gertrude Lawrence in the Broadway presentation of "Private Lives" and stayed on to try her luck in the films. Miss Esmond has an excellent background for a career in make-believe. Her father, Henry V. Esmond, was the author of "When We Were Twenty-One" and other plays. Her mother, Eva Moore, was a favorite in the English theatre for many years. Miss Esmond was a girl of 14 when she made her first stage appearance, playing the whimsical Wendy in the whimsical "Peter Pan" at London's St. James Theatre. In 1924 she toured in "Eternal Spring" and played the lead in "Pollyanna." The following year she appeared with her mother in "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary" and also in Noel Coward's "Hay Fever." Subsequently Miss Esmond was in "All the King's Horses," "Cat's Cradle," "Puss in Boots" and "Outward Bound." Her longest engagement came in 1928, when she accompanied John Galsworthy's "Bird in Hand" to New York and Chicago after its English run. Then she made a picture at the Elstree studios outside of London. She came to New York with "Private Lives" company convinced that she was not the type for the part of Sybil Chase, but New York, including the New York RKO office, thought otherwise, and now she is in the films. Laurence Olivier, her actor-husband, has also been adopted by Hollywood. Last Fall she appeared with Ruth Chatterton in "Once a Lady."

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

'Bird of Paradise' with an investment of over $800,00 has finished at Radio. It's the most costly picture made by Dave Selznick.

Zasu Pitts granted a divorce from Tom Gallery, former fight matchmaker, on grounds of desertion. Actress testified that Gallery left her five years ago. Miss Pitts will have custody of their child, Zasu Ann, and an adopted boy, Don Mike, son of the late Barbara La-Marr. Couple were married in 1920.

Charlotte Greenwood ill. Cast laid off.

The Warners have assembled a cast to support Barbara Stanwyck in "The Mud Lark," and the film wil soon be entering production. Snub Pollard, the mustachioed comedian of dozens and dozens of the old silent funny pictures, will have a part. There are, in addition, David Landau, Leila Bennett, George Brent and Hardie Albright.

Hollywood's ugliest collection of muggs, bottle noses and cauliflower ears, are assembling for the rough-house prison football team that will battle for penitentiary and comedy honors in RKO-Radio's "Hold 'Em Jail." Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey are stars on the team, while Rosco Ates stutters signals as quarterback.

The cast of "Red-Headed Woman" the Catherine Brush story, has been chosen at least by MGM. Jean Harlow is in the title role. While Chester Morris is Bill Jr. and Lewis Stone is the father. Leila Hyams is Irene, Una Merkel is Sally. May Robson and Charles Boyer complete the principals.

John Barrymore, after storming in court room scenes of Radio's "State's Attorney", loaded his duffel bag the other day, boarded his yacht and is now braving the storms of the Pacific.

Ann Harding got a brand new tailored uniform from the Rainbow Division Association the other day —they've made her honorary colonel and she rates a salute.

Harold Lloyd claims that his original pair of honr-rimmed, lensless glasses are the prize heirlooms of picturedom. The specs, same pair that he used when he abandoned his Lonesome Luke characterization for his present one, have appeared in every picture he has made in the last 15 years.

Many of the scenes in the audible picturization of Edna Ferber's novel, "So Big," are nicely filmed and efficiently played by Barbara Stanwyck. It is a work with a good deal of wholesome sentiment and restrained scenes, but a lifetime in an hour or so on the screen is too much. Humdrum through this tale is here, it is at least free from murders, women falling in love with lounge lizards, and mysterious doctors deriving pleasure from using the knife to kill.

Most of the arguments between artists and producers are of a deadly serious nature. It remained for Arthur Caesar to laugh his way off the Warner lot, however. When his contract came up for renewal, they asked him to take a cut. When he refused the executives told him that he did not show the proper spirit, that he should cooperate. "Cooperate?" yelled Arthur. "Can you cooperate with an electric chair?" The next day he was under contract to Paramount.

Anna May Wong has been engaged by Columbia for one of the leads in the appropiately Oriental "Bitter Tea of General Yen."

Henry B. Walthall, whose Little Colonel in "The Birth of a Nation," may still be recalled, has been engaged by First National. The veteran actor will appear with Richard Bathelmess in "The Cabin in the Cotton." Mr. Walthall was a star back in the old Griffith days when a lad named Barthelmess broke into pictures. Their joint appearance in this new story will mark the first time the two have played together since those days.

You should know this about oil, says mechanic

The proper oiling of household devices presents a problem different from any other form of lubrication. Sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, the electric motors of washers, fans, refrigerators and similar devices have a tendency to collect dirt and rust when not in service. Consequently oil intended for general household use should clean and protect as well as lubricate.

3-in-One Oil will do these three things. For, unlike ordinary oil, it is really three high quality oils in one—animal, mineral and vegetable. It penetrates quickly, cleans the metal surfaces, "stays put," reduces wear and saves repairs. It also prevents rust and tarnish.

Don't make the mistake of thinking "any kind of oil will do." Play safe; insist on 3-in-One Oil. Sold everywhere, by good grocery, hardware, drug and general stores. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.

PICTURE STARS STILL IN MONEY AFTER 20 YEARS

John and Lionel Barrymore Lead Imposing List of 76.

40 ON $1,000 RATE

Wallace Beery, Lewis Stone, Warner Oland and Jack Holt.

HOLLYWOOD, May 14—Currently there are 76 players in pictures who knock into a cocked hat the argument that the life of a picture star is limited to five years. Each of them has spent the last 15 or 20 years before the camera and are still in the big money. About 40 are receiving over $1,000 per week. The rest are getting upwards of $500 weekly.

In most cases, they are getting less per week just now than they received 10 years ago. But in some instances they are receiving their largest pay envelopes at present.

Top money for old-timers probably goes to the Barrymores, both John and Lionel having appeared with the old Biograph company. With Lowell Sherman they grabbed off $1,000 weekly 15 years ago. Hobart Bosworth still getting upwards of a grand was taking that amount out of his own company before Famous Players was founded. Mary Pickford, Wallace Beery, Thomas Meighan, Harold Lloyd, Charles Murray, Norma Talmadge and Lewis Stone have been grabbing off top money for the same number of years.

H. B. Warner's Rate.

Owen and Tom Moore were in 1914 getting over $1,000 per week and still command a substantial fee. Ralph Graves, Warner Oland, Jack Holt, Conway Tearle, Polly Moran, Ford Sterling, and Alec Francis have seen their names in lights for over a decade. H. B. Warner recently received $3,500 for eight days work on a picture. He's been receiving four figures for 15 years.

Evelyn Brent, Betty Compson, Pauline Fredericks and Bessie Love are still asking and getting over $1,00 per week when they work.

Kerrigan Still 1925.

House Peters, J. Warren Kerrigan, Theda Bara and Jack Pickford, all of whom have been out of pictures for years think in the old figures. Though they don't work, they continue asking over a grand a week for their services. Recently, Kerrigan refused to work on a serial and when queried what his salary was for a feature, he asked for $3,500 weekly.

Norma Shearer was featured in a picture produced by Iroquois Pictures in 1916. Charles Delaney played the lead. Delaney is still featured in independents.

William Farnum is getting $1,500 weekly in indie pictures. He's been dragging down the over-the-grand figure for 18 years. Madge Evans, who recently got a break with Metro was getting $250 weekly in 1915 as a child star with World Films. Richard Bennett with Joan and Constance as child players made pictures 15 years ago and got top money.

Tully Marshall and James Kirkwood still draw down healthy sums, both getting upwards of $750 weekly.

Donald Crisp, one of the screen's oldest heavies, divides his time between acting and directing. In both cases he's well paid. George Fawcett, Emmett Corrigan, Robert Warwick, Edmund Breese, Lew Cody, Slim Summerville, Niles Welsh, one of the screen's first fair haired boys, grab off $750 weekly. Ralph Ince, a Vitagraph star has come back as a heavy through the gang pictures.

Walthall's Nice Life

Harry Carey and H. B. Walthall are going strong. Walthall an ardent fisherman won't work when they're biting. He's currently in 'Strange Interlude' at Metro.

Tom Mix, back again, totals 14 years in celluloids. Monte Blue, inactive for two years, is back again and at fair money. Bryant Washburn, Johnny Harron, one of D. W. Griffith's original sad-eyed leading men is an independent name.

Raymond Hatton is always working and has been for the past 16 years, the last 10 of which he has topped $1,000.

May McAvoy, out of pictures for three years is attempting a comeback, but she won't listen to small money.

MICHAELS' HIT IN NINTH GIVES LEAFS VICTORY

Curly Ogden, Former Toronto Pitcher, Loses Out in Mound Duel.

FRITZ HITS HOMER.

TORONTO, May 14. — Warren ("Curly") Ogden, who, this time last season, wore the uniform of the Maple Leafs, and is a bosom pal of big George Earnshaw of the Philadelphia Athletics, was treated to a beating by the present help of his former employers at the Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Toiling on the mound for the Jersey City Skeeters he held the Leafs to six hits in eight and two-third innings, but the last man who faced him clouted a single to left field with the bases full and in romped the run that gave Toronto a 3 to 2 victory over the Pests and Mr. Ogden.

Ralph Michaels was the man who brought defeat to "Curly". He faced the Jersey City pitcher four times previous to the ninth and couldn't get a hit. With two on and two out in the Leafs' half of the final inning, Ogden decided to risk pitching to him rather than to Tommy Hughes, and so he intentionally passed the latter to fill the bases. But the strategy didn't work and Marvin Owen trotted in with the winning run when Michaels belted the ball cleanly over the shortstop's head.

Ogden was opposed by Glen Liebhardt, who, with the exception of one frame, gave a fairly fine performance. The Skeeters got nine hits off the blonde righthander, but only in the sixth inning were they able to amass any runs off him. Liebhart was given a two-run lead in the Leafs' half of the fifth, when Ray Fritz thrilled the fans with a home run over the right field fence with Morehart on base. The ball cleared the fence with plenty to spare and it was the first home run made here this season by a Toronto player.

Lead Melts Quickly

Liebhardt, however, didn't hang onto that lead long. He yielded five hits to the visitors in the first five frames, but Hunnefield opened the sixth with a line drive to right field that Harvey Walker tried to make a shoe-string catch on. The ball hit him on the leg and bounded into centre field, Hunnefield getting a double before Hughes got the ball back to the infield. Moore, next batter up, lined to short. Owen making a leaping one-hand catch and diving at second base in an attempt to head off Hunnefield. Owen was too far away from the bag, however to complete the double play. Then Clancy hit a triple over Doljack's head, and Hunnefield scored. Barnhart popped a foul that Pete Stack captured, but Outen scored Clancy with an infied hit, Fritz fielding the ball, but Liebhardt failing to get to first in time to put Outen out.

Liebhardt settled down after that frame and the Jerseys got only one hit off him in the last three innings, and he was never in danger. The Leafs were having just as hard a time to get runs off Ogden, although they had at least one runner on base in every inning, leaving twelve stranded in all. The Leafs' half of the ninth didn't look promising either, for Liebhardt, first man up, flied to Warner, and Morehart was thrown out by Hunnefield. Owen had two strikes on him and then waited out four wide ones. That brought Fritz up and the fans were expecting another home run. But Fritz delivered in a way that was almost as satisfactory. He bounced an infield single off the plate, and before any one could field it, Fritz was at first and Owen had gone as far as third. Hughes was intentionally passed, and Michaels came through with a hit as previously detailed.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, old Jupiter Pluvius seems to be the big winner of the week in baseball circles, rain and wet grounds being responsible for calling off most of the fracases in the pro loops, and the managements has been taking it on the chin with monotonous regularity. Looks like some of the minor clubs at least will hafta cut salaries, for the old sock ain't bottomless, and when you gotta lay out the jack without none coming in at the gate life ain't exactly a bowl of cherries for the promoters which is holding the bag. In the big show they ain't been enough games played since my last to change the standing very much, so they ain't a great deal to discuss with the customers. One feature of the week has been the release of old Joe Boley by th A's, which looks like the beginning of the mash-up of Mister Mack's machine. Several others of the birds which was regulars but yesterday is quite likely to go the same way in the near future, for they ain't no sentiment in baseball, and the guys whose legs give out or who develop a haze over their optics ain't kept on the pay-roll much longer'n it'll take to write out a release.

This letter is wrote before Mister Jack Corcoran's big wrestling bill. I for 1 am curious to see this Masked Marvel in action, for a rassler that handicaps himself by covering his mug so the customers can't see the faces he's making must be good. The distressed look most of the grunt and groan artists can put on when they look to be in a tight corner is about ½ the racket, and here's a bird what is willing to battle with his map all shut up in curtains.

Box lacrosse practises this week has brought out a whole flock of youngsters anxious to learn the game, and the new material is taking to this fast-moving pastime as if they had been playing it since they was old enough to hold a stick. And the boys like it, too, which makes it look like the present revival is more than a flash in the pan, and out of it will come some real smart lacrosse teams. That oughta be popular with every sport-lover in town.

Well, Mac, here's hoping for better weather next week for the ball players, the box lacrosseists and all the rest of the sporting fraternity.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

FRIDAY, THE 13TH ENDS TWO STREAKS IN INTERNATIONAL

WINGS BEAT NEWARK 3-2.

(By the Associated Press).

Friday the 13th saw the end of two long streaks in the International League, much to the satisfaction of the Reading Keys and, conversely, to the sorrow of the Montreal Royals.

The Keys had dropped 12 games in a row until they finally turned on their tormentors yesterday and walloped the Buffalo Bison 7-4. Montreal, on the other hand, had run up a string of 13 successive triumphs until Baltimore ended the streak with a 3-2 victory at Montreal.

Fred Bennett was the hero of Reading's triumph. He drove out two home runs, accounting for five runs, in the first and third innings. Krasovic also poled out a homer for the Keys. Clayt Van Alstyne, in the meantime, held the Bisons to six hits, home runs by Winsett and Carnegie accounting for all four Buffalo tallies.

Ken Holloway, Baltimore veteran, stopped Montreal with nine scattered hits, although it took some effective pitching and fast fielding to check the Royals in the eighth and ninth innings when they did most of their threatening. Buzz Arlett and Jim Stroner, with two hits apiece, led the Baltimore attack on Brown and Fisher.

Rochester's champion Redwings tightened up the race by beating Newark again, 3-2, as Bud Teachout outpitched Bots Nekola by a slight margin. It was Nekola's first defeat after four straight victories. He was touched for eight hits, all singles. A double by Jess Hill and a home run by Dixie Walker were the only extra base hits among the six Newark garnered off Teachout. Bill Zitzmann broke his right ankle sliding into second base in the fourth inning.

Race Tightens.

As a result of the defeat of both Newark and Montreal, only two games separate these two leading clubs from Baltimore in fifth place.

Yesterday's Stars

Alvin Crowder, Senators — Held Tigers to two hits, blanked them 7-0, and collected triple and single himself.

Wright, Cuccinello and Kelly, Dodgers — Completed first triple play of season against Reds.

Jimmy Foxx, Athletics—Fattened batting average with four singles off Browns' pitching.

Charley Gelberg, Cardinals— Led attack on Philly pitching with double, triple and two singles.

ART DICK GAINS DECISION OVER POPULAR HART

Babe Caddock Tosses Marchioni in 23½ Minutes of Semi-final.

PLENTY OF THRILLS.

Weight Advantage Counts in Ex-Evansville Gridiron Gladiator's Win.

The professional wrestlers came to town last night and did their stuff all over the Brock Street Rink, both in and out of the ring. Close to two thousand fans yelled, booed, cheered and roared with laughter at the swift, many-sided movie of action that goes under the heading of "grappling".

The main match of the evening saw the Masked Marvel throw Abe Kashey in two straight falls, the first seventeen minutes and second in fifteen and a half. In the semi-final, Babe Caddock tossed Adolpho Marchioni in twenty-three and a half minutes, while Art Dick was declared the winner on points over Frank Hart in the opener. Jack Forbes was third man in—and out—of the ring. The show was staged by the Queensbury Boxing and Wrestling Club of Toronto.

Art Dick, Evansville 190-pounder, and the "Flying Dutchman," Frankie Hart, 182, opened up fast, Frank soon showing much more speed but Dick having a big edge on weight and strength. Art started the elbow clips to the jaw early and Hart got sore and drove him around the ring with everything the law allows and then some. The crowd cheered Hart as he finally broke a bad Jap jacknife hold, and Art was nearly knocked out of the ring with a flying tackle to his prominent breadbasket. Art was warned several times for use of the strangle hold and other rough measures, and the crowd booed him at every opportunity.

Weight Counts

Frankie showed his amazing agility with a flying headscissors but every hold was broken by the husky ape-like Dick. The latter landed once with a flying tackle but Hart jumped clear over on another one. They smacked each other with gusto and with elbows, roughing it up to bring roars from the crowd. Toward the end, Dick was showing the weight advantage, wearing Hart down with body slams and various torturing holds that drew groans, but he couldn't nail the Dutchman to the mat. His hand was lifted when time was up, and although he deserved the win, the crowd booed heartily and gave Frankie a big hand as he left the ring.

Babe Caddock, 198 of New York, was too tricky for Adolph Marchioni, 195-pound Italian, pinning him in twenty-three minutes. They went like a cyclone from the start, Adolpho turning at the first bell and catching Babe with a flying tackle. Three times in a row the latter used a vicious armlock on the hapless Italian, and then they began sparring, slapping and elbowing each other around. The Babe was very fast and snaked and wove in close to punish the other, while wriggling free of holds ridiculously easy. But Adolpho hurt him with one to hold followed by three resounding body slams.

Caddock Gets Victory

Twice Caddock crawled to the ropes and rested after getting severe head massages in close, and then Marchioni brought the fans up yelling as he drove the Babe clean out of the ring twice in a frenzied two-handed attack. But the other came back strong and mixed it. They both went out of the ring again, Caddock being chased. He climbed in quick and grabbed the referee and the crowd was in an uproar. After they quietened down and got squared off again, the Babe crashed Adolpho with two jarring flying tackles, then grabbed him and slammed him to the mat with a reverse back slam to win the fall. He helped the other out as there was a mixture of boos and cheers for the victor.

Gets Two Straight Falls

The main bout was a two-out-of-three affair, with the Masked Marvel, 216 pounds of him, getting two straight falls over Abe Kashey, 209 of Syria. Right from the start Abe tried to rip off his mask but the stocky Marvel roughed him up too much. Kashey got a double reverse leg lock with the mysterious one finally easing under the ropes to the jeers of the spectators. He turned and slammed Abe hard twice and was then warned for kneeing the Syrian. Abe connected for a Jap jacknife that bothered the hooded one plenty for a space, until he rolled over and clamped on a brutal toe-hold. They puffed and grunted for a bit and then got plenty rough, gouging, elbowing and twisting limbs, Abe all the time pulling away at the mask that fitted the Marvel's head like a glove.

The two behemoths and the referee all got tangled up in the ropes for an exciting half minute, and Kashey ripped the back of the secretive grappler's disguise off. As they sparred around fast, the Marvel turned his opponent around and grabbed a full nelson. The Syrian stagged right across the ring but was thrown heavily, and a neckhold and armlock flattened him for the first fall in seventeen and a half minutes. They took a ten-minute rest before going on again.

Match Held Up

The crowd yelled angrily for them to start as the Marvel's manager refused to let him go on again until the manager's chair which had been pinched while he was away, was returned to his corner. They finally got going again, mixing up hard. Suddenly, after a hard exchange, the Marvel turned blindly and picked up Referee Forbes with a crotch hold and slammed him to the floor by mistake, but Abe grabbed him from behind by the neck, and then it was some fun for a while as Kashey alternately rasped him up the face and tore at that Scotch head-covering.

They battled viciously using cruel clutches and Abe suddenly pushed him through the ropes and went out after him. Forbes jumped out and the three fought it out for a minute amid the hysterical crowd. They got back in and tortured each other some more with the Marvel pulling off a mean head scissors on the squirming Kashey. As the latter broke, he worked into a nifty wristlock, and the hidden Marvel had to climb out of the ring to escape it, and Abe kept him out for a space. They roughed it up again and suddenly the Marvel grabbed a tight crotch hold, picked Abe up over his head and slammed him down to pin his shoulders for the fall and match in fifteen and a half minutes. He was booed by the fans and the more popular Kashey got a hand as he climbed wearily through the ropes and headed for the dressing room.

LAKEFIELD SOFTBALL LEAGUE OPENS.

LAKEFIELD, May 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—Away to a good start, if a slippery one, the local Softball League opened on Thursday night with a fast game between the I.O.O.F. and the Canadian Legion. The score was 24-16 in favor of the Triple Link brethren, but that does not indicate the play, which was keen, and when the I.O.O.F. went up for the first of the sixth the score was a tie, but nine runs sent the I.O.O.F. well ahead, and the Vets only got one run. The light was poor for the last inning. The damp grounds made the going on bases, and in the field very treacherous, but a couple of warm days with a good wind would dry the grounds and put the diamond in first-class shape. R. C. Chittick at the plate and B. Blewett on the bases held the game well in hand. A feature of the game was three home runs by the I.O.O.F.

John and D. H. Charlton each made one, and Oscar Calberry the third. The first ball was pitched by C. S. Tanner, Reeve of the village, and president of the L.A.A.A.

The back stop erected this year is a great advantage, and also the score board.

The next game will be played on Tuesday next, when the High School and Central Garage meet.

The line-ups were as follows:

I.O.O.F.—Northey, p; J. Charlton, c; Morrison, 1b; Calberry, 2b; Wagar, 3b; D. Charlton, ss; Mortiss; Mortlock, rf; Frankish, lf; Fairbairn, c.

Score by innings:

I.O.O.F... .. .. .. 5 6 1 2 1 9—24

"YOU TAKE CORN" said Mr. Picobac

"You take corn—and by corn I mean the hard flint corn of commerce—only two counties in Canada can ripen flint corn. Essex, Ontario is one of 'em. And her neighbor, the county of Kent, is the other."

Mr. Picobac slowly and carefully placed the straight stem of his briar pipe between his teeth.

"Something different about the soil . . . something different about the climate," continued he, thoughtfully. "Not only corn. Look at beans . . . Look at melons . . . Look at peaches . . . Look at tobacco—Burley Tobacco. Look at Burley. The seed came from Kentucky in the first place, but Kentucky hasn't got anything on Essex and Kent for Burley tobacco now."

Picobac Tobacco is the sun-ripened, graded product of select Ontario Burley, as grown in Essex and Kent counties on the Lake Erie front, "the tropic belt of Canada." It gives you a mild . . . cool . . . sweet . . . smoke. Try it. And don't forget, you get more tobacco for your money . . . Good for making cigarettes, too.

Softball Meeting At Campbellford

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 14. — Softball is again coming to the front at Campbellford, an organization meeting being called for Tuesday, May 17, to arrange for a town league for this season. Last year a very interesting four team league was run and created much interest among the citizens, good attendances being featured at all games. A like success is expected this year. The meeting will be held in the Campbellford Public Library.

LEFTY GWYNNE IS VICTOR OVER MONTREAL BOY

Easter Metropolis Gains Double Triumph in Heavy and Featherweight.

GENEOVESE ALSO WINS.

Hamilton and Edmonton Take One Title Each In Dominion Finals.

TORONTO, May 14 (C.P.)—Seven of Canada's amateur boxing crowns, six of which went west last year, returning to the east to-day after a marathon fight card which started early last evening and lasted for nine hours. Toronto and Montreal divided evenly the six crowns which went to Winnipeg last year, while Hamilton and Edmonton each captured one title.

Western Canada's sole winner came in the middleweight division when Peppery Larry Lavoie, Edmonton slugger, scored a technical knockout over Curly Duncan, rugged Toronto 160- pounder. Duncan and Lavoie, both tired from earlier night engagements, failed to put a match of championship calibre, but the winner was clearly entitled to the verdict.

Two all-Montreal finals featured the program when G. B. Maughan, rangy Montrealer, captured the heavy crown on a decision from Bill Maitch of Brantford. Johnny Keller made it a double triumph for the eastern metropolis in the featherweight division, outboxing Larry Phillips, a fellow townsman, to gain the official decision.

Heathfield Loses.

Montreal just missed making it three in a row when Eddie Heathfield lost a verdict to Horace (Lefty) Gwynne, rugged Toronto bantamweight, in a bruising contest. The easterners came back to take the next contest, however, Tony Mancini eking out a verdict over Nick Nickilio in the welterweight section.

Young Jackie Callura brought honors to Hamilton, scoring an impressive technical knockout victory over Herbie Weatherhead, Winnipeg, in the flyweight division.

The highly disputed featherweight crown, last to be settled on the night's program, was lifted by Frankie Geneovese, Toronto newsboy, when he defeated Paul Frederickson, last year's title-holder from Winnipeg.

GUY BUSH WINS HIS OWN GAME

DODGERS WIN 5-3.

(By Gayle Talbot, A.P. Sports Writer.)

Joe Stripp and Tony Cuccinello are having the time of their young lives making the Cincinnati Reds regret the deal that sent them to Brooklyn this Spring.

For two days the crack pair of infielders have played some of the most brilliant ball of their careers in helping the Dodgers blight the Reds' first division hopes. As on the previous day, their batting and fielding was a potent factor in Brooklyn's second straight triumph yesterday, 5-3.

Not only did Stripp bang two doubles and Cuccinello the same number of singles, but Tony further distinguished himself by acting as middleman in the season's first triple play. The wholesale killing, which went from Glenn Wright to Cuccinello to Long George Kelly, stopped the Reds in the third inning after the first two batters had got on.

Given that kind of encouragement, Dazzy Vance had little difficulty holding the five-run lead his mates had given him by piling into Larry Benton the first three innings. The dazzler allowed but eight hits, one of which was a home run by his old Brooklyn mate, Babe Herman.

The Boston Braves lost an opportunity to climb within a game of the National League top when the Chicago Cubs rallied to score twice in the last of the ninth and win, 3-2. Guy Bush won his own game when he drove the winning run across after two were out.

Cards Win Out 8-7

The St. Louis Cardinals jumped on Ed. Holley, Phillie recruit, for five runs in the seventh inning to tie the score and then went out to win in the 10th, 8-7. Harvey Hendrick's home run featured the seventh inning outburst. The Giants again were rained out at Pittsburg.

Alvin Crowder set the Detroit Tigers down with two singles, struck out six and did not permit a runner past first as the Washington Senators won, 7-0, and boosted their lead in the American League. Crowder helped his own cause with a triple and a single.

The Athletics walloped St. Louis 9-4 in the only other American League tilt. The Mackmen collected 17 hits off Blaeholder and Coffman, while George Earnshaw was scattering six.

For concealing from the Ministry of Labor that two of his daughters were earning wages, Patrick Gardiner was arrested at Burnbank Scotland, recently.

CASUAL COMMENT

From six p.m. until around two o'clock in the morning, the second night of the Canadian amateur boxing trials went last night with forty-two bouts run off. It was the longest amateur session ever seen in Toronto and the reason there were so many entries in was that trip to the Olympic Games in Los Angeles this summer.

• • • • • • •

Speaking of California, we have just received a clipping from there mentioning a record-breaking high school 880-yard run by Ronald Asquith, formerly of Peterborough. As it says "Among the first place winners from South Pasadena was Ronald Asquith, speedy Tiger iron man, who shattered the time in the 880 yard run by turning in the race in 2 minutes 1.1 seconds."

• • • • • • •

At the age of six months, young Asquith came to Peterborough from Yorkshire, England. He later attended Queen Mary School here and the Collegiate before going to Los Angeles at the age of fifteen, about four years ago. His uncle, Fred Sutcliff lives at 823 George Street, while Ronald used to live on Murray Street.

The Men's Softball League will hold an executive meeting at eight o'clock Monday evening in Duffus'. The schedule will be drawn up, umpire-in-chief appointed, opening day ceremonies arranged, and other final league business checked off before the campaign gets under way. They've had a bunch of applications for the job of umpiring, many rushing in where many more fear to tread, as it were.

• • • • • • •

There are times when it seems the safest place for a fan at a pro wrestling match is in the ring. After all, what's the use of paying for a good front seat at the ringside when the grapplers wont let you sit down in peace? They come rolling out with legs and arms flying any old time at all with disconcerting suddenness. And they never, never fail to hit the press table at least once, sending the harried scribes to cover like frightened jackrabbits.

• • • • • • •

Last night was no exception. The last two bouts at the Brock found the two opponents and sometimes the referee all tangled up several times out where the customers are supposed to hold sway. We're not squawking, just so they tumble out on the other side of the ring. There's nothing more upsetting than a couple hundred pounds of rassler landing in your lap.

• • • • • • •

Poor Jack Forbes got a rough passage while refereeing that main tussle. The Masked Marvel apparently likes variety and after mixing for a while with Abe Kashey, he'd grab Jack and throw him for a loss. And he had a nice gentle manager, also in Sherlock Holmes regalia, who would now and then encourage his man with the advice, "Break it off, Marvel!" the "it" being Abe's hand or foot. And how the crowd would boo!

• • • • • • •

The card as a whole was exciting, and judging from the racket raised, the fans found it okay. The main scrap was rough enough for anyone. There may be a few torture holds they didn't use, but we saw all we cared to in that line. And the Caddock-Marchioni affair was good, too, although the New Yorker was too fast and tricky. At times, he should have had a bicycle to tear around outside the ring, but he got the crowd all het up, anyway.

• • • • • • •

Frankie Hart was hardly strong enough for the man-gorilla, Art Dick, who treated him harshly to say the least. Frank is as fast and smooth as ever and always popular. But Art had too much beef for him and knew how to use it. It took a roughneck like Kasakoski to cut down the Evansville hulk to his own size with a kick under the chin and a jump on his face last fall, remember?

• • • • • • •

Elbow clips, rabbit punches, kicks in the stomach and what have you? featured all three matches last night. There was nearly as much boxing, of the foul variety mostly, as wrestling. But that's what goes over so big with the spectators. They used flying tackles and all the brutal holds imaginable in weakening each other for a fall, and then of course there was the outside-the-ring action that tickled the fans. Incidentally, Marchioni could have been counted out once in the second bout as he wasn't inside the ring in ten seconds. Well, it was a large evening up there.

PHENOMENAL GRADS' RECORD IS MATCHLESS IN ANY SPORT

Famed Edmonton Girls' Basketball Team Has Ruled Supreme for Over Decade.

UNDER SAME COACH

EDMONTON, Alta., May 14. — (Special to The Examiner).—For the eleventh consecutive year, the famous Edmonton Grads rule the roost in the Canadian women's basketball world and, as a matter of fact, in all the world.

Their record can be said to be without parallel in any sport any time. And it has been accomplished by one coach, Percival Page, though the personnel of the team has changed yearly.

In 16 years the Grads have played 352 official games, winning 344. In compiling their record the Grad teams have travelled more than 66,000 miles, including trips to the Olympic Games in 1924 and 1928. They will probably go to Los Angeles this year.

The Grads have decisively trounced most of the leading United States teams. Their Canadian championship record is a good indication of their supremacy.

Other Winners

1922—Grads 41, London Shamrocks 8; Grads 8, London Shamrocks 21. (The first game was played under girls' rules, which the Grads first used, and the second under boys' rules, to which the Shamrocks were accustomeod. After that the Grads switched to boys' rules.)

1924—Grads 41, Toronto Ladies 11; Grads 26 Toronto Ladies 13.

1925—Grads 18, Toronto Y.W.H.A. 1; Grads 17, Toronto Y.W.H.A. 10.

Totals—Grads 922, opponents 345.

In 1929 the Canadian finals were called off when the Vancouver Meralomas could not finance the trip. The Grads easily defeated the Meralomas in an exhibition, and then went east and trimmed Toronto Parkdales and a picked Toronto team in "friendly" fixtures. While in 1931 the Lakesides were awarded the title by default, yet the Grads in their exhibition games scored a sweeping moral victory.

The Grads have held the Alberta championship continuously since 1922, the international championship since 1923 and the official world's championship from 1924 to 1930, when they waived their right to represent Canada at the women's Olympics in Prague, 1930, in favor of University of British Columbia. As the Vancouver team has since broken up the title automatically reverts to the Grads.

What's the secret of Page's success? All-year-round training, sleep, diet, constant practice, steady development of new material, and Edmonton's bracing air, are some of the answers, to which can be added that nothing succeeds like success.

Easter Act Favored By United States

WASHINGTON, May 14 (C.P.).—The United States has communicated to the League of Nations an endorsement in principle of the "Easter Act," adopted by the International Conference on calendar reform at Geneva last October, which proposes to the churches the fixing of Easter on the Sunday following the second Saturday in April.

This Act also stabilizes other movable holidays.

LAST DAY UNDER RESIDENCE RULE FOR HOCKEYISTS

Many of Ontario's Hockey Centres of Other Years Importing Players.

SHANNON AT FALLS.

Hamilton Club Adds Three Players to Roster for Next Year.

TORONTO, May 14. (CP)—Hockeyists, seniors and juniors alike, are making final shifts to new residences to-day for next winter's schedule May of Ontario's great hockey centres of other years are importing players and strengthening aggregations for the 1932-33 grind. To-day is the final day of movers as the Ontario Hockey Association rule no residence changes can be made after May 15.

Niagara peninsula clubs, Port Colborne, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, members of the "Big Seven" group of the senior O.H.A. last season are all adding additional strength in hopes of winning high awards during the coming campaign.

Strengthens Team

Gene Fraser, doughty manager of Niagara Falls Cataracts has added two valuable additions to his always-classy senior team. Jerry Shannon, an old Falls campainer but for the past two years with Port Colborne, is back in his home town, while the other acquisition is Bill Haste, speedy forward of Windsor Mic Macs, Ontario intermediate champions.

The Hamilton club has gone the Falls one better, adding three players to the roster for next season. Wilbur Smith, rightwinger of the Fallsters, has joined Tigers along with Freddie Radke, of Marlboro seniors, and Herbie Cain of Newmarket juniors.

Two players have been added to Port Colborne's 1931-32 sextette in Harry Gray, sturdy young defenceman of Toronto Marlboro juniors and Vic Chisholm, member of Toronto Nationals, senior champions of Canada.

PREAKNESS STAKE ON CARD TO-DAY

Twelve Slated to Start in $50,000 Added Race at Pimlico Course.

BALTIMORE, May 14 (C.P.).—Burgoo King, ruler of the three-year-old turf division in the United States by reason of his victory in the Kentucky Derby, and 11 crack Eastern thoroughbreds were the magnet that was expected to draw close to 40,000 fans to historic Pimlico for the 42nd running of the Preakness to-day.

Although the field lacks a Mate, a Gallant Fox, or a Twenty Grand, Pimlico officials expected the same rip-roaring capacity crowd at the famous old Hilltop course when Starter James Milton gets the even dozen starters away at about 4 p.m. (E.S.T.).

In Baltimore, the Preakness is the crowning event of the spring racing season, and, like the Derby in Louisville attracts a cross section of the city's population.

AT THE CAPITOL

"SKY BRIDE"

This is one of the pictures that make you want to laugh and cry at the same time. It is so real that it hurts at times. And anyone who doesn't like Jack Oakie (and this reviewer never liked him until now), ought to see him in this talkie. He's simply immense.

Like "Hell Divers," this production has a lot to do with the men who ride the air and, like that talkie, it has a sensational crack-up.

Richard Arlen shares the honors with Oakie. He is "Speed" Condon, the daredevil stunt flier who pays for his cocksureness in a tragic way. Oakie is Alex Dugan, complete with grey derby and a smile that doesn't get as much wear as usual, in this picture. His face comes in for a lot of hard knocks but he goes through to the end, with a dog-like devotion to his friend that brings a lump to the throat.

Virginia Bruce is the girl who doesn't count a great deal, and Louise Closser Hale is the mother who does. It is a picture of swift action and unusual treatment and quality of utter sincerity that makes it more like a slice of real life. The "zoom" of airships resounds through "Sky Bride," the title having to do with a plane rather than a woman, and it brings to the fore a new Oakie, bidding fair to rival Wallace Beery as a maker of realistic moving scenes.—Jeanette.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

OLD MAN COYOTE FINDS OUT.

Let riddles not confuse your mind;
To each the answer you can find.
—Old Man Coyote.

Old Man Coyote doesn't like riddles. When a thing puzzles him he wants to find the answer. He isn't satisfied until he does. If some one fools him he is never satisfied until he learns how he was fooled. So when he promised Jerry Muskrat that he would find out how Jerry had got down to that pool at the bend in the Laughing Brook without being seen by him he meant it.

"The knowledge will not do you any good now," said Jerry. "It is too late."

"Then why not tell me?" retorted Old Man Coyote instantly.

Jerry chuckled. "As I told you before, I came here on my four feet," said he. "Now if you will excuse me I will be going along. It is a long way to the Smiling Pool and I am anxious to get there."

"Why not walk along down with me and I will see that no one bothers you," said Old Man Coyote guilelessly.

"Thank you," replied Jerry, "but I prefer to go along. You see, I really want to get to the Smiling Pool and I fear that if I should start with you I would get no nearer to it than the start."

Old Man Coyote took no offense. He merely grinned. "I guess we understand each other," said he.

"I'm sure we do," replied Jerry, and dived into the deep water. Old Man Coyote ran forward a few steps and watched for him to come up, but failed to see anything of him. "No dinner of Muskrat for me to-day," said Old Man Coyote, talking to himself. "Jerry has been too smart for me this time. Now I must find out how he did it so that he may not repeat another time. I'll go back up to that pile of stones and see just where Jerry went from there."

So Old Man Coyote trotted back and after he got back there it didn't take him half a minute to find the scent of Jerry's trail leading right straight to the water. His wonderful nose told him that right there Jerry had plunged into the Laughing Brook. There was no possible chance for a mistake.

"So far so good," muttered Old Man Coyote. "Here is where he went in. Now, where did he come out?" With his nose to the ground he slowly made his way down the bank of the Laughing Brook to the place where he had been hiding. Not once had he found the faintest scent of Jerry. "He didn't come out on this side," declared Old Man Coyote. "Now I'll find a place to cross and try the other bank."

So he went back once more and a little above the stone pile found a place where, by a mighty jump, he could leap across. Then he made his way down the other bank with his nose to the ground. Right away he found the scent of Buster Bear, but to this he paid no attention. At last patience was rewarded. He found the place where Jerry had left the water. "Now," he muttered, "we'll find how he got past Buster Bear without being seen. The little rascal was cleverer than I dreamed he was."

With his nose he began to follow Jerry's trail. For only a very little way did it follow the bank of the Laughing Brook. Then it turned off. Having his head down Old Man Coyote didn't notice this at first, but presently he looked up and discovered that he was going away from the Laughing Brook. The sound of the latter was behind him. He hurried on. Presently he began to hear the Laughing Brook ahead of him and in a few minutes he was on the bank by the pool at the bend right across from where he had been when Jerry was sitting on that rock.

He chuckled. "He remembered this turn the Laughing Brook makes and made a short cut across and so fooled us," he muttered. "Yes, sir, Jerry is smarter than I thought. But now that I know this trick he'll never work it on me again."

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If May 14th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., and from 10:15 p.m. to 11:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:40 a.m. to 10 a.m., and from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

May 14th, from astrological configurations, will be externally eventless and placid, but there will be several moves made on your checkerboard of Fate which will in the near future bring about some alterations and changes in your life. Revival of old associations, which will be all to the good.

The child born on this May 14th may not show scholastic ability in its mastery of the three R's, but it will have decided passions and talents which should be fostered and cultivated. It will return love for love and hate for hate, and will be more sensitive than it outwardly appears to be.

Born on May 14th, patience is not one of your particular virtues, and you easily get fed up and desert your posts. Your own chronic boredom is the most boring quality which you possess, and one which others both fear and resent. You are poor material out of which to wring enthusiasm or gladness. Your emotional indifference, however, is somewhat of a pose, as you have more feeling and love in yo r nature than you are able or willing to express. You are not a person with whom to take liberties, and you are on a familiar footing with but few. You are, however, an enigma in many respects to even your intimate or family associates.

You will never travel through life in any respect second or third class, if it can possibly be avoided. Your tastes are extravagant, and nothing for you can take the place of comfort. You shy from the sordid side of life, and shut your eyes to many inevitable sights and contacts. There is one world to which you are friendly and at home —the book world. Many characters of history, fiction and newspaper renown are familiar figures in your mind. You do considerable dreaming and thinking, about which the world knows little. It does not occur to you that people are interested in your ideas or viewpoints. You are indifferent to most sports and games, but are fond of music and the theatre.

Sunday, May 15th.

If May 15th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:20 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

It would be advisable to forsake all thoughts of business on Sunday, May 15th, as the planets are not auspiciously placed for worldly affairs. Influences are favorable for the pursuing of spiritual participations, gab-fests, or simple home pleasures, according to the customs and pleasures of the individual.

Children born on this May 15th will have cautious natures and will take their responsibilities very seriously. They will tend to brood over their misfortunes, and will be sensitive to criticisms. Unless assigned to a leading part, they soon lose interest in anything.

Born on May 15th, you have a slow, ponderous nature, combined with a capacity for sustained effort. Your disposition is too lymphatic to be subject to irritation, and it takes a severe prick to get underneath your skin. You are also incapable of knowing that you are ever the cause of irritation in others—your very complacency is sometimes irksome to one of a more mercurial temperament. Your jokes or smiles are disarming to those who try to pick a quarrel with you, and you easily come out the victor in a would-be fight.

As a man you should succeed as a tiller of soil, as a horticulturist, builder and contractor, a scientific forester, or some line of mechanical work. As a woman, you are fitted for home economics applied in the field or your own home, nursing, hospital, laboratory work, or some form of welfare work. You are not afraid to roll up your sleeves and dig, and although a plodder, are a cheerful one. You are never too busy to talk, or too tired to refrain from it. When you like a person to whom you are speaking, you have a tendency to become too voluble, and "spill the beans" when you should be careful. "Thy friend has a friend, and thy friend's friend has a friend; be discreet," is a quotation which you should memorize. The parental instinct is strong within you, and a marriage without children would be apt to end on the rocks.

NEW SCOTT LETTER FOUND.

Written by Sir Walter Scott to Sir Adam Ferguson, on January 11, 1825, a seven-page letter has just been presented to Glasgow University, Glasgow, Scotland, by Alexander J. Soutar, of Sydney, Australia. It never has been published, having been lying neglected in Australia for 30 years, and is said to present a complete character of the Scottish writer.

PROSPECTORS PAN FOR GOLD WITHIN CALGARY CITY LIMITS

And Many of Unemployed Take to Pan and Shovel Throughout Province.

"DEAD DUCK" STRIKE

CALGARY, May 14.—(Special to The Examiner).—After an absence of more than a year—or since the affair of the Livingstone River in the Foothills—the gold bug has returned to Calgary and two victims of its bite are busily panning the frigid waters of the Elbow River within the city limits. They claim they are making enough to make it worthwhile. One of them is equipped with waders and a shovel.

Gold panners are rare about Calgary but many parts of the Province of Alberta boast followers of the pan and shovel. The Saskatchewan River has a large number of unemployed working there the year round. They pan from 50 cents to $3 a day which is better than being idle in the cities. Alberta's many mountain streams too, attract wanderers and place miners can be found from time to time working beside the frigid waters.

Local opinion has it that the Elbow will prove unprofitable. It has been prospected before and gold has been found from time to time around Calgary but the best strike was that of the dead duck.

A gold nugget was found inside a duck brought to the Calgary market and the bird was traced to the De Winton district. After investigation it was concluded that the bird swallowed the nugget somewhere along Fish Creek. Fish Creek's one and only gold stampede started and the area was staked, but no gold was found.

DATE BASKETS CARRY COINS.

Vast numbers of foreign coins are being smuggled into Karachi, India, in baskets of dates, according to the police, who have arrested several wealthy Arabs. Among the coins are 11,000 Russian silver pieces bearing the date of 1718, and 121 guineas, said to have been exchanged for the Russian coins.

INCREASED TRADE WITH WEST INDIES

Vegetables Not Coming to Canada From West Indies.

MONTREAL, May 13 (C.P.)—The Dominion Government's embargo on California produce owing to the outbreak of food and mouth disease will give Canadian housewives a chance to increase their purchases of British West Indies products. W. R. Evans, assistant director of agriculture for Bermuda, who arrived in Montreal recently, to supervise disposal of the first cargoes to come to this port from the island, said that Bermuda hoped to sell her entire crop of celery in Canada. So far this year more vegetables, and carrots in particular, have been brought to this country than during the whole of last season.

Mr. Evans stated that to facilitate trade between Canada and Bermuda there should be a provision that when goods were ready for shipment from Bermuda and there was not a Canadian steamer available to take them to a Canadian port, they should be sent via New York without having to pay duty. As the position existed today, he explained, the preference given under the terms of the Canada West Indies trade agreement, applied only to produce shipped direct to a Canadian port. The Canadian National steamers had only a fortnightly service to Bermuda and this sometimes meant that vegetables had to go via New York, reaching Canada in bond but subject to 30 per cent. duty. In addition there was the cost of freight haulage from New York to Canada, he said. Gradually as Canada took more and more produce from the West Indies, he added, it would be worth while for the Canadian National to put on a regular weekly service to Bermuda.

"I'M going, anyway"

THE modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month.

If you've ever taken Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry-on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it is genuine Aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart. They do not upset the stomach. They do nothing but stop the pain.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore that you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Genuine Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

POLICE SEIZE FOOTBALL

In spite of the court decision three years ago that the 60-year custom of playing football in the main street of Chester-le-Street, England, is illegal, play was resumed on the annual football day recently. Three men were promptly arrested when a ball was kicked through a candy store window. Two balls were produced at the start of the games. A young policeman caught one at the kick-off, and took it to the police station. The other mysteriously disappeared.

Construction of public works in France is increasing.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

TWO YEARS GIVEN TO LINDSAY MAN

Theft of Motor Car Sends Harry Checkley to Jail for Third Time.

LINDSAY, May 14. (Examiner Correspondence)—Harry Checkley, of this town, aged twenty-three years, has been given his third term in Kingston Penitentiary. He is described by Toronto police as one of the most dangerous men with whom they have had to deal. This week he was given a two year term in the 'Pen' for the theft of a motor car, the property of Dr. Healey, of Toronto, and which was found on a side street in Lindsay. Checkley's record is that of a desperado. It dates back to 1924, when he burglarized a number of homes in this town, one of which was the home of Lady Hughes, when a quantity of jewelry was carried off. He got five years for that offence. He was released on parole, but was picked up again when he pulled a gun on Detective Hicks in a Toronto garage.

There have been spasmodic grain movements over the C.N.R. through Lindsay and Peterborough of late. It is announced that a little over a hundred thousands bushels of wheat from Collingwood elevator will pass through during the week-end for the east and that two large freighters are on their way to Midland with a million bushels. Of course with the high power locomotives this is only a small haul, but as a railroader remarked to-day, "every little bit helps."

A house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradimore, of Coboconk and owned by R. Pearce, was destroyed along with the contents the other night. There was a small insurance on the house, but nothing on the furniture.

At a meeting of the Lindsay Central Fair board held on Thursday protests were received from nearly all the Women's Institutes in the district against the type of midway staged at the Exhibition last year. The board assured the Institutes, as well as the public, that an absolutely clean all-Canadian show will be seen this year.

The local agricultural representative is authority for the statement that while driving through the county he noticed more horses being used on the land than tractors. He also noticed twice as many buggies in use than he remembers in recent years. Old Dobbin is regaining his old place on the farm.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

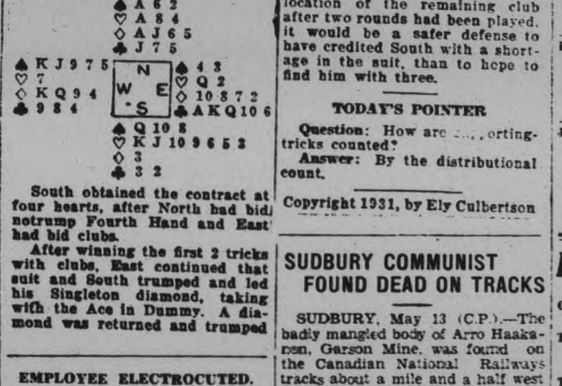
FORCING A LEAD

"If I could only have forced my opponent to have made a spade lead, I could have won the contract," is a frequent lament at the Bridge table. This plaint would not be as frequent if the Declarer was more accurate in his card reading and more careful in his play. Desired leads can frequently be forced. One of the best systems of forcing a lead is of eliminating all other suits from the hand of the chosen opponent before giving him an opportunity to lead. By use of the elimination play, many a Contract game can be won that would be lost by any other system of play.

Today's hand, which was played by Mr. Earl M. Hoffman of Cleveland, discloses elimination as the only method of making game on the hand. It was played in Duplicate and other players failed to find the correct solution.

Neither side vulnerable.

East—Dealer.



South obtained the contract at four hearts, after North had bid notrump Fourth Hand and East had bid clubs.

After winning the first 2 tricks with clubs, East continued that suit and South trumped and led his Singleton diamond, taking with the Ace in Dummy. A diamond was returned and trumped and the Dummy reentered with a trump to again lead diamonds which the Declarer ruffed. He now led the King of hearts, removing the last adverse trump. Another lead of trumps put the Dummy in to lead the last diamond, which eliminated all the diamonds outstanding. South again and when West played the nine he was permitted to hold the trick. His hand, however, was now void of everything but the King and Knave of spades, so South was enabled to make his contract through the correct use of the elimination play, followed by a throw in. South knew that East did not hold the King of spades; otherwise, he would have had an Opening bid. He also knew that East held but two spades originally, as he had already shown the possession of five clubs, four diamonds and two hearts. His end play was the only chance of making his contract.

It might be well to point out that East could have defeated the contract if instead of leading the third round of clubs he had led a spade, as the situation which gave the Declarer his contract could not then have arisen. While East was not certain as to the location of the remaining club after two rounds had been played, it would be a safer defense to have credited South with a shortage in the suit, than to hope to find him with three.

Question: How are supporting tricks counted?

Answer: By the distributional count.

SUDBURY COMMUNIST FOUND DEAD ON TRACKS

SUDBURY, May 13 (C.P.).—The badly mangled body of Arro Haakanen, Garson Mine, was found on the Canadian National Railways tracks about a mile and a half west of the Sudbury C.N.R. Station today. Identification was made by means of a membership card in the Communist party, which showed that dues had been paid for the past four month. A bankbook in his pocket indicated he had opened a deposit with $25 in a local bank yesterday. It is believed he was struck by a freight train from Sudbury to Garson Mine last night and fell under the wheels. An inquest will be held by Coroner J. S. McKessock.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 96 By Edgar Rice Burroughs (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

The ape-man laughed. "You have done well, my friend," he said, "the gold does not belong to Owaza." Nor to you either," cried Owaza. "You are not Tarzan of the Apes. I know you. You came with three white men and the woman to steal the gold from Tarzan's country. Then you stole it from your friends." The chief and the Waziri laughed loud at this tale and Tarzan's handsome face lit with an amused smile.

"That other chap was an imposter, Owaza," he said, "but I am Tarzan of the Apes, and I thank you for bringing the gold to me." He compelled Owaza's carriers to bear the golden ingots of Opar to the Greystoke bungalow. Here he fed the carriers, paid them well and sent them home. Even to Owaza he gave a gift of value, telling him never to return to Tarzan's country.

When they had all departed and Tarzan, Jane and Korak were standing on the verandah, Jad-bal-ja lying at the ape-man's feet, Tarzan put his arm affectionately about his mate's shoulder. "I'll have to take back what I said about the gold of Opar not being for me. You see before you a new fortune that has come all the way from the treasure vaults of Opar without any effort on my part."

"Now if someone would only bring your diamonds back," laughed Lady Greystoke. "No chance of that!" said Tarzan of the Apes. "They are undoubtedly at the bottom of the Ugogo River."....And far away upon the banks of that river, in the village of Obebe, the cannibal, Esteban the false Tarzan lay in his crude hut, gloating over the fortune in diamonds that would never be of value to him."

FISHING BAITS ARE MADE IN PETERBORO

Display in Examiner Window of Local Product.

Displayed in The Examiner's north window is a large assortment of fishing plug baits all of which were manufactured right here in Peterborough. Having a humble beginning merely as a hobby the maker, Mr. Frank Edgar, 505 Sherbrooke street, has gone ahead until now he is producing a purely Canadian bait. This is the first year they have been sold outside of Peterborough and so well have they taken that it is anticipated to erect a much larger plant in the near future. Comparing favorably in all respects with the imported lines, they carry a guarantee against chipping or cracking having a very careful and well painted finish.

TURNER'S GET OUT COLORFUL FOLDER

Local Manufacturers Fully Alive to Changing Times.

Further proof that Peterborough manufacturers are alert to the trade and keep well to the front in developing their products to satisfy the changing needs of the market is given by the new tents and camp equipment announced by J. J. Turner and Sons, Ltd. In a colorful new folder these marked improvements in tents for the motor tourist and camper are exhibited and their advantages shown.

First among them is the "Gipsy" tent, which 9 feet by 9 feet and a height of 7 feet. It is made of the famous "Shuredy" drill with a sewn-in floor. But the features of this tent is a window, duck covered to ensure protection and privacy, and a lightning hookless fastened mosquito door.

Another new line that has particular advantages for the motorist is the "Snuggle-inn" tent, which can be erected without poles with car, or with poles. The size of this tent is 7 feet by 7 feet with the rear wall 3 feet high and the front wall 6 feet 6 inches high.

Then there is the popular wall tent, which has long been a staple of the business. Folding cots and canvas covered chairs and stools and dunnage bags are some of the other camping equipment required by tourists and campers that display the same skill of manufacture.

Peterboro' Rangers Plans To Hold Camp

Announcement was made to-day by Lieut.-Colonel G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M., that the Peterborough Rangers, of which unit he has recently assumed command, will spend three days under canvas near Pleasant Point, Sturgeon Lake, this year.

The regiment is to go into camp on the night of June 30 until July 3 inclusive. While the ranks are fairly well filled, it is stated, there still exist a few vacancies for recruits. Early application for enlistment is essential.

Besdes providing a complete change in scenery, the location of the camp site this year is said to be in a particularly healthful and delightful spot on a promontory commanding a five mile stretch of Sturgeon Lake; nearby is a splendid sandy bathing beach. Sports and the recreational side of camp life will be stressed this year, musketry tests which commence on Saturday next, being fired off on the local rifle ranges.

C.P.R. TO RUN BIG EXCURSION

Peterborough to Toronto and Return on May 28 for $1.50.

RETURN ON SUNDAY

Announcement was made by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company last night that the railway will run a bargain excursion from Peterborough on Saturday May 28 to Toronto and return, and the return ticket will be only one dollar and a half or less than one-third of the ordinary return fare. It will just be an old fashioned coach excursion, but this time with the most modern equipment to ensure speed and comfort. Patrons will be able to return by the regular evening train on Sunday at 9.45 and connections for Lindsay and Bobcaygeon will be made at Burketon. Points interested in the excursion and served by it will be from Tweed west to Burketon and from the latter town northeast to Bobcaygeon.

If the revival of this old time excursion in coaches under modern travelling conditions proves successful, it is confidently expected that the plan will be enlarged upon. The running of this special train when passenger traffic is light will give employment to extra train crews. With the highways, too, crowded at this time of the year with automombiles this is the chance for people to travel to Toronto in comfort at less cost than by motor. The public of to-day is seeking "Bargains" and have long been waiting for the Canadian Railways to offer "Bargain Days" in transportation. This excursion is indeed the ideal "Bargain."

City's Unemployed Cut Charity Wood

Twenty-six of the city's unemployed are working in the woods near Warsaw, in Dummer township, cutting wood for Howard J. Windsor, of McClennan avenue. The men are paid $1.25 for each cord cut, and it is understood that at this rate they average about $2.50 per day.

Under a contract with the Central Charity Board, the board is buying 1,000 cords of this wood at $5 per cord for relief purposes here. Under this contract Windsor agreed to employ Peterborough unemployed in cutting the wood.

The scheme is working out so well that the Central Charity Board is considering making another contract with Windsor for an additional 500 cords.

The men have been in the woods two weeks. Some are living in tents and others are living in a shack that they constructed themselves. Others are being boarded by Windsor for 50 cents a day. The men are sent to Windsor's camp under the direction of A. G. Metheral, city relief officer. More will go out on Monday.

French Unemployed Rapidly Declining

PARIS, May 14. (AP) — At the end of the first two weeks of May there were only 276,125 men out of work in France. In the past week the decrease in the number of jobless has been 5,888.

Since the middle of March unemployment has been on the decline, principally because of improved conditions in the textile regions of the north, the east and in Alsace. Pierre Laval, former premier and now Minister of Labor, is keeping a close check on the statistics, but his official totals of the unemployed include only those who receive government assistance.

NEW YORK READY FOR BEER MARCH

EXPECT 10,000 IN LINE.

NEW YORK, May 14.— The big town was all set this morning for a 13-hour flow of marching thousands who hope to start the beer taps spurting.

It was Mayor James J. Walker's "beer for taxation" parade. Plans were complete to handle a tramping host estimated in advance at 10,000.

For the first time in history, trafic cops took to the air to handle crowds on the ground. Worked out with all the care of a military manoeuvre, the plans included the blimp Resolute, which was to soar aloft with police officials and fly over the route of march.

As it shuttled back and forth, over the marching throngs, the blimp was to radio reports to police cars. The cars were ready to dash to congested points and divert or expedite traffic as the need appeared.

POLICE TURN TO RANSOM NOTES

Every Available Effort Being Made to Trace Lindbergh Money.

CONDON SAW ONE MAN.

HOPEWELL, N. J. May 16.—(CP)—Police turned again today to the ransom notes as chief hope for success in running down the kidnapper-murderers of the Lindbergh baby.

The telegram follows:

"May I respectfully request that you issue another letter to all people who received copies of the lists of currency bills used in the payment of the Lindbergh ransom requesting renewed vigilance in watching for these bills.

Col. Schwarzkopf also disclosed in his morning bulletin that Dr. Condon never had seen but one member of the gang with which he negotiated.

Published reports had previously said that Dr. Condon had met five men on a boat.

While Jersey police were appealing to Washington for help in tracing the ransom money officials in New York city announced that all evidence available concerning payment of the ransom by Dr. Condon in the Bronx would be presented to the Bronx County grand jury tomorrow.

STURGEON LAKE CLAIMS LIVES OF TWO YOUTHS

William Smith and Samuel Sloat Perish in Sturgeon Lake.

WATER WAS CHOPPY.

Trying Out New Seaflea Purchased by Smith This Spring.

LINDSAY, Ont., May 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — Sturgeon Lake recorded its first tragedy of the year yesterday afternoon when two Toronto men, William Smith, aged 22 years, of 895 Dundas Street, Toronto, and Sam Sloat, aged 20 years, of Stratford, but now of Toronto, went to their death.

The two victims, with Harry Corlett, a garage proprietor of Toronto, passed through Lindsay Sunday morning with two sea fleas, en route for Greenhurst, Sturgeon Lake where they intended trying out their craft.

Lake Very Rough.

The lake was very rough, with a high sea rolling, but the two men struck bravely out. About three o'clock, Jack Scholes, 210 Pearson Avenue, Toronto, a summer resident of Sturgeon Point and son of Lou Scholes, the celebrated sculler, of Toronto, noticed an upturned craft in the lake off Pleasant Point, on the south shore. He went out to investigate and saw the sea flea with bow up in the lake. Shortly afterwards, Harry Corlett appeared on the scene and inquired of Scholes if he had seen the missing craft. He then turned and saw the sea flea in a half-sunken condition. Scholes notified Provincial Constable Nelson about 4 o'clock from Captain Gray's cottage at Sturgeon Point. The craft was about four hundred yards out from shore, and opposite the summer home of Sir Joseph Flavelle, at Sturgeon Point.

Captain Charles Gray, of Sturgeon Point, and Colonel Philips of Oshawa, brought the ill-fated craft to shore. The captain states that he saw the boat at three different points on the lake after three o'clock. It is thought it was overturned either in the trough of the waves or in making a turning.

Bodies Not Found.

It is believed that the two men put up a brave battle for life but were chilled by the icy condition of the water. The condition of the water adds strength to the contention that the bodies may drift to shore in a short time. Dragging of the lake is out of the question owing to the fact that there were no eye-witnesses of the tragedy.

Provincial Constable Nelson made arrangements to have searchers patrol the shore this morning in the hope of finding the bodies.

Harry Corlett returned to the city Sunday night after telling the story of the tragedy to Constable Nelson The ill-fated sea flea with its sister craft passed through last night on way back to Toronto.

REDS' HEARING AGAIN DELAYED

APPEALS INVOLVE CASE.

HALIFAX, May 16 (C.P.).—Making their first public appearance since they were arrested and brought to Halifax eight alien Communists from six Canadian cities filed into Supreme Court Chambers to-day. A few minutes later A. H. Russell, K.C., addressed Mr. Justice Carroll in support of application for writs or habeas corpus for their release.

The men have been convicted on a charge of conspiring to overthrow the Government of Canada by force and orders for their deportation have been issued under the Immigration Act. The orders have been stayed, however, because Mr. Russell's application has put the men under jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia. The cases are further involved by appeals against the orders, fyled at Ottawa.

The court hearing was adjourned to-day when R. N. Munroe, who presided over the Immigration Board Tribunal, appeared and said he had not learned about the application for writs of habeas corpus until Saturday and had not time to engage counsel.

Mr. Russell agreed to adjournment until Wednesday, May 18.

They will remain in custody of the immigration authorities until the status of the warrants was determined.

On request of Mr. Russell, Mr. Munroe promised to make a return to the court, including evidence taken at the deportation hearings and the warrants.

INJURIES IN AUTO SMASH-UP FATAL TO EARL OF EGMONT

Inherited Historic Avon Castle 3 Years Ago After Life as Canadian Rancher.

LIVED ALONE WITH SON.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., May 16 (C. and A.P. Cables).—The Earl of Egmont, former rancher of Priddis, Alta., died in hospital here to-day from injuries sustained in an automobile accident outside this city several days ago. He was 50 years old.

For nearly three years the "Loneliest Peer in England," as he was often described, lived in historic Avon Castle, Hampshire, with his son and heir, Viscount Percevil, for company. He discharged all the servants of the estate shortly after his arrival, and father and son established themselves in the huge kitchen of the castle, doing their own housework and cooking their own meals.

Lived Outdoors Life

The earl and his son caused considerable sensation when they arrived in this country from their Alberta ranch. The father, a weather-beaten man from 28 years of strenuous outdoor life, seemed ill at ease among the splendid surroundings of his inheritance. The son, however, made himself at home immediately.

MOSCOW DENIES ARMY CONCENTRATING IN EAST

MOSCOW, May 16. — (A.P.) — Moscow newspapers published today an official denial from the Tass News Agency of reports from Washington that the Soviet government intended to concentrate 250,000 troops of the Red Army in Eastern Siberia.

"These reports are absolutely groundless," the News Agency said. The government has sent no troops to Eastern Siberia and does not intend to do so. The Soviet Union is maintaining a firm policy of peace, in regard to both Japan and Manchuria.

It was officially admitted some time ago, however, that the Far East garrisons were being strengthened, although the number of troops in that area was not revealed.

SHIPS COMB SEA TRYING TO SNARE SIX KIDNAPPERS

Hunted Men Believed to Know Solution of Baby Kidnapping.

FISHING SCHOONER.

Schooner Hunt Evolves From Stories Told by Intermediaries.

HOPEWELL, N.J., May 16 (C.P.)—The law of United States flung a lariat of ships to-day onto the sea to snare the Lindbergh baby killers.

Coastguard craft—swift and certain man-hunters of the coast line—swept the waters in uncreasing search. Their quarry was a fishing schooner—a boat of the type common in mackerel fleets.

Aboard that ship were five men, and perhaps a woman. The hunted men, authorities believe, know the solution of the kidnapping murder. They know who took Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., from his crib the night of March 1—and who killed him cold-bloodedly not many minutes later. And this gang knows, police are certain, who buried the child's body under a light layer of rotting leaves within rifle shot hearing of the Lindbergh home in the sombre Sourland Hills.

No Word From Sea.

There was no word from the sea search to-day. The coastguard craft planned to make no report to the New Jersey State Police, in charge of the murder hunt, until there was some definite word. One source of information said that it would be impossible for the schooner to reach any part of the Atlantic coast without being discovered.

Whether the men aboard the schooner are the actual kidnappers and murderers, police did not say. There was a possibility they may have been extortion opportunists who sought to profit by a crime in which they themselves had no part. Officers were close-mouthed. There was a feeling among close observers, however, that police believe the men aboard the boat were involved not only in efforts to mulct Col. Lindbergh through ransom, but also had hands in the greater, revolting crime.

Stores Told By Intermediaries.

The schooner hunt evolved from stories told police by (Jafsie) Dr. John Condon and John Hughes Curtis, two intermediaries who were successful in contacting men who pretended to be the kidnappers.

Dr. Condon, according to his story to police, was once aboard the schooner, and stood in the centre of a circle formed by the hunted five, with pistol barrels pointed at him. He went there, blindfolded, to continue negotiations with men he had negotiated through newspaper advertisements in which he signed himself (Jafsie).

Put down your guns, Condon said he told the men. I'm used to settling arguments without firearms.

These men made no effort to conceal their faces during the shipboard conference with the 72-year-old educationist. Dr. Condon spent some time late Wednesday at the New York rogues' gallery, in an effort to identify one or more of the men. Whether he did was not disclosed.

One of them, whom the others called John, met Dr. Condon later

FOREST FIRES ALARM QUEBEC

New Blazes Break Out Around Montreal and Papineau County.

DRY SPELL CONTINUES.

QUEBEC, May 16.—The suddenness and frequency with which bush and brush fires are breaking out in all sections of the province is causing the Quebec forestry service much anxiety.

A number of small fires are reported from the Montreal district and another in Papineau County, while a new outbreak was reported yesterday from the River du Loup region. These fires, the majority thought to have resulted when inexperienced settlers began clearing off their newly acquired land, are being kept in hand by the rangers, but the rapidity of the outbreaks at different points is giving the fire fighters a difficult task.

New Bandit Stunt Nets $25,000 Loot

STREATOR, Ill., May 16. — (C.P.).—Streator's largest bank, the Union National, was robbed of between $25,000 and $30,000 to-day by six robbers who held the assistant cashier, Earl McNamara, captive in his home all night and forced him to open the bank's vault after the time lock was released at 8.30 o'clock. The men escaped in an automobile.

REV. KIDD-BYRNE HALTS SECOND BURIAL OF WIFE

Pans for Funeral at Bewdley On Sunday Abandoned.

SEEKS RICH BEQUEST.

Heir to Fortune Lacked Funds to Engage Undertaker.

BEWDLEY, May 16 (Staff Reporter). — Reputed legatee to an immensely rich fortune of many millions, Rev. David S. Kidd-Byrne was forced by lack of funds to postpone indefinitely his plans for the reinterment on Sunday of the body of his wife who died several months ago and was buried in the cemetery here while he was confined to an hospital in Montreal.

Of the many disappointments of his life this was perhaps one of the bitterest, the frustration, even if only temporary, of his wish to pay to the memory of his wife a tribute of love that had been more keenly felt and actuated by his absence at the time of her death.

Arrangements had been recently made by Rev. Mr. Kidd-Byrne to open his wife's grave and have the coffin placed in a special bronze casket, hermetically sealed, followed by a funeral from the home of a local friend. His plans had reached an advanced stage, details of which included preparations of a public announcement through the press and by funeral cards, and it was expected that every feature was complete for the funeral here yesterday afternoon. But, late in the week financial impediments arose which could not be immediately overcome. The announcements were cancelled before they were issued, and the entire funeral arrangements were abandoned for the present.

Burial Was Regular

It is understood that when Mrs. Kidd-Byrne died about the end of February, her remains were buried on the day following her death. A Port Hope undertaker had charge of the funeral, and the burial certificate was signed by a doctor at Garden Hill. There was no suggestion of an impropriety in this sequence of events, but the seeming haste lay heavily on the heart of Rev. David S. Kidd-Byrne after he returned from Montreal to the scene of his youth at Kidd's corners. It was also stated that his wife had expressed a wish to be buried beside the bodies of her children

CHEQUE SWINDLE LANDS 2 IN JAIL

C. N. R. Cheque Swindle in Montreal Early Detected.

ALL BANKS WATCHING.

MONTREAL, May 16. (CP) — Two men were under arrest here to-day in connection with a widespread cheque swindle discovered over the week-end. Spurious Canadian National Railway pay cheques with a total face value of $2,200 were detected by an official of the Bank of Toronto Saturday morning when they were received through the clearing house. Although drawn on that bank none of the cheques were cashed there and officials said that the bank would lose nothing.

Joseph Duval, of Montreal, is charged as the result of attempting to pass a $66 cheque. He was apprehended Saturday. Later Robert Denniscn, no address, was arrested. All banks, business houses and financial institutions were on the watch to-day for more of the forged cheques, believed to have been put into circulation at the mid-month payday of the company Whether similar frauds had been perpetrated at other points has not yet been learned.

Never Received An Extra $50,000 From The Hydro

John Aird Is Taken To Task At Hydro Probe For His "Failing Memory" When Questioned About The Beauharnois Bonds.

DENIES EVIDENCE GIVEN BY FORMER PARTNER AS TO RECEIVING AN EXTRA SUM OF $50,000.

TORONTO, May 16 (C.P.). — Denial that he had ever received more than the $50,000 under investigation from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario was made by John Aird, Jr., central figure in the Royal Commission inquiry on Hydro to-day. Mr. Aird's former partner, R. W. Millard of Toronto, had suggested last week "there was a possibility" his former partner had received more than the original $50,000.

Aird himself was taken to task shortly before the luncheon adjournment for his "failing memory." W. N. Tilley, K.C., Commission counsel, was quizzing him as to whether he had requested payment of $125,000 from the Beauharnois Company in bonds at his first meeting with R. O. Sweezey, then head of the Beauharnois Company, and Aird had stated he could not recall when mention had been made of the bonds.

The Beauharnois matter was taken up when Mr. Tilley concluded the Madawaska negotiations, for which Mr. Aird was paid the $50,000.

Fred Roberts, Toronto lawyer, taking the stand before Aird, explained that evidence he had given with regard to himself and Paul Reize, Chicago, had been mis-interpreted. He and Reize were reported as acting for the Foshay interests of Minneapolis in attempting to gain control of the Madawaska, but the Foshays were in no way concerned, he said.

Diary in Garbage

Aird's dairy — which Millard claimed he had seen several times—was "thrown out in the garbage" with other papers when the two dissolved partnership, Aird stated to-day.

He head learned the Beauharnois Corporation was having difficulty in obtaining a Hydro contract for 250,000 horsepower, he said, through "common gossip" in Montreal. Time was essential to the Beauharnois, since bonds had to be floated and the "money market was slipping." The Hydro contract was the keystone in the Beauharnois development, and had gone to see Sweezey and asked "how he

MAKING HOMES COMFORTABLE IN ALL WEATHERS

Major George Thompson Tells Rotary of Modern Methods of Improving Conditions.

A WORTHWHILE IDEAL.

Home Life Should Be Made a Counter-Attraction to Outside Influence.

The making of Canadian homes more comfortable, warm in winter and cool in summer, and offering a counter-attraction to other influences that have almost destroyed home life was the ideal stressed in an interesting address before the Peterborough Rotary Club by Major George Thompson of Caledonia, director of research for the Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine Company of Canada at the weekly luncheon to-day.

Major Thompson, who was introduced by Rotarian R. G. Kingan stressed the fact that Canadian homes were not altogether comfortable, and as a result home life was disappearing. "Our homes nowadays are on wheels," said the speaker, who went on to point out the desirability of improving the houses of this country so that they would be comfortable 365 days in the year. That was the ideal of UNPRETENTIOUS SHACK.

Quarter of amillion minute organisms in the course of evolution from the egg of the fish stage, many of which are probably destined to reach full maturity as Muskelunge are being cared for at the Provincial Government 'Lunge Hatchery situated on the shores of Pigeon Creek near Omemee. They will be ready at the end of the present week, it is expected, for placement in various streams, rivers and lakes throughout the province.

An unpretentious wooden shack, the 'lunge hatchery, the only one of its kind in the Dominion has been inexistence for six years, and it is stated the results obtained in the past have been so gratifying that the Government is at present considering the establishment of three more 'lunge hatcheries probably this year, and the enlargement of the Omemee hatchery.

The hatchery is in charge of H. A. Cheeseman, who has two assistants in the persons of H. McQuade and "Bud" Oakes. The latter is a son of Mr. Oakes, head of the Government Fish Hatchery at Sault Ste. Marie.

The Examiner visited the hatchery on Saturday afternoon, through the courtesy of J. A. McKone, secretary-treasurer Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and Trent Waterway Association.

Leaving Omemee Village the route to the hatchery takes one for about three miles over gravel roads after which the remaining half mile or so is completed afoot on a

GUELPH SHAKEN AS TWO BOMBS SHATTER HOME

Prominent Italian Resident, Wife and 2 Children Escape Injury.

TIME FUSE USED.

Early Morning Blast Draws Crowd from Many Parts of City.

GUELPH, May 16 (C.P.). — Two dynamite bombs, exploding with crashing reverbrations which wakened the city in the early hours of the morning, wrought destruction to the home of Tom Veroni, Alice Street, one of the city's prominent Italian residents. By a miracle no person was injured. Mr. and Mrs. Veroni and their two children, aged 2½ and 8 years, were sleeping in the upper part of the house when the explosion occurred, and although windows in the bedrooms were shattered, all four escaped without hurt. The bombs, planted at the rear of the house beneath a sun porch, exploded downwards into a disused well beneath the porch.

Time Fuses.

There was about three minutes' interval between the two bombs, which are believed to have been fitted with time fuses.

The first, it is thought, caused little damage, but the second exploded with violence which shattered windows in half a dozen nearby houses and in the Northern Rubber Company's plant across the road.

The sun porch beneath which the sticks of dynamite were laid was totally destroyed.

Dining room windows overlooking the porch were shattered to atoms by the blast, the radio inside was completely ruined, and a China cabinet opposite the windows was smashed into a mass of broken crockery.

It was three thirty o'clock when the two blasts occurred.

The reverberations awoke residents in the extreme opposite end of the city, and sent dozens of curiosity seekers to determine the source of the noise.

Mr. Veroni said the first explosion was not as severe as the second and was solely for the purpose of luring him downstairs to investigate.

SECOND MURDER BRINGS DEATH

Negro Trusty Electrocuted After Killing Daughter of Prison Official.

SERVING 10 YEAR TERM.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 16 (C.P.). — As unconcerned about his fate as he appeared throughout his trial, Fred Collins, negro convict, was put to death in the electric chair to-day for assaulting and killing the daughter of Dr. Asa L. Hickok in whose home he was a trusty.

Collins, serving time on a conviction of second degree murder, was executed within sight of the scene of his second killing.

On January 13, Collins, serving a 10 to 20 year term for second degree murder, surprised the girl and killed her with a knife while her father, a state prison official, was away. He told a coroner's jury it was something he had planned for a long time because he was jealous of the kindness shown by the girl toward another negro trusty.

The slaying occurred while Dr. Hickok, his wife and son were out of town and the daughter was alone in the bathroom.

MUNICIPALITIES SHARE RELIEF SEEN 20 PE RCENT.

TORONTO, May 16.—(C.P.) — Premier George S. Henry to-day received a copy of the agreement between the Dominion and Provincial governments regarding direct unemployment relief which will be signed within a day or so and returned to Ottawa.

Details of the agreement were not revealed but the first basis is that the Federal government will pay 50 per cent. of the cost of the total distribution. It is likely the majority of municipalities will stand about 20 per cent. instead of one-third their costs as was in operating last year, with the province bearing 30 per cent. commentators said.

Terrorists Bomb Public Buildings; Cabinet Resigns

Band Of Cadets Rush Aged Prime Minister's Home, Shooting Him Down Before Guest And Daughter-In-Law—Police Guards Wounded.

EIGHTEEN ARMY, NAVY YOUTHS SURRENDER; TROOPS PATROL STREETS–EXCHANGES CLOSE

(By Glenn Babb, A.P. Staff Correspondent.)

TOKYO, May 16. — Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai, Japan's 77-year-old "Old Grey Fox," was dead to-day, the second Japanese Premier to die by an assassin's hand in less than a year.

Premier Inukai was shot down in his home yesterday by a band of young army and naval cadets who apperently had hatched an abortive plot to destroy the Government and seize the capital.

Following the death of the Premier, which occurred at 11.25 p.m., six hours after he was shot, the Cabinet decided to resign, and Acting Premier Korekiyo Takahashi, aged Finance Minister, called upon Emperor Hirohito to hand in the resignations.

The Emperor instructed Mr. Takahashi and the rest of the Cabinet to continue in office until further orders. In the meantime it was announced that the aged Prince Soainji, last of Japan's elder statesmen, was on his way to Tokyo from his villa at Okitsu to confer with the Emperor about a new Cabinet.

The Fascist movement in Japan appeared to have suffered a nearly mortal blow as a result of the Premier's assassination. General Sadao Araki, War Minister, and Admiral Osumi, Minister of the Navy, turned in their resignations with the rest of the Cabinet.

Stern Measures Promised

Both these officials, who have been considered the leading spirits of the National movement in Japan, strongly disavowed yesterday's events and said the perpetrators would be sternly dealt with. Both ministers also indicated they would retire from public life.

Five public buildings were bombed simultaneously with the assault upon the Premier, an attempt was made to destroy the transformer stations through which Tokyo's supply of electricity is carried, and the homes of several officials were attacked. One of the buildings bombed was the Metropolitan Police Station, which is just across the street from Emperor Hirohito's palace.

A few hours afterward 13 young Army Cadets, and five junior naval officers surrendered themselves to the military police. They were held incommunicado. Civilian police asked their custody, but the request was refused.

Seven of the youths, wearing army cadets' uniforms forced their way into the Premier's residence in Nagata Hill, in the heart of the city, at dusk yesterday, shooting down four policemen who attempted to bar their way.

Orders Admittance.

The aged Premier was calmly smoking a cigarette and talking to a friend within the house. In spite of the shooting at the door, he ordered the youths admitted.

"I'll talk to them," he said, "and then they will understand."

Mrs. Ken Inuksi, his daughter-in-law, urged him to flee to safety. "Father! Father! Let's run away!" she cried.

"There's no use running," the Premier replied, as the youths burst into the room. They fired

ADEN, Arabia, May 16. (AP) — Six hundred passenders abandoned the French steamer Georges Philipar, five miles from Cape Guarda Fui Italian Somaliland, when the vessel was discovered to be afire to-day.

It was bound from Marseilles to China.

Three passengers were known to have been badly burned. The Japanese steamer Hakone Maru was hurrying to the scene. It passed one empty lifeboat, but whether any lives were lost could not be learned.

The British ship Mahsud and a Soviet vessel were already alongside the burning steamer and were aiding in the rescue work.

Raft is Missing

The steamer Contractor, which also rushed to the scene, took off 129 survivors and 134 others were picked up by the Mahsud. Both these ships are due here tomorrow.

The captain of the burning steamer was reported aboard the soviet liner Sovietskaia Neft. Others of the survivors were picked up by other steamers, but details were not immediately available. A raft with two members of the crew was reported missing.

The steamer sent its first SOS call at 5.54 a.m.

The passenger list has not yet been received here.

It was assumed that most of the passengers were from Indo-China.

The vessel carried a crew of 300. She was one of the most powerful and luxurious ships in the Far Eastern service. Andrian Monge, director-general of the line, said that he was without direct news of the disaster.

NUDISTS KEEP OFFICERS BUSY

Third Successive Sunday Orchard Ceremony Swells Prison List to 511.

HUNGER STRIKE BROKEN.

NELSON, B.C., May 16 (C.P.).—On three successive Sundays the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors have staged nude parades at Thrums, near here, and each time the paraders have been bundled off to jail. To-day there are 254 more nudists in custody here as a result of a parade yesterday. They swelled the jail population to 511, and arrived just as their co-sectarians already confined, abandoned a hunger strike they started in protest against their imprisonment.

The same orchard which was the scene of the previous parades was chosen for yesterday's demonstration. The Doukhobors gathered there in the afternoon, and under the eyes of police officers, began taking off their clothes. Police at once ordered trucks brought from Nelson, loaded up the naked men, women and children, and sent them on their way to jail. They met with no resistance.

Protest Children's Removal.

The hunger strike was partly in protest against the removal of children of the prisoners to public institutions in Vancouver and Victoria. Yesterday the prisoners were told more children would be taken away, and realizing the futility of objection, the hunger strikers gave way. Last night 47 young girls and six boys were taken to the coast by train.

The strikers sent a letter to the police authorities saying they wanted to eat, and asking for fresh apples and dried fruit. A light meal was prepared for them at once, and after two days of self-imposed starvation, they spent Sunday contentedly munching apples and prunes.

The letter also asked for better accommodation, and stated, "We are not hogs. We are human beings."

Of the 511 Doukhobors now in jail here, 247 have been sentenced to three years in penitentiary for appearing in the nude. In all 595 have been arrested since the nude paraders began, but of these 94 are children, and last night's movement of children to the coast brought the total taken away from their parents to 84.

GRAND OLD MAN OF THE PACIFIC TAKEN BY DEATH

IN 89TH YEAR.

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., May 16 (C.P.). — Captain Robert Dollar, 88-year-old veteran of the shipping and lumber industries, died at his home here at 1.10 a.m. (P.S.T.) to-day after an illness of two weeks.

The "Grand Old Man of the Pacific," whose name is carried to the far corners of the earth by his fleets of merchant ships, drifted away on his last long voyage as sorrowing members of his family watched at the bedside.

That the end was near was predicted last night by his physician, Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy. He had been in a coma for more than 36 hours. The illness started with a severe cold which developed into bronchial pneumonia.

Suffers Relapse.

Signs of improvement were noted last week and at one time his physician announced: Captain Dollar has apparently weathered another storm. A relapse followed however, and due to his advanced age, he continued to fail steadily.

Mrs. Dollar, who had been in faithful attendance since the illness began on May 2 was supported by three sons Harold, Stanley, and Melville Dollar, and their wives and children.

Last March 20, Capt. Dollar celebrated his 88th birthday and in a statement said the world was a fine place for those who liked to work. His entire life had been one of activity.

He was born in Falkirk, Scotland, March 20, 1844. He went to work as a boy in the shipyards and at the age of 14, with his father and brothers, went to Quebec Que., and obtained work in a stave factory at $6 a month.

Ventured in Timber.

When still a young man, he ventured into the timber country and eventually extended his holdings into Western Canada, Michigan, California and Washington. Successful in the lumber industry, he turned to trade with the Orient and later, at an age when most men are ready to retire, actively entered shiping field. It was from these latter activities he won the title of the "Grand Old Man of the Pacific."

At the age of 80 he inaugurated his around the world service. He personally worked out the details and then sailed on the first voyage to call on 400 shippers and prospective customers around the globe.

He was president of the Dollar Steamship Company, the Robert Dollar Company, Admiral Oriental Company, Dollar Portland Lumber Company, Canadian Robert Dollar Company, and director of the American International Corporation, Anglo London and Paris Bank, and San Francisco Savings Bank.

HINDU - MOSLEM BOMBAY RIOTING TAKES 30 LIVES

Situation Becomes Serious—Police Forced to Fire Into Mobs.

600 INJURED.

Several Buildings Are Fired, Temples and Mosques Stoned.

BOMBAY, May 16 (C.P.).—Thirty were dead and approximately 600 injured by noon to-day as a result of rioting between Moslems and Hindus which has been in progress for three days.

Police fired into the mobs in several parts of the city and the situation was considered so serious that Sir Frederick Sykes, Governor of the Bombay Presidency, who left on Saturday for Mahabalesh-Awar, returned post-haste by aeroplane.

The casualty list rose rapidly yesterday from 16 deaths to 24, and a few hours after the riots broke out at daybreak to-day the list had risen to 30. Nearly 200 were injured in the first few hours of to-day's battles.

Mobs Fired On.

Police fired into the mobs in a number of sections of the city. Late last night the rioters had begun stoning temples and mosques and several Hindu buildings, including a four-storey tenement, were set in fire.

Police Commissioner Patrick Kelly issued an order prohibiting anyone except properly authorized persons from carrying weapons, including stones. The order was to stand for a month.

The riots began last week when two Hindu boys were attacked by a group of Moslems. Moslems stoned street cars carrying Hindu passengers. Three Mohammedan children were reported killed by the Hindus and some cloth shops were looted.

Shaukat Ali, noted Mohammedan leader and delegate to the Round-Table Conference in London, made a tour of the riot area, doing his best to pacify the mobs.

A jolly evening was spent at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday by the Caledonian Club and their friends, when over one hundred of them were the guests of the "Y." On their arrival they were conducted to the gymnasium, where games were participated in under the direction of Mr. D. Loomis. Peals of laughter were heard from the spectators' gallery at the wonderful antics of those taking part in the various sports. After the games the guests repaired to the swimming pool, where a good exhibition of swimming and diving was given by some of the "Y" members, who received hearty applause from the audience for their excellent display. The rest of the evening was spent in the comfortable and roomy "Supper Club" room, where dancing was engaged in to music supplied by Messrs. Alex. Milne (bagpipes), R. Gilmour (melodeon), W. Dougal (piano) and G. Low (traps). Miss Ann Rae gave an exhibition of step-dancing and received hearty applause. Mrs. W. Howes gave a much appreciated vocal solo. Community singing, led by Mr. R. Hendry, lent a happy note to the gathering. Mr. J. J. Duffus was present to present the prize-money to the lucky bowlers. Mr. Duffus congratulated the winners, and said how he himself enjoyed seeing the Caledonian families come to the alleys with their children. He gave two special prizes from the firm of J. J. Duffus to the highest scorers. These were won by Mrs. R. Hendry and Mr. D. Anderson. At the conclusion the Executive Committee served excellent refreshments, which were enjoyed by all. Mr. R. Henry spoke a few words of appreciation on behalf of the Club to Mr. Roper and Mr. Loomer, who had shown by their presence and willingness to help how welcome they made their guests to the use of their splendidly equipped new building. The meeting closed in the usual way with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

WE HAVE COME TO ASSOCIATE FISH with Friday from custom, whether or not abstinence from meat on that day is part of our religious observance.

• • • • • • •

Many who do not think of using fish on the home dinner menu more than once a week will choose it when going to dinner at a restaurant.

• • • • • • •

Some housekeepers do not choose their fish with any particular interest. The same kind, cooked in the same way, will be used time after time.

• • • • • • •

Sometimes this is a most uninteresting way, and it is no wonder that the family does not care for the Friday dinner. This is also an expensive way to market.

• • • • • • •

In a certain home halibut is invariably served. As it happens, halibut is often one of the most expensive kinds of fish in the market.

• • • • • • •

In another household it is invariably boiled and often served without sauce, which it really needs, when cooked in this way.

• • • • • • •

One of the best and easiest ways, perhaps, to cook fish is to broil it. Dip it in salad oil well seasoned with salt and paprika. It should be broiled under a hot fire and then dressed with butter for serving.

• • • • • • •

Lemon juice and minced parsley may be added to the butter or the butter may be browned and a little vinegar added.

• • • • • • •

But when cooking fish, remember that if they are to be baked or broiled, a hot fire is necessary. For "poaching" a low fire should be used.

• • • • • • •

All fish takes a short time to cook, but of course, those with firm flesh take somewhat longer than the others.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

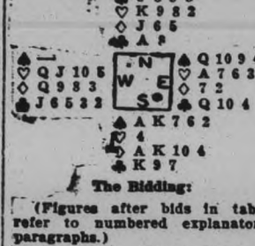
THE SAFER PLAN OF PLAY

When North laid down his hand as Dummy in the deal pictured below, after West had opened the Queen of hearts, South for a moment regretted his moderation in not having bid for a Slam. If—and this word always seems to stand at the crossways of life—the trump suit is divided 2-2 in the adverse hands and the diamond finesse wins, the only loser is a heart. However, South had contracted to take 10 tricks and not 12, and so he regarded his contract as already assured.

The hand:
Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
4♢(1)	Pass	4♠(2)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South, with 4-½ honor-tricks, by his Forcing Rebid compels North to choose the suit best fitted to his hand.

2—Of course, North's choice is obvious.

The heart suit was continued and South trumped the second round. He now laid down a high trump and found that the trumps were all bunched in one hand—the most unfavorable distribution of the suit that could have happened. Many players would now stake their hopes of game upon the success of the diamond finesse, and when this lost would concede defeat. However, even with the trumps bunched and with the Queen of diamonds unfavorably placed, South can still make his contract.

The correct play is to enter the Dummy with the Ace of clubs and lead a heart. If the trump suit cannot be established, the trumps should then be made separately. South should use a trump on this round of hearts and then lay down the King of clubs. The seventh and eighth tricks should be won with the Ace and King of diamonds. South's remaining club should be led and trumped in the Dummy and the King of hearts led and trumped with the 7 of spades. South then should lay down the King of spades and concede the last 2 tricks to East with his trumps.

The element of risk in this line of play is negligible compared with that involved in the taking of the diamond finesse, as the Declarer knows that he can use his small trumps to ruff hearts and the only danger is that East may hold but a single diamond.

If East had held one diamond originally, and South had had any method of learning of that distribution, he could still have made his contract, as he would then lay down one top diamond and enter the Dummy to make the second lead of that suit through East. If East trumped, obviously the contract would be made, but if he refused to trump, then he would have been made the victim of an end play, whereby he would have been thrown in on the eleventh round only to lead helplessly up to the trump tenace contained in the Dummy and closed hands. The reader may determine the process for himself.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH MISSIONARY AUXILIARY CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Interesting Program is Provided Under Convenorship of Mrs. J. H. Davidson.

OFFICIALS PRESENT.

Another milestone was reached on Friday evening, May 13, when St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary, celebratetd its fourteenth anniversary at a delightful birthday party held in Wesley Hall, St. James United Church.

The guests, who included Mrs. J. K. Moore, the organizer of the Auxiliary; Mrs. A. I. Brown, president of Peterborough Presbyterial, several chartetr members, besides a group of new members, were received and welcomed by Mrs. Moorhouse, the president, and other members of the executive.

The program committee, with Mrs. H. J. Davidson, convenor, had arranged a very interesting program in keeping with the missionary theme, and the numbers were presented without announcement.

The opening selection, "Go Ye Into All the World," was a fitting introduction, as given by Mrs. A. Emery, and was followed by the sweet old song, "When We Get to the End of the Way," by Miss Annie Payne and Mrs. Reeve-Newson.

Resume of Society

A brief story of the years, telling of the inception of St. James' Auxiliary on May 14th, 1918, and of its activities, its discouragements and of its splendid advancement, was outlined by Mrs. E. J. Wagar and read by Mrs. H. A. Bonney.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presence of Mrs. J. K. Moore, who gave a few interesting words of greeting, recalling her early association with the society. Mrs. Moore paid tribute to the faithfulness and work of the late Mrs. J. G. Plunkett, the first president of St. James' Auxiliary. She also referred lovingly to the loyal support of the late Mrs. B. Greatrix, the first treasurer, and to the memory of Mrs. James T. Palmer, who acted on the charter executive as superintendent of Christian Stewardship. In closing, Mrs. Moore commended the present executive upon their great success, and expressed her best wishes for the continued prosperity and usefulness of St. James W.M.S.

With harp accompaniment, Mrs. T. E. Curvin sang with fine expression the sacred solo, "He Died of a Broken Heart."

Mrs. D. Munn contributed an inspirational reading entitled, "The Vision," and the lilting Spring song "The Swallows," was beautifully rendered by Mrs. G. H. Cutmore.

With her usual fine technique, Miss Aileen Rose gave a pleasing piano selection, and also acted as accompanist for the solo numbers and with the orchestra, who furnished delightful music during the evening with Clifford Russeau as conductor.

The tea table was lovely, centered by a basket of Spring flowers, the color scheme being pink and white. Tall pink candles were at each end and the birthday cake with its white icing was topped with fourteen tiny pink candles.

Mrs. J. O. Fife and Mrs. E. J. Wagar poured tea. Mrs. C. H. Young lighted the candles, and the cake was cut by Mrs. John Sanderson, Sr., all of whom were charter members.

Tea-room assistants, with Mrs. W. K. Sloane as convenor, included Mrs. A. Davis, Mrs. Fry, Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Byers, Mrs. Copson, Mrs. Stevens, Miss Connie Wagar, Mrs. Cripps and Mrs. Fell.

AN INDEPENDENT AUDIT.

There is a good deal in the suggestion brought forward by the Ottawa Journal that the Federal Government should order each year an independent audit of Canadian National Railways finances.

Just as the article points out, the present situation is a temptation to be extravagant no matter who might happen to be president, inasmuch as the directors are not railway men and they are more or less influenced by the head of the system with no money of his own at stake and no [illegible] to consider and with the only audit the [illegible] the railway's own auditors, is in a position to undertake large expenditures that under different circumstances he might find it better to avoid.

If there were an independent audit there is every reason to think that [illegible] an effective brake upon extravagance, and that if such a check had been available during the last few years there would not be so many big headlines in the newspapers and the prestige of the C. N. R. administration would not have suffered by revelations of large expenditures, for many of which there appears to have been slight justification.

APOLOGISTS FOR THE REDS.

When you catch a man attempting to set fire to your house, you are not expected to treat him as a favored guest and extend to him all the hospitality at your command; on the contrary common sense tells you that the only safe course is to have him put where he will no longer be a menace to your property.

That, it seems to The Examiner, is exactly the situation in regard to Communist leaders in this country whose activities have brought them into the hands of the law and who are threatened with deportation.

A few newspapers seem highly aggrieved at such treatment, and are apparently doing their utmost to create trouble for the authorities and to picture these misguided Reds as martyrs who are being crucified by an autocratic system.

At the worst they are trying to make their readers believe these Communists are harmless sort of people, and if the police wouldn't interfere with them and would let them parade with the Red flag and talk all the Red doctrine they like, there would be no trouble.

That viewpoint disregards altogether the fact that Communists are ordered to follow up their talk with action, and that their Soviet rulers issue instructions that violence is justified in attacks upon the social system of this country.

Their whole policy is destructive, and decent treatment would not cause them to deviate an inch from the path along which they are trying to progress; nothing remains, therefore, but to return them to the countries from which they came and clear the Canadian atmosphere of their contamination.

SHOULD BE SPEEDED UP.

With the new federal relief measure passed by the House it is to be hoped that little time will be lost in linking up federal, provincial and municipal assistance into a plan that will relieve the present situation.

Under the new arrangement the provincial administration will be expected to assist hard-pressed municipalities and will in turn receive aid from the Federal Government.

The delay in working out a method by which these various agencies will be co-ordinated is causing a great deal of trouble for the municipal authorities in some sections of Ontario where there is a large amount of unemployment and where the municipal funds are virtually exhausted.

A nasty situation is threatened in several communities, such as York Township, where the municipal government of which has only managed to avert a serious demonstration by wise counsel and by promises of speedy relief, which the Ontario Government should not fail to see are promptly implemented.

Premier Henry should be alive to the conditions in that township and in other areas where there is immediate need of assistance, and he must surely realize the necessity of accelerating relief plans and coming to the rescue of municipal governments that are nearly overwhelmed by demands for aid from distressed families.

CARELESSNESS AT CROSSINGS.

The Examiner has already called attention to a recent bulletin issued by the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada in regard to carelessness at railway crossings, but in view of the fact that the Ontario Safety League has seen fit to use the board's warning in a special traffic bulletin, it will do no harm to bring this matter once more before our readers.

"In many cases accidents at highway crossings are due to the negligence of those driving automobiles and other vehicles, and of pedestrians," says the board. "This negligence is found both at unprotected and protected crossings. Notwithstanding safety devices and cautionary signals, people take chances and disregard safety."

This plain statement, based on the Railway Commission's study of the accident record, carries its own significance and is too important to be lightly passed over.

It is a reflection on the intelligence of the Canadian people that it should be necessary for an official board to issue a formal warning year after year stressing the negligence of a great many people who "take chances and disregard safety."

And yet the facts speak for themselves.

There are so many accidents even at grade crossings where signals have been installed that no other conclusion is possible other than that there are many motorists who because of sheer recklessness or failure to think are temperamentally unfit to assume the responsibility of operating an automobile. The worst of it is, that such people will read this article and at once come to the conclusion that it refers to some other person.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY NOW FRIENDS.

Turkey seems to have lost its ancient dread of Russia. Under the Czarist regime and its known aspiration for control of Constantinople and the entrance to the Black Sea the Sultans lived in constant fear of Russian designs, their time being largely occupied in playing off one Western power against another, more than once indeed only the intervention of Britain saved the Ottoman realm from destruction. Of late, however, a decided change for the better has marked the relations of Soviet Russia and Turkey. The recent visit of Premier Ismet Pasha and Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushi Bey to Moscow, has been signalized by a great demonstration of Russo-Turkish friendship. Despatches have waxed eloquent describing the triumphant reception of the Turkish officials with the streets lined with thousands of spectators as the delegation proceeded to the designated palace, and an imposing assembly in their honor at the Kremlin.

The reason of this remarkable outburst of friendly feeling is to be found in the trade agreement and non-aggression pact recently arranged between the two countries. Accepting these treaties at their face value and noting the cordial feeling now existing between Moscow and Angora, the world must perforce recognize that an interesting transformation has taken place. Imperial Russia and the Turkish Empire never have reached such an understanding as that now reached by Soviet Russia and Republican Turkey. A statesman of the nineteenth century would have refused to believe it within the realm of possibility that so much of pomp and circumstance could have been expended in welcoming the President of Turkey to the Russian capital.

The secret of Russo-Turkish friendship must be found in a similarity of national interests and aspirations and in a common lack of sympathy towards Western Europe. Neither country is a member of the League of Nations, although both have co-operated in certain of its activities. Chiefly, however, they have been relieved of the conflict of interests that separated them during the nineteenth century. Soviet Russia has abandoned the traditional policy of Czarist Russia towards its Southern neighbor. Is it concerned with the fate of the Christian religion. Nor is Turkey now the oppressor of the Slav people who were forced to profess allegiance to a Moslem head. So far as Russia is concerned the Sick Man of Europe now feels the need of a friend and has found in Moscow what he has sought.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

DEPORT THE COMMUNISTS.

The people of Canada have had time to deliberate on the futile efforts of Communists in one or two centres to create disturbances on May Day and, as a result, there will probably be an intensified feeling that such outbreaks ought to be brought to an end. It is reported that eighteen of the ringleaders in the Sudbury riot have been marked for deportation, and that the local officials will request the Federal Government to take prompt action in this regard. The authorities will make no mistake in deporting aliens who attempt to violate the fundamental principles of law and order in Canada.

In this connection it is to be hoped that the report from various places throughout the country, that Communists are being arrested preparatory to their deportation, are true. It is time that a drive was undertaken to rid the Dominion of these undesirable agitators, who are a menace to the peace and order of the country. Under certain sections of the Immigration Act the Deputy Minister is authorized, upon the complaint of any official of a municipality, to cause the arrest of persons accused of advocating violence or revolution, and have them appear before a federal board of inquiry with a view to deportation. Action in this direction cannot be too energetic and thorough. These people are not an asset but a liability, and should be sent back to the countries from which they originally came. They have carried their prejudices from old lands, in which injustices and tyranny were rampant, to Canada, and have entirely misinterpreted the spirit of the government which the Canadian people have established for their own welfare.

There is no room in the Dominion for Communists who desire to parade on the streets carrying the red flag, the symbol of terriorism, lawlessness, and the subversion of constitutional authority, to the exclusion of the Union Jack. Such persons display a mentality that is entirely alien to British ideals of law and order, and they should be ruthlessly deported. Citizens of Canada, whether by birth or naturalization, who assist them ought to be punished severely. There is ample opportunity in Canada to bring about reform by constitutional methods, and the slightest attempt at violence ought to be sternly repressed. In the meantime alien Communists and lawbreakers ought to be deported to the countries from which they came.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The cargo of the Scottish trade ship now at Montreal includes bagpipes. The early impression was that the Letitia was here on a friendly mission.

It is remarkable how much concern some people can work up over the deportation of aliens whose chief ambition is to destroy our whole system of government.

At that the Doukhobors are only one stage ahead of Mahatma Gandhi.

If they ever catch the Lindbergh kidnappers they'll probably be charged with evading the income tax.

Mystery plays are favored by many radio enthusiasts. It might therefore be a good idea to broadcast a few sessions of the Hydro probe which is baffling enough for anybody.

The most important aspect of business betterment has been the widespread return of the banks to more normal operating conditions.—Journal of the American Bankers' Association.

A THOUGHT.

WHAT THE WORLD IS LOOKING FOR

The world today is looking for men and women who are honest, sound from center to circumference, true to the heart's core; those with consciences as steady as the needle to the pole; who will stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth reels; who can tell the truth and look the world right in the eye; who neither brag nor run; who neither flag nor flinch; who can have courage without shouting it; in whom the courage of everlasting life runs still, deep and strong; who know their message and tell it; who know their place and fill it; who know their business and attend to it; who will not lie, shirk or dodge; who are not too lazy to work, nor too proud to be poor; who are willing to eat what they have earned, and wear what they have paid for; who are not ashamed to say "No" with emphasis and "Yes" with assurance.

GRAIN, CATTLE PRODUCE

MONTREAL

MONTREAL, May [illegible]

Arrivals here last week totalled 11,103 boxes, compared with 9,672 boxes in the previous week, and with 14,989 boxes in the corresponding week of last year. The market ended the week mostly at the 16½ cents level for carlots, or less, of No. 1 fresh or regraded. Some sales were made during the week as low as 15½ cents. The previous week ended with a price of 17¼ cents.

The egg market also turned slightly easier during the week with extras holding their own better than the two other grades. For graded Ontarios or Prairies, in carlots or less, extras ranged from 17c to 18c per dozen, firsts 14½c to 15c, and seconds, 12½c to 13c. Storing of surplus eggs continued. Receipts were 20,408 cases for the week, compared with 22,603 on the previous week. Prices to retailers were shaded.

Cheese Prices Easier

Cheese eased around ½c per pound ending the week at 9c to 9¼c per pound for current receipts. The week's arrivals again showed an increase, being 6,572 boxes, against 4,982 a week previously. Exports from this port to Great Britain totalled 3,099 boxes, bringing the season's total to 13,770 boxes, against 12,640 at this time last year.

The potato market ruled about the same as the previous week. No. 2 Florida new potatoes were selling extrack at $8 to $8.50 per barrel. On old potatoes, there was a good demand for 40 pound bags of selected New Brunswick Green Mountains were steady at 40c to 45c per 80 pounds, and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at 55c for 90 pounds.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 16.— Disturbed by proposed financial enactments at Washington and by instability in the New York stock market, grain values underwent abrupt tumbles Saturday.

Falling to more than 8c a bushel under April top prices, wheat showed almost complete absence of any aggressive buying. Pressure to sell was general, and in addition one of the largest professional traders here was reported to be letting go a big line of wheat holdings recently estimated to total 6,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed nervous, 5-1c under Friday's finish, with corn varying from ½c off to ¼c up, oats ⅝-¾c down and provisions unchanged to a setback of 15c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 16. — Belated reports of a movement of wheat for export checked a mid-session slump brought on by a weakened securities market, and grain prices closed fractionally lower for the day. Prices at the close of the short week-end session were ⅜c to ½c lower.

May eased ⅜c to 61⅝c, July ½c to ⅝c to 62½c, and October ⅝c to 66⅝c.

The Liverpool market was closed on Saturday for the Whitsuntide holidays, and this, coupled with a downward trend in stocks, made for a weak and narrow market. In spite of this some export was worked near the close which brought prices back somewhat from the low levels.

Cash wheat trade again was indifferent, with prices slightly easier. With the exception of some inquiry for barley for export coarse grains trade was featureless.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

INSTALMENT NO. 20

Sam and Alanna met on the beach at the bathing hour but they did nothing more energetic than sit in the sand. They had little time alone with each other, however, for the place was crowded and Alanna was popular. Both were still in something of a daze and Sam in particular experienced a feeling of utter unreality; only an occasional meaning look from her, a pressure of her fingers or some involuntary act of proprietorship convinced him that he was not under the spell of a pleasant delusion and that the hazy events of the night before were not purely imaginary.

They arranged to meet again at five for the hotel tea dance, and to dine together that evening; then Sam walked home in even greater perturbation than when he had left it. Following his return from Alanna's hotel as dawn was breaking, an unwelcome thought had obtruded itself. It had occurred to him that she might not know he was an Oriental.

This possibility had presented itself suddenly; it had halted him in his tracks, it had turned him cold. Impatiently he had dismissed it. Of course, she knew. Everybody knew. His nationality had afforded a subject for polite discussion at more than one of Bathurst's dinner parties and such things get around. Alanna could not help but know; for that matter, his conduct, his attitude towards her must have made it plain. Reassured, he had walked on.

But his mind had reverted to the question again and again and it continued to bother him. Paradis was a queer, feverish place; people came and went; one sensation followed another; there was nothing orderly or normal about it. Nobody inquired who his neighbor might be. He argued weakly that he had tried to tell Alanna, but had lacked the opportunity. In this, however, there was no comfort; he should have created an opportunity. The whole trouble was there had been no faintest signal of what was coming, no stock-taking time. Even at the time it happened he had not been wholly convinced that either of them was sincere. There had been a suspicion in his mind that they were in the grip of a momentary madness, a midnight witchery that would vanish with the day.

Reason assured him that his apprehensions must be unfounded, and yet, assuming that they were not, what difference did it make? This he finally asked himself. Alanna was unlike other girls, she didn't care what he was; she had said so. She was a creature of resistless desires, a pagan, she had no taboos, social, racial or otherwise. He felt much easier at the recollection of her statement to that effect. "Less than the dust!" There was a majesty, a heroic dignity to the love of a tempestuous creature like her; it stopped at nothing; it counted no costs; it took all and it gave all.

Mr. Wagner eyed the card which the man in hotel livery brought to him. Beneath the name was written in pencil "Personal."

"Does she want to see me, or my daughter?" he inquired.

The employee arched his brows, shrugged, murmured an excuse for his ignorance of "the Englis'", whereupon Wagner repeated his question in a louder voice. He did this several times. After a while, more by reason of gesticulation than of emphasis, the fellow understood and made it plain that the visitor wished to see Monsieur, not Mademoiselle.

Mr. Wagner looked at the ornamental gilt clock on the mantel. Fat golden cupids crawled over it and one of them pointed roughishly at the dial which read eleven-thirty. Alanna was at the bathing club with Sam Lee and would not be home for more than an hour.

"Show her up," Wagner directed. He went to a mirror, adjusted his tie, which needed no adjusting, smoothed his eyebrows and touched up his short-cropped gray moustache. Probably she would turn out to be a brunette. Probably she —Wagner preferred blondes and he had never understood why men went so cray over Alanna—Out all night with that Lee fellow and now at the beach with him. He proposed to look up Bathurst this afternoon and make some searching inquiries—He hoped this girl was smart-looking and had small feet.

The caller was indeed blonde, and pretty, and smartly gotten up. Her feet were not too large. Wagner greeted her with warmth and they talked in a desultory manner for several minutes. He purposely avoided inquiring the reason for her coming and monopolized the conversation in a warm, cheery manner, the while he put her at ease. It was nice to meet fellow Americans in a foreign country and a pleasure to meet a beautiful young woman anywhere. Had they met before? What a play! He knew so many young women and the name was not unfamiliar. Hart! He had known a number of Harts and won a few in his time. Ha, ha!

These warm confessions failed to thaw the visitor perceptibly.

"I read in the Herald that you were here with your daughter," she began, when he finally allowed her an opportunity of stating her business.

"Yes. She's usually in the papers. She counts that day lost when she isn't."

"There have been several references to her engagement."

"Which one?" Wagner chuckled.

"To Mr. Lee; Sam Lee. I happen to know him."

"Oh! Indeed!" The father found his interest directed along a new line. "Friend of yours, is he?"

"Yes." There was a pause. "It's true, then?"

"Um-m, a little premature, possibly."

"You're probably wondering why I'm here, and—I hardly know, myself. Sam and I were at college together. It's through him that I came to Paris, to study. I mean it's—it's all right in every way, but my people were unable to send me. They're not in sympathy with my ambitions, anyhow. Sam's father is rich—Do you know why he's over here? Why he quit college?"

"I haven't the faintest idea."

"I think you ought to know. He was expelled."

"What for?"

"Over a girl. It was in the papers and you must have read it if you were in New York at the time."

"Possibly I did. I don't even remember what they said about me, but it was scandalous. I hope you didn't come here to tell me that Sam was a college cut-up. That's nothing against him."

"No. I didn't come here to tell you that, except as a part—"

"A part of what?"

"Well, I have some newspaper clippings. I thought—"

"Don't show them to me." Wagner said indifferently. "Now, let's understand each other. I'm a business man and I talk plainly. I cut corners. What have you got on him?"

"Why—nothing. It isn't that. We were awfully good friends—He—well, he asked me to marry him. He did, really."

"I see. And you have his letters. Very well. I'll consider a proposition. My daughter has made up her mind and there's no stopping her. Those letters are worth as much to me as to a newspaper. What's the figure?"

The caller was both offended and indignant. Her eyes widened, her face grew white. "I'm no blackmailer," she protested. "You're insulting. I read in the papers that he was engaged to your daughter and about his winning a fortune at the Casino and being so popular and everything—Western heiress to millions engaged to prominent young American.' It made me laugh."

Wagner was eyeing Miss Hart with alert intensity now. "Yes? Well—make me laugh. What's funny about it?"

"I'll show you—" With shaking hands the speaker ripped open her purse, seized a bundle of folded clippings and tossed them into Wagner's lap. "There's your 'prominent young American,' your future son-in-law. Maybe you know all about him and maybe you don't."

The man adjusted his glasses, unfolded the clippings, then his expression changed. He stared open mouthed at what he saw; his hands began to tremble. "Lee Ying, wealthy Mott Street merchant." "Palace of Imperial Bounty." "Scandal at Eastern University." There were pictures of a doll-faced girl and of Sam; sensational headlines; but Wagner did not read much of the story. He had no interest in it.

"My God!" he exclaimed. He shot a few scorching questions at his caller, then he put the clippings in his pocket, rose and tramped about the room, perspiring profusely. After a while he paused and looked Miss Hart over from head to foot in a manner that caused her to flush and to pale.

"You say you were engaged to this Chinaman?"

"I said he asked me to marry him."

"Humph!" The man's lips curled. "Exactly. And he's paying your way in Paris—Just why, may I ask, did you decide to come here—and give me this treat?"

"That's my business. I—imagined you'd like to know the truth—"

"Yes, of course. I don't happen to like your business, that's all. A mere personal whim. Well, miss, if you have no use for these clippings, I'd like to keep them. And now—I think you'd better leave. You'll find the elevator on your left as you go down the hall." He turned and strode into his room. When he was alone he began to curse.

GIVING.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—We Canadians are at last waking up to the fact that we are over-governed. Legislatures and other seats for the mighty, and mighty lazy, cost an enormous and unnecessary sum. In fact the wheels of government are clogged by it. It is so with our charities. The day will come when societies imitating in fact the Lord and His apostles, and not those who dwel in fine temples, with music and feasting, will take charge of what good works the churches will have overlooked, and that will be all there will be about it. At present charity, like government, costs too much before it ever sees the poor.

Building Activity and Many Residents Getting Acquainted.

OPEN UP COTTAGES.

The summer activities around Chemong have taken an added impetus, at present, through a number of new cottages being built in preparation for the summer season.

During the week-end a number of summer residents opened up their cottages in a formal manner but the twenty-fourth is generally accepted as the official clean-up and preparedness, although a number took the first glimpse of the interior to get acquainted with the necessities of the season.

The lake looks as picturesque as ever with the drinking spring flowing more rapidly than usual into the high level span of water that still had the "cold" tinge in it. In between the two boat liveries a heavy landslide has taken place to carry trees and grass on the downward path to the rolling waves beating against it; while the depictation of nature is in the semi-bloom attire that adds fervour to the heart and soul.

TORONTO STOCKS ARE LOWER TO-DAY

Decline Continues on Its Slow Way—Several Issues Show Drop at Mid-day.

TORONTO, May 16.—)C.P.—The market showed no signs of returning activity as the week opened on Toronto stock exchange thih morning. Nor was there any lift to prices. In fact, the decline which has been gradually sapping the strength of the market, continued its slow way.

Nearly all stocks were lower, going into the third hour than they had been at the opening; many were below where they had left off Saturday. Bell Telephone at 88½ was down a point and B.C. Power 'A' at 18½, down 2 points. Shawinigan slipped below 11 for the first time. The oils also showed much minor recessions at an eighth and quarter point.

Montreal Power sold down to 26 5-8 and Brazilian at 9 1-8 was below its opening. Ford was unchanged at its bottom price of 7½ and Nickel up a few cents at 5⅛. C.P.R. at 11 3-8 was just above its reecord low. Steel of Canada at 12 and Page-Hersey Tubes at 41 were holding.

There was no change in the prevailing price level for the Walker issues, common and preferered.

Niagara Peninsula, Land Of Blossoms

GRIMSBY, May 16 (C.P.).—Many people who motored through the Niagara Peninsula yesterday were treated to one of the most picturesque scenes the blossom land has yet afforded.

The annual pilgrimage lasted all day yesterday, and the Grimsby area provided a panoramic view of several miles of orchards, with the highway in the foreground, and Lake Ontario in the background.

BANK FAILURE.

LEAMINSTER.—The Leaminster National Bank failed to open its doors to-day. A notice posted on the door stated the bank had been taken over by the comptroller of currency.

New Lows Are Set Montreal Exchange

MONTREAL, May 16.— (By the Canadian Press.)—Under the influence of heaviness in New York, the Montreal Stock Exchange declined during this morning's session and prices entered new low territory. Movements were mainly fractional in the quiet trading.

Montreal Power, the active leader, established a new all time low at 26 3-8, where it was 1 3-8 points below Saturday's final quotation. Shawinigan Power also recorded a new all time low at 10½, off ¼. Canadian Pacific Railway at 11¼ and International Nickel at 5½ were both ¼ and equalled their former all time lows. Brazilian held firm at 9¼.

Dominion Bridge lost ¼ at 10¾ and British Columbia Power (A' was 3-8 at 5-8. Canadian Car common declined 1-8 at 4, while the preferred rose 1-8 at 12, the lone gain of the morning session. Canada Cement at 3½ and Dominion Textile at 40 were both unchanged.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Had Eczema All Over Her Body

Mrs. Leo Wardler, Springford, Ont., writes:—"For a long while I was troubled with eczema all over my body. It would burn and itch so at night I could not rest.

I tried different remedies but of no avail. I was advised to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking five bottles my blood was completely cleared of the eczema."

STANDARD LIST HOLDS INACTIVE

Irregularity Develops in Higher-priced Stocks Due to Light Pressure.

DOME ADVANCES 10.

TORONTO, May 16 (C.P.) — Under pressure of light but persistent offerings prices moved irregularly lower among higher-priced stocks on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market in the opening session of the week to-day. General list remained inactive.

Dome firmed in the first hour and, touching a high of $11, was up 10 at $19.90 when taken at midday. Granada also recovered a little ground, but Teck-Hughes was off 4 at $3.39 and Wright-Hargreaves a couple to $2.20. Bidgood fell to a low of 1 cent on news of the suicide of President Erenhous in Buffalo. McLeod River was fractionally higher at 4..

International Nickel and Noranda fell 20 cents apiece, former dropping to a new low for the bear market of $5.40 and the latter to $14. Sherritt Gordon firmed a little on short covering but Eldorado was off 6 at 96, breaking through $1 for the first time this year. Sarnia Oil and Acme Gas were slightly lower in a dull oil section.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 16. (CP)—A late rally cancelled earlier losses in to-day's stock market and the closing tone was firm. Rails reduced or eliminated their declines and an assortment of industrials showed moderate net gains. Santa Fe, which had been down 2¼, erased its loss. Eastman, Westinghouse, American Can, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Drug, Allied Chemical and Du Pont finished with advances approximating a point. American Telephone firmed after losing 1¾. Transactions totalled about 1,200,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, May 16 (C.P.).—Strengthening with New York in the late afternoon, Toronto Stock Exchange Market largely recovered losses incurred during the slow reaction of the morning. Trading increased when the market turned stronger and most of the leaders actually showed gains.

C.P.R. advanced to 12 before the close, showing a net gain of ¾ of a point. Ford of Canada sold unchanged at 7½ most of the day, but the old price was advanced in the last few minutes. Brazilian and Nickel were each up a quarter of a point on the day and Smelters was a fraction above its last time out.

B.C. Power "A," driven down 2 points from Saturday's final, recovered more than ½ point of that loss. Montreal Power, which came out below 27, was considerably stronger on end.

Oils, while continuing to move within a narrow range, firmed with the remainder of the market, closing unchanged to about an eighth higher, whereas they had shown losses of about the same amount at midday.

STANDARD STOCK EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, May 16 (C.P.). — Taking their cue from industrial boards leaders on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market staged a fairly broad ally from early weakness in the afternoon to-day.

Noranda moved sharply higher in the last hour to close with a net gain of 80 from Saturday's final. International Nickel, after establishing a new low of $5.40 prior to noon, finished the day unchanged. Short covering carried Hudson Bay through $1.00 for a gain of ¾ on the day.

Dome sold above $11 and recorded an advance of 25, but Pioneer of B.C. lost 8 and other higher-priced golds were quiet. Bidgood fell a cent or so on news of the suicide of President Erenhous, and Homestead Oil, another company with which Mr. Erenhous was associated, dropped to 10 cents. Howey, Premier, and Bunker Hill extension met slightly better demand, but Ventures and McLeod River were easy.

Eldorado slipped below $1.00 for a time but recovered to close the day practically unchanged. Mining Corp. was off a couple to a new low for the year of 58.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 16.—(C.P.) — Prime commercial paper 3-3½ per cent; foreign exchange irregular, demand rates (Great Britain in dolalrs, others in cents) — Great Britain, 3.67¾; France 3.94¾, Italy 5.15 1-8; Germany 23.87; Canadian Dollars at 11 per cent. discount.

NEW YORK.—Foreign exchange firm. Great Britain 3.67¾; France 3.94¾; Italy 5.15¾; Belgium, 14.05; Germany 23.89; Montreal 89.00.

was getting along with the Hydro contract."

Sweezey had told him of difficulties encountered, and Aird then outlined his success in the Madawaska matter.

"He seemed to prick up his ears and realize I had information of benefit to him," Aird said. Eventually, they came to an agreement whereby Aird would assist the Beauharnois in return for 50 cents per horsepower if the company was successful in obtaining the contract.

Aird will return to the stand this afternoon.

Makes Explanation

Fred Roberts, Toronto lawyer, said he wished to make an explanation when the enquiry resumed to-day. Due to misinterpretation of his evidence Friday, he said, it had been reported he and Paul Reize, Chicago, were acting for the Foshay interests of Minneapolis in seeking to obtain control of the Madawaska river. He wished to make it clear, he said, that neither had acted for the Foshays in any manner whatever.

John Aird, Jr., was then called, and W. N. Tilley, K. C., commission counsel, continued on the Madawaska negotiations whereby Aird sought a Hydro contract for the purchase of power.

Reference was made to Aird's diary, which he declared had been thrown out, when the famous missing fyle had been discarded.

I am told you had a diary?

Yes, I did have.

Where is it?

It was thrown out with the rest of the stuff when my partnership with R. W. Millard was dissolved.

The missing fyle reached the commission's hands after Kenneth McLeod, Toronto, had offered it for sale to members of the government, opposition and newspapers.

Roberts testified Friday that Aird had negotiated with Hydro while he (Roberts) had been negotiating with Reize.

Anxious to Get a Sale

Correspondence showed this was correct and Mr. Tilley said he couldn't understand it. Aird maintained he was anxious to dispose of the property.

There had been no definite arrangement between Aird and Hydro whereby Aird was to get $25,000 fee and $100,000 for expenses. There had been no actual expenses, he admitted, althcugh considerable work was done. In any event, he finally received $50,000 from Hydro and nothing extra expenses.

His father, Sir John Aird, had seen J. A. O'Brien, owner of the power rights, in Ottawa but had not made a trip for that purpose solely. No definite arrangement had been made for the purchase or development of Madawaska at this meeting, however.

Aird denied having received a cablegram from his father when the latter was sailing for England. Sir John did not see anyone on his son's behalf prior to sailing, so far as witness could recall, with the exception of Mr. O'Brien.

When pressed by Mr. Tilley as to how he knew he had not received the cablegram, Aird said he did not remember having received it.

Memory Not Of The Best.

"Well your memory is not of the best—that it shown by your examination for discovery," commented Mr. Tilley.

"Was more than $50,000 paid to you by the Hydro?" counsel asked point-blank.

"Never," said Aird. "How it can be suggested that Mr. Magrath (C. A. Magrath, then Hydro chairman) would do such a thing is ridiculous."

Witness was emphatic that there had been no further payment for anything he had done.

Magrath's reason for Aird dropping out of the negotiations was merely for the purpose of speeding them up, witness said.

We were not being pushed out. The only reason for bringing Magrath and O'Brien together was merely to speed up negotiations, Aird said.

He did not know whether the $50,000 payment to himself and Millard was set by O'Brien or Magrath before or after the deal was finally carried through. He thought, however, O'Brien had asked the Hydro chairman to look after them.

"It had always been understood I would be taken care of by one or the other," Aird said.

There had never been any discussion regarding rewarding anyone else. None of the parties who participated in the Madawaska negotiations except himself and Millard had received anything, he said.

The cheque was turned over to Aird on July 11, 1929, and charged to the expense account of the Hydro. Aird had receipted the payment in full.

There was nothing else to the payment. It was paid for no other reason that for the work he and Millard had done, Aird said.

He had deposited it in a bank where he had an overdraft, he said. The money had then been spent for mutual expenses, such as rent, telephone bills, etc., to the extent of $4,462. The balance has been divided between them, he said.

The cheques on the account were not in his possession, but were all for his own expense. Nothing had been paid to politicians, Hydro employees, or others, he said.

The man who gave him the cheque at the Hydro had not told him to omit the payment from his income tax return. Aird had told this man he was going to enter it as expenses, and the man had answered it was entered in the Hydro books as commission. There had never been any discussion with Magrath or Fred Gaby, Hydro engineer, regarding this, he said.

ONLY CANADIAN LUNGE HATCHERY

trail that winds through a cedar and spruce grove.

If the visitor expects to find anything but a rough, rudely hewn shack, he is due for disappointment, but is all the hatchery claims to be. Inside the shack is a large trough of running water fed from the nearby waters of Pigeon Creek by means of a gasoline pump and tank.

Floating on the surface of the trough are about thirty or forty trays with wood frames and fine gauze bases, in which the fish spawn was hatched. Some of the trays still contained the eggs in the early stages of development. Some of the trays still contained the eggs in the early stages of development, and resembling in size and conformation a grain of tapioca. Most of the trays however, contained minute organisms in a much later stage of growth and resembling a comma in shape.

The eggs remained motionless even when the tray which held them was agitated by movement, but the occupants of the other trays in the later stages of development exhibited occasional voluntary signs of life when one of the curious comma-shaped organisms would suddenly dart to the surface of the water. When the trays were moved, the entire colony would swarm to the surface of the water somewhat in the manner of a horde of mosquitos.

McQuade was the man on duty Saturday afternoon and he stated the hatchery opened on April 20, this year and would probably close on Saturday next which time the organisms will have sufficiently developed for placement in various streams, rivers and lakes wherever it is decided to ship them to.

He explained the process by which the parent fish are traped in pound nets, staked at intervals along the river banks and the subsequent handling of the spawn from which the fish are hatched.

Some idea of the loss of fish life that may result from the catching of 'lunge out of season, may be had from the fact that the 250,000 eggs at the hatchery were the product of three female fish. That the full grown 'lunge must reach a considerable age, is also apparent when considering that a yearling 'lunge averages about eleven inches in length.

It is obvious that this year's hatch will not be ready to give the zealous fisherman a battle for another four or five years, although it is highly probable that a large percentage of them will fall a prey to their natural enemies that infest the lakes and rivers, and when are in search of some nice dainty morsel to vary the monotony of their regular diet.

SUICIDE FEARED

He said the scraping might have been caused by the sand of the lake. Asked whether the facial injuries were sufficient to have caused either death or unconsciousness, the coroner said he had that phase of the case under investigation.

The possibility of foul play would be thorough investigated, he stated.

Although Lucas had not worked since he was wounded a month ago, there was a spot of oil on the bridge of his nose and more oil on his left arm.

Lucas, who was released from Cottage Hospital, Leamington, two weeks ago, had been recuperating at a private home in Leamington from the serious wounds he sustained in an alleged exchange of shots with John Mahony, 58, the neighbor with whom he was said to have carried on an intermittent feud for years.

Granted Remand.

Mahony, also charged with attempted murder, was given another in a long list of remands when he appeared this morning in court. He is at liberty on $5,000 bail.

It was exactly one month ago today, on April 16, that Lucas got his wounds.

Mahony, a bachelor, and formerly a Bob-Lo policeman during the summertime, was seated at the supper table in his little cabin. Lucas was said to have fired four shots through the window, but Mahony was not struck, although both outside and inside of the cabinet were spattered with a hail of lead pellets. Mahony is alleged to have returned the fire, shooting once only.

The body was found by Bert Skerritt, a boat builder. He notified Police Chief Lamah, who called Coroner Dr. M. A. Kendrick.

Identification was established by letters on the body, by the shot marks and by the absence of one finger, which Lucas lost in a fight with another Islander, not Mahony, about a year ago.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

STRAW HATS ARE OUT

A straw hat appeared on George Street this morning, one of the first seen this year. Its wearer sauntered along coolly in the hot sun, while passing die-hards, grimly waiting until the 24th, looked enviously at the summery headgear, the forerunner of flannels, beach pajamas, etc.

FALSE ALARM TURNED IN

The entire fleet of Peterborough Fire Department roared and screamed its way into the business section at noon to-day, called out by a false alarm from Box 51, at the corner of Brock and George streets.

OUT WITH HIS STRAW

Readily adapting himself to the heat wave which has struck Peterborough and district, Norman Hatton was abroad on the streets this morning wearing a straw boater—the first of the season.

A FISH STORY

A few days ago, down the river among some of the fishing enthusiasts at one of the locks, a young man lost his gaff hook and fish as he landed it on the pier. The line nipped off above the hook. Within the next minute his pal pulled the same fish out and supplied him with the hook and fish he lost. Then a small boy got his hook caught in something and went out in a punt and relieved his hook in a gentle manner to find that he had been fortunate to collect three gaff hooks instead of one. "That's more profitable than a sucker" remarked the boy.

REV. KIDD-BYRNE

who had died in babyhood, and this desire had not been carried out.

Incidentally, The Examiner is informed an error was made in the spelling of her maiden name, and this mistake was regarded as an impediment to payment of a life insurance policy of $5,000 by a company in New York.

There were recently some rumours that Rev. Mr. Kidd-Byrne's plans were halted by refusal from the provincial authorities to permit the exhumation of the body of his wife, but enquiry from reliable sources elicited an emphatic denial. There was no official objection by legal authorities. The final hitch was mainly the need of money to pay the undertaking expenses involved in the purchase of the bronze vault and other incidentals of the proposed funeral services.

Romantic Interlude

Rev. David S. Kidd-Byrne has been from time to time during the last twenty years a prominent figure in press headlines associating his name with the romantic story which credited him with the inheritance of the Byrne millions. Some prominent men in this province investigated his claim, and assisted him in his efforts to claim the fortune which was said to have been left to him by a rich American in gratitude for the rescue of his daughter from an erring path, by David S. Kidd, at that time a salesman in Chicago.

The details have been published from time to time. The papers which are said to be in Mr. Kidd-Byrne's possession have been examined, and although all the efforts for more than twenty years have not brought the Byrne millions into the hands of the samaritan, who was David S. Kidd, some friends still have faith in his quest.

$200,000 Available

The Examiner was informed today that apart from the millions in the controverted estate there are two sums in New York available to Rev. Kidd-Byrne. One is the $5,000 insurance money, but a friend stated that there was some little obscurity about the name of the company. It is expected, however, that this will be cleared up when Mr. Kidd-Byrne goes to New York. The other sum which has been mentioned to The Examiner is $200,000.

According to his story of the rescue of the Byrne girl from a wrong turning on the path of life, Rev. Kidd-Byrne said that the father was so grateful that he made him his heir. Within a few years death had removed the daughter and also her parents, and from that stage the former tea salesman began the institution of his claim, which it is said has been fought by other relatives.

Built Scriven Memorial

Rev. Kidd-Byrne was latterly the promoter of the subscription fund with which the Scriven memorial on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway was erected. Recent reverses of ill health have set upon him, and it was during his confinement in a Montreal hospital that his wife was parted from by death. He has also been afflicted by an impairment of his vision by cataracts, but treatment is expected to relieve that condition.

And within the last week, the man who for so long has talked of and sought the Byrne fortune, and who is said by a present benefactor to have $200,000 awaiting his claim in New York, was helplessly compelled to yield to the necessity of the lack of a few hundred dollars to pay for the tributary funeral which he had planned for last Saturday.

No bronze casket was supplied, no undertaker was apparently willing to assume the financial outlay on the expectations of Rev. Kidd-Byrne realizing any part of the fortune, and the proposed ceremonial was corrowfully and reluctantly cancelloed, or at least postponed.

WHEAT SHIPPED TO CHURCHILL

Saskatchewan Draws Up Business for New Northern Trade Route.

2,000,000 BUSHEL LOT.

SASKATOON, May 16. (CP) — Collected from dozens of country elevators a long string of freight cars loaded with Saskatchewan wheat will move northward over the Hudson Bay Railway this week, bound for Canada's new port of Churchill and thence for the markets of the United Kingdom and Europe. The movement consists of 2,000,000 bushels, sold by the Saskatchewan pool and will be the first commercial shipment to move out from the Hudson Bay port.

Encouraged by this development the Saskatchewan government is doing its utmost to drum up business for the northerly trade route. It has asked the Dominion Government to set up an organization to solicit business for the Hudson Bay Railway. Hon. W. C. Buckle, Minister of Agriculture, says an organization is needed to interest shippers of both outgoing and incoming goods in the possibilities of Churchill.

Seek Cattle Shipment

While the wheat shipment is being assembled negotiations are underway for shipments of cattle and other products of western farms. Cattle owned by the government of Saskatchewan may be used in a trial shipment.

Last year as a test two ship loads of wheat were moved out of Churchill. When the present season opened some misgivings were felt over the apparent lack of interest of shippers in the Bay route. These have now largely disappeared and there is every prospect the new trade channel will have a thorough test this coming summer.

Announcement that the pool wheat shipment would start moving to-day came last night. Grain cars have already been allocated to the different elevator points and loading was underway over the week-end.

MAKING HOMES COMFORTABLE

his company, he explained, and he went on to explain some of the problems in regard to fire-proofing and insulation, which had been successfully grappled with. It had been found that wood could be treated so that it could be kept at a temperature below its combustion point, and that by proper insulation oxygen could be kept away so that even if ignition did take place the fire would not continue to burn. Scientific insulation, Major Thompson said, had solved many problems. Through its use, fuel bills could be reduced to one-third, and such buildings as cold storage plants could be more economically built and operated. There had been no desire to replace the products of the lumber industry, the speaker said; on the contrary, attention had been directed rather to treating wood so that it could be made fire-proof. Just as the lumber men had put their feet under the council table and had worked together with the gypsum people to arrive at a policy beneficial to both, Major Thompson believed that other interests could be brought together to combine in a common effort to improve Canadian homes. It was quite possible, he said, for a house to be heated for one-third its present cost and to be properly cooled in the summer time as well. That problem had already been satisfactorily solved.

The thanks of the club were extended to the speaker, on motion of Rotarian W. R. Morris.

Past-President Bob Abbott was in the chair to-day in the absence of President Downey, and other officers who are attending the district conference at Hamilton.

It was announced that Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath of Toronto would address a joint meeting of Kiwanis and Rotary at 6 o'clock next Monday evening.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

This is a Grocer's Story

ONE of our policyholders is a grocer. His earnings over a period of years have run between $4,000 and $6,000 a year. He has saved something each year and is carrying twelve thousand dollars of insurance in the Confederation Life.

One day last year he telephoned for a representative to call . . . This is what he said to him: "See this business? It represents eighteen years of hard work upon the part of my wife and myself. I started it when I got married. Out of earnings from it we have paid for our home, educated our children, and I have $12,000 of insurance with you. I also had about eleven thousand dollars (as I thought) safely invested.

"Three years ago I got speculative fever. Now . . . all my savings have gone. I have had to re-mortgage my home. The only thing that I now have that is still worth one hundred cents on the dollar is my Confederation Life Insurance.

"Now, Mr. ———, I can easily afford, out of earnings, between six and seven hundred dollars a year for additional life insurance protection. I don't care whether I save a nickel beyond this. How much additional insurance can I now buy for that amount?" Our representative told him and recommended the type of policy that he should buy at his present age.

This policyholder has increased his immediate estate by nearly twenty thousand dollars: and has been able to assure to his wife and children the wherewithal to carry on in comparative comfort and safety.

The security and stability of Confederation Life Policies have never been more forcibly demonstrated than during the past few years.

. . . . . .

For an average payment of thirty dollars (depending upon your age) you can immediately put back into your estate a thousand dollars in capital. Write now for pamphlet describing Pension Bonds and Monthly Income Policies.

INJURIES IN AUTO SMASH FATAL

Castle and its grounds was not a smooth one. Shortly after the arrival of the two Canadians, two rival claimants appeared. One, James William Perceval, a baker from Hornsey, in North London, sued for the estate, and the other, conspicuously unsuccessful in his claim, created a scene in Christie's auction room at London when the silver and art objects of the castle were put up for auction.

"I protest against this sale" the man shouted, after going among the crowd in the auction room distributing cards which bore the legend "Mr. R. Pownall, Haydock, Lancashire, claimant to the title and estates of the Earldom of Egmont."

Sold Ancestral Plate

Heavy death dues and other monetary claims against the estate forced him to sell the ancestral plate and many pictures, the Earl explained. The action netted about $40,000. A little known painting by Renolds brought $11,400 while a portrait of Margaret Elizabeth, Baroness Adern, painted by Sir William Beechey, sold for $5,000.

For a while it was thought the sale presaged the return to Canada of the Earl and his son. Both were said to be growing heartily tired of the life they were leading. Viscount Perceval, like his father, is able to rope, throw and brand a steer, break a horse and accomplish other such feats of ranch life as the Earl taught him. He will now succeed to the title as the 11th Earl. The apparent boredome of father and son, however, did not take them back to Canada. The Earl decided to stay and his son elected to remain with him.

bomb would come from the front of the house, it exploded in the same spot as had the first.

It is believed that the bombers planted the two charges of dynamite with time fuses beneath the porch.

They were evidently not aware of the fact that a crust of earth underneath the verandah covered an old well.

Dynamite explodes downward, and consequently, the great force of the blast shot downward into the well. There is a huge hole at the side of the porch which testifies to the accuracy of Mr. Veroni's conclusions in this respect.

Officials are convinced that no merely destruction, but murder, was the object of the bombing. Had it not been for the accident of the old well, there is no doubt much more serious damage to property and propably serious injury to occupants of the house would have occurred.

IN MEMORIAM

NUGENT. — In loving memory of my dear father, Robert Nugent, who left us on May 16, 1900:

No one knows how much we miss him;
Friends may think the wound has healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Dear father, you are not forgotten,
Nor will you ever be,
For as long as life and memory last
We will always think of thee.

SHIPS COMB SEA

In the shivery shadows of a Bronx cemetery and received $50,000 ransom money in old bills of small denomination on promise to return the child alive and well.

I would know that man anywhere—among a thousand, Dr. Condon said to-day.

The woman who may be with the men, police said, is she who acted as messenger for the kidnappers on at least two occasions.

Authorities have learned that Dr. Condon's zeal in seeking the baby's return was not counterbalanced by corresponding caution in guarding certain vital identifying signs. The unique sign of the circles which was the signature on the ransom note left in the Lindbergh nursery the night of the kidnapping and which was to prove the authenticity of subsequent notes from the kidnappers, was made known by Dr. Condon, police learned, to at least three persons and perhaps more. These persons, including two businessmen, are to be questioned by the Bronx district attorney who is interested in the circumstances that the $50,000 ransom hoax was executed in his jurisdiction.n

Underworld Knew Sign

Others also knew the peculiar nature of the circle signature. One of these was Morris Rosner, undercover man called into the case by the Lindberghs early in March. Salvy Spitale and Irving Bitz, two men with gang connections, also knew about the signature.

Despite the wide extent of the police operations on sea and land and with federal, state and city agencies combining in the murder hunt, no arrests had been made early to-day.

John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk, Va., intermediary was still co-operating with state police. There were some indications that the group which he and two Norfolk associates engaged in ransom negotiations was the same to which Dr. Condon paid the $50,000 ransom.

The wildest rumors kept police headquarters at Trenton aggravated last night. One rumor said a servant in the Lindbergh household had committed suicide. Another involved sinister implications concerning a person not previously mentioned; and a third pointed a finger at a person who does not even exist. These rumors persisted, coming from many parts of the country. All were denied.

The health of the Lindberghs was reported as good, despite the strain that week-end developments threw upon them. The couple are remaining for the time being at least at the Sourland scene of their tragedy, lending full aid to police, who have re-established themselves on the estate.

A cavalcade of the curious yesterday clogged the road leading past the wooded spot where the baby's body was found.

JEREMIAH MAHONEY

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Jeremiah Mahoney, son of a pioneer family in Asphodel township in Peterborough county, was laid to rest on Saturday in St. Mary's Cemetery, Campbellford, after Requiem Mass had been said in St. Mary's Church by the Rev. C. J. Phelan. Pallbearers were: R. Mahoney, John O'Sullivan, P. J. Sarginson, P. Collins, Geo. Young and Ed. Duff.

Mr. Mahoney was born on January 8, 1847 in Asphodel, son of the late Jeremiah Mahoney who was a settler in Canada from Ireland, early in the last century. For many years he was connected with the Rathburn Lumber Company at Campbellford, later taking up farming in Seymour Township. About twelve years ago he moved into Campbellford where he resided until his death on May 12.

The surviving members of the family are three sons in Seymour township, Jeremiah, Eugene and Gordon, also Leo of Rochester, N.Y., Fred of Dakota and A. M. Mahoney of Gleichan, Alberta, also Mrs. Fred Collins of Selmour, Mrs M. Burkhart of Rochester, N.Y., Miss Lena Mahoney at home, and Sister Arenius of the Sisterhood of St. Joseph, Fort William. Mr. Mahoney is also survived by one brother, Michael Mahoney of Toronto and two sisters, Mrs. G. Young of Toronto and Mrs. J. Murphy of Rochester, N.Y.

THOMAS SULLIVAN

He was born in Douro township and lived his entire life in this vicinity and was widely known and respected by a host of friends and relatives. His wife predeceased him 25 years ago on the 7th of this month.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Thomas O'Brien, Robinson street, city; Mrs. F. E. Hotchkiss, Toronto, Margaret of Lakefield, and five sons, James and Dennis of this city, William of Detroit, and Martin and Thomas of Lakefield. Also one brother, John of Lindsay, and one sister, Mrs. Ellen May, Windsor.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, Lakefield, on Tuesday at 9 a.m., to St. Paul's Church, Lakefield. Interment at Douro cemetery.

Bull Tosses Worker At Thomasburg Farm

THOMASBURG, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Saturday morning, while Walter Naylor, who is employed with Mr. Harry Coulter, was doing the morning chores, he was attacked by an ugly bull and was thrown about six feet. Dr. A. C. Locke from Tweed was summoned and found that no bones were broken, but he was badly bruised up. It was necessary to give a hypodermic, and the patient is resting easily.

TERRORISTS BOMB PUBLIC BUILDINGS

two shots, the bullets striking the Premier in the right temple and the nose. He slumped to the floor.

The assailants left and the aged man was carried into the adjoining room where for six hours Japan's most skilful surgeons worked over him in an effort to save his life. He died at 11.25 in spite of their efforts, which included several blood transfusions.

It was also disclosed that two army lieutenants and four other soldiers appeared early in the morning at the residence of General Araki, War Minister, and demanded an interview, but were refused. Lieut. General Jinsaburo Mazaki, vice-chief of the general staff, conferred briefly with them, however.

Others Go Into Action

At approximately the same time the premier was attacked, five other groups of young men swung into action.

One of them attacked the Metropolitan police office with hand grenades, but did little damage. A policeman and a newspaperman were wounded, however, as the terrorists sped down the street shooting.

Another group bombed the headquarters of the Seiyukai party, inflicting slight damage. Bombs also were placed at the Bank of Japan and the Mitsubishi Bank, slightly damaging the buildings. The home of Count Makino, lord keeper of the privy seal and one of Emperor Hirohito's closest advisers, also was bombed, with slight damage.

Early reports that martial law was established proved to be false, although 450 soldiers of the first and third divisions were called out to assist the city police. Their services were not needed, however, for the city immediately became calm as if nothing happened. There were no signs of popular support for the terrorists.

Besides the premier, his guest, a Mr. Tanaka, a maid-servant at his home and four policemen there, were wounded, as well as the policeman and newspaperman wounded near police headquarters.

Stock Exchange Closes

Transactions on the Stock Exchanges at Tokyo, Osaka, Kobe and Nagoya were suspended and the silk markets at Yokohama and Kobe were closed.

Premier Inukai will be given a state funeral Wednesday under the auspices of the Seiyuka party, it was announced. Acting Premier Takahashi will head the funeral committee.

The consensus today was that the outbreak lacked the backing of any responsible authority and the quick denunciations of the war and navy ministers was cited as proof of this. The perpetrators were described as youngsters imbued with a mistaken sense of patriotism unable to find support for any such direct action.

The country as a whole appeared quiet and there were no signs of any anti-foreign movement.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

INVEST in an ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

COMFORT, health and the chance to practice real thrift—these are the benefits an electric refrigerator brings.

Why is it a comfort? Because it eases your mind of worry about possible spoilage of perishable foods—provides you with a whole new list of frozen specialties you can make quickly and easily—gives you ice cubes at any time.

Why is it healthful? Because it keeps foods at a regular temperature of 50 degrees or less, thus fighting bacteria and preventing the ailments which may arise from eating improperly kept foods.

Why is it thrifty? Because it allows you to use left overs, permits you to buy perishables in quantities at lower prices, and makes food spoilage almost unknown in your home.

"A wise investment"—that is what everyone who knows says of an electric refrigerator.

GEORGE STREET MEN IN CHARGE OF THE SERVICE

W. Ross Strike of Bowmanville Delivers Inspiring Address.

WORLD AT CROSSROADS.

The Men's Association of George Street United Church had charge of the Sunday evening service with W. Ross Strike of Bowmanville, secretary of the Lay Association as guest speaker.

The congregation were delighted with the brilliant and clever address from this young man, who took as his topic "The Problem that confronts us as Church members."

Associated with Mr. Strike in the pulpit were Rev. Dr. A. I. Brown who led in prayer. A. F. Hagerman, president of the Men's Association who was in charge and Dr. J. E. Middleton who introduced the speaker.

Musical contributions included a duet by A. V. Lillow and Edwin Rowe and an anthem by the choir. Mr. Strike in his introductory remarks spoke of the pleasure that it afforded him to speak in George Street United Church on account of former memories and the thrill that always came over him when he hears men of an association speak enthusiastically of service to others. "Church members to-day have a great problem confronting them. This period of economic depression and unrest is one of the most serious the world has ever known and unheard of problems are confronting us. The days that are past are not going to help us much except to warn us of mistakes of the past" the speaker said.

"The more I think of it the more I am firmly convinced that this is not just a cycle of depression but that we are standing at the cross-roads, the one leading up, the other down. We have been worshipping false gods. We have been almost entirely concerned with efficiency production so that everybody might have everything and most of us got it and are trying to hang on.

"During the last thirty years we have developed more than in any other time in history. Think of the radio, wireless telegraphy, telephone, aeroplanes, sky scrapers, educational plants, great churches, cathedrals, splendid net work of roads, equipped our homes with luxuries and conveniences our fathers never dreamed of and we have forgottten human people, in misery, almost starving, without raiment.

"Then you ask me why all this trouble. I ask you why and the answer is not yet.

"I am convinced that you will find the answer at the feet of Jesus, you will find it deep down in the loving heart of the Master. While we have been bending every energy for material things we have undertaken no direct responsibility for putting the teaching of Jesus into practical use. If ever the handwriting was on the wall it is now. There must be drastic changes. We have been doing unchristian things and we have paid the penalty. Un-Christian things are the payment of the War debt and some of our most cherished business practices. We will need courage to take Jesus into all our business and political relations but we must do it if we wish to solve this problem. I want to challenge you to this job. Let us organize our congregations to go out and do Christian service. If we are to meet this situation we must be prepared to organize a gigantic service club to carry out the teaching of Jesus and apply them. We must restore the Golden Rule, not the Gold Standard. We must take the loving heart of Jesus to all meetings, labor meetings, government caucuses and in every phase of business life. We must get back a proper sense of value and remember that our fellowman is of infinitely more value than dividends, yearly statements, etc. We must put as much energy into this new effort as we have for material advancement in the past thirty years.

Jesus is beseeching us to come out and go hand in hand with Him, to search out a better Christian advancement.

"Ahe we going as His companions or will we shrug our shoulders and turn away and let things go from bad to worse.

May Christ give us all the wisdom to help in this glorious adventure that leads on and up."

TRAFFIC HEAVY OVER WEEK-END

No Accidents Were Reported in District Over Week-end.

POLICE CHECKING UP.

Blue, sunny skies and balmy breezes yesterday caused many motorists to speed over hill and dale, resulting in the heaviest motor traffic of the year throughout the district. While it was the first jaunt of some of the car owners out into the country this spring, still they must have driven carefully, since no accidents were reported.

"Heavy traffic, but no accidents," stated Highway Patrol Officer A. E. Hornick. Provincial Police reported the same absence of motoring mishaps.

Saturday night's heavy motor traffic in the city also passed without an accident. Police report that drivers are showing more caution in traversing crossings and in making turns.

Police are checking up on cars parked for more than a half hour on George street, the aim being to keep the busines sarea free from the clutter of parked cars. So far, no summons have been issued, motorists merely being warned and ordered to park their cars henceforth on side streets.

FLIERS PLAN TO BREAK WORLD FLIGHT RECORD

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla, May 16 Two veteran aviators, Jimmie Mattern of Fort Worth, Tex., and Bennett Griffin of Oklahoma City, plan to take off next month in an attempt to lower the globe-girdling record of eight days and eight hours held by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

The two expect to hop off either from Chicago or New York, flying to Harbor Grace, thence across the Atlantic ocean to Ireland, over England, Holland or Belgium, Germany, Poland, Soviet Russia, Alaska and Canada.

'PAINS ALL OVER ME'

Rheumatism Again!

And once again it was the "little daily dose" of Kruschen that conquered it. In fact, it made this sufferer "feel ever so well."

"I have been taken Kruschen Salts because of having pains in the back, head and joints; pains all over me. I felt tired going to bed, tired getting up. I was in a very bad way. I was laid up for over a month, and the doctor who attended me said I was suffering from acute rheumatism and advised me to take Kruschen Salts. In less than 3 months I felt ever so well. I can't thank you enough for Kruschen Salts."—G. O.

The principle is this: Kruschen Salts drive from your body the uric acid crystals which cause your pain. Your pains ease; knotted joints become loose. Afterwards the "little daily dose" of Kruschen so stimulates the liver and kidneys that your inside is kept clean. Mischievous uric acid does not get the chance to accumulate.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protuding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr Leonhardt's prescription, HEM-ROID succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back.

Leafs, Royals Divide Double-Headers Over Week-End

LEAFS BREAK EVEN SATURDAY

WIN SERIES 3-2.

Sewell Blanks Skeeters in Nightcap and Starts Winning Rally.

TORONTO, May 16.—After two late-inning rallies had failed to give them the required number of runs to beat Jersey City in the first game at Maple Leaf Stadium on Saturday afternoon, the Leafs managed to capture the nightcap end of the bill and get an even break on the day and win the series 3 games to 2. Jersey City won the first game by 5 to 4, the second game score being 2 to 0 in Toronto's favor.

The fine weather brought out over 4,000 fans, who witnessed two interesting though light-hitting ball games. Earl Cook, formerly pitcher of St. George's senior amateur team, made an impressive local debut in a Toronto uniform, and but for one bad inning, would have beaten the Skeeters. He held them to five hits over eight innings, but three of the hits came in the second inning to give the visitors four runs and a lead which proved too big handicap for the Leafs. Cook had six strike-outs and the last ten men who faced him were retired in order. His one bad inning produced a single, a double and a triple, together with an error. The winning run was scored in the fourth when the Stouffville lad walked two batters, one of whom eventually scored. Those two walks were the only ones he issued.

Sewell in Great Form

Truett Banks Sewell gave a notable pitching performance for the Leafs to win the second game. He gave only two hits and was never seriously threatened. He did not issue a base on balls and for the first four innings not a Jersey City player reached first base. One of the hits off Sewell was scratchy. In addition, Sewell paved the way for the Leafs' two runs. He hit a double to the Tip Top sign in left field and earned himself a suit of clothes after two were out in the third inning. Morehart drove him in with a single and Owen's double scored Morehart with the only runs of the game. Those three hits were all the Leafs got off Charlie Perkins, southpaw, but they were all that Sewell needed. Manager Lobert of the Skeeters inserted six extra players into the game in the sixth inning in an attempt to launch a rally, but Sewell was too good for them.

Phil Gallivan, who, together with Mungo and Mattingly, was one of the leading pitchers with the champion Hartford team of the Eastern Association last season, opposed the Leafs in the first game, but failed to go the route. He held the Dalymen to two hits for seven innings, but weakened in the eighth and retired in favor of Larry Irvin.

21,500 CUSTOMERS PAY TO SEE ROYALS SPLIT BILL WITH BEARS

McAfee Hurls His Fifth Straight Victory to Win 4 to 3.

WINGS WIN IN NINTH.

(By the Associated Press).

As a very bright spot in a baseball season which has seen club owners far and wide complaining because the fans failed to turn out, the International League had a brand new attendance record today.

The Montreal Royals and Newark Bears, starting a scrap for first place, played before 21,500 paying customers yesterday and treated them to an even break in a bitterly contested double-header. Newark also held the old record of 19,338 paid admissions, made when they played Jersey City on their last Sunday of the 1931 season. The best previous crowd at Montreal was on the opening day four years ago when the Royals' return to the League was seen by over 20,000, of whom 17,300 paid.

Montreal won yesterday's first game when Bill McAfee kept the Bears under control despite their 10 hits, and won 4 to 3. The Royals batted Johnny Welch from the hill with three runs in the fifth. Big Jim Weaver turned the tables by allowing only five hits in the seven-inning second game. He also contributed a homer in his 7-3 victory.

Bisons In Third Place.

Buffalo climbed into third place in the tight race by shutting out Jersey City 4 to 4, while the Baltimore Orioles had a day of idleness at Toronto. A sizeable crowd of about 10,000 witnessed the proceedings. Each team made seven hits but Fred Fussell spread the Jersey blows over seven innings, while the Bisons hit for distance. Their blows included Ollie Carnegie's fifth homer in four days, a four-bagger by Bill Werber and a long tribple by Jack Winsett.

Ike Boone, who led the League in hitting with Newark last year, joined the Jerseys, coming down from Brooklyn. He couldn't get a hit off Fussell.

Red Wings Beat Keys 3-2.

The fifth place Rochester Red Wings dropped into a notch only a half game behind Baltimore by taking a close decision from the Reading Keys, 3 to 2. It wasn't until the ninth inning that George Puccinelli could get his daily hit off Milstead to make it 26 games in a row, but he converted it into the winning run with the aid of a sacrifice by Wilson and a pinch single by Bud Teachout.

Saturday's scene in the International ended a series before the teams faced new opponents yesterday. Montreal Royals were nosed out 5-4 in a 10-inning battle, the only single game of the day. Three double-headers found the Newark Bears pounding out a double victory over Rochester, 8-2 and 4-0, with Holsclaw and Brennan gathering the hurling laurels, and the Reading Keys and Buffalo Bisons dividing a twin act by the same scores, 4-3.

Cuba Is Eliminated By Australian Team

HAVANA, May 16. — Australia's Davis Cup team made a clean sweep of the North American Zone semi-final matches with Cuba, winning both of the concluding singles matches yesterday.

With the series already clinched the Australians substituted Clifford Sproule for Jack Crawford in one of today's matches, Harry O. Hopman playing the other.

Hopman made the count 4-0 by trouncing Ricardo Morales, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4, and Sproule walloped the Cuban singles champion, Gustavo Vollmer, in equally convincing fashion, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Olympic Threat

BEN EASTMAN

of Stamford University is being heralded as a double winner at the coming Olympic games at Los Angeles. Already holder of the world's record for the 440 and 880 yards, he is expected to gain the small group of athletes, among them Percy Williams of Canada, who have won two sprint events at the Olympics.

GROVE DIVIDES CRICKET BILL

RETURN GAME JUNE 1

On May 11, St. Andrew's College from Aurora sent up two teams to the Grove; the senior game was the Grove first XI vs. St. Andrew's College team, excepting four S. A. C. boys who had first XI colours last year. Harris, Grove bowler took 5 for 16 and Atwood 2 for 7. For St. Andrew's, Armstrong took 4 for 34. Top scores were Macrae 24 for the Grove and Findlay 29 for S. A. C. The Grove won 65 to 55.

In the second team game, the St. Andrew's College XI were far too strong in the bowling, and dismissed the Grove for 17 runs, while they collected 69 runs. The S. A. C. bowling was really excellent and their batting in this, the junior game, very strong.

The return game will be played in Aurora on June 1st.

Did not bat.
Grove won 65-55.

The Grove 2nd XI played at oPrt Hope, Saturday 15th, Mar vs. Trinity College Littles.de team of the senior school. The Grove won the game 75-55, with Roland Strickland, son of J. C. Strickland of Peterborough, scoring 47 runs, no out, thus missing his bat (for scoring 50 in a school match) by but 3 runs. Tried out for the first XI with Dench against St. Andrews, this score of 47 will probably promote him permanently.

The Grove School XI and members of their staff play against the Peterborough Cricket Club in Peterborough on Saturday 21st.

Box Lacrosse Has Debut At Lakefield

Public School Score 7-4 Victory Over Old Guard—Game Enthusiastically Received.

LAKEFIELD, May 16.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Box lacrosse made its debut in Lakefield on Friday evening when the Public school team played the Old Guard and went over as a big success.

Three fifteen minute periods were played, the ages of the players varied from about fifty to twelve and apparently the enthusiasm was equally distributed and had no age limit. The old players found it hard on the wind but the Public school boys finished strong. The score was 7-4 in favor of the youngsters. John Sabatino was the referee.

T. W. Chaplin, who has introduced the game and trained the boys, deserves credit for his enterprise and already the team shows good material as some of the boys were especially good. Kenneth Patterson, Harry Jewell and Henry Skelcher were particularly good and all lovers of sport hope to see many good games, but there is a grave danger of killing it in its infancy if the spectators indulge in advice to the players such as "hit him over the head"; "sock it to him", etc. A few of the youngsters lost their heads and apparently wanted to take the cue given them. That is not lacrosse and its not British and if the game is to succeed it must be kept clean.

The players changed positions frequently, especially in the team of the Old Guard, who were: Dr. Gibson, V. Lancaster, J. R. Earnshaw, Ken Junkin, Babe Wannamaker, Charlie Lane, Louis Sabatino, T. W. Chaplin, J. E. Charlton and Ray Mott. Seven men were played on the team.

The Junior line up was: Goal, Bernard Pearson; defence, Charlie Moore and Wilfrid Morin; centre, Irwin Charlton; wings, Henry Skelcher and Harry Jewell; inside home, Kenneth Patterson; subs, Tom Junkin, Don Yale, Stewart Loyst.

The score by periods was:

Old Guard	0	3	1—4
Public School	4	2	1—7

CLUB ORGANIZED AT BAILIEBORO

Will Enter team in Northumberland League—Loop Officers Elected.

BAILIEBORO, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—The local baseball club entered a team in the Northumberland Ball League at the annual meeting at Harwood last week.

The various clubs throughout the county were well represented, and Chief Ernest Crow of Alderville was appointed president of the League for the ensuing year. Charles Burtsson was appointed vice-president, while Alfred Luckes was elected secretary.

The teams who have already entered the Northumberland League are Harwood, Roseneath, Alderville, Cobourg, Bailieboro and team composed of Baltimore and Precious Corners players.

The schedule will be drawn up this week by the newly appointed executive. It was decided that an umpire would be provided by each home team, and the visiting team would supply the second official, thus cutting down extensively upon expenses.

Manager Walter Lord and A. Deyell were the representatives present from the local club.

The locals last year played in the Lakeshore League, with Cobourg, Port Hope and Oshawa, but the management this year decided that it was impossible for a village club to compete against town and city teams, and so they signed up in the Northumberland loop. This league, however, will be a strong fixture, with an intermediate team from Cobourg, as well as the old standbys of the County League, and there should be a real fast brand of ball played in the village this season.

The locals will play mostly all of last year's players. Deyell and Carl, as well as a junior player, Bateman, will most likely do the work on the mound, while Wood and Howson have signed to do the receiving behind the bat. Up to date, no new recruits have shown up.

BURGOO KING WINS PREAKNESS STAKES IN THRILLING FINISH

Equal Performances of Sir Barton and Gallant Fox.

TICK-ON CLOSE SECOND.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 16. Burgoo King, a royally bred son of the Blue Grass, moved into the select circle of great thoroughbreds as he capped his Kentucky victory with a driving triumph in the forty-second running of the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

Coming from behind to nab the decision in the closing strides, the E. R. Bradley colt equalled the performances of the mighty Sir Barton and the great Gallant Fox, heretofore the only two horses that ever won both the Derby and the Preakness.

The King, meeting eight crack Eastern 3-year-olds, was a great horse in his victory. Running over a track at east a second slow, he came within 1 4-5 seconds of equalling the track record as he reeled off the one and three-sixteenth miles in 1.59 4-5.

A crowd of 40,000 said to be the largest in the history of the classic saw the chesnut son of Bubbling Over nab Mrs. Louis G. Kaufman's Tick On, the favorite, and Walter M. Jefford's Boatswain, an outsider, in the final stride. Only a head separated the King and Tick On at the finish, while a like distance behind was Boatswain, a son of Man o' War, which won the race in 1920.

The victory carrying with it a purse of $50,375, boosted the King's total earnings in eight days to $102,690.

No Excuse for Tick On

Tick On, unruly at the post in the Derby, had no excuse Saturday. He was beaten by a better horse; but in accepting defeat ran the greatest race of his career. Boatswain did not start as a 2-year-old last year, but won two of his four starts as a 3-year-old previous to Saturday.

Earl Sande, seeking his second Preakness victory with Walter J. Salmon's Mad Pursuit, finished fourth, four lengths back of the three leaders. Strung out of the rear in order were Samuel Riddle's War Hero, Morton L. Schwartz's Gusto, which ran coupled as an entry with Tick On, L. E. Keiffer's Daisaburo, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Curacao and J. J. Robinson's Lucky Tom.

Tick On caused a short delay at the post by refusing to enter the stall gates, but Starter James Milton got the eight Eastern colts and Burgoo King away in perfect order. The King was pumped in breaking from the barrier, however and ran fifth to the first turn.

CANADIAN PACKERS GAIN LEAGUE OPENER FROM CALEDONIAN CLUB

All Counters Are of Highest Calibre—Clever Brand of Scientific Code.

FINAL SCORE 3-2.

An excellent brand of soccer was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators in ideal weather, on Saturday afternoon, on King Edward Park when the Canadian Packers won the opening league match by the odd goal, 3-2, after a strenuous battle to hold the league points in the last minutes of the encounter against the Scots' dangerous raids. No substiuttes were used. Jack Clark, acted as referee pro tem, owing to the association having only only one adjudicator.

The kick-off revealed dthat the players were in the pink of condition and treated the fans to many scientific combinations in and around the goal areas. Frick, Scots' custodian, getting the most to do as the Packers' front rank tore inside the defense to rap shot after shot against goal. On one occasion, Newt Downer bewildered the full backs on a feint move and running towards goal lifted the ball over the cross bar in an endeavour to get the opening goal. Then the Scots travelled to the other end where Buchan broke-up an O'Halloran attempt to break through. Buchan manoeuvering for position until he noticed Jones well set to send in a lightning drive away out of the reach of the Caladonian goalie. The Scots made many raids to get the equalizer in the next few minutes and they were rewarded when O'Halloran deceived Foster, in goal, with a first timer that found the rigging inside the upright.

Clever Football

The wing men in particular indulged in close passing tactics that were giving the halves no end of trouble but they finally concentrated in a close check to keep their forwards well plied with the ball. A surprise crept into the tussle when Blowers accepted a timely pass from a throw-in with one of his favorite shots into goal. The custodian of the winners ran out to clear his charge but misjudged the flight of the ball to permit Willie McCraken to put the Scots aheadd, just five minutes before the interval. Caledonians 2, Packers 1.

A well earned rest enlivned the proceedings as the forwards repeatedly broke inside the goal territory to test the custodians at short and long range. Both citadels stood up under the bombardment with the half back divisions being the prominent factor in frustrating the elusive movements of the attacking forces. As time went on, Buchan awaited his opening and received it when he sent his left wing along the wing, where Ross lifted the ball across to Newt Downer who met the sphere with a first timer that found the net in below the cross-bar, to even up the count. Play ran from end to end at a rapid pace. A favourable break went in favor of the Packers when Frick ran out of his charge to break up a danger attack on the right. He was upset in the melee to allow an opponent to shoot the ball across the unprotected uprights where George Downer landed the winning tally as Frick arrived a fraction too late to offset the count. The remainder of the tussle terminated in an excellent brand of the code as the Scots' re-arranged attack did everything but score. Hakin and Asa Downer battled to the last minutes to hold the Scots outside the shooting range. The losers were pressing as the whistle sounded, the Packers leading to the tune of Canada Packers 3, Caledonians 2.

Goal scorers: Newt Downer (2); and G. oDwner for Packers; O'Halloran and McCraken for Caleys.

CASUAL COMMENT

The East Peterborough Baseball League gets together at Duffus' to-morrow evening at eight, with all teams figuring o nentering and anyone interested being asked to attend. Now that the seniors are pretty well lined up, the intermediate teams should get organized speedily.

• • • • • • •

Some sixteen prospective senior players had a fine workout at Stevenson Park Saturday. The warm sun was ideal for baseball and loosened up the old muscles. Manager Art Primeau and his lieutenant, Bob Ross, put the boys through their paces and were enthusiastic over the way the players worked.

• • • • • • •

Among those who cavorted on the diamond, pitched and took a few cuts at the ball were: Russ Kitchen, Al Heckman, Holmes, Lam Collins, "Cack" Rogers, Don Wood, Tommy Foley, Deb Hillier, "Red" Dallin, Cy Whatley, Beavis, "Red" Hollingsworth, Tommy Miller, Nicholls, Abbie Rose and Fred Ash. Some of the younger fellows looked smart in fielding and hitting. Most of the starting senior team are signed up now.

• • • • • • •

According to a piece in the Star Weekly, old Knotty Lee is at it again. This time he has lined up an outstanding bunch of Canadian professional ball players and he intends having them play in Toronto and various parts of Ontario this summer. They will go on against the best of the semi-pro ball teams from the States, a touring Jap team, the House of David outfit, and a couple of ladies' baseball teams that have been playing against semi-pro men's teams in the U.S.A.

• • • • • • •

'Tis an ambitious plan and may work out okay. We may even see them here this summer. But the most interesting part of the story is the proposed line-up of players. It includes our own Frank Whitehouse, Les Rice, former Kingston catcher, Babe Dye, Red Wingo, and a raft of other stars.

• • • • • • •

The Men's City Softball League meets this evening at eight down at Duffus' to draw up a schedule, settle on umpires, and the usual final business before the campaign gets under way May 23rd, next Monday. It's an executive meeting.

• • • • • • •

The intermediate lacrossers will practise at the Brock from seven to eight every morning until further notice. There was a good turnout there on Saturday afternoon, including several of Orde's City League players. The ground was still rather damp, but should be dried out in a few days, and with another rolling or two, will be ready for play.

• • • • • • •

Those working out under Bud Fisher included: Creighton, King, Bovin, McGee, Bates, Dundas, Reynolds, Jackson, Ellis, Collins, P. Calladine, Weir, Watson, McLeish, and Ingram. Quite a few rail-birds took in the session and seemed enthusiastic over the game. While a number of the players found the shorter passing not so easy to get on to as it looked, still another week will find the team clicking off in good style. Orillia may be here around the end of the week for an exhibition game.

• • • • • • •

POLAND ENTERS 3RD ROUND.

WARSAW, May 15.—(A.P.)—Poland completed its Davis Cup conquest of Holland yesterday in the final two singles matches to take the series, four matches to one and enter the third round of European play, where it will meet England.

Tloczynski defeated Hughana 6-3 6-4, 6-2 and Maks Stolarow won from Hans Cimmerman 6-4, 6-2, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4.

Holland won only the doubles Saturday.

Run In The Twelfth Defeats Oshawa 3-2

OSHAWA, May 16. — Battling twelve innings in the first senior hard ball game of the West Toronto League played here Saturday afternoon, Toronto Typos nosed out the Oshawa Dukes by a 3 to 2 score. More than 1,500 fans attended the opening at the Motor City stadium.

Playing steady ball throughout the twelve innings, Toronto Typos put it over the home team in the third frame when they scored two runs, taking full advantage of three errors.

The eleventh inning was a heartbreaker for the Oshawa fans when with the bases loaded the Dukes failed to get a hit. Typos cinched the game in the twelfth when Collins went to second on Fowden's error. Hastings failed to reach first, but Collins gained third. Bradley sacrificed and Collins came home on the play.

The pitching honors of the day went to Matthews of the Dukes, who only allowed two hits in the twelve innings. The Dukes were far superior in batting and obtained ten hits, but failed to capitalize and errors proved costly.

TECUMSEHS VICTORS OVER MAPLE LEAFS

TORONTO, May 16. — Showing superiority that could not be denied, the Tecumsehs won a meritorious 14 to 8 victory over the Maple Leafs on Saturday night, and delighteld the largest crowd of the International Professional Lacrosse League season. The Indians battled it out almost goal for goal in the first two periods, but after that they had the better of the going, and hit the twine eight times times against three for the Smythemen. The victory also enabled Eddie Longfellow's smart team to go into first place, tied with the Montreal Canadiens.

Tecumsehs showed by far the better team play, both on attack and defense, and in the heavy going the younger members of the Leafs became rarttled, and didn't live up to the instructions given by that astute mentor, Eddie Powers. The pace seemed to be a little too fast for them when their more experienced opponents struck their stride, and there were many errors of omission and commission.

Evidence of team play is shown by the fact that fifteen players figured in the point-getting, "Scotty" Martin, who scintillated throughout, scored five goals, and led the parade, but Art Pim ran him a close second by registering three counters and assisting in the scoring of another. Norman Zimmer, with two goals and an assist; "Chuck" Baldwin, with a similar record, and Eddie Dodds, with three markers, were others who figured prominently on the attack.

Lawn Bowling

There has been unusual activity in and around the bowling precincts in the Monaghan Road clubhouse of late and the hedges and other improvements on the grounds will make this one of the best equipped bowling greens in the province.

There is an increase in membership even over that of last year and already forty-four rinks are complete and scheduled.

On June 8th the Cairns' rink will represent Peterborough in Toronto and May 24th will see the opening of the mixed tournament and the 30th of May the opening of the schedule.

Much speculation is going on as to who will win the 1932 championship—the general opinion being that last year's winners and runners up will have difficulty in repeating.

The Gordon rink is the special Kinsmen Club entry and are picked by those on the inside as the dark horse this year. The skip of this rink refused to make any statement to the press, evidently fearing it would affect the betting odds which are, at present two one in favor of the dark horse entry.

Late applications for a place on the schedule will have to be put in to the secretary, Roy Disney, this week, in order to secure a place in the schedule.

Golf

Many local golfers are nursing aching feet to-day, following their first hike around the 18 holes of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club.

Golfers were out in force on Saturday and Sunday. They were practising drives, putts and all the other shots needed to navigate the hazards of the course.

Workmen have been busy on the links for many weeks, and the greens are in almost first-class condition. The course will open officially on Saturday with the opening of the club-house.

The Canadian Forestry Association has recruited 4,000 school boy to aid forest rangers and wardens in combatting forest fires and conserving hunting and fishing.

CARDS RAISE FLAG AND JINX TO FALL BEFORE BOSTON 8-3

Philadelphia Cuts Down Chicago Lead to Take 8-6 Victory.

Stewart Blanks Senators.

(By Herbert W. Barker, A.P. Sports Writer)

Steve Swetonic, a home town boy who made good, fast, is becoming the pitching sensation of the National League.

The crack right-hander of the Pittsburgh Pirates pitched his third shutout of the season yesterday, halting the Brooklyn Dodgers with two hits and won, 2-0.

Previously he had blanked the Cardinals and the Cubs with three hits apiece. All told this season he has permitted only 14 hits in 36 innings and won three games and lost one.

Gets Dodgers Hits

Tony Cuccinello got both of Brooklyn's hits, but his double in the fifth was a gift pure and simple. Floyd Vaughan, young Pirate shortstop, backed up for Tony's Texas leaguer, but suddenly decided not to take it, and it fell safely behind him. Piet's single, steal of second and third and an infield out gave the Pirates one run in the fifth off Joe Shaute and the other came across in the sixth on Suhr's double and Vaughan's single.

The Boston Braves moved up to within one game of first place by walloping the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-3, while the league-elading Chicago Cubs were boxing to the Phillies, 8-6.

The Cardinals jinxed themselves in advance by raising the world championship flag. Neither Bruce Cunningham nor Paul Derringer, starting pitchers, lasted long, but the Braves uncovered an effective relief hurler in young Bob Brown who blanked the Cards with two hits in the last five innings and fanned four.

First Defeat for Warneke

The Pihhlies gave Lon Warneke his first defeat, pounding him for 12 hits including home runs by Klein, Hurst and Virgil Davis. A triple by Hurst, and doubles by Hurst, Mallon and Virgil Davis.

The Giants beat the Reds, 9-1.

In the American League, Charley Ruffing held the Cleveland Indians to four hits and struck out 12 men in a 5-0 victory that put the Yankees within a game and a half of the league leading Washington Senators.

Braves Win on Saturday

Saturday's games in the National League provided different opponents, but Boston's Braves even then were in a winning mood, defeating Chicago 7-6. Brooklyn bowed to Cincinnati, 5-3, and St. Louis squeezed out a 7-6 win over the Phillies. Rain kept the Giants and Pirates idle.

The Yankees in the American League wound up their series with the Chicago White Sox with a 6-0 victory on George Pipgras' four-hit twirling. Brown of the Cleveland Indians was just as stingy and shut out the Boston Red Sox by the same score. Lefty Grove, the Athletics' ace, kept in step in the smart pitching performances, and another four-hit game let the St. Louis Browns on the short end of the third whitewash of the day, 3-0.

Gehringer's 7th Homer

The Senators were beaten by the St. Louis Browns as Walter Stewart allowed only four hits. Charley Gehringer's seventh home run marked a five-run fifth inning rally that gave the Detroit Tigers a 7-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. The Chicago White Sox pounded Wiley Moore for nine hits and eight runs in the first two innings to beat the Boston Red Sox easily, 9-2.

HAMILTON RUNNER SHATTERS RECORD

Earl Moore Steps One Mile, Setting Princeton Mark.

PRINCETON, N.J., May 16. — Fleet-foot runners of Hamilton Central Collegiate again demonstrated their ability to American spectators at the 36th annual Princeton Interscholastic track meet yesterday, when they smashed a track meet record for the one-mile run and captured a half-mile event for high schools only. Fifty-five schools of Canada and the United States were entered, and 539 entries.

Earl Moore of Hamilton shattered the meet record in the one-mile event, covering the distance in 4.24 1-5. He was 30 yards ahead of Patterson of Curtis High School, who came in second. The former record of 4.26 2-5 was established by Cox of Mercersburg in 1924.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

JERRY'S HEART IS MADE LIGHTER.

A single note, a bit of song
May haply echo all day long.
—Old Mother Nature.

When Jerry Muskrat parted with Old Man Coyote he dived deep and swam under water as far as he could. When he did come up for air it was under a bit of overhanging bank where he could not be seen.

"It is a lucky thing that I remembered that bend in the Laughing Brook and took that short cut," thought Jerry. "If I hadn't I would have walked right into the jaws of Old Man Coyote just as he planned that I should. Now I know that I have got to be very careful if I want to get back to the Smiling Pool. I almost ran into Buster Bear because I was heedless, and it was only because I was smart enough to fool Old Man Coyote that I didn't furnish him with a dinner. From now on I will take no chances."

So Jerry made his way down the Laughing Brook with the greatest care. He took no chances if he could help it. There were places where he had to go ashore and make his way around falls and water too swift for him to swim, but he took care to carefully look, listen and test the air before starting. So at last he came to where the Laughing Brook flows through a swamp above the Smiling Pool. This was almost like home. The water had dropped so that in the swamp it remained only in little scattered pools. The flood was over. The Laughing Brook was full, but not out of its banks.

Just as he entered the swamp he heard a sound that made him stop swimming and listen with all his might. Anyway, he thought he had heard that sound. He was so sure of it that, not hearing it again right away, he swam ashore and crept out. There he sat waiting and listening. He was on the point of deciding that he had been mistaken when he heard it again and his heart leaped for joy. This time there was no doubt about it. It was a clear, high peep, a sound he had not heard for almost a year, a sound that gave him a thrill that seemed to run all through him.

Jerry wanted to hear it again so that he might be sure of just where it came from. In his impatience it seemed to him that that clear, high, sweet note never would sound again. But after a while it did, and this time Jerry was sure he knew just where it came from. Slowly and carefully, taking the greatest care to make no noise, he stole toward a certain little pool a little way back in the swamp. It wasn't much more than a big puddle. Carefully Jerry looked it all over. The water was shallow and the bottom was covered with dead leaves and sticks. A few skunk cabbage plants were showing their queer hoods along the edge and even a little way out in the water. But skunk cabbages could make no sound and it was the maker of that clear high note that Jerry was looking for.

"He isn't in this puddle," thought Jerry.

"He isn't in this puddle," thought Jerry. "I must have been mistaken in the direction of that sound. I will have to wait until I hear it again."

Just a few minutes later, in front of him and almost under his nose, there was a little movement and as Jerry looked down it was to see what looked like a big silvery bubble that lasted but an instant. But in that instant that note had sounded again, clear pe-ep for which he had been waiting. And now Jerry saw the singer, a tiny member of the Frog family, so small that he could hide under a small leaf or even a dead twig.

"Peeper!" cried Jerry. "When did you come out?"

But Peeper the Hyla, for that is who it was, startled by a slight movement on the part of Jerry, had disappeared, nor would he come out again, although Jerry waited for some time. At last Jerry gave up and started on, happier than he had been for a long time, for that sweet note of Peeper's still echoed in his heart.

"When Peeper the Hyla sings we know that Mistress Spring is really here. I must hurry home. Indeed I must!" he cried.

DEATH STOPS WOMAN'S VOTE

When an automobile called at the home of Mrs. Prudence Elliott, aged 100, at Creve, Irish Free State, to take her to the polls during the recent election, she was found dead. James O'Donnell, aged 102, of Meenmore, cast his vote as usual.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If May 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. danger periods are from 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Life will demonstrate on May 16th that no human is completely immune to the strategical movements of Fate, which uncannily select our weakest points for its attack on us. An unkindly mood will be fostered by the day's influences, and waspish tongues may carry lovers across the Rubicon of love from which they will not return to a former status of affection.

The child born on this May 16th will neither be industrious nor of an inquiring mind. It will, however, have a sense of fitness of things, and will not be a shirker of duty. It will love material comforts and pleasures far too much not to put up a fair fight for their possession.

Born on May 16th, you live for your work and shut the door to all other interests. You will be far more wedded to your job or some absorbing hobby than to any human being. One is struck by your happy, unhurried efficiency. Your efforts never appear studied, forced or unskilled. You prefer to be your own master, and are far too much possessed with your own sagacity to often seek advice. You are too practical-minded and clear-eyed to easily surrender to the luxury of rich illusions. You figuratively live a ground floor existence—on the spot and in the thick of things which make up your own individual life. You have the spiritual strength to stand up against naked realities.

You are fond of serious, intelligent discussion and meaty conversation, but never like to be a listener to or sharer of monkey chatter. Constant companionship is not essential to your happiness; you quite enjoy the indulgence of a few hours' solitude spent in contemplative thought or reading. You keep still if you cannot say anything good about a person, and you are not easily prejudiced by idle gossip.

If you be a woman, your magpie habit of acquisitiveness is probably noticeable in your home or room. You attach a sentimental value to things, and you like your own bric-a-brac around you. You are a person of good taste, but are far too thrifty to be called extravagant.

Successful Social Is Held At Cottesloe

COTTESLOE, May 16—Tre regular monthly meeting of Cottesloe Women's Missionary Society was held in the church May 11th, with eight present. The president, Mrs. Webster, had charge of the devotional exercises. A most excellent excellent synopsis of two chapters of the Study Book was given by Mrs. Gallagher and Miss Tripp. In a single generation Korea has emerged from its primitive state and in consequence is suffering from the transition. The roll call was answered with a verse containing "Worship." Each member gave an item from the April Missionary Monthly. Mrs. Forsyth on Africa; Mrs. John Gallagher, China; Miss Tripp, Japan; Mrs. M. Blakley, "Let's Budget"; Mrs. Jenkins, Personality; Mrs. Joseph Gallagher, Fidelity; Miss Webster, Church papers. The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. William Forsyth.

Pie Social

The members of the W.M.S. held a very successful pie social on Friday night, with a very good attendance. The program consisted of solos by Mrs. Brethour of Warsaw and Miss F. Burgess; recitations by Miss Laura Metcalfe of Norwood and little Miss Milo Payne of Warsaw, who delighted her audience; violin solos by Beryl Clysdale accompanied by Miss Sylvia Clysdale; a dialogue by Margaret McDonald and Sylvia Slysdale. Mrs. Lawlor of Norwood, in her most capable manner, gave a very interesting address on her trip from Vancouver up the Pacific Coast, telling of the work done by our church in schools and hospitals. Also of visits to canning factories and communities of Indians and the improvement in the people's and homes where the Gospel has come.

A vote of thanks was tended all who helped with the program. Rev Stillman was chairman for the evening.

CANADIAN PACKERS GAIN LEAGUE OPENER FROM CALEDONIAN CLUB

All Counters Are of Highest Calibre—Clever Brand of Scientific Code.

FINAL SCORE 3-2.

An excellent brand of soccer was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators in ideal weather, on Saturday afternoon, on King Edward Park when the Canadian Packers won the opening league match by the odd goal, 3-2, after a strenuous battle to hold the league points in the last minutes of the encounter against the Scots' dangerous raids. No substiuttes were used. Jack Clark, acted as referee pro tem, owing to the association having only only one adjudicator.

The kick-off revealed dthat the players were in the pink of condition and treated the fans to many scientific combinations in and around the goal areas. Frick, Scots' custodian, getting the most to do as the Packers' front rank tore inside the defense to rap shot after shot against goal. On one occasion, Newt Downer bewildered the full backs on a feint move and running towards goal lifted the ball over the cross bar in an endeavour to get the opening goal. Then the Scots travelled to the other end where Buchan broke up an O'Halloran attempt to break through. Buchan manoeuvering for position until he noticed Jones well set to send in a lightning drive away out of the reach of the Caladonian goalie. The Scots made many raids to get the equalizer in the next few minutes and they were rewarded when O'Halloran deceived Foster, in goal, with a first timer that found the rigging inside the upright.

Clever Football

The wing men in particular indulged in close passing tactics that were giving the halves no end of trouble but they finally concentrated in a close check to keep their forwards well plied with the ball. A surprise crept into the tussle when Blowers accepted a timely pass from a throw-in with one of his favorite shots into goal. The custodian of the winners ran out to clear his charge but misjudged the flight of the ball to permit Willie McCraken to put the Scots aheadd, just five minutes before the interval. Caledonians 2, Packers 1.

A well earned rest enlivned the proceedings as the forwards repeatedly broke inside the goal territory to test the custodians at short and long range. Both citadels stood up under the bombardment with the half back divisions being the prominent factor in frustrating the elusive movements of the attacking forces. As time went on, Buchan awaited his opening and received it when he sent his left wing along the wing, where Ross lifted the ball across to Newt Downer who met the sphere with a first timer that found the net in below the cross-bar, to even up the count. Play ran from end to end at a rapid pace. A favourable break went in favor of the Packers when Frick ran out of his charge to break up a danger attack on the right. He was upset in the melee to allow an opponent to shoot the ball across the unprotected uprights where George Downer landed the winning tally as Frick arrived a fraction too late to offset the count. The remainder of the tussle terminated in an excellent brand of the code as the Scots' re-arranged attack did everything but score. Hakin and Asa Downer battled to the last minutes to hold the Scots outside the shooting range. The losers were pressing as the whistle sounded, the Packers leading to the tune of Canada Packers 3, Caledonians 2.

Goal scorers: Newt Downer (2); and G. oDwner for Packers; O'Halloran and McCraken for Caleys.

Caledonians—A. Frick, goal; W. Agnew and A. McPhate, full backs; T. Reid, T. Craig and G. Blowers, halves; R. Murphy, W. McCracken, J. O'Halloran, A. McPhate and A. Coyle, forwards. No. subs.

Canada Packers—T. Foster, goal; A. Downer and E. Hakin, full backs; J. Fletcher, J. Buchan and A. Bromley, halves; G. Downer, W. Jones, N. Downer, A. Ross and F. Dyer, forwards.

Referee: Jack Clark; linesman: T. Keiren and A. Jackson.

Equal Performances of Sir Barton and Gallant Fox.

TICK-ON CLOSE SECOND.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 16. Burgoo King, a royally bred son of the Blue Grass, moved into the select circle of great thoroughbreds as he capped his Kentucky victory with a driving triumph in the forty-second running of the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

Coming from behind to nab the decision in the closing strides, the E. R. Bradley colt equalled the performances of the mighty Sir Barton and the great Gallant Fax, heretofcre the only two horses that ever won both the Derby and the Preakness.

The King, meeting eight crack Eastern 3-year-olds, was a great horse in his victory. Running over a track at east a second slow, he came within 1 4-5 seconds of equalling the track record as he reeled off the one and three-sixteenth miles in 1.59 4-5.

A crowd of 40,000 said to be the largest in the history of the classic saw the chesnut son of Bubbling Over nab Mrs. Louis G. Kaufman's Tick On, the favorite, and Walter M. Jefford's Boatswain, an outsider, in the final stride. Only a head separated the King and Tick On at the finish, while a like distance behind was Boatswain, a son of Man o' War, which won the race in 1920.

The victory carrying with it a purse of $50,375, boosted the King's total earnings in eight days to $102,690.

No Excuse for Tick On

Tick On, unruly at the post in the Derby, had no excuse Saturday. He was beaten by a better horse; but in accepting defeat ran the greatest race of his career. Boatswain did not start as a 2-year-old last year, but won two of his four starts as a 3-year-old previous to Saturday.

Earl Sande, seeking his second Preakness victory with Walter J. Salmon's Mad Pursuit, finished fourth, four lengths back of the three leaders. Strung out of the rear in order were Samuel Riddle's War Hero, Morton L. Schwartz's Gusto, which ran coupled as an entry with Tick On, L. E. Keiffer's Daisaburo, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Curacao and J. J. Robinson's Lucky Tom.

Tick On caused a short delay at the post by refusing to enter the stall gates, but Starter James Milton got the eight Eastern colts and Burgco King away in perfect order. The King was pumped in breaking from the barrier, however and ran fifth to the first turn.

CASUAL COMMENT

The East Peterborough Baseball League gets together at Duffus' to-morrow evening at eight, with all teams figuring o nentering and anyone interested being asked to attend. Now that the seniors are pretty well lined up, the intermediate teams should get organized speedily.

• • • • • • •

Some sixteen prospective senior players had a fine workout at Stevenson Park Saturday. The warm sun was ideal for baseball and loosened up the old muscles. Manager Art Primeau and his lieutenant, Bob Ross, put the boys through their paces and were enthusiastic over the way the players worked.

• • • • • • •

Among those who cavorted on the diamond, pitched and took a few cuts at the ball were: Russ Kitchen, Al Heckman, Holmes, Lam Collins, "Cack" Rogers, Don Wood, Tommy Foley, Deb Hillier, "Red" Dallin, Cy Whatley, Beavis, "Red" Hollingsworth, Tommy Miller, Nicholls, Abbie Rose and Fred Ash. Some of the younger fellows looked smart in fielding and hitting. Most of the starting senior team are signed up now.

• • • • • • •

According to a piece in the Star Weekly, old Knotty Lee is at it again. This time he has lined up an outstanding bunch of Canadian professional ball players and he intends having them play in Toronto and various parts of Ontario this summer. They will go on against the best of the semi-pro ball teams from the States, a touring Jap team, the House of David outfit, and a couple of ladies' baseball teams that have been playing against semi-pro men's teams in the U.S.A.

• • • • • • •

'Tis an ambitious plan and may work out okay. We may even see them here this summer. But the most interesting part of the story is the proposed line-up of players. It includes our own Frank Whitehouse, Les Rice, former Kingston catcher, Babe Dye, Red Wingo, and a raft of other stars.

• • • • • • •

The Men's City Softball League meets this evening at eight down at Duffus' to draw up a schedule, settle on umpires, and the usual final business before the campaign gets under way May 23rd, next Monday. It's an executive meeting.

• • • • • • •

The intermediate lacrossers will practise at the Brock from seven to eight every morning until further notice. There was a good turnout there on Saturday afternoon, including several of Orde's City League players. The ground was still rather damp, but should be dried out in a few days, and with another rolling or two, will be ready for play.

• • • • • • •

Those working out under Bud Fisher included: Creighton, King, Bovin, McGee, Bates, Dundas, Reynolds, Jackson, Ellis, Collins, P. Calladine, Weir, Watson, McLeish, and Ingram. Quite a few railbirds took in the session and seemed enthusiastic over the game. While a number of the players found the shorter passing not so easy to get on to as it looked, still another week will find the team clicking off in good style. Orillia may be here around the end of the week for an exhibition game.

• • • • • • •

POLAND ENTERS 3RD ROUND.

WARSAW, May 15.—(A.P.)—Poland completed its Davis Cup conquest of Holland yesterday in the final two singles matches to take the series, four matches to one and enter the third round of European play, where it will meet England. Tloczynski defeated Hughana 6-3 6-4, 6-2 and Maks Stolarow won from Hans Cimmer on 6-4, 6-2, 3-7 4-6, 6-4.

Holland won only the doubles Saturday.

Run In The Twelfth Defeats Oshawa 3-2

OSHAWA, May 16. — Battling twelve innings in the first senior hard ball game of the West Toronto League played here Saturday afternoon, Toronto Typos nosed out the Oshawa Dukes by a 3 to 2 score. More than 1,500 fans attended the opening at the Motor City stadium.

Playing steady ball throughout the twelve innings, Toronto Typos put it over the home team in the third frame when they scored two runs, taking full advantage of three errors.

The eleventh inning was a heartbreaker for the Oshawa fans when with the bases loaded the Dukes failed to get a hit. Typos cinched the game in the twelfth when Collins went to second on Fowden's error. Hastings failed to reach first, but Collins gained third. Bradley sacrificed and Collins came home on the play.

The pitching honors of the day went to Matthews of the Dukes, who only allowed two hits in the twelve innings. The Dukes were far superior in batting and obtained ten hits, but failed to capitalize and errors proved costly.

TECUMSEHS VICTORS OVER MAPLE LEAFS

TORONTO, May 16. — Showing superiority that could not be denied, the Tecumsehs won a meritorious 14 to 8 victory over the Maple Leafs on Saturday night, and delightetd the largest crowd of the International Professional Lacrosse League season. The Indians battled it out almost goal for goal in the first two periods, but after that they had the better of the going, and hit the twine eight times times against three for the Smythemen. The victory also enabled Eddie Longfellow's smart team to go into first place, tied with the Montreal Canadiens.

Tecumsehs showed by far the better team play, both on attack and defense, and in the heavy going the younger members of the Leafs became rarttled, and didn't live up to the instructions given by that astute mentor, Eddie Powers. The pace seemed to be a little too fast for them when their more experienced opponents struck their stride, and there were many errors of omission and commission.

Evidence of team play is shown by the fact that fifteen players figured in the point-getting, "Scotty" Martin, who scintillated throughout, scored five goals, and led the parade, but Art Pim ran him a close second by registering three counters and assisting in the scoring of another. Norman Zimmer, with two goals and an assist; "Chuck" Baldwin, with a similar record, and Eddie Dodds, with three markers, were others who figured prominently on the attack.

Lawn Bowling

There has been unusual activity in and around the bowling precincts in the Monaghan Road clubhouse of late and the hedges and other improvements on the grounds will make this one of the best equipped bowling greens in the province.

There is an increase in membership even over that of last year and already forty-four rinks are complete and scheduled.

On June 8th the Cairns' rink will represent Peterborough in Toronto and May 24th will see the opening of the mixed tournament and the 30th of May the opening of the schedule.

Much speculation is going on as to who will win the 1932 championship—the general opinion being that last year's winners and runners up will have difficulty in repeating.

The Gordon rink is the special Kinsmen Club entry and are picked by those on the inside as the dark horse this year. The skip of this rink refused to make any statement to the press, evidently fearing it would affect the betting odds which are, at present two one in favor of the dark horse entry.

Late applications for a place on the schedule will have to be put in to the secretary, Roy Disney, this week, in order to secure a place in the schedule.

Golf

Many local golfers are nursing aching feet to-day, following their first hike around the 18 holes of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club.

Golfers were out in force on Saturday and Sunday. They were practising drives, putts and all the other shots needed to navigate the hazards of the course.

Workmen have been busy on the links for many weeks, and the greens are in almost first-class condition. The course will open officially on Saturday with the opening of the club-house.

The Canadian Forestry Association has recruited 4,000 school boy to aid forest rangers and wardens in combatting forest fires and conserving hunting and fishing.

Philadelphia Cuts Down Chicago Lead to Take 8-6 Victory.

Stewart Blanks Senators.

(By Herbert W. Barker, A.P. Sports Writer)

Steve Swetonic, a home town boy who made good, fast, is becoming the pitching sensation of the National League.

The crack right-hander of the Pittsburgh Pirates pitched his third shutout of the season yesterday, halting the Brooklyn Dodgers with two hits and won, 2-0.

Previously he had blanked the Cardinals and the Cubs with three hits apiece. All told this season he has permitted only 14 hits in 36 innings and won three games and lost one.

Gets Dodgers Hits

Tony Cuccinello got both of Brooklyn's hits, but his double in the fifth was a gift pure and simple. Floyd Vaughan, young Pirate shortstop, backed up for Tony's Texas leaguer, but suddenly decided not to take it, and it fell safely behind him. Piet's single, steal of second and third and an infield out gave the Pirates one run in the fifth off Joe Shaute and the other came across in the sixth on Suhr's double and Vaughan's single.

The Boston Braves moved up to within one game of first place by walloping the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-3, while the league-elading Chicago Cubs were boxing to the Phillies, 8-6.

The Cardinals jinxed themselves in advance by raising the world championship flag. Neither Bruce Cunningham nor Paul Derringer, starting pitchers, lasted long, but the Braves uncovered an effective relief hurler in ycung Bob Brown who blanked the Cards with two hits in the last five innings and fanned four.

First Defeat for Warneke

The Pihhlies gave Lon Warneke his first defeat, pounding him for 12 hits including home runs by Klein, Hurst and Virgil Davis. A triple by Hurst, and doubles by Hurst, Mallon and Virgil Davis.

The Giants beat the Reds, 9-1.

In the American League, Charley Ruffing held the Cleveland Indians to four hits and struck out 12 men in a 5-0 victory that put the Yankees within a game and a half of the league leading Washington Senators.

Braves Win on Saturday

Saturday's games in the National League provided different opponents, but Boston's Braves even then were in a winning mood, defeating Chicago 7-6. Brooklyn bowed to Cincinnati, 5-3, and St. Louis squeezed out a 7-6 win over the Phillies. Rain kept the Giants and Pirates idle.

The Yankees in the American League wound up their series with the Chicago White Sox with a 6-0 victory on George Pipgras' four-hit twirling. Brown of the Cleveland Indians was just as stingy and shut out the Boston Red Sox by the same score. Lefty Grove, the Athletics' ace, kept in step in the smart pitching performances, and another four-hit game let the St. Louis Browns on the short end of the third whitewash of the day, 3-0.

Gehringer's 7th Homer

The Senators were beaten by the St. Louis Browns as Walter Stewart allowed only four hits. Charley Gehringer's seventh home run marked a five-run fifth inning rally that gave the Detroit Tigers a 7-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. The Chicago White Sox pounded Wilcy Moore for nine hits and eight runs in the first two innings to beat the Boston Red Sox easily, 9-2.

HAMILTON RUNNER SHATTERS RECORD

Earl Moore Steps One Mile, Setting Princeton Mark.

PRINCETON, N.J., May 16. — Fleet-foot runners of Hamilton Central Collegiate again demonstrated their ability to American spectators at the 36th annual Princeton Interscholastic track meet yesterday, when they smashed a track meet record for the one-mile run and captured a half-mile event for high schools only. Fifty-five schools of Canada and the United States were entered, and 589 entries.

Earl Moore of Hamilton shattered the meet record in the one-mile event, covering the distance in 4.24 1-5. He was 30 yards ahead of Patterson of Curtis High School, who came in second. The former record of 4.26 2-5 was established by Cox of Mercersburg in 1924.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 1 By Edgar Rice Burroughs
(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Tantor, the elephant, swayed his great bulk to and fro as he lolled in the jungle's shade. Always, during the many years of his long life, had Tantor ruled supreme over his own people. In peace he had lived with Dango, the hyena, Sheeta, the leopard and Numa, the lion.

Arabs and whitemen, with their rifles and elephant guns, Tantor had learned to avoid. All except the one who to-day lay sprawled upon the beast's rough back. Despite the sun bronzed skin, the figure was that of a white man.

Away in the forest, hunted two Arabs named Fahd and Motlog. With them were black slaves. They had found the fresh spoor of the elephant herd. Warily and in silence they advanced, the thoughts of the Arabs dwelling upon ivory, those of the black slaves upon meat.

A young warrior guided the party, Fejjuan, by name, and a famed hunter. Stolen as a boy from his parents' hut, he was now the shiek's slave. But Fejjuan did not intend to remain a slave much longer.

Two Ships Collided, One Driven On Beach

COWES, Isle of Wight, May 16.—(AP)—The British steamer Roumelian, which collided with the French steamer St. Nazaire in fog off the Isle of Wight yesterday, was beached near Cowes today. It was necessary to run her aground because she was filling with water.

Word was received that the St. Nazaire had arrived at Cherbourg, France, with her stem seriously damaged.

HANDWRITING ON WALL FEATURES HAMILTON CASE

Two Accused of Being Members of Illegal Assembly

HAMILTON, May 16. — "Handwriting on the wall," was the feature of the trial to-day before Judge Campbell in County Court of James Walker and James Southgate charged with being members of an illegal assembly. The case is proceeding.

When a number of men were arrested May Day in Woodlands Park here, they were herded into the cells at Central Station. They proceeded to draw up an ambitious proclamation, signed with their names and adorned with the sickle and the hammer of Soviet Russia. There were signatures of 19 men attached. The work ended with the words: "We pledge ourselves to the cause of humanity, and the workers and the U.S.S.R.. Workers of the world unite! Hail Soviet Canada!"

This handwriting on the wall was produced in court in protographic form, with the signatures of the accused attached.

WILL PLACE CAMPS ON NEW HIGHWAY

C.P.R. Running Freight Extra Daily From Port Nicholl Through Lindsay and Peterborough.

(Special to The Examiner)

LINDSAY, May 16.—According to reports the Highway Department of the Provincial Government is planning to open three or four camps on the Dorset-Coboconk scenic highway in the course of a short time.

The C.P.R. is running an extra daily from Port McNicholl through Lindsay and Peterborough, hauling flour, etc., to the east. It is announced that three or four grain-laden boats are at present in the harbor, unloading their cargoes into the elevators.

The Highway Department, it is announced, will start a gang of men at work on the Lindsay-Fenelon Falls highway. A section of this road fared badly during the spring thaw as well as the recent heavy rainfall.

Following the drastic curtailment of the C.N.R. train service to Haliburton comes the announcement that application has been made for the privilege of operating a daily bus service to northern points. Already a bus is running daily from Lindsay to Fenelon Falls.

Lindsay merchants will again observe the Wednesday half holiday schedule during the summer months, commencing in June.

J. Mangan of Oshawa, solicitor for the Whetung brothers, of Curve Lake, has appealed against judgment of Police Magistrate Jordan registered against them at a recent session of the police court. It will be remembered that the two Indians were fined for trapping on drowned land at Emily Creek, on which trespass notices had been posted. Counsel claimed that defendants were within their rights to trap on this property—right which their family had enjoyed for a great many years.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES IN SASKATCHEWAN

Crossed Ocean in Sailing Vessel—Trip Took Six Weeks

DUBUC, Sask., May 16. (CP)— A man who crossed the ocean in a sailing vessel and took eight weeks to do it and who served in the United States Civil War, is dead here at the age of 90. He was Mathias Norman, large landholder of the district.

Mr. Norman was born in Norway on June 7, 1842, and sailed for Quebec when 20 years old. He crossed the ocean on the sailing vessel "Garibaldi." On the voyage 33 passengers died and were buried at sea.

The vessel left Norway on April 20, 1862 and docked at Quebec on July 14. On landing he went to the United States and when Abraham Lincoln, then President of the Republic, called for 300,000 volunteers, he and his brother enlisted in the 49th Wisconsin Regiment under Col. allows. He served until Nov. 8, 1865, when he was discharged. Since then he had drawn a pension from the United States government.

A similar cargo was unloaded at Montreal.

PICKEREL BITE WITH VENGEANCE

Cecil Shaughnessy Makes First Official Catch Off the Locks.

OPENED AT MIDNIGHT.

To-day was Blue Monday for the silly pickerel. With all sorts of luscious baits, he was coaxed from the deeper recesses of the Otonabee River, hooked and landed, then carried off to sizzle in hot frying pans.

The pickerel were not aware that it was the official opening of the fishing season to-day. But Peterborough fishermen had marked the day, and sharp upon the stroke of twelve midnight, hooks and lines dropped into the river from hundreds of well-selected vantage points.

Honors of the day seem due to Cecil Shaughnessy, of the Lundy Apartments. Two minutes after the official opening of fishing he landed a pickerel, a beauty. It was on his first cast from the locks, and he was the first among the fifty odd fishermen who lined the cement wall to land a prize.

After that the fish were caught in rapid succession. Few of those who had unreeled their lines left without a nice catch. All day long fishermen stuck to their sport. It was stated to be one of the most bountiful opening days on record. The fish seemed ravenous and bit at any sort of a bait. Perhaps, now they will learn caution.

EDWARD BRAZENDALE

Ambulance Officer Edward Brazendale of the local division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade died on Saturday following a lengthy illness. He was 47 years of age.

One of the most enthusiastic first aid workers in the entire district, Edward Brazendale had a long association with the corps dating back to the year 1906 when he first joined the Manchester and Salford division of the Brigade in his native England.

Largely owing to his initiative Peterborough owes the formation and establishment of the local division, which was organized with Mr. Brazendale as ambulance officer in June 1929. Since that date he had devoted unwavering loyalty to the corps and brought it along to a splendid state of efficiency.

It was said of Edward Brazendale by Divisional Superintendent S. Berry: "No man was more interested in first aid work than Ambulance Officer Brazendale and the local corps has sustained a severe loss in his passing. I have known him go on first aid duty" said Superintendent Berry, "on numerous occasions when he should have been in his bed. He had never enjoyed good health since his return from overseas."

Besides his interest in ambulance work Mr. Brazendale was also at one time Captain of the Manchester Wesleyan Mission Battalian of the Boy's Brigade, and after returning to Peterborough following the conclusion of the War he was for some years with the Stretcher Bearer Section of the Peterborough Rangers Regiment.

He emigrated to this country in 1910 and had lived in this city for 22 years. For some time he was employed at the C.G.E. works and lately in the textile industry at the Bonner Worth Mills of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Company.

In Peterborough when the Great War broke out he enlisted with the 93rd Battalion and after being drafted overseas was transferred in France to the 5th Field Ambulance (C.E.F.)

During his residence in Peterborough Mr. Brazendale was a member of St. John's Church and was also a member of the Bible Class.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, Harold at home and Robert in Sussex, England. He also has four sisters in England.

The funeral is to be held from the family residence on Tuesday at 2 p.m. under the auspices of the local branch 52 of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. A detachment from the local division of the S.J.A.B. will also attend the funeral under command of the Divisional Superintendent and will also include Divisional Surgeon Dr. G. Murray Fraser. Archdeacon the Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave will conduct the services. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

Escaped Patient Picked Up At Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 17 (C.P.). — Patrick Sullivan, 41, who escaped from Westminster Hospital at London, Ont., yesterday, was arrested by city police here to-day, and will be held duntil officials arrive from London. He told police he caught a freight train to Niagara Falls.

He attracted attention by his muttering and strange actions on the streets, and was wearing one of the shirts issued at the institution.

BLAZE SWEEPS QUEBEC HAMLET

Villagers Stand By Helplessly as 30 Homes and Barns Are Wiped Out.

QUEBEC, May 17.—A fire which had been kindled in a brush heap by a farmer clearing land, got beyond control yesterday, and almost swept out the village of Valalain, Lotbiniere county, it was learned today. Meagre details picked up by long distance telephone, said that the chapel and about 30 dwellings and barns were destroyed. The Canadian National Railway station and four cars were burned. The fire in the brush heap, which was thought to have been stamped out, burst out suddenly again and spread with lightning like rapidity through the timber like bush and destroyed one after another of the buildings of the village while the inhabitants looked on helplessly.

The wooden bridge over Rivage au Chene was also wiped out by the flames.

Chief Bewildered But Not Stumped

SAUGUS, Mass., May 17. — There's no problem too "tough" for Chief of Police John T. Stuart.

He's been a little bewildered at two requests for aid in locating stone walls that have been stolen from Saugus property boundaries— a little bewildered but not stumped.

He admits the walls would be awkward things to carry around and they wouldn't even fit in an ordinary automobile, but he said their very bulk would make them the easier to locate and he's making a determined search.

WITNESSES TELL OF AUTOMOBILE RUNNING AMUCK

Adam Cox Appears in Police Court on Criminal Negligence Charge.

ACCIDENT DESCRIBED.

Cox Declares Car Was in Neutral Gear When He Got Out.

Crippled with severe injuries suffered on April 30, when they were knocked down and run over by a driverless car, owned by Adam H. Cox, 188 Douro street, which crashed over the sidewalk and in among a crowd of pedestrians at the northwest corner of Hunter and George streets, two women to-day were assisted into the witness stand at police court to testify in the Crown's case against Cox on a charge of criminal negligence.

The women were Mrs. Ann Junkin of Lakefield, and Mrs. Ella Bulmer of Smith Township. Both stated that their injuries were still very painful. They told how, without warning, Cox's driverless car had struck them down and then passed over them.

Four other witnesses also described the accident for the Crown.

Appearing in his own defence, Cox maintained that the car was in neutral when he first got out to crank his stalled engine. He stated "I must have knocked it into gear when I reached in to prime it." Charles Brewer, car salesman, stated that it would have been quite easy for Cox to have knocked the gear shift into gear while reaching in to prime it.

ROUYN, NORANDA ARE ENCIRCLED BY BUSH FIRES

Residents Prepare to Flee as Flames Gain on Firefighters.

RAIN ONLY HOPE.

Amulet Mine Reported Burned and Waite-Montgomery Property Menaced.

ROUYN, May 17—(CP)—For the second time within a week, the twin mining towns of Rouyn and Noranda today were threatened with destruction by fire. High winds swept bush fires yesterday through parched timber land to the outskirts of the town and every available man was called out in an effort to save the towns.

The fires made rapid headway, flames soaring through the pall of smoke being visible within the town limits. Unconfirmed reports reaching here indicated buildings on the Amulet mine property, six miles north of here, had been burned, and the Waite-Montgomery property, in the same district, was believed to be menaced by the hungry flames.

Telegraph Wires Down

A portion of a wooden trestle on the Canadian National Railways line to Amos, Que., was destroyed by fire, it was reported. None of the reports could be definitely substantiated because telegraph wires were down.

Hopes for a downpour of rain which would halt the progress of the fires and end a long spell of dry weather rose higher with reports of heavy precipitation in the Kirkland Lake area of Northern Ontario some 40 miles west of here, last night.

Meanwhile residents of the towns prepared to evacuate, should the need arise.

Left for Toronto

Lieut.-Colonel C. H. Ackerman, who has large interests in the Waite-Montgomery mine, through which the great bush fire raged yesterday, left early this morning for Toronto. The Examiner was informed. It was reported that at the Waite-Montgomery property, the office and old log buildings and new bunkhouse had been destroyed. However, the headframe at the shaft, the manager's house and the new houses built for the workingmen were saved.

MINISTER PASSES

TORONTO — Rev. Edwin D. Silcox, 80, retired Congregational minister, died at his home here to-day.

John Aird Is Given Hot Time On Stand By A. G. Slaght, K.C.

Independent Counsel Challenges The Veracity of John Aird, Jr., And Witness Protests Against Strength Of Language.

SWEEZEY DID NOT WANT AN HONEST MAN; WANTED POLITICAL GRAFTER, SAYS SLAGHT.

TORONTO, May 17.—(CP)—Severe questioning of John Aird Jr., featured today's session of the Royal Commission enquiry into certain affairs of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, with A. G. Slaght, K. C., independent counsel, challenging Aird's veracity.

Aird at times protested at the strength of Mr. Slaght's language and burst out indignantly with denials of the counsel's statements.

Mr. Slaght was seeking to show that Aird's motives in "selling himself" to R. O. Sweezey, then head of the Beauharnois Power Corporation, was to convince Sweezey that he had the "inside track" with Hydro officials.

"I suggest you told Sweezey you had buncoed Hydro out of $50,000 in a year and a half when you worked against them though they thought you were with them, and offered to help him," Mr. Slaght said at one point.

"Sweezey didn't want an honest man—he wanted a political grafter." Mr. Slaght then told Mr. Justice J. F. Orde, Royal Commissioner, when His Lordship protested against the line of questioning. "Sweezey didnt think he was paying the $120,000 to Aird for nothing; I don't think he paid it for nothing."

Aird admitted he had done nothing to assist Beauharnois in obtaining the Hydro contract for 250,000 horsepower — a contract which was regarded as essential to the Beauharnois development, and to this Mr. Slaght objected.

Wants The Truth

"I suggest when you say you saw no one, that you are not telling the truth and I now invite you to tell the truth," he said.

Aird flushed, then interjected hotly: "Mr. Slaght, I am under oath and have been telling the truth, I did not see anybody."

"Did you tell Mr. Sweezey you had influential friends in the Hydro Commission who would help you obtain the contract for him."

"No, I did not."

"How much of your real campaign did you disclose to Sweezey?"

"I did not have any campaign," returned witness.

MOTHER SAVES REMAINING FIVE; ONE BADLY HURT

Flames and Smoke Force Heroic Woman to Abandon Frantic Efforts.

JUMPS FROM WINDOW.

Husband Seeking Work, Follows Fire Brigade, to Find Own House Afire.

BUCKINGHAM, Que., May 17.—(CP)—Fire, of undetermined origin, which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaudet, here today, took the lives of three of their children. Another child was seriously injured, while four others including a baby in arms, were rescued after heroic work on the part of the mother and townspeople.

The dead are: Leo Gaudet, 11 Marcel, 5, and Deguise, 3.

A 13-year-old daughter, Jacqueline, was injured. She suffered burns and several serious glass wounds when she jumped from a second storey window. Mrs. Gaudet and the other children escaped injury.

Awakened by smoke and flames, the mother fought her way to the children's bedroom. One by one, she lowered the children to safety and then threw her baby from the window to the outstretched arms of a man below. Leo, Marcel and Deguise were missing, but the mother was driven back by the overpowering smoke and was then forced to jump from the window herself.

Bodies Recovered.

With flames still sweeping the house, Zephire Faucault, a brother of Mrs. Gaudet, and Fire Chief Emile Brisboise, entered the second-storey bedrooms and found the bodies. Leo and Marcel were found in their bed, while the body of Deguise was discovered on the floor, where he had collapsed and died while trying to make his way to an exit.

Unemployed, the father had got up early this morning, started the kitchen fire and left for the Town Hall, seeking work. He was at the fire station in the Town Hall when the alarm was sounded, and returned with the firemen to find his home a mass of flames and the three children dead. He had to be forcibly restrained several times from entering the burning house.

A section crew, working on the railway near the Gaudet home, under the direction of Peter Limmer, foreman, did valiant work in assisting Mrs. Gaudet in the rescue of the five children.

KIDNAP PARLEYS WERE CREATIONS OF IMAGINATION

Spurred on by Lucrative Offers for Story From Newspapers, Film Company.

IS NOT UNDER ARREST.

Claims Dean Peacock Could Have Prevented His Part in Deception.

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 17—Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, announced today that John Hughes Curtis, one of the Norfolk negotiators in the Lindbergh kidnap case, had written "a complete confession" that all the people with whom he had told of negotiating and all the boats on which he said he met them were creations of his own imagination."

"Shortly after the kidnapping Mr. Curtis told a story about having a contact with the kidnappers. A newspaper representative, according to Mr. Curtis' statement, made a very lucrative offer to him for his story to be given exclusively to that paper. Also, according to Mr. Curtis, a very lucrative offer was made by another newspaper and a film company concerning his activities. This spurred Mr. Curtis on to greater activity.

Blames Peacock.

"Mr. Curtis also said that Dean Peacock, former Canadian clergyman, could have prevented his unfortunate part in this enormous deception. Admiral Burrage merely presented to Col. Lindbergh the story as he had heard it, making no recommendations but permitting it to stand on its merits.

"Reputable citizens and officials frequently vouched to Col. Lindbergh for the integrity of Mr. Curtis stating that his word could be relied on. This made the deception so much easier. The story of Mr. Curtis has resulted in the very widespread activities of the coast-guard and other Federal agencies in seeking the fictitious boat he has described.

"It has further resulted in many official aeroplane trips, auto trips, as well as keeping Col. Lindbergh away from home and activities during the most important phase of the case in pursuit of fictitious clues.

"Four days ago, when Mr. Curtis came to these headquarters, the police authority at this point started questioning him and checking his story. The result of the check on his story and the questioning of Mr. Curtis was culminated at 4.00 o'clock this morning, with his complete confession that all the information he had given was the result of his imagination and deception as well as his desire to make a good newspaper story that would bring lucrative returns, and that there was no fact or foundation on which the story was built."

After Col. Schwarzkopf issued his statement he was asked if any action had been taken against Curtis, and replied that Curtis was not under arrest.

Relying on Curtis.

NORFOLK, Va., May 17 (C.P.).—The Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, former Canadian rector, a second of the Norfolk negotiators, when informed of the Curtis confession at Hopewell, said: "I am still relying on Mr. Curtis. He has been under a great strain for the past two months. This is the first I have heard of anything like this."

SERIOUS COUNT PENDING.

HAMILTON, May 17. — Samuel Graydon, 19, died in the General Hospital this morning as the result of injuries received about a week ago when he was struck on the head with an iron pipe, allegedly in the hands of his father.

The parent, Walter Graydon, is believed held on a charge of aggravated assault, but it is intimated by the Crown that the indictment will be altered to a more serious count.

It is stated by the police that young Graydon was reproved by his father for being in the company of a married woman. An altercation arose in the back yard of the Graydon House, and the lad was struck a terrific blow over the head.

Mrs. Alberta McCall has been bound over by the police to appear as a material witness.

JAPANESE ARMY DICTATES POLICY IN NEW CABINET

Claims Crisis Demands Ministry Be Organized on Non-Partisan Lines.

WAIT ON AGED PRINCE.

(By Glenn Babb, A.P. Staff Correspondent.)

TOKYO, May 17. — The army swung its mailed fist upon Japanese politics to-day and dictated that a national, non-partisan cabinet must be named to succeed that o fthe slain Premier Inukai.

The army's ultimatum completely upset the plans of the political leaders. During the day it had been partially decided that Kisaburo Suzuki, present Home Minister, should head another Seiyukai Party Government.

Mr. Suzuki was named head of the party earlier in the day. The selection was made as a means of healing a threatened breach within the party ranks. Elders of the organization persuaded Takejiro Tokonami, Railway Minister, to abandon his candidacy.

Refuse Support

The army leaders served fair notice they would refuse to support any cabinet formed on political party lines. They demanded a national cabinet. General Mazaki, vice-chief of the Army General Staff, visited former War Minister General Sagai Araki and informed him that the army would refuse to recommand any officer as War Minister in the new cabinet if it were formed on party lines.

The crisis confronting the country, he said, demanded that politics be left aside and a "truly national" government be set up.

The constitution requires that the Minister of War be a General and consequently the army is able to prevent the formation of any Ministry of which it disapproves.

The final decision on the new cabinet rested in abeyance, however, pending the arrival of Prince Saionji, the patriachal last of the elder statesmen, who is expected to arrive from his Okitsu villa tomorrow to advise the Emperor about the next Cabinet, as is the custom.

General Araki is expected to urge that the old Prince recommend a super-party government. Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, vice-president of the Privy Council, has been most often mentioned as likely to head such a cabinet.

"Blood Brotherhood"

The police disclosed to-day that the 17 arrested as the perpretrators of Sunday's outrages were connected with the "Blood Brotherhood," to which also belonged the slayers of Baron Takuma Dan and former Finance Minister Junnosuke Inouye.

Last week, they said, the Buddhist priest Nissho Inouye, leader of the "Brotherhood," who is now in prison, directed suspicion against the 17 youths, as a result of which it was understood the authorities were about to arrest them.

The youths learned of the impending danger, police said, and decided to act before they were arrested.

It became increasingly more plain to-day that the chief instigators of the recent outrages here were civilians of the extreme "ronin" type, who are imbued with a deep disgust over what they call the materialistic outlook of modern civilization which, they say, tends to make the pursuit of pleasure,

Ex-Officers Face Conspiracy Charges

BUFFALO, May 17 (C.P.).—Chas. P. Dheher, former United States immigration officer, and three other men will go on trial a second time in Federal Court here June 7, on charges of conspiracy to violate the Federal prohibition laws. The others are Lawrence Roehm, former Customs inspector; Thomas Gannon and Arthur E. Sharpe, former employees of the Canadian National Railways.

The Government charges that the four men, with 17 others also indicted, formed a gigantic conspiracy to smuggle liquor by the freight car load into this country from Canada, by altering bills of lading and re-routing freight cars. They were tried here a year ago, but the jury disagreed.

The second trial had been set for the current term of Federal Court at Rochester, but Judge Simon L. Adler granted a change of venue from Rochester to Buffalo. Yesterday Judge Adler fixed the date for the trial, at which he will preside.

JOHN AIRD'S FEE TERMED ROBBERY BY JUSTICE ORDE

Transaction Was Like "Taking Candy From a Baby."

Statements "Mere Piffle."

What Service Did Aird Render is All Important Question.

TORONTO, May 17.—(CP)—The Royal Commission in Hydro will again hear John Aird, Jr., when the enquiry resumes today. All day yesterday, Mr. Aird had told of his negotiations with the Hydro Commission on the Madawaska development and its consequent payment of $50,000 to him, and of later negotiations with R. O. Sweezey, former head of Beauharnois Power Corporation, and the payment of $125,000 to him out of those dealings.

Story Incredible

A story which was incredible, in the words of Mr. Justice J. F. Orde, commissioner, was told by Aird with respect to the Beauharnois. Aird received $125,000 from Sweezey, the latter believing the money was intended for the Ontario Conservative party. Sweezey's impression, according to Aird, was incorrect, and based on nothing he had done, said or inferred.

He had been offered the money for services to be rendered the Beauharnois if difficulties arose, stated Aird, and that was all there was to it.

There were only the two stories—Aird's and Sweezey's, was the conclusion arrived at W. N. Tilley, K.C., commission counsel, in characterizing some of Aird's statement as "pure piffle."

He had approached Sweezey in the first place because "common gossip" in Montreal pointed to the coming decline in the money market. "The keystone of the whole Beauharnois thing was a Hydro contract, and time was an essential thing in the securing of the contract to enable Beauharnois to sell its bonds," he said.

Because of his knowledge of Hydro matters, he had then approached the Beauharnois head; proferred his services; been offered $100,000 by Sweezey; declined it and asked for 50c per horsepower of $125,000 contingent on the Beauharnois obtaining the contract, and received that amount.

Can't Credit Story

"I still can't see why you got the $125,000. I can't credit your story," declared His Lordship. "It was like taking candy from a baby and savored of robbing shareholders of Beauharnois. You were to do nothing except be at Mr. Sweezey's beck and call and get $125,000. I can't credit it."

To this, Aird stated he was satisfied himself he had rendered services, and that Sweezey had made the contract with him and was satisfied.

Mrs. Ruuska was found dead in a hotel and Ruuska, severely cut by knife wounds, alleged to have been self-inflicted, was found near Mrs. Ruuska's body.

FOUR BABY SQUIRRELS FED WITH EYE-DROPPER

BELLEVILLE, May 17.—"Bobtail is dead." "Bobtail" was a black squirrel and would run through the houses where she was always welcome. This spring "Bobtail" had family in a tree on that street and Sunday she was found dead. Sidney White, a boy, climbed the tree, took out the four young squirrels and transferred them to a cozy box in the garage. There they are being fed with food from eye-droppers. So far no cassualties haveoccurred among the young. Neighbors have offered to take turns in feeding the orphans.

Married Teachers Favored by Ford

DETROIT, May 17.—Henry Ford's vote, as a trustee of the school district bearing his name, was cast last night in favor of retaining married teachers.

William J. Cameron, representing Ford, cast the vote, breaking a deadlock which had persisted through two board meetings. Other board members had appealed to Ford, who seldom attends the meetings, to break the tie.

HARBOR BRIDGE HIGH COST STIRS PROBE DEMAND

Westerners Ask Reason for $19,000,000 Outlay Instead of $6,000,000 at Montreal.

EVEN BENNETT PUZZLED.

Premier Believes Time Not Right for Royal Commission Into Affair.

OTTAWA, May 17 (C.P.)—The high cost of the Montreal Harbor oridge entereu the debates of the House of Commons yesterday, when Western Progressives urged a Royal Commission investigation. The Dominion guaranteed the bonds of the structure, which originally was estimated to cost $6,000,000, but reached a total of $19,000,000 before it was opened to the public in 1930.

Premier R. B. Bennett did not believe an investigation would serve any good purpose at this time. "If, as and when," he added, "there is any likelihood of the exact cause of the greatly increased price becoming known by any reasonable investigation, then that investigation will be made."

Economy Moves

As an economy move, the House lopped ten per cent. off civil employees and members of Parliament. Another measure, levying a special income tax of ten per cent. against judges, army and naval men and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was given second reading. These classes were not included in the general salary slash because of special circumstances.

Included in the fairly heavy agenda of the House were two

KIRKLAND LAKE SAVED BY RAIN

Foss Mills and Boston Creek Threatened—Hamlet of Rosegrove Wiped Out.

WHOLE DISTRICT BATTLES.

NORTH BAY, May 17, (CP) — Residents of Northern Ontario are resting easier to-day after a series of threatening bush fires which menaced the districts of Kirkland Lake, Foss Mills and Boston Creek yesterday. Flames which raged throughout the day and at times threatened to wipe out the town of Kirkland Lake abated as night fell with a timely downpour of rain.

Residents, section men and forestry hands battled the fires during the day but it was not until dusk fell that the blaze was finally brought under control. The weatherman had promised showers for to-day.

Hamlet Burns

The hamlet of Rosegrove, 10 miles from Swastika in the Boston Creek area, was practically erased in the march of the blaze. No injuries to the few inhabitants were reported and property loss was small through the destruction of the ancient frame structures.

Kirkland Lake, one of the north's principal mining centres, was in the path of the flames all day but the nightfall rain brought relief to the tired citizens who battled unhesitatingly to save their dwellings. The Foss Mill outbreak was practically subdued at dusk last night. Although the fire was still burning in the Boston Creek district it was not considered dangerous and is being closely watched.

MANVERS MAN IS LOST IN POND

Lumberman Falls Into Millpond and is Drowned.

BODY IS RECOVERED.

MILLBROOK, May 17 (Examiner Correspondence). — J. Burke, well-known lumber man and proprietor of Burk's lumber camp in Manvers, was drowned yesterday morning when he fell into the mill pond beside his camp. No one was near him when he fell and life was extunt when workmen drew the body from the water.

Dr. H. A. Turner, coroner, who investigated the drowning, after communicating the details to the Attorney-General's Department, at Toronto, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

It was learned that Burk, who was about 70 years of age, had been suffering for some time from heart trouble. The theory was advanced that he was taken with a heart seizure which caused him to slump forward and fall into the pond. He is survived by a widow.

For many years he had been active as a lumber man and for the past three years was in charge of Burk's Camp, which is located on the old James Gardiner property.

Old Coin Unearthed By Farmer's Plough

NEWCASTLE, N.B., May 17.—Miles Whalen, a farmer of Upper Nelson, while ploughing in one of his fields recently, had the fortune to turn up a number of old coins, which were remarkably well preserved. One, which was date 1811, had the stamp "Bristol and South Wales, one penny token." Two of the others bore images of Queen Victoria, one being stamped "one penny token New Brunswick, 1843." The other "Province of Nova, one penny token, 1843." There were three or four others about the size of a fifty cent piece and very heavy.

31 MEET DEATH DURING HOLIDAY

Floods Follow Cloudburst in Germany—Victims Trapped in Homes.

MANY CAR TRAGEDIES.

COBLENZ, Germany, May 17. — (C.P.).—Floods, which added six known dead to the 25 killed in various disasters throughout Germany over Whitsuntide, apparently had done tremendous damage throughout the whole Moselle Valley, according to meagre reports received to-day.

All telephone connection with the area around Guels where the six were dead and several missing, told of roaring waters that toppled houses, ruined vineyards and even washed coffins out of the cemeteries.

The floods followed a cloudburst. The bodies of two women and four children who fled into the basement of their home and were killed by tumbling walls were recovered.

Besides the destruction of vineyards, dead cattle, the roofs of houses and the coffins, rushing down the Rhine to-day gave a picture of how disastrous the storm must have been.

Police Display Bravery.

The bravery of several police officers was reported to have saved twenty excursionists who fled into a chapel near Guels. The sudden rush of the water prevented their escape. The police officers hacked a hole in the roof and succeeded in extracting the victims, some of whom were women who were standing in water up to their necks, holding their children on their shoulders.

Nine persons were killed in a motor accident in the Harz Mountains and at Halverstadt a truck overturned, killing six and seriously injuring 23. Three were killed and four seriously injured at Norhausen when an automobile plunged over a 60-foot slope.

An observer was killed and the pilot seriously injured in the crash of an aeroplane at Adlershof Airdrome at Berlin.

Veteran Railroad Postmaster Retires

SYDNEY, N.S., May 17.—(CP)—Development of local mail transportation facilities from a simple hand-cart to powerful motor-trucks was sketched here this week by T. W. Blenkinsop of Truro, who has retired after forty years in the railway mail service.

The occasion was a presentation by Postmaster D. Ross MacDonald, on behalf of the Sydney post office staff, to the veteran, who said that when he made his first run into Sydney over thirty years ago the local volume of mail, which now requires several motor trucks for transportation between post office and station, then was accommodated in a hand-cart operated by one man.

"Retiring from active service when you feel that you could go on for years is not the most pleasant thing in the world," Mr. Blenkinsop said, "especially when it means breaking connections and friendships such as I have formed all over the Maritimes and Quebec in my forty years of service."

Some department stores in Paris are contracting for the making in private homes of a great part of the wearing apparel which they handle.

BOMBAY RIOT TOLL MOUNTS TO 71 KILLED

British Troops and Tanks Rushed to City From Poona.

MILLS CLOSED.

Hindus and Moslems Continue Bitter Melees Despite Police.

BOMBAY, May 17 (A.P.) — The toll of the Hindu-Moslem riots which have made a shambles of several districts of Bombay for four days had risen to-day to 71 dead and 700 injured.

Seven were killed and 50 injured during the forenoon in spite of the fact that the city was patrolled by tanks and troops brought hastily from Poona last night.

Except for the rioters and the troops and police, the streets were virtually deserted. The rest of the population kept indoors. Along the streets garbage and refuse, unattended for three days, was rotting, filling the city with an abominable stench. Bursts of gunfire were heard throughout the day as the troops clashed with the rioters.

Authorities this afternoon issued a curfew order, which prohibits more than five persons from congregating in any spot. The rioting spread to the mill area to-day, forcing the closing of the mills, which threw 40,000 men and women out of work.

Bonfires Aid Fighters

Throughout the night mobs of men fought with iron rods, knives, stones and bottles. They swirled through the streets in the light cast by huge bonfires which blazed from one end of Girguah Road to the other.

The police were powerless and a hurry call was sent to Poona, first for the tanks and then for a battalion of the Green Howards, a British regiment stationed there.

The soldiers piled into special fast trains on an hour's notice and were rushed here.

Many of the police officers were on the verge of collapse from their three days of almost ceaseless duty.

Tax Sleuth Finds His Man At Last

SYDNEY, N.S., May 17.—(CP).—For six years a certain citizen of Sydney had his name on the list of delinquent taxpayers. The city tax sleuths had spent days each year in fruitless efforts to locate him and collect the money. At city hall there was a sheaf of warrants covering his taxes for the years 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931.

Recently the sheaf happened to come under personal notice of Mayor William Fitzgerald.

His Worship ordered the warrants fyled and the account closed, adding:

"I attended his funeral in 1925."

ILLUSTRATED TALK AT LAKEFIELD

Dr. Richard Finnie, of Ottawa, Gives Splendid Address in Town Hall.

LAKEFIELD, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence): — An interesting lecture by Dr. Richard Finnie of Ottawa was given in the Town Hall on Thursday evening and was attended by a very large audience, largely made up of children who found, what was really a geography lesson, most fascinating, and the attention was particularly good. This delightful entertainment was given gratis. Mr. Finnie spent a year in the Arctic and was a member of the expedition sent by the Canadian Government in 1930 to discover relics of the ill-fated Franklin Expedition of 1848. There were seven reels of pictures, three dealing with the cruise of the Medico from Fort Smith across Great Slave Lake and down the Mackenzie River, which flows "down north," making stops along the way at Fort Providence, Fort Simpson, Fort Norman, Aklavik, Shingle Point, and Herschel Island and going east to Coronation Gulf.

The trip was interesting in the extreme and each of these isolated settlements had as outstanding features, the neat, well-kept-up Hudson's Bay Company posts, the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches and mission schools. At Fort Norman a visit was paid to the oil wells which attracted so much attention in 1921; the oil is there waiting for use when needed, although the camp buildings are falling to pieces. At each post there were Indians and in the extreme north the Eskimo.

The next three reels showed life in the very far north in winter, when the Eskimo live in ingloes or snow houses, and depends on fish and seal fishing for his livelihood. When the seal fishing is poor the family pack their goods on a big native sled drawn by huskies, and go south to hunt cariboo, which provide them with both food and clothing. The pictures showed the building of the igloo for the use of the party from the Medico, the only tool the contractor needed was a sharp knife to cut the block of snow; he was ably assisted by his wife, who although clumsy of figure could "get there" with anyone.

The last reel showed the airplane expedition which was sent to King William's Land to look for traces of the Franklin party, the work done by aerial photography in mapping out this district was of great value to the Dominion. Traces of the tragedy which met the ill-fated Franklin party more than eighty years ago were few and were a mute testimony to the sacrifice and heroism of the little band. This party was captained by the renowned Canadian explorer, Lockie Burwash.

A hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. Finnie, on motion of Reeve Tanner and endorsed by all present. The films were taken under the Department of the Interior and are under Government auspices. They were so interesting that even the smallest child got benefit from them and the eager applause of the children was in itself a spontaneous tribute of Mr. Finnie's entertainment. In a brief and modest address, prior to the showing of the pictures, he told some of the adventures of his party which made a very interesting story.

NUDISTS START ON TRIP TO JAIL

Doukhobors Sing Songs as They Leave Nelson for Oakalla.

NO DEMONSTRATIONS.

NELSON, B.C., May 16.—(C.P.)—Bound for Oakalla jail, near Vancouver, where they will be held until Federal authorities are ready to take charge of them, 118 members of the Sons of Freedom sect of Doukhobors, sentenced here to terms of three years each in the penitentiary for staging a nude demonstration at Thrums on May 1, left last night in two coaches to the west-bound Kettle Valley train. The party included 84 men and 34 women.

There were some tears shed as the men and women were put aboard the train, but the majority took their departure from the Kootenays for a three-year period with smiles. Hats were doffed, heads were bowed, songs were sung and cries of "good luck" and of "good-bye" were shouted.

Peter Maloff, leader of the Sons of Freedom, was among those who departed. He had never paraded in the nude before May 1, although he has taken part in many Doukhobor demonstrations. He wished the officers "good luck" and thanked them for the treatment given him.

Hundreds of Doukhobors gathered outside the jail to see the prisoners depart but there was no trouble.

LUXOR CAKE* with Magic Baking Powder

"My advice to all housewives, both skilled and inexperienced, is: Use Magic Baking Powder. Then there is no uncertainty about your baking," says Miss Ethel Chapman, Editor of the Home Section in the Ontario Farmer.

This unqualified statement is particularly impressive because thrifty Canadian home makers have learned that Miss Chapman's advice is invariably practical.

Other well-known food experts and cookery teachers in the Dominion share Miss Chapman's high opinion of Magic. In fact, the majority of them—and housewives, too—use Magic exclusively. No wonder Magic outsells all other baking powders combined!

Miss Chapman's recipe for *LUXOR CAKE

1 cup fine granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup egg yolks
½ cup lukewarm water
¼ teaspoon Magic Soda
1½ cups pastry flour (or 3 tablespoons less of bread flour)
2 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt

Sift sugar. Measure out 2 tablespoons, pour on vanilla extract and set aside. Add water and soda to egg yolks; beat with egg beater until foamy. Add sugar a little at a time, beating in well. Add flavored sugar and beat. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Fold carefully into mixture; pour in ungreased angel cake pan. Bake in moderate oven at 350°F. for 40 to 45 minutes. Invert pan and let stand until cake is cold, when, with the aid of a spatula, it will slip from pan. Remove all crumbs and moist crust from surface and cut in three layers. Spread Lemon Cream Filling betwe.n layers. Ice top and sides with Marshmallow Seven Minute Frosting. (Recipe for filling and frosting are in the Magic Cook Book—see free offer below.)

HARBOR BRIDGE

statements by Cabinet Ministers.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, said it was probable although not certain, that a tariff board would be established before the Imperial Economic Conference. Provision for the board was made at the last session.

Hon .R. J. Manion Minister of Railways, intimated the probability of a slight lowering of marine insurance rates on grain shipped out of Churchill this season. He also confirmed press reports that the Government and a "responsible grain company" had come to an agreement under which two million bushels of wheat will be sent to the northern port this year. No charge will be made for elevation or storage.

Probe Agitation.

Estimates of the Department of Finance were before the House most of the day and the yled to the discussion of the Montreal Harbor bridge. Robert Gardiner, leader of the United Farmers, and James Woodsworth, Winnipeg Laborite, led the agitation for a Royal Commission inquiry, claiming it had never been established why the bridge cost three times as much as the estimate.

"I am not satisfied," said Premier Bennett, "that $19,000,000 should have been spent for a structure that was estimated to cost $6,000,000, and I have endeavored in past years to secure What I conceived to be an adequate explanation, and so far I have no adequate explanation."

Auditors had checked the entire cost of the bridge and every voucher was found to be in order, proceeded Mr. Bennett, "but," he added, "nothing short of an inquiry that goes far beyond the question of the mere prodution of vouchers for debits and credits, would answer in any sense the questions asked by members of this House."

SALARY CUTS ARE SUGGESTED

Question is Brought Up at Campbellford Light and Water Commission Meeting.

5 AND 10 PER CENT CUTS.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The question of salary cuts for employees of the Campbellford Water and Light Commission came up last evening for discussion at a special meeting of the Board, presided over by Mayor J. M. Bygott, and although no definite action was taken the manager of the system, P. C. Denyes, was instructed by the Commission to get the feeling of the men on the matter.

Commissioner J. Blue brought up the question, stating that he thought that a man who was getting $1,000 a year was getting a good salary, taking into consideration the reduction in living expenses. He suggested a five per cent. cut for all operators getting more than $1,000 a year and a ten per cent. cut for the office staff. Operators on the staff are paid at the rate of $115 a month.

Mayor Bygott stated that he was not in favor of the idea as he thought that the men were not getting too much. Commissioner J. Benor fell in line with the suggestion, however, stating that he thought a five per cent. cut would be in order, pointing out that the School Board and Council had cut salaries.

Contract Ratified.

The contract between the board and the manager, P. C. Denyes, was officially ratified at the meeting and the by-law governing the same passed. This calls for a salary of $1,560 per annum, a four-year agreement, with a three months' notice of quittal. The contract was dated from May 1, which was not agreed to by Mayor Bygott, who gave as his opinon that as the manager had been working under the terms of the contract since April 1, that that should be the date of agreement. However, on resolution of Commissioners Blue and Benor, May 1 was the date included into the contract, they being of the opinion that it would be better for a new Board coming into office if they were not faced immediately with a new manager's contract.

The manager gave a report to the Board on the condition of the power house, stating that much should be done there in the near future. Both turbines should be gone over, the big one needing a new set of bearings. The big machine was in order with the exception of the governers which were bad. The main drive shaft was bent and the pump was in poor shape. Work was also needed on the switch board. He also reported that the little machine would not carry the town load by itself.

Many were injured and scores were suffering from shock.

"At 3 a.m., Monday (10 p.m. E.S.T.)" the contractor's captain said, " I observed flames on the horizon at a distance of about 35 miles. I arrived off the French vessel Georges Philippar and found her in flames from the water's edge to the boat deck amidships. The Soviet tanker Sovietskaia Neft was standing by.

"Approaching near, I found on the poop and forecastle head a few hundred people. I launched two boats with officers in charge and rescued 75 of the passengers and crew.

"Boats from the French vessel had been going to the Soviet steamer since 3 .a.m.

"The passengers report that many first-class passengers were trapped in their cabins. The fire, some said, originated in an empty cabin de luxe, through a short circuit, but various other opinions were given.

"Others said the wireless room and the captain's quarters were destroyed first, and the fire travelled rapidly through all the staterooms, fanned by a fresh breeze.

"I have aboard 129 survivors. One woman, a Miss Deroger, died from burns ,and was buried at sea.

"The weather at the time was fine and the sea moderate. My officers on their second journey reported that the captain of the French ship was the last to leave her. On being asked if any more were aboard, he replied, 'No.'

"Some members of the crew and some passengers who were hanging over the bow on ropes were saved by our boats. Many jumped into the sea. Wives were separated from their husbands, and children from their parents. All were anxious and wondering if the others were saved.

"The French captain reports about 100 missing. All the passengers who were saved were clad in night attire. Some of them wore dressing gowns. They have lost everything.

"We are due at Aden about 4 p.m. to-day (Tuesday)."

RADIO MEASURE ADVANCES STEP

POINTS OUTLINED.

OTTAWA, May 17.—(CP)— Nationalization of radio moved a step closer when Premier R. B. Bennett introduced in the House of Commons yesterday a bill to establish the necessary organization. Without a word of debate, it was given second reading.

Following closely the recommendations of the parliamentary committee that investigated the industry this session the bill would set up "the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission." It would be composed of three members, a chairman appointed for 10 years; a vice chairman appointed for nine years and a commissioner for eight years. Headquarters would be in Ottawa with branches located at advantageous points throughout the Dominion to be selected by the commission.

One assistant commissioner would be appointed from each province, to organize advisory boards to work with the Ottawa commission. There would be no salary attached to those posts and in the case of the members of the commission, the bill provided no set figure.

Necessary Power Provided

Powers to expropriate existing broadcasting stations required in the projected trans-Canada system and on which an agreement could not be reached with the owners, were provided in the bill. The commission would secure funds to carry on its work through parliamentary grants but it was stipulated the total should not exceed the estimated revenue from receiving and broadcasting licenses. It would be a non-profit making organization because all unexpended money and revenue at the end of the fiscal year would be deposited with the Receiver-Geneeral.

The bill would confer on the commission power "to regulate and control broadcasting in Canada carried on by any person whatever. "Members of the commission would devote their whole time to the work and have no direct connection with the radio industry.

wealth and self-interest the principal aid in life.

Because of this view they hold all politicians in enmity, claiming that they subordinate the interests of the people to their own, which results in widespread corruption and and scandal in public life.

Continue Plans

Despite the declared opposition of the military leaders the Seiyukai party continued its preparations to form a new cabinet, hoping that the emperor, as a result of Prince Saionji's counsel would give M. Suzuki a mandate to form a ministry. Seiyukai members of parliament held a meeting and approved unanimously the choice of M. Suzuki as the president of the party, giving evidence of a party harmony which has not been known since the death of Premier Tanaka in 1929.

This indicated that the party was closing its ranks and determined to make a united stand against the military and Nationalist forces.

Police also succeeded in capturing the persons who attacked the Tokyo transformer stations Sunday evening, threatening the city's power and light supply. They said that those responsible were disciples of Ktsamburo Tachibanawn a farmer Ibaragi prefecture, who conducts a private school at which he expounds doctrines similar to those of the Buddhist Monk, Inouye.

King Winter Leaves North Over Week-End

CHURCHILL, Man., May 17.—(C.P.)— Winter packed up and left the Northland in a rush over the week-end. The sudden break-up swelled the rivers to roaring torrents and traffic on the Hudson Bay Railway was impeded.

A train left The Pas with 75 workmen for Churchill but was unable to get further than Herchimer, Mile 412. The men were transferred to motor trucks with fanged wheels which took them the remaining 100 miles to this port over the track.

Gangs of men are along the line in case repairs are necessary, and it will be in shape by the time the next northbound train reaches Mile 412. No damage has been done to the track by flood waters, but precautions are being taken and it was thought safer not to operate trains.

NEW BRIDGE FOR LONDON.

After nine years of controversy, historic Waterloo Bridge, one of London's vital cross-Thames arteries, is to be rebuilt and widened to take six lines of traffic. The present structure was found unsafe in 1923 and a temporary bridge has been in use alongside it since 1925. The cost of the new bridge will be $4,533,000. It will take about five years to build. Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, R.A., the designer of Liverpool Castle, will be the architect. Most of the controversy was whether it would not be more economical to repair the old Waterloo Bridge, and as to whether such an ancient structure should be torn down.

THE PREMIER'S BLUNDER.

Premier Henry seems to have got himself in wrong with the members of the Legislature Press Gallery, his remarks in an interview to the effect that reporters may have taken advantage of the freedom given them at Queen's Park to read private memoranda being deeply resented by the newspaper men who "cover" the Legislature.

Their indignation is not difficult to understand, for men in the newspaper game do not rise to the honor of representing their journals on such an important beat as Queen's Park by being guilty of such conduct as that referred to by the Premier.

No reputable newspaper would keep a reporter on its staff who would stoop to prying into departmental desks for confidential papers, and Mr. Henry can rest assured that any newspaper man who has been entrusted with the responsibility of reporting the activities of the Ontario Government has given ample proof to his employers of his honesty, straightforwardness and ability to respect confidences.

The Examiner is surprised that any one who has been in public life as long as the Premier should have learned so little of the ethics that govern the conduct of all newspaper men worthy of the name.

His insinuation was not worthy of the man himself or of the office he fills.

THOSE EXPENSIVE DOUKHOBORS.

This Doukhobor habit of parading in the nude when they are dissatisfied with conditions and are desirous of making a demonstration against the authorities, is getting to be a decidedly expensive thing for the country.

Within recent weeks no fewer than 595 Doukhobors have been arrested for appearing in public wearing no clothes, and already 247 have been sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, while 94 children are being taken care of by the authorities.

If the other adult nude paraders are also given a penitentiary term, as seems likely, the expense of looking after such a large number of prisoners will run into a tidy sum, and it seems a shame that with the country burdened by heavy expenditures that this Doukhobor nuisance has to be paid for.

It is unfortunate indeed that the bills for the maintenance of these fanatics could not be levied upon those who were responsible for inflicting such a pest upon Canada in the first place.

The Doukhobors have been an almost constant source of trouble ever since they set foot on Western soil, but this latest demonstration is the most expensive and the most annoying yet staged by the Sons of Freedom.

Surely something less costly in the way of punishment could be devised than putting hundreds in jail for three years.

RELIEF PLANS.

It is announced in regard to future unemployment relief plans that the Federal Government will pay fifty per cent. of the cost and intimated that in Ontario the provincial administration will provide 30 per cent., leaving the municipalities to pay 20 per cent.

There is a feeling in many quarters that there should be a fourth partner in this enterprise, namely, the community.

In other words, that every centre should call for voluntary subscriptions from those citizens who are in a position to help, and the money raised in this way used to lighten the calls upon the public exchequer.

To have the whole bill paid by the federal, provincial and municipal Governments means that the money will have to be raised by taxation in some form or another, and in many cases will be collected from people already taxed to death who will feel the additional burden keenly.

Governments, as has been often said, cannot provide funds out of the thin air; their only source of revenue is the public, and in any case money for relief comes out of the pockets of the people.

The load could be lightened for those who have been hardest hit by taxation if community funds raised by subscriptions were available in every centre, and many people feel that such an effort should be made, relieving to some extent at least the demands upon the various Governments.

FOUNDATIONLESS STORIES.

Over the week-end a story, originating nobody knows where, but involving an alleged confession on the part of a relative of Mrs. Lindbergh that he had slain the Lindbergh baby, was given widespread circulation.

There is only one thing more striking than the start of such baseless rumors, and that is the speed with which the grapevine telegraph operates to spread them about.

They usually flourish on Sundays when newspaper information is not available to the public, and in the absence of such news sources they attain a surprising circulation.

This condition was particularly noticeable during the war years when it became quite a customary thing to expect Sundays to develop wild stories, usually of some disaster to the Allied armies, and believed by many people until Monday's newspapers exploded their fallacy.

This dull and malicious report about the Lindbergh case was similar to the war-time canards; there was not the shadow of a foundation for the rumor, not the slightest suspicion to justify a belief in any part of it, and why it should have been so readily believed when there was no confirmation from any source is a mystery.

The public should understand that when anything so important from a newspaper standpoint as a confession or an arrest in the Lindbergh case eventuates the news-gathering agencies will lose no time in letting the world know all the details.

LET'S KEEP THE CANADIAN NATIONAL RECORD STRAIGHT.

Repeat the most glaringly inaccurate statement often enough and most people will come to believe it. Illustrative of this is the statement, repeated from day to day by politicians and in the press, that last year the Canadian National Railways cost the country $112,000,000. Swallowed holus-bolus by both editors and others, this statement is at least $56,000,000 wrong.

Some weeks ago, in the course of one of the sittings of the parliamentary committee on railways, Mr. Hanson, the committee chairman, turned to Mr. Manion, the Minister of Railways, said: "My understanding of the situation of the National Railways is that the railways cost the country last year about $112,000,000. . . . I wonder if the Minister will be good enough to give the committee n idea of how this $112,000,000 is made up?" Mr. Manion, agreeable, gave the following figures:

Operating surplus	$ 1,000,000
Interest due public	57,000,000
Deficit	$56,000,000
Additional betterments, hotels and some other items	$31,000,000
Maritime freight rates	10,000,000
Deficit of Canadian Government Merchant Marine	1,000,000
Branch lines	5,000,000
Toronto terminals	1,000,000
Montreal terminals	6,000,000
Northern Alberta Ry. Co.	395,000
St. John and Quebec Ry.	250,000

These figures, presented by the Minister, and with the addition of a few smaller items, made up the $112,000,000. Were given and accepted as the cost to the country of the Canadian National Railways.

* * * *

What the Journal wants to submit here, and what it thinks the country should understand, is that approximately $56,000,000 of these sums cited by Mr. Manion cannot and should not be charged to the management of the Canadian National Railways. They belong to Parliament.

Take, to begin with, the items of "additions, betterments, hotels, etc.," which make up $31,000,000. Not a single one of these items belongs to the current, running expenses of the Canadian National. All of them, without exception, were in the estimates of last year. They were scrutinized by a committee of the House, approved and voted by the House; were capital expenditures. In other words, these were special votes by Parliament altogether apart from the Canadian National's ordinary operation.

Then there is the $10,000,000 item for Maritime freight rates. No possible process of reasoning can charge this up to the Canadian National. The Auditor-General's report, page 9, shows eight railway companies receiving money under this act, sharing in its expenditure. The Canadian National, of course, gets the largest share, because it has the largest Maritime mileage, and because the act declared that the treasury should meet any deficit which the Canadian National might incur in the Maritimes because of the reduced rates. But how on earth can the Canadian National be charged up with what was to all intents and purposes a subsidy to the Maritimes? The Government, or Parliament, was implementing the report of the Duncan Commission on Maritime Rights; and even in the Auditor-General's report, page 85, this $10,000,000 is not charged to the Canadian National or to the other railways. It is put under the heading of "Grants, Subsidies, etc." That, of course, is where it must be put—where it belongs.

Next we come to the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, and the West Indies Steamships, representing a loss of $1,000,000. Here again there is injustice to the Canadian National. The Canadian National never had anything to do with the inception of the Government Merchant Marine, and is not responsible for the West Indies steamships. The Merchant Marine grew out of the war; the West Indies Steamship line out of a trade treaty with the West Indies. Both were the work of Parliament; and the Canadian National has never been more than an operating agent for the Government. This is commonly admitted. It has been admitted, unless we are much mistaken, by Mr. Manion.

Finally, take the items for branch lines, the Toronto and Montreal terminals, the outlays for the Northern Alberta and the St. John and Quebec Railways. These are all, without exception, statutory items; expenditures voted by Parliament. The House of Commons initiated these outlays; they were approved by the Government; approved and voted on by Parliament: they have nothing whatever to do with the operation of the Canadian National. Can't be charged to its management.

* * * *

The truth is that the real loss, and the only loss, on the operation of the Canadian National last year was $56,000,000. The $56,000,000 in interest it failed to pay to the public. The other items—additions, betterments, hotels, Maritime freight rates, Canadian Government Merchant Marine, etc.—are chargeable to Parliament, must be included in anything but Canadian National account.

It is only fair—fair to the Canadian National Railway management, and fair to public ownership—to get these figures straight. To present the true record. The Canadian National for last year can be charged with $56,000,000 of loss. To speak of its loss being $112,000,000 is to do violence to the facts.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Sensational and foundationless rumors about the Lindbergh case have given the newspapers the job of answering thousands of needless inquiries. How such stories start is a general mystery.

"I swing well to the left," Mr. Hepburn is quoted as saying. Mitch, however, will have to learn to hit to all fields if he hopes to become a champion political batter.

The West York by-election will probably set a new record for the number of words spoken by the various orators. But so far as a solution of our present difficulties are concerned, the whole thing will prove a washout.

Thirsty New Yorkers paraded on Saturday in honor of beer. "I Love a Parade" was certainly written for Gothamites.

Coach Lines Sued For $1,000 Damages

As the sequel to an accident involving a Gray Coach Lines bus and and automombile owned and driven by Leo McAuliffe of Peterborough, which occurred on January 31 this year at the village of Guthrie between Barrie and Orillia, an action is to be heard here at a special sitting of the County Court on Wednesday.

There are two claims each of $500 damages and costs, entered by plaintiffs W. C. McAuliffe and Leo McAuliffe. The former was a passenger in a vehicle owned and operated by his son Leo.

Defendants the Gray Coach Lines Limited of Toronto who had a bus operating between Barrie and Orillia at about 8.30 on the morning of the accident claim that the bus was proceeding at a very slow speed due to a blizzard that was raging at the time, and also owing to the dangerous condition of the roads. They allege that plaintiff Leo McAuliffe was responsible for the accident, which damaged his car and inflicted injury to the passenger, by travelling at a speed that was not justified in view of the bad state of the highway.

J. A. O'Brien is counsel for each of the plaintiffs, while the Gray Coach Lines Limited are represented by Irving S. Fairty of Toronto.

Lower Insurance On Churchill Grain

OTTAWA, May 16. — (By the Canadian Press.)—The probability of a slight lowering of insurance rates on grain moved out of Churchill this season, was indicated in the House of Commons today by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals. Dr. Manion said the Government has been making every effort to have the insurance rates out of Churchill lowered, and that certain information received appeared tio indicate a measure of success.

Colonel Charles Lindbergh Is Broke; Search for Child Cost Him $200,000

NEW YORK, May 17 (C.P.). — The Brooklyn Eagle to-day said it had learned from a source close to the heads of the Lindbergh kidnapping investigation that a week before the body of his baby was found, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh told an intermediary who visited him that he was broke.

At the same time, The Eagle said, Col. Lindbergh said that the search for his kidnapped child had cost him personally about $200,000, and that he had to borrow from a bank $25,000 of the ransom money paid to the supposed kidnappers by Dr. John F. Condon, Bronx mediator and the Jafsie of the newspaper advertisements.

The Eagle said it had learned that whatever fortune the flyer had was invested in aviation securities in his enthusiasm for the advancement of aviation, and the paper pointed out that these securities have undergone considerable deflation.

GRAIN, CATTLE, PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Spurred by bullish crop reports and by a big decrease of the United States wheat visible supply, grain values made a lively advance late yesterday.

A prominent unofficial authority indicated Kansas would raise below 70,000,000 bushels of wheat this season unless weather conditions soon changed completely. The Kansas yield suggested would be 18,000,000 bushels less than the Government's May forecast, and not even a third of the amount harvested in 1931.

Wheat closed nervous, 1-1¾c above Saturday's finish, corn ¼-¾c up, oats at ¼-⅝c advance, and provisions unchanged to 5c off.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, May 17.—Local brokers reported a fair demand for butter yesterday, and prices steady with last week's close, or 17½c for No. 1 creamery solids and 16½c for No. 2. Reports from Montreal indicated greater strength in that city and Western butter was offered in Toronto at prices firm with those quoted for choice Ontario makes. Buyers were securing fair size amounts from local dealers, and the general trend was steady to firm. Receipts from Ontario creameries were about normal for this season.

Cream.

Cream prices were up 1 cent yesterday on this market. Country shippers were quoted 18c for special, 17c for No. 1, and 14c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Cheese.

The demand for new cheese was not very keen, and prices were about steady at the decline of last week. Brokers quoted makes at 9c to 9¼c for large, 9¼c to 9¾c for twins, and 9½c to 10c for triplets. Prices to retailers were unchanged at 11c for new large, 11¼c for twins, 11½c for triplets, and 13½c for new Stiltons.

Eggs

Though there was a firmer feeling at Montreal yesterday, in eggs, and shipments were going to that city from Ontario points, local brokers found some difficulty in moving supplies on the Toronto market at prices steady with those of the week-end. Extras were worth around 18c in the Quebec metropolis, while in Toronto they were offered at 15½c, with firsts at 13½c and seconds 11c, graded, used cases. Storage packed eggs at 1c per dozen better were not too active in the local market, and prices generally were 16c to 16½c for extras and 14c to 14½c for firsts.

Country shippers were quoted steady prices at 14c for extras, 12c for firsts and 10c for seconds, ungraded, delivered, cases returned, while retailers were asked to pay the steady prices of 20c for extras in cartons, 18c for extras loose, 16c for firsts loose and 14c for seconds loose.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, May 17.—Prices had a steady tone, ruling unchanged or a little firmer than last week's close, on the Montreal dairy and produce markets yesterday.

Butter production is due to increase substantially in the near future, but meanwhile is holding with only moderate gains. Arrivals yesterday were light, only 174 boxes. The price held steady at 16½c per pound for No. 1 fresh or regraded, in carlots or less. When volume of receipts increased it was expected prices would fall to the export level, about 1 cent under current prices.

The cheese market was quiet, with prices at 9c to 9¼c per pound, with most sales at the higher level, which is regarded as barely above cost of production. Receipts were 679 boxes.

Eggs were steady to firm, with prices on graded Ontarios and Prairies being generally 17½c to 18c per dozen for extras, 14½c to 15c for firsts, and 10c for seconds. Local ungraded receipts were around 1c under these levels. Receipts were 1,491 cases.

Some new potatoes arrived from Cuba, and were selling ex track at $3 per 50-pound crate, for No. 1 quality. New Floridas, No. 2 quality, and old potatoes were unchanged.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 17. — Bullish revision of the winter wheat crop in parts of the United States South-west, which slashed previous estimates in half, rallied the wheat market late yesterday from transient declines. The close ⅞c to ¾c higher.

May closed ⅞c higher at 62½c, July ¾c higher at 63¾c, and October ⅞c higher at 65½c.

British and Continental markets were closed yesterday. No export trade was uncovered over the week-end.

Reports that the winter wheat crop in Kansas, previously estimated at 120,000,000 bushels, would yield but 60,000,000 bushels, or a little more than half of the early estimates, was responsible for the advance.

Cash wheat trade was very light, with spreads generally unchanged. Coarse grains experienced another dull session, with prices holding fairly steady.

SON OF THE GODS

INSTALMENT NO. 21

The smartest people stopping at Paradis were usually to be found in certain places at fixed times of day, for everybody did pretty much the same things and social life followed an established routine. In the mornings, for instance, they were on the bridle paths, or at the tennis courts or watching the live bird shoots—the championships were run off here—and a eleven o'clock everybody went to the beach to see or to be seen. During the tennis matches the early afternoon witnessed another fashion show and there was golf, too; at tea time everybody danced at the Hotel Royale, either indoors or out of doors, depending upon the weather. From early evening onward the Casino, of course, was the center of attraction.

The Royale was a huge place and usually it was crowded; in the tea garden an American orchestra played in a fluted ivory and gold band shell and the patrons danced on a smooth stone floor laid level with grass. Tables were set thickly under the trees and around five o'clock when the place was thronged it was extremely gay and colorful.

Sam came early and secured a good table, for it peeved Alanna to be anywhere except in the very center of things, and as he waited for her he noted a phenomenon which amused him considerably. Of course, he knew comparatively few of the many visitors to this resort and those he did know were recent acquaintances, nevertheless it seemed as if everybody knew him. Those he had met took pains to bow to him and to smile in a cordial manner, others eyed him and spoke to each other significantly. What curiosity; what mammon worship, he reflected. Any recipient of Alanna Wagner's favor, by reason of her father's wealth and prominence, became at once a celebrity. In spite of his cynical amusement Sam experienced an agreeable thrill at his good fortune. What a queer prank of fate it was; how odd that she should experience this evidence of celestial favor. It staggered him and he wondered if he would be able to live up to it with befitting dignity. Yesterday a ragged toiler in the bowels of a cattle ship, today the envy of Europe's most fashionable watering place! Truly, a man's destiny is inevitable. Well, the auguries at his birth had foretold great riches and much luck and his star was certainly in the heavens now; his charms were potent.

Alanna was almost up to the table before he saw her and rose to his feet, and he resented the fact that he had been so unobservant; it robbed him of a precious, breathless moment of anticipation. How lithe and free, how swift and purposeful she was. Always in a hurry. Life for her ran furiously and she rode it like a surf rider balanced upon the crest of a wave. Where others wallowed she flung herself forward with a resistless rush.

She wore the same dress she had worn that morning at the beach; it was the first time Sam had ever seen her twice in the same costume and he assumed she had changed her mind about dancing. She carried a swagger stick under her arm or what looked like one—in reality it was a leather riding crop—her face was stormy, against its underlying pallor her tan stood out curiously. It was like a thin brown veil beneath which her agitation was visible.

She came towards Sam like an arrow and when their eyes met he stiffened, a dreadful premonition smote him. He turned suddenly sick—the feeling was all too familiar, a wretched, humble cringing of the soul. And he read her expression correctly, for he had beheld it many times on many other faces, as, for instance, on that night in the roadhouse with Alice Hart and her friends. Usually it was masked, people tried to conceal it, but not Alanna. Like a flimsy garment all Sam's confidence, all his recent pride was snatched away from him and he stood naked.

The girl was saying something to him in a fierce, hoarse, accusing voice; never had a woman been in such an insane, such a deadly rage. Sam did not understand her words, for his ears were roaring, the ground was swaying under his feet. He gripped the iron garden chair from which he had arisen and held himself erect against the tempest. He uttered no sound, for something clutched his throat; another ruthless hand closed down upon his heart and stopped its beating. He felt as if he were dying.

Alanna's accusation came like a burst of flame, it scorched and withered. The scene was brief, the actors held their tableau only for a moment, but that was ample to attract attention. The hum of conversation ceased, people nearby turned strained and startled faces over their shoulders, some of them rose. Through the silence Alanna's passionate voice cut like a knife and listeners heard her cry:

"You rotten yellow cur! You Chinaman!"

There was a gasp, a commotion. A woman at an adjoining table uttered a thin scream, for with her last words Alanna raised her riding crop and slashed Sam with it. She was in a frenzy; she struck him not once, but time and again.

It was an exhibition so incredibly savage, so fantastic, so unbelievable as to paralyze the onlookers; it was more than shocking. But the paralysis was only momentary. There was a startled outcry, waiters came running, patrons pressed forward and closed in.

Sam took these blows without flinching, he neither bowed his head nor shielded it. He felt the cruel, cutting impact of the crop across his face, his neck, his arms; it stunned him but in inflicted no pain. He was partially blinded, a spasm twisted his facial muscles, closed one eye; the slim, iron frame work of the chair bent between his straining fingers.

Alanna flung the whip aside, turned and walked away with her head high, and her eyes flashing. A clatter of voices arose, men spoke to Sam but he did not understand what they said. They were shocked, astounded; plainly, however, they assumed that he had warranted his chastisement. There was quite a hubbub but nobody offered him more than perfunctory assistance.

His left eye had failed him completely now and a strange numbness affected that side of his face. It was wet, too, and he tasted blood. Whipped! Publicly horsewhipped! He, a Son of the Gods! His brain refused to register the fact. Even more paralyzing was the crash of his dream castle. Only a few of these people understood the meaning of this outrage, but all would learn. They were avid sensation seekers. What a morsel for them. A Chinaman posing as white. Publicly whipped by a white girl for daring to touch her. They would applaud it.

Of a sudden he felt a terrible hatred for these men and women with their sickly, pallid faces and their rolling eyes. Apes! Buzzards! Carrion feeders!

Blindly he made his way through the crowd and out of the hotel grounds.

Cyril Bathurst, formally attired for the afternoon, paused in passing Sam's door and listened, then he tapped on it with his stick.

"Hello! That you Lee?"

A muffled voice answered him.

"I was popping off to the Royale this very minute, to find you. May I come in?" Without waiting Sam's response he entered the bedroom, then paused and stammered in dismay: "Hello, hello, hello! What's this? Bless me, what's happened you? An accident?" He flung aside his hat, cane and gloves and strode forward. "This is dreadful! Here, let me—"

"Miss Wagner did it—She used her crop on me—At the Royale."

Bathurst paled. "Good Lord! I—can't believe it. I—I was afraid that little beast would let you in for something. Let me give you a hand—What filthy luck!"

"There's nothing to be done, thanks just the same. I've pretty well attended to myself. I'm terribly sorry on your account, sir. You see, everybody was there. It will be a wretched scandal."

"Never mind that. Let's have a look—see—Hum-m! Some cuts, but nothing deep. A few welts. And that eye—the bally thing is swelled shut but I don't think it needs a doctor. Better take a stiff drink—What ailed the little vixen?"

"We—went rather wild last night. I assumed she knew—everything about me." Abruptly Sam turned his back, his voice was hoarse when he went on. "It's bound to embarrass you dreadfully. I'm getting out on the next train."

"The hell you are!" Bathurst exploded. "You'll do nothing of the sort; you'll wash up, change your shirt and come with me. Back to the Royale!—Embarrass my foot! Why, the little devil!—I—I'm terribly rattled but you shan't leave." Excitedly he stamped about the room, he gesticulated and his cheeks grew purple. "Never heard of such an outrage. It makes me furious—Who does she think she is? Common soap-suds creature! No. Never. Face it out, old boy. It's the sporting thing to do. Wear your service stripes and confound her—By Heaven! You're my guest and my friend. I'm your sponsor. If she wanted to whip anybody, why didn't she whip me?—Bah! Those rich Americans make me ashamed of the white race."

In a shaky voice Sam said, "You're a thorough-bred, but I refused to humiliate you by—"

"Rubbish! I'm proud to know you. Proud to have you in my house. Proud to work with you. Proud to—Bless my soul, this made me forget what I came in for! Here's a cablegram and it may be important. Just arrived and I was trotting off with it to the Royale, looking for you. No. I'm going to have my way about this. Head up. Chest out—Hello! —Damme! Is this Friday the thirteenth?"

Sam had opened the message. It was in five words but it turned him to stone. That disfiguring welt across his cheek and temple was still angry and it still trickled blood but the rest of his face slowly blanched. He handed the sheet to Bathurst who read:

Your father dying. Come.

Eileen.

Bathurst laid the cablegram aside. He placed a hand upon Sam's shoulder and pressed it, saying gravely:

"Jove! This is a poser. And coming at such a time. I'm sorry. You've told me what a wonderful man he is—Take it easy for a minute. I'll step out and look up the sailings, while you pull yourself together. Meanwhile, don't concern yourself about packing. I'll attend to all that."

Wartime Income Tax Return Urged In U.S.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP)—Imposition of war time income tax rates was demanded in the United States Senate today by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, in order to finance a federal unemployment relief program.

Borah opened the third day of debate on the Couzens amendment to the revenue bill which would levy wartime income tax rates of six percent on the first $4,000, and 12 per cent in income above that figure, with surtax rates in the higher brackets graduating up to 65 percent.

Just previously, Senator Barbour, Republican, N. J., had demanded legalization and taxation of beer, predicting confidence would return over night as a result.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 17.—(C.P.) — Stocks fluctuated irregularly to-day, closing with an easy tone. Net losses, however, were largely fractional. The market made full recovery of early 1 to 3 point declines only to taper off again in the late dealings. U.S. Steel was notably firm, up a point. Recessions of similar size appeared in American Telephone, American Tobacco "B," Sante Fe and Auburn Auto. International Shoe and Beatrice Creamery sagged a couple of points. Transactions approximated 1,000,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, May 17 (C.P.). — Following the trend in New York, the Montreal Stock Exchange turned easier to-day at the close, late weakness changed small gains into fractional losses. Trading was quiet and although there were some price changes of more than a point the majority were fractions.

Montreal Power eased ½ at 26½ and Brazilian Traction lost ¼ at 9¾, while Canadian Pacific Railway was up ½ at 12, and International Nickel gained ¼ at 5⅝.

An interesting feature was the appearance of two of the leading bank stocks at prices considerably under the last transaction on the exchange several months ago. In the interval the minimums have been reduced on several occasions, the latest reduction being effective to-day.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, May 17. — (C.P.)— Toronto stock exchange market underwent little change in the afternoon session to-day.

Net changes compared with last night were unimportant. C.P.R., Montreal Power and Consolidated Smelters closed slightly lower. On the other hand, Nickel, Bell Telephone, Brazilian recorded gains of less than ½ point. Oils, while draggy, were moderately firm with most of the leaders 1-8 to 1-4 point above their previous close.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, May 17. — (CP) — Higher-priced groups showed a stronger tendency and cheaper sections were quietly irregular on the Standard Stock and Mining exchange market today.

Hudson Bay recovered further ground in the base metal group, price closing with a 10-cent advance over last night's final. Mining Corp. and Noranda recorded a similar gain and International Nickel sold slightly higher throughout the day.

Among the golds Teck-Hughes and Hollinger registered small advances and Howey late in the session met better demand and closed up a couple.

C. P. R. EARNINGS.

MONTREAL, May 17 (C.P.). — Traffic earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the week ending May 14 were $2,171,000, it was announced at the head offices here to-day. This is $700,000 below the figure of $2,871,000 for the corresponding week last year.

GIRLS IN CUSTODY.

BAY CITY, Mich.—Martha Kelly, 18, Kitchener, Ont., and Iris Wingate, 15, Toronto, who are said to have escaped May 7 from the Salvation Army Citadel, Toronto, are on their way back to that city today after being taken into custody here last night.

SUICIDES IN HARBOR.

HAMILTON. — An unidentified man, believed to be an Italian, ended his life by drowning in Hamilton Harbor to-day. He was seen by Mrs. Dorothy Danwkuke to jump into the water. She called the police, but when the body was brought to shore, life was extinct.

Monument To Early Norsemen Is Planned

HALIFAX, N.S., May 17.—(CP) —That Nova Scotia is the "Markland" visited by Norsemen more than nine hundred years ago seems to be pretty well established in many minds in this province by the sea. The argument is about a suitable location for a monument to Leif Erickson and his crew of adventurers.

There are conflicting opinions in regard to where the Norsemen landed. Some say Upper Prospect, Halifax County, is the place; others put in their claims for Sandy Point, Shelburne County, while Cape Sable Island, Shelburne County, and Tusket, Yarmouth County, also are mentioned. All may be right, but that suggestion does not solve the monument problem.

Just now the argument seems to be controlled by two veteran scribes, M. H. Erickson, former editor of the Shelburne Coastguard, now residing in Gloucester, Mass., and W. D. Taunton, of the Halifax Herald.

Mr. Nickerson believes George's Island, in Halifax Harbor, is the proper place for such a monument.

Mr. Taunton declares the Norsemen not only landed at Prospect but lived there for some years. He would erect the monument there.

Fishing in the waters off the coast of Nova Scotia was carried on by Breton and Basque fishermen shortly after Columbus discovered America.

PRICES OF GAS NOT TOO HIGH HOUSE IS TOLD

Liberal Members Fail to Agree With Finding of Committee.

Committee Reports to House of Commons on Gasoline Probe.

AMENDMENT LIKELY.

OTTAWA, May 17 (C.P.).—The price of gasoline in Canada is "not unreasonably high," in the opinion of the House of Commons Committee on Banking and Commerce, the final report of which was tabled this afternoon by R. C. Matthews (Cons., Toronto East Centre). The committee went into a lengthy investigation of the oil refineries situation in Canada and the United States in order to ascertain the causes of the spread in price between the two countries.

C. E. Bothwell (Liberal, Swift Current) issued a statement to-day that he would move, seconded by Dr. Connelly, an amendment to the report recommending that the fixing of gasoline values for duty purposes be discontinued, and suggesting a reduction in the existing duties on all oil refinery products.

The main report is based largely upon the findings of the auditing firm of George A. Touche and Co., Toronto, which was retained by the committee to make a complete survey of the accounts of the Imperial Oil Co., with special attention to the costs of production of gasoline in its relation to the sales, distribution and administrative costs. The auditors were also asked to make comparative statements of the selling costs of the British American Oil Co., and the Frontenac McColl Oil Company, Ltd.

Summary Of Conclusions.

A summary of the conclusions as set out in the auditors' report was in part as follows:

"That the Imperial Oil Company's records relating to 1930 operating costs charged to gasoline showed no evidence of 'cost loading' by reason of affiliations in the United States and South America, or because of unfavorable accounting practices, but rather, that the gasoline costs, if anything, were understated because of the company's conservative policies in not loading into costs such matters as fire insurance premiums, depreciation rates, contingency reserve charges and inventory pricing.

"That the 1930 marketing costs charged to gasoline whilst as a whole legitimate from an accounting point of view, were high in relation to total costs. The high cost of marketing is attributed to territorial and climatic conditions, and extreme competition obtaining in the distribution and marketing of gasoline in Canada.

"That variations in gasoline prices in 1929, 1930 and 1931 to consumers were not based directly upon ascertained refinery costs, but largely upon the variations in the market cost of crude oil with fluctuating additional charges for excise tax, sales tax, freight surcharge and exchange. It has not been demonstrated that any grounds exist for any allegations that the company has taken unfair advantage of either the specific or dumping duties in its gasoline prices to consumers during the period under investigation.

Due To Conditions.

"That the reason for the unfavorable comparison at some points between United States' competitive prices and those of the Imperial Oil, Ltd., is due to the demoralized condition of the gasoline industry in the United States, caused by the over-production of gasoline and various tax evasion 'rackets'

"That the zoning basis of establishing gasoline prices results in the spreading of transportation differentials to the comparative disadvantage of gasoline consumers at centres of trade in proximity to some refineries, whereas the zoning price basis frequently operated to the advantage of gasoline consumers in the territories outlying from the refineries. It was also found that tank wagon gasoline prices are given to farmers and coastal fishermen both east and west.

"That in such outlying districts as have no dealer competition or where any dealer association arrangements exist, the spread between Imperial Oil, Ltd., tank wagon prices and the prices to the consumer is entirely in the hands of the independent dealers.

"That apart altogether from the basis used in the establishing of gasoline prices, the spread between such selling prices and the combined costs of refining and marketing showed an average net profit of not exceeding 1.01c per imperial gallon of all gasoline sold by the Imperial Oil Company in the year 1930.

No Improper Accounting

"That in view of the fact that the investigating of Imperial Oil, Limited, disclosed no improper accounting practices in the matter of costs or unstated profits, and because Imperial Oil, Limited, occupy the leading position in the gasoline industry in Canada, the auditors gave it as their opinion that the expenses which would be involved in extending their investigation into the records of the British American Oil Company, Limited, the McColl-Frontenac Oil Company, Limited, and other oil companies in Canada, would not be justified in view of their findings on the average net profit per gallon of gasoline sold by Imperial Oil, Limitetd, in 1930."

The committee's report continues: "From a consideration of the evidence and the auditors' report, it is the opinion of your committee that the price of gasoline to the Canadian consumer is not unreasonably high, and that the public interest would not be further served by a continuation of this inquiry."

The statement of M. Bothwell and Dr. Donnelly, on which their amendment will be based, when the report is moved for concurrence, quotes the auditors' report to show that from figures secured in representative Canadian and United States cities adjacent to the border, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the average pricer per imperial gallon in Canada on Sept. 1, 1930, was 24.877 cents, and in the United States 21.737 cents, without considering State or Provincial taxes.

On February 8, 1932, the average taken from a survey of the same cities was 23.05 cents per gallon in Canada and 16.584 cents in the United States. These figures, the statement declared, showed that from September 1, 1930, to February 8, 1932, the United States retail price of gasoline dropped only 1.377 cents.

It was further stated that gasoline from the Dutch East Indies could be laid down in Montreal including all costs except tariff duties, at an average cost of 5.956 cents a gallon, based on figures for April, July and November of last year. That compared with 13.40 cents per gallon for Imperial Oil gas during the same period.

Amendment Voted Down.

The amendment, whih was moved in committee and voted down, and which its sponsors announced they would move in the House, contains the following conclusions:

"1. There has in recent years been a marked decline in the world prices of gasoline.

"2. Advantage has been taken of the increased tariff duties of September, 1930, and the fixing of the prices for duty purposes to maintain prices in Canada abnormally above world prices.

"3. The narrowing of the spread in prices as between wholesale and retail, by increasing the wholesale price and reducing the retail price, while importations from outside of Canada are restricted, tends to create a monoply in the oil industry and to drive out of the competitive field the independent distributor.

"4. The spread in prices between the different grades of gasoline (excepting aviation gasolines), of from 2½ to 5½ cents per gallon is not justified, as the evidence disclosed that the actual difference in cost is about one cent per gallon

"The committee therefore recommends:

"1. That the fixing of values for duty purposes by order in council, or by appraisers bulletins, be discontinued.

"2. That by reason of the fact that exchange rates, freight rates and excise taxes give a substantial measure of protection to the oil refining industry in Canada, consideration be given to a reduction in the duty now existing on all commodities mentioned in Item 271 of the Customs Tariff."

Rodeo Circus Bulls Run Wild In Montreal

QUEBEC, May 17 (C.P.). — A circus bull took a bath here and failed to survive. Apparently upset by the heat, two bulls employed to lend an air of reality to a Calgary rodeo show broke loose and started on a life of adventure. One was captured after a short chase, but the other took to the St. Charles River. It swam from shore to shore several times until a member of the troupe brought it to the bank with a lassoo. The long race and exhausting swim proved too much for the animal, and it passed away shortly after its return to captivity.

NEW LOWS ARE SET.

MONTREAL, May 17 (C.P.).—In quiet trading the Montreal Stock Exchange worked lower during this morning's session with several issues entering new low territory. Stocks were weak, following the reducing of the minimum prices effective to-day.

NEW YORK, May 17 (C.P.). — Bar silver easier and ¼ lower at 28½.

AIRD IS GIVEN HOT TIME IN BOX

He denied any knowledge of the present whereabouts of his diary, and could not recall having entered details of the Beauharnois bonds in the book. He denied too, having received a cablegram from Sir John Aird, his father, saying "I have seen the man at the top and now you can go ahead." This cablegram, according to R. W. Millard, his former partner had been shown to him by Aird when Sir John was enroute to England. It had been mentioned, too, by K. G. G. Kerry, consulting engineer to Millard, in a letter to J. A. O'Brien, representing the owners of the Madawaska River power right.

Neither the $50,000 nor the $125,000 he had received from Hydro and Beauharnois respectively had been entered in his income tax returns, Aird admitted, although the coupons from the $125,000 in Victory Bonds had been entered as income.

The coupons had been cashed indirectly, he went on, and this brought Mr. Slaght's fire to bear again.

"If you were being honest with what Sweezey thought he gave you the bonds for—if you gave the Conservative party $60,000 of the money—it would be a neat way to cover it up?" asked counsel.

"I don't know," said Aird.

Cash Outlays

John Aird, Jr., was called to the stand when the enquiry resumed today, and was again questioned by W. N. Tilley, K.C., Commission counsel, regarding the Beauharnois payment of $125,000.

Asked to describe the extent of his use of cash instead of cheques, Aird said he used cash for groceries, help and all such purposes.

Two of his children were sick and all expenses incidental were paid in cash. They had been sent to Albuquerque, N.M., and later to Tucson, Ariz. A nurse had accompanied the children, and cash had been sent to her to defray all expenses. In addition, his sister had been married and the honeymoon had been financed by Aird.

J. M. Huycke, Aird's lawyer, objected to questioning along this line, declaring it was "an inquisition." There was no necessity to bare Aird's private affairs, he maintained.

Mr. Justice Orde declared the disposition of the money was a matter of public interest, since the enquiry was trying to determine if any of the money had been used for political purposes.

Continuing, Aird said he had furnished a home at Pointe au Baril and paid cash for the furnishings.

"Did a single penny of this money go to a political party?" Mr. Tilley asked.

All For Personal Purposes.

"Every cent I got from any source—bonds or coupons—was used for my own personal purposes," Aird replied.

He had loaned to his brother, Hugh, $20,000 in Victory Bonds last year, Aird continued, but had no document to show this transaction. The interest coupons on the bonds were returned to him by his brother, he said.

He had no sources of income outside the bonds and his own business. His father, however, contributed to the children. In addition, he "sometimes got a present" from his father.

Cheques drawn by Aird were read by Mr. Tilley. All were legitimate, Aird said.

All payments from his share of the $50,000 Hydro payment had been for his own personal purpose, too, Aird said.

"That's all," said Mr. Tilley, and A. G. Slaght, K.C., independent counsel, then took up the examination of witness.

$50,000 Worth

Mr. Slaght turned to the $50,000 payment and asked Aird his reason for the payment.

"For turning over the plans; for all the work we did, for bringing Hydro and O'Brien in touch with each other and for getting the beach option."

"Did you know Hydro was investigating the Madawaska long before?"

"I wouldn't doubt it."

Surveys had been made between 1913 and 1920, it was shown in the order-in-council which authorized the Aid payment later. This indicated, Mr. Slaght said, Hydro was interested in Madawaska, "seven years before you ever heard of it."

He knew nothing of it, said Aird. He had got the "beach option" for both Hydro and O'Brien, he said, and was working for both.

"You don't pretend you were working for Hydro surely prior to January 1927?"

"I was working for myself" said Aird.

"You heard Mr. Ferguson swear you didn't do a single thing from January to July; you heard Mr. Gaby say you didn't do a single thing; you heard Mr. Kerry say you didn't do a single thing and do doubt you heard it from others—everybody on the inside said you had nothing to do with it—"

"Well," interjected Aird, "I had already turned over all my plans and information to the Hydro."

His Lordship objected to Mr. Slaght's questioning, declaring Aird had not stated he had done anything from January to July of 1929.

Played Messenger Boy

J. G. G. Kerry, consulting engineer, had sworn to having drawn up the plans, and Aird could not take credit for that, said Mr. Slaght. "All you did was act as a messenger boy—trotting the plans over to the Hydro office" he declared.

"Mr. Slaght questioned Aird on the visit of C. A. Maguire, Hydro commissioner, to Sir John Aird's office. Aird could not recall this meeting.

"What was the purpose of getting the commissioner into your father's office before the Hydro report was signed?"

"I say I have no recollection of it."

"Do you think it an honorable way to deal—to get the commissioner into your father's office and ask him to tell the Hydro engineer he was favorable to your proposition?"

"I see nothing wrong with it."

"You're a shoe string promoter—pure and simple—using personal pull and keeping it up as a barrage throughout to override the Hydro engineers who were honest in the deal," Mr. Slaght charged.

Denies Implication.

"That is not correct," said witness. He denied having written details of the Hydro payment in his diary. He denied too, Millard's story that Aird showed him a cablegram from Sir John Aird, the cable stating, "I have seen the man at the top and now you can go ahead."

There was no one in the Hydro who was giving him confidential information, said Aird, as Mr. Slaght questioned him on his source of information regarding Gaby's attitude toward the contract.

"Was it through the leakage in the Hydro you got the $50,000? I suggest you were using treachery and underhanded dealing."

"I don't," said Aird. "I am not ashamed of what I did."

WITNESSES TELL

he was on point duty at the corner of Hunter and George street directing traffic at the time of the accident. He noticed that Cox's car was stalled and later he observed the car running through the crowd along the northwest corner. He reached the car a moment after it had struck the guywire and stopped. The engine was not running and it was in high gear, when he examined it. He then assisted in removing the injured.

Eugene O'Carroll, 199 Reid street, said he was upstairs in the Bank of Toronto Building, standing at a window watching the parade. The first thing he observed in connection with the accident was Cox's car in motion and Cox running alongside of it. He saw the pedestrians knocked down right and left as the car plunged through the crowd.

Archie Bulmer, of Smith Township, one of those injured by the driverless car, stated that he had suffered cuts about the head and bruises on his legs and hips. He said that he was standing at the northwest corner with his wife and small daughter. "We were waiting for the lights to turn so that we could cross south," he said. "We were about a foot out from the curb.

"Suddenly I heard a noise, and before I could turn around I was struck and knocked down. After being struck I knew it was a car and that it was passing over me. I ducked my head but got a blow on the back of my head."

He stated that the car also knocked over his wife and that he saw it running over her legs and body. Other women were knocked down by the car, he said.

Appeared Lame

Mrs. Ella Bulmer, wife of the last witness, was assisted to the witness box by her husband. It was observed that she was still suffering from the injuries received in the accident. She appeared very lame and her face was drawn as though by pain. She sat down weakly in the box during her examination by the counsels.

"I didn't see anything" she said when asked by Mr. McElderry concerning the accident. "I just heard a noise behind me and then I was struck and the car passed over my legs and chest."

She said that she was confined to hospital for a week and later at her home. "My injuries are still very painful" she stated.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hall, she stated that the lights at the corner had just changed and she and her husband and little girl were about to cross when without warning they were struck down. The child was between her parents and was holding her father's hand. She was knocked down and injured also.

Mrs. Ann Junkin, of Lakefield, also a victim of the car's plunge, required the assistance of her daughter into the box, since she too was lame.

She could tell little of the accident, stating that all she could remember was that she had been struck down. She was taken to hospital having suffered severe injury to her back andd right leg. "The injuries are not better yet" she said.

Saw Cox Cranking Car

Miss Colleen Junkin, daughter of the previous witness, said that she and her mother had crossed George street from the east and were just about to step up on the curb at the corner of the Royal Bank when they were struck. As she had crossed the street, she had noticed Cox cranking his car. She saw it lurch forward, but she had not opportunity to warn her mother before it was upon her. She was struck but not run over. Her back was injured and still pained her, she stated.

This concluded the Crown's case.

Adam H. Cox, the accused, said, "I was driving down George street and the car stalled at the corner of Hunter street. There were two or three cars in front of me and some behind, I think. They stopped and I stopped.

"When I wanted to go ahead again I noticed that my engine had stalled. I got my crank out and went around to crank it. I turned the engine over twice. The car didn't move as I turned it over."

Answering Mr. Hall, Cox said: "The car was in neutral when I started to crank it."

Later he said he went back to the wheel and without entering the car, reached in and pulled out the primer. I then started to crank again and just as I pulled up the engine started and the car leaped forward."

"How did the car get in gear?" asked Mr. Hall.

Pulled Out Primer

"Well, as I reached in to pull out the primer I must have moved the gear and put it in gear." He stated as the car started ahead he tried to get out of the way. "I got around to the side of it. I ran along there trying to get in but I couldn't. The first time I tried I slipped against the running board and hurt my right leg. I couldn't seem to get through the door. I wanted to pull on the brake to stop it."

He said he ran beside the car until it stopped against the guywire. When he examined the car when it was stopped it was in second gear, he said.

He stated to reach the primer, which was on the right side of the car, he had to reach around the gear shift. He said the cars behind were blowing their horns and he was anxious to get started and get out of their way.

Cross-examined, he said that he was alone in the car. He stopped because of the red light. Asked why, if the primer was nearer the right side than the left, he did not go around to that side, he said: "I was accustomed to going around to the left side and the door was open on that side."

He maintained that "the car must have been in neutral because it was my habit always to leave it in neutral." He stated that he knew it was in neutral when he cranked it first because the engine turned over.

Asked why he hadn't put the emergency brake on, he replied, "I didn't think it was necessary."

Charles L. Brewer stated that he understood the mechanism of the car driven by Cox very well. He said that he himself had been standing in front of the Royal Bank and had had to jump out of the pathway of the car as it careened over the pavement.

He judged that the car must have been in neutral when Cox cranked it first, for otherwise, it would have been next to impossible for the driver to have turned the engine over twice.

He stated that it would be very easy for Cox, as he reached in for the primer, to touch the handle of the gear shift and move it into gear. He explained that with Cox having turned the engine over he had placed gas fumes in the cylinders and then with the extra charge of gas from the priming, the engine was all set to start at once, and that it didn't require much cranking to start it off.

If the emergency brake had been on, he doubted whether it would have kept the car from starting forward because of the gas in the engine.

The case was adjourned at this stage until later this afternoon.

SLIGHT ADVANCES ON TORONTO MART

Many of Leading Issues Fail to Come Out in Early Trading.

TORONTO, May 17. — (C.P.) — Still hearkening to Wall Street, Toronto Stock Exchange markets advanced to-day after a none-too-confident opening. Going into the third hour, most of the interlisted issues held an appreciation over closes last night.

Bell Telephone at 88¾ was up 5-8 of a point, Brazilian at 9¾, up 3-8 and Nickel at 5¾ up 1-8. C.P.R. was unchanged at 12.

Goodyear Preferred and Service Stations preferred both unchanged, the fomer at 75 and the latter at 30, and Page-Hersey Tubes at 24.

Oils slackened somewhat late in the second hour and lost whatever small amounts they had picked up after the opening.

The market was extremely slow, there being no increase in turnover on the upturn as has been the case whenever the market strengthened recently, even if the rally lasted for only an hour. Rather, this morning's business fell off with the advance in prices, although bids followed the market upward.

Ford did not come out at all the first couple of hours and Ford's inactivity was typical of many other pivotal issues.

GANGSTER SHOT SLAYER HELD

Prisoner Admits Shooting — Found Wife in Hotel With Victim.

MURDER CHARGE LAID.

NORFOLK, Va., May 17—Bernard "Bunny" Ennis, reputed Norfolk gangster, best remembered for his participation in a futile attempt to hijack liquor from a Japanese ship 12 years ago, was dead today, and his slayer, John S. Garthright was held by police to answer a murder charge.

Cartright who admitted firing two fatal shots into Ennis' forehead, said he found his wife in a hotel room with the gangster.

Posing as a bell boy, Garthright said, he induced Ennis to open the door.

Police found the gangster dead on the floor and Garthright's wife seated on the bed. Garthright was pacing the floor outside the room.

Ennis served several years in the state penitentiary for his part in the attempt to hijack liquor from the Japanese steamer, Kaisho Maru on the night of Dec. 24, 1920. He was acquitted of murder in the slaying of two Japanese seamen at the time of the frustrated robbery attempt.

LANG'S TACTICS ARE REVERSED

New S. S. Wales Premier Deposits Funds in Banks, Orders Pensions Paid.

ELECTION JUNE 11.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., (C. P. Cable) Premier B. S. B. Stevens of New South Wales, successor to the ousted J. T. Lang, fiery Laborite, today took swift action to reverse tactics of the former government which had refused repayment to the Commonwealth of funds the federal governmnent expended to meet defaulted interest on state bonds at London and New York.

At the same time it was announced a general election would be held in the state, as well as in Queensland, on June 11.

Premier Steven first action today was to deposit in Sydney banks £700,000 of the £1,000,000 Mr. Lang transferred to the treasury on March 13 in anticipation of attachement by the Commonwealth Government. The new premier reopened the taxation offices which his predecessor had closed to thwart federal collectors with authority to seize receipts. He also ordered payment of family endowment, widows' and other pensions which had been withheld following enactment by the federal government of the financial agreement enforcement act.

The act itself was suspended, at least temporarily, pending result of the state election.

No word was forthcoming to-day from former Premier Lang who retired to his farm outside the city following his dismissal Friday by Governor Sir Philip Game.

"Rest Awhile" Ideal Place For Hatchery

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — There is an ideal site at the Healey Falls summer resort, "Rest Awhile" owned by F. S. Keller, for a natural fish hatchery, and according to a statement given by Mr. Keller to The Examiner, the government has recognized this possibility and the Department of Fisheries has notified him by letter in April last that a government man would be sent to look over the lay-out.

"Rest Awhile" is located on the Trent River north of Crow Bay and has, running from the main body of water, round the resort to the back of the resort a creek that would be ideal for 'lunge spawn. All that would be needed to make this location habitable for the purpose would be dredging and the closing of the mouth of the creek.

Correspondence between Mr. Keller and the government has been carried on for some months, and it was understood that a government man was to look over the situation last fall. This did not materialize, however, but another communication was received last April, stating that this project was still in mind and that a man would be sent up to "Rest Awhile" in the near future.

Fish, however, are plentiful in this section of the Trent system. A few days ago 500,000 pickerel fry were distributed in these waters by Mr. Keller, who received them from the government hatchery at Belleville. These were placed in the water at Cedar Island, Burnt Point and directly in front of "Rest Awhile," there being a small island here that is good for pickerel fry. About 250,000 pickerel fry were also freed at Muskalonge Bay, near Trent Bridge, at the same time.

Lifford Line

Seeding in this locality is almost completed, the continuous rains of a week ago delayed a few farms with low-lying fields.

The Women's Guild of St. Mary's Church met at the home of Mrs. Margaret McGill on Thursday afternoon. The main item of procedure was the quilting of a log cabin quilt, which had been prepared for the April meeting but unfavorable roads and weather conditions prevented the ladies from getting together.

Parents Of Slain Child

MOTHER'S COURAGE HIGHLIGHT OF TRAGEDY.

The courage of Anne Lindbergh was an inspiration to all about her, friends said, as forces of law and order the length and breadth of the continent began a relentless hunt for the slayers of her child. The second blow she has taken bravely during the last eight months came on May 12. Last October, while she and Col. Lindbergh were on an aerial trip to the Orient, her father, Senator Dwight W Morrow, died. Then on May 12 police officers brought her pieces of clothing from the body of a baby that had been found slain a short distance from the Lindbergh estate. She identified them as her child's. The young mother, who is expecting another child within a few months, was described as bearing up with her "usual equanimity." Photo shows Colonel Lindbergh and his wife.

Is Motive Revenge?

Miss Constance Morrow, aunt of the ill-fated Lindbergh baby, who was threatened by kidnappers in 1929. Col. Lindbergh was active at that time in the endeavor to locate the men who demanded $50,000. There is speculation now as to whether or not the baby was taken in revenge.

SECOND PARTY QUITS.

WASHINGTON, May 17—(C.P.) Word reached here to-day that an attempt to climb Mt. McKinley in Alaska by Allen Carpe has failed and one of his party is dead, and there are clear indications Carpe himself is lost.

Harry J. Leik, superintendent of Mt. McKinley National Park, reported to Horace Albright, director of National Parks, that he had found the body of a man named Theodore Koven, one of Carpe's party, as he was returning from a successful ascent of both peaks of Mt. McKinley.

This is the first time both peaks of the mountain have been climbed.

The message to Mr. Albright said: "Our trip successful; climbed both peaks. On way down Muldrow glacier found body of Koven, companion of Carpe, and clear indication Carpe dead in crevice. Unable to bring out body of Koven. Attempted same and nearly lost Ranger Pearson. Rest of Carpe party, Beckwith and all, are O.K.; abandoning expedition. Have wired families of Koven and Carpe, Jersey City and New York, respectively.

Car Strikes Calf Three Legs Broken

A valuable calf, owned by Bill Leahy of Douro Township, took one jump too many on the Warsaw road last evening. The jump carried it directly into the path of a motor car. The calf was struck, the driver being unable to swerve around it, and suffered three broken legs. It was shot later by Provincial Constable D. Silvester.

The calf, along with two others, was being driven along the road by Mr. Leahy when, as appears to be the time-honored custom of cattle, it jumped in front of the car just as it was passing the small herd.

POTTERS GRAVE FOR AGED LADY

Authorities Get No Response From Executors of £,500 Estate.

RELATIVE IN AUSTRALIA.

NEW YORK, May 17 — A 71-year old woman who until a year ago was reported to have received the annual income from £2 500, in death to-day was believed headed for a grave in Potter's field.

Edith M. Wiggins, whose income from the estate of her father in Australia was reduced to a minimum when the estate depreciated in value, died April 30 in Manhattan State Hospital on Ward's Island of bronchial pneumonia.

She had suffered a fracture of the femur in an automobile accident in January.

The owner of the house where she lived in a furnished room for ten years told her story to-day. For nine years after she moved there she received the income from the national trustees and executors of Melbourne, Australia, through the Bank of Montreal, Montreal, Que. Her father, the late J. Wiggins, supposedly had left a large estate, the owner said.

Since her death, Miss Wiggins' body had lain in the morgue. None has come to claim it and if none comes within two days it will be buried in Potter's field. Her only surviving relative is believed to be a stepmother, many years Miss Wiggins' junior, living in Australia. Attempts to communicate with her and the national trustees and executors of Melbourne have brought no response.

"Budweiser," Prize Jumping Frog, Breaks His Own Record By 2 Feet

ANGELES CAMP, Cal., May 17—(C.P.)—With a single record smashing spring, "Budweiser," pride of Stockton, Cal., to-day had leaped into unquestionable leadership of the world's jumping frogs.

At the Calaveras county frog jumping jubilee he smashed his own record set last year by two feet with a leap of 13 feet five inches.

Budweiser's defence of his championship left other stalwarts including five entries from the Washington, N.C., fire department ,virtually standing at the post.

The performance, witnessed by a crowd of promoters estimated at 20,000 was amid colorful scene in the little hill mining camp site of Mark Twain's clasic jumping frog tale. Indians, ox teams, mule jerkline teams, and other reminiscent sights of the '90's were on hand.

This setting and the honors heaped upon him when he was welcomed by Mayor A. D. Mentz at the outskirts of the town and escorted to the scene of his triumph by an honor guard and a brass band failed to disturb the coolness of Budweiser. Calmly flexing his powerful muscles he set himself for the task and then jumped such a jump as this frog-jumping town had never before witnessed.

MRS. J. L. BYAM ELECTED HEAD OF INSTITUTE

Millbrook Women's Institute Holds Its Annual Meeting.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR

MILBROOK, May 17.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. George Fallis entertained the local branch of the Women's Institute for its May meeting, at her home, King street, on Saturday night. The retiring president, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, taking the chair, and the roll call being answered with a helpful hint, or a recipe for cooking a vegetable.

Saturday's meeting was the annual gathering, and the president reported forty-one members' fees paid for the next year, the plan this season being to forego the usual canvas for members, and ask that the fee be paid at the regular monthly meeting the response so far being most satisfactory.

Balance Of $304.05

The treasure's report was given by Mrs. C. C. Garside, the items including a balance carried forward from last year of $331.58; members' fees $36.00, grant $3.00, other sources bringing the total up to $633.78; expenditures included $7.00 in the babies' fund; $20.40 for the new flag-pole in front of the town hall; $28.52 for needy; and a total in all of $319.73; balance in bank $304.05.

Letters of thanks and appreciation for fruit, flowers, etc., sent to sick members were read by the secretary, and announcement was made that the branch will meet with the Bailleboro Institute for the annual summer meeting this year on May 26, the speaker to be Mrs. J. M. Percival, of Addison, an experienced and capable worker, who is also a college graduate.

The branch received a report on the meeting addressed by Colonel E. E. Snyder relative to introducing the teaching of music in the public schools, and while sympathetic toward the project, decided to await any further action on the part of the school boards and the Inspector, Colonel Odell before participating in the matter as an organization.

The custom of having the Institute, with any others of the district who would accept the invitation, attend divine worship on Mother's Day was brought up for discussion the general feeling being that the date is not suitable since most churches have a special service on that day, at which members wish to be present. On motion, it was carried that the Institute decide on the third Sunday in May instead of the second for its church attendance in a body.

The donation of the rental of the piano, used for the community benefit dance last Friday in the town hall, to the committee in charge was decided upon, Mrs. Harkness being left in charge of the matter. The branch will place flowers about the cenotaph again this season, the usual committee to attend to their purchase and planting.

The secretary, Mrs. Fallis, gave her annual report showing twelve regular meetings held, and three special gatherings, the total attendance being 294, average 25; fifteen papers and addresses. Mrs. Fallis also read the report sent to Mr. Putnam, at his own request, covering the year's activities, same to be used with others in a publicity campaign in the interest of Institute enlargement and education. This report will be repeated at the annual district gathering to be held in Millbrook early in June. The local branch will serve lunch, and a collection will be received.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers resulted in the following slate:

President, Mrs. J. L. Byam; vice-president, Mrs. Robert Brown and Miss E. Grandy; secretary, Mrs. George Fallis; treasurer, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong; district director, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong; pianist, Mr. R. J. McKnight.

The new president took the chair, and was warmly applauded as she assumed the duties of her office, the appointment of representatives for the annual district meeting being the concluding item of business: Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, Mrs. Byam, Mrs. T. G. Harkness, Miss M. Whyte, Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mrs. R. J. McKnight, and Miss Grandy.

The June meeting will be at the home of Mrs. T. H. Aiken, the committee in charge including: Mrs. Garside, Mrs. A. Lunn, and Mrs. W. E. Ball. Remainder was made that the fee to the Federated Institute must be paid at the district gathering, and after the National Anthem the hostess, assisted by the retiring officers, served a treat of homemade candy and a social hour was enjoyed.

School matters have taken a new angle at Fenelon Falls. Despite the result of the recent municipal election in which a reeve was elected who was opposed to the erection of the new Continuation School, the council at its first session decide to go ahead with the new structure. When the council convened, however, Mr. McFarland, who had been an opponent of the new school, changed his view on the question, and cast his vote in favor of the School Board's requisition.

LAWS OF ECONOMICS MUST BE EQUAL TO THE HUMAN POWER

Declares Elwood T. Bailey, Addressing Campbellford Rotary Club.

Hugo Brandt On Program.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence) — "We have forgotten that the laws of economics must be equal with human power," declared Elwood T. Bailey, noted Chautauqua lecturer, speaking to the Campbellford Rotary Club yesterday on present world conditions and the solution to the problem that to-day is facing the whole world. The club luncheon was featured by a general invitation being extended to all the local Chautauqua committee who were present, and was honored by the appearance at the piano of Hugh Brandt, distinguished Polish pianist and composer, who rendered one number, displaying wonderful technique and interpretation. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss M. Thackery, the Rev. R. C. Tait presiding over the gathering.

Mr. Bailey, who spoke in a very entertaining manner freely illustrating his message with humor, gave a direct message, hitting straight from the shoulder, but giving a concrete explanation of all his remarks. "Something was wrong with the world to-day," he declared. "Business was bad, very bad, but it was not the fault of business. Busines swas not to blame for present conditions."

During the past few years, the speaker pointed out, the world had been speeded up through the advance of science. Economically, financially, and industrially the world had gone ahead at a tremendous pace. Instead of the ox cart and canoe for travel, we now have the car and the motor yacht; instead of the very humble homes that our parents had, we now have beautiful and up-to-date dwellings; the day of the old school house was passed now the most modern buildings house the educational activities of the country. "In a short while we have travelled at tremendous speed a long way," he said. This was a powerful world, and yet something was missing, the key to the situation was lost.

Secret of Solution.

"I do believe I know the solution of the problem and I am honored to give it to you, and if it were followed the pendulum would swing back to a sounder economical, social and religious basis," said Mr. Bailey. The secret of the growth of the past few years he said, had been power, economical, financial, and the power of electricity and the machine; all these had worked wonders in this rapid growth, yet "we have forgotten that the laws of economics must be equal with human power in any growth," he declared. "The cheapest thing was human life."

The first piece of loot the speaker had to give to his listeners he said, was the fact that to-day people were standing still, but full of power. That was the tragedy of the world to-day—we're quiet; we're licked, he declared, and gave the word power in the form of five questions which were in reality a personal examination.

The first of these was: "Have I a purpose in my job, my life? There were many people in the world to-day, he said who had no purpose, who were just drifters, their standard being the almighty dollar.

Seek Financial Power

"Graft and greed have put us where we are to-day, we seek financial power and have lost all spiritual power," he said. In many businesses there was a dirty purpose. "No business should have the right to exist unless it was for the moral of the community."

"Do I enjoy obeying?" was the next question asked, and Mr. Bailey stated that no man was able to follow a good business law unless he did obey. The world was sick because of disobedience. "Do you love to work?" the speaker asked, pointing out that only if you did were you worth while. To be a Rotarian did not mean to give the world the motto, but to serve and love to serve.

And one must be enthusiastic, he stated. It meant getting a kick out of life and although all of us suffered many set-backs, these things were common to all and should be overcome with an optimistic outlook and a spirit of enthusiasm.

Do you share your responsibilities? asked the speaker. "It was only," he said, "as we did so in this day we should be able to build up in the future and have the power God gave us. Much of the power we should have was thrown away in indifference, he declared.

Power was the generating force, said Mr. Bailey. Good times were just around the corner and the power we possess will open the door to a new Canada and a new world.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was sponsored by N. Alex McColl and G. A. Kingston. A vocal solo was rendered by G. W. Lucy.

THE LITTLE GIRL WHO FOUND HER APPETITE

YESTERDAY she only toyed with her food — so no wonder Mother was just a little concerned. But today, it's another story. Mother has found just the treat to tempt a young appetite. It's a big bowl of Kellogg's Rice Krispies and milk. And just see her dip right in with her spoon and enjoy every mouthful of that good, nourishing cereal.

It gives you a lot of satisfaction, doesn't it, to see your children enjoying their food? Well, just give them Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Crisp, delicious rice bubbles that actually snap, crackle and pop in milk or cream!

And Rice Krispies are one of the best cereals for children. So tempting, nourishing, and easy to digest. Splendid for the evening meal — they do not overtax like many heavy foods, and so they encourage restful sleep.

HORIZON OF CANADIAN MOUNTIES ELIMINATES TIME AND SPACE

"White Man's Burden" Carried to Far Corners of Domain.

TRAIN BEAR CUBS

OTTAWA.—Stories of rare courage pathos and humor continue to come down from the far north in the form of official reports of the Northern Patrol. While only excerpts from these reports find their way into the annual report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police it is sufficient to make one "blue book" at least as interesting as the best biography or fiction.

There are 116 "mounties" stationed in the arctic and subarctic regions of the Dominion. Their "policing" consists largely of exploration, conservation of game, collecting research data, taking the census, relieving distress among the natives, investigating of troubles of every kind and in general bearing "the white man's burden" whatever it might be.

This entails patrolling, by dog team in winter power-boat in summer, irrespective of temperature and weather, and because of the vastness of this country and the smallness of the force a constable is usually alone on his "beat," except for an Eskimo companion.

Patrolled 1,000 Miles

Constable J. W. McCormack of the Chesterfield Inlet detachment made a 1,000-mile patrol to Wagner Inlet and Repulse Bay. Although the time was between April 19 and June 7 he encountered the usual difficulties from storms and blizzards. At Wagner Inlet he found an Eskimo family that had taken two polar bear cubs into their dog team. To quote from his notes:

"The family by patient training taught the cubs to get used to the harness and not to make battle with the dogs. And likewise the dogs had to be taught to get used to the bears. This, in my estimation, was a tremendous undertaking.

"Although they were successful in their training, the bear is too cumbersome an animal to keep up with the dogs and they always play out. The family would not leave the bears outside at night, but would take them into the igloo and natives and bears slept side by side at night. There were three little kiddies in this family and the bears seemed to take great delight in playing with them on the floor of the igloo.

Many Days for Few Names

"I was watching them one evening and the kids would climb up on the shoulders of a bear and slide down its back. The bear in turn would roll over, lift up a paw and open its huge mouth, and then gently nose under him and roll him over and over on the floor. The parents paid no attention whatever to the scene."

Constable H. G. Nichols of the Baker Lake detachment describes his work as census taker. He and Constable Humphrey covered 2,635 miles by sled and motorboat to register a population of 367! But the hardest part of his task must have been spelling the names correctly. He reports: "All natives in the district are Eskimo and are divided into four tribes, namely Padleymiuts, Savatamiuts, Krainelrmiuts and Utkahikhakingmiuts or Akluymiuts."

The always intricate problem of the income tax would probably go unsolved in the far north if it were not for these resourceful "Red Coats." Inspector Eames of the western arctic districts says: "The bulk of this work is done of Herschel Island in July and August, and as the majority of taxpayers (who are mostly small traders and trappers) have little or no idea how to render the return, it is estimated that the time of one constable is fully taken up for at least eight days in assisting them."

A hint of the variety of the work that falls to the policeman's lot is contained in a report of a patrol by Constable J. H. Pearson from Arctice Red River to Macpherson, between June 25 and 29:

Variety of Activities

"While at Macpherson, Yukon Territory, and Northwest Territory, furs were exported, returns of native fur collected, radio licenses issued, income tax returns collected, expired game licenses taken up and new ones issued. Beaver permits were also collected, the stock of explosives at A. N. Blake's post examined and census taken."

Inspector Eames remarks: "Constable pearson has carried out his duties well. I found the detachment in good order. Practically the whole of the detachment district has been patrolled by dog team. There were indications that the personnel had been regularly employed, such as the stock of green fish on hand; the wood split and stacked; the winter transport and harness kept in good condition."

Thus it is that the duties of this famous police body, the R.C.M.P., are mainly domestic rather than romantic and that "getting their man" is perhaps the smallest part of their chores.

CHARGE OPERA MANAGER BIASED WITH AMERICANS

NEW YORK, May 17 (CP) Clarence Whitehill, veteran American singer, has announced his departure from grand opera in a statement charging Guillio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera company, with being biased against American singers and wasting the organization's funds.

Gatti-Casazza, who only recently exchanged verbal thrusts with another of his stars, Beniamino Gigli, Beniamingo Gigli, denied the charges, asserting there never had been a greater number of American artists at the Metropolitan during his regime.

Whitehill, a baritone, said he was through with singing because he had been in grand opera for 30 years and was tired of it.

CELEBRATE CENTENNIAL OF TELEGRAPH FOUNDING

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Touching an historic telegraph key, studded with pure gold nuggets, President Hoover to-day opens a world-wide centennial celebration, of the conception of that ticking little instrument by Samuel F. B. Morse.

The revolutionizing of world communication that was begun by Morse in laboriously flashing out his first public message—what hath God wrought—will be epitomized in to-day's celebration.

President Hoover will send a special message to the Supreme Court rooms, employing a modern and swift moving telegraph instrument.

Marconi, perfector of the wireless, is scheduled to join in the celebration from Italy. Walter E Edge, United States' Ambassador to France, is to participate from Paris.

COW DOWN, COW A YEAR, FOR WIFE

South Africa's wife market is undergoing a depression, and modern methods are being used by fathers who wish to dispose of daughters and be paid in cows. The prices stil fluctuate, and a fat girl brings more cows than a thin one for the slimming idea has been rejected there. The slump in marriages is severe because would-be suitors could not deliver the bovines. Prospective fathers-in-law with supplies of eligible daughters are now offering especially attractive terms. You can obtain immediate delivery by paying one cow down and promising the rest at the rate of one a year. You will find, though, that your father-in-law insists upon security. Any girl babies become his property until the wife is paid for.

ADMIRERS PAY DICKENS HONOR

Connoisseurs From Over Globe Gather in Kentish City of Rochester.

VISIT FAMOUS SPOTS.

(By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, May 17 (C.P.). — Connoisseurs of Charles Dickens from every part of the English-speaking globe gathered to-day at the ancient Kentish city of Rochester for the Whitsuntide convention of Dickensians.

Joviality—the dominant note in Dickens' novels — prevailed in a spot peopled by the ghosts of the master's immortal creations, a spot made famous by Gadshill Place, a mansion Dickens admired as a struggling youth, and in which he died, an author of world-wide repute.

There was much rivalry amongst the delegates for the honor of occupying Mr. Tupman's bedroom at the Bull Inn, where the scapegrace Jingle, Mr. Winkle, and Dr. Slummer enacted their hilarious roles.

Plan Pilgrimage.

A pilgrimage was planned to Gadshill Place and an excursion to the fine old farmstead which many critics believe to be the original Gadshill Manor. The convention was attended by Sir Henry Dickens, the novelist's only surviving son, now 83 year sold. Sir Henry, as Common Sergeant of the City of London, has long presided at criminal trials at the Old Bailey, described at length in David Copperfield, and has become noted for his leniency towards wrongdoers.

FOOD BLAMED FOR HEADACHES

Queer Pranks of Diet Explained at American Medical Association Session.

ATTACK VARIES WIDELY.

NEW ORLEANS, May 17.—Sixty-five headaches caused by food were described to the American Medical Association, which held its annual meeting here last night.

These queer pranks of diet were reported by Ray M. Balyeat, M.D., and Herbert J. Rinkel, M.D., of Oklahoma City. The dinner-time headache routes were so devious that two-thirds of the sufferers never knew the cause until recently developed methods of testing uncovered the sources.

Two men had headaches from food eaten on Saturday and Sunday only, but at no other time. They had them weekly for years.

Sometimes bad heads came from a single eating. Other persons had to build up to the pain stage by several days' diet on the unsuspected cause. Even in the same person the food varied its method of attack from time to time.

The physicians did not name any of the guilty foods, stating that in every case rule of thumb trials were necessary for identification; but frequently the discovery and change of diet alone were sufficient for relief.

Anger, emotional stress, physical and mental fatigue, and disturbances of special senses, particularly the eyes, often conspired to set off the gastronomic fireworks.

TO STUDY RESULTS OF COLONIZATION

Done in Quebec During Last 20 Years Under Government Auspices.

QUEBEC, May 17.—(By the Canadian Press.)—A survey of colonization work done in Quebec during the last 20 years under direct auspices of the provincial government is being undertaken by the officers of the Department of Colonization, Game and Fisheries with a view to meeting changing conditions.

With the building of the Transcontinental railway, and especially that portion of it through this province and into Edmundstan, N.B., the task of colonizing the new areas of north-western Quebec, known as the Abitibi region, was commenced. A large amount of money has been voted each year by the legislature with the result that some 30 parishes have been founded, and these parishes would still be prosperous were it not for the fact that the lumber business took a decided slump two years ago.

A good deal of colonization work has been done in the Lake St. John district, but it is being realized that some of it, especially along the lower reaches of the Saguenay river, has not proven as successful as had been hoped. The younger element of the farming community has been drifting into the big centres to complicate the situation for the city workmen. Hitherto these young farmers have worked in the lumber camps during the winter months, leaving the woods with sufficient cash to carry them through the spring and summer months with the help of the little they could earn on the farms.

This condition of affairs has been brought about by the depression in both the pulp and paper business as well as the lumber trade, and with the shift of the newsprint industry from the St. Maurice river, which is to come, the problem arises as to how the population of such places as Shawinigan Falls and Grand 'Mere is to be cared for in the way of employment. It is hoped by the Department of Colonization that a study of the whole situation will enable the work of colonization to be so directed as to meet the changing conditions.

Policy Dishonest States J. H.. Thomas

CAPE TOWN, S. A., May 17.—(C P Cable)—The Ran Daily Mail, commenting editorially on the recent announcement of J. H. Thomas, British Dominions secretary, that he would not treaty with the Irish Free State if it abolished the Oath of Allegiance to the Crown, today said "Ireland's policy is dishonest".

"Ireland must decide either for sentiment or for prosperity," the editorial continued. "We do not see that her choice matters at all to the British Empire, though on general grounds it is preferred that the flow of trade between Great Britain and the Free State should not be interrupted."

Die Burger, Nationalist party organ, said the sentiment expressed by Mr. Thomas amounts to a threat of economic war against the Free State.

CAT HELPS REALTY AGENT

How a cat unconsciously helped sell houses in a new subdivision at Pinner, England, has been revealed. When the pet's habit of leaving its home early each day and returning at night, was investigated by its owner, she found that it went to a model furnished house on the subdivision and lived there in luxury until the supper time. The realty agent did not disturb the feline because he noticed that tabby gave a homelike atmosphere to the place, which resulted in sales.

NIXON FAVORS CO-OPERATION

Relations With Labor and Liberals Been Always Friendly.

HEPBURN'S SUGGESTION.

BRANTFORD, May 1, (C.P.).—"Our relations with Labor have always been friendly, and everyone knows that our relations with Mr. Hepburn are very friendly," said Harry Nixon, Ontario Progressive Leader, in commenting on the suggestion made by Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal Leader, in an address before West York electors, that leaders of the Liberal, Labor, and Progressive Parties confer with the object of discussing an amalgamation of interests and the definition of a policy embracing common principles.

"I have nothing further to say in the matter of this suggestion than what has already received wide publicity, namely that Mr. Hepburn and I propose to co-operate to the fullest extent in expressing our political proposals to the electors of this province," Mr. Nixon continued.

At a banquet tendered in Mr. Nixon's honor here last week, and at which Mr. Hepburn was the principal speaker, the Progressive Leader intimated he would be on the platform with Mr. Hepburn in the West York by-election before the campaign is over.

SINCLAIR MUM.

OSHAWA. — I do not think that any comment from me could be of value to the Liberal Party at this time, said W. E. N. Sinclair, the House Leader of the Ontario Liberal Party to-day, following the suggestion of Mitchell Hepburn, Party Leader, for a conference of Liberal, Labor, and Progressive Leaders.

Mr. Sinclair said he had not heard of the suggestion until the report of Mr. Hepburn's speech in West York on Saturday was brought to his attention.

HENRY'S COMMENT.

TORONTO, May 17.—(C.P.) Mr. Hepburn is the leader of the Liberal party in Ontario and the Liberal party apparently has come to that pass, observed George S. Henry, commenting on Saturday's pronouncement of Mitchell F. Hepburn, member of Parliament and Provincial Liberal leader, that he would swing to the left, and suggesting a conference of Liberals, Progressives and Laborites.

Fenella Institute Re-Elects Officers

(Examiner Correspondence)

FENELLA, May 17.—At the annual meeting of the Fenella Branch Women's Institute held on Thursday afternoon, the election of officers resulted in the re-election of the officers of the past year. The officers are as follows: President, Mrs. N. C. Leach; vice president, Mrs. Harrison George; secretary treasurer, Miss Ruby Adams; branch directors, Mrs J H. Mouncey and Mrs. W. Rogers; district director, Mrs. A. Nill; pianist, Mrs. Roy Cowling; assistant, Miss Muriel Macklin; auditors, Mrs. James Waldie and Mrs. Roy Smith; sunshine committee, Mrs. A. Nill, Mrs. Vernon Brenton and Mrs. George Montgomery.

Miss Ruby Adams, secretary-treasurer read the financial report showing that $120.71 had been spent by the society on repair of Community hall. In the year now beginning cash on hand is $15.73.

The sunshine committee reported two boxes of cheer sent to members, who were ill, and floral wreath at the passing of a life member, (Mrs. W. J. Gibb).

During the business period, the following items of business were decided on motion: That the society dispense with the printed programs for the coming year, and that a committee of two be named at each meeting to be responsible for the program for the following meeting. That the society will cause to have engraved on the silver cup presented by the Roseneath and Fenella branches Women's Institute the name of winner of the cup. (Miss Bernice Murphy, Fenella) in the Public Speaking contest held the previous fall.

That, the Society will sponsor a coaching class for girls this season as in the two previous years. That a resolution be forwarded to the District Agricultural representative, and, to the District Annual, regarding the placing of the winning teams of girls, from each county, at the Central Fair, Ottawa, and the Canadian National Exhibition Toronto, when the teams parade in front of the grand stand.

Mrs. Roy Smith and Mrs. Fred Talling were appointed a program committee for the regular meeting in June. During the enrollment of members, the Society was honored, by receiving as a new member, the name of Mrs. Robert Jibb. Beside the regular fee, Mrs. Jibb gave a liberal donation to the organization. Mrs. Jibb, who a few weeks ago, celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday anniversary, takes a keen interest in the work that is carried on in the community, by this organization.

During the program period, Mrs J. H. Mouncey, was the winner of the prize, a dainty package of stationary, in a lucky chair contest. Miss Florence Macklin favored the gathering with an effectively rendered solo "Rest At Eventide". She was accompanied by Miss Muriel Macklin. A very interesting and profitable feature of this period was an exchange of shrubs, bulbs, roots, slips and seeds, among the members. Mrs. Harrison George was hostess for the day, the attendance numbered twenty-two. After the closing exercises, Mrs. George served afternoon tea, and the usual social hour was enjoyed.

The salary of the secretary-treasurer was reduced from $10.00 to $5.00 per year.

W.M.S. Service Held In Fenella

FENELLA, May 17 (Examiner Correspondence)—A special thankoffering service under the auspices of the W.M.S. was held in Fenella United Church, on Sunday morning, May 15. The pastor, Rev. R. W. Paton, M.A., delivered a special address for the occasion, basing his remarks on the scene in the home of Simon of Bethany, where the dramatic interest of the story centres about.

Mary, sister of Lazarus, who broke her alabaster box of ointment, on the head of her beloved Lord. While to the other guests, her deed was but an act of wastefulness, to Jesus, it represented the best of her money, and the best of her love. "She hath done what she could," Mark 14:8. Mary's offering, has filled the world with its sweetness. "As we," said the speaker, endeavor to carry out the last command of our Saviour "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel unto every creature, let us, bring our best gifts to Jesus, gifts inspired by devotion to Christ, gifts that like Mary's, will fill the world with their sweetness. The slightest gifts, and most limited resources, accompanied by God's blessing can do great things for God. There is nothing more precious to Jesus, than the souls for whom He died."

Special music for the occasion society's pianist, Miss Muriel Mackmembers under the direction of the was rendered by a choir of W.M.S. lin. A chorus "For God so loved the World," was rendered by a full choir, and a solo, "I love my sheep," by Mrs. Fred Talling. Mrs. James Curtis, and Mrs. James Knox received the offering, and Mrs. Sal Leach read the scripture lesson.

FORDS HOLD LEAD ATTENDANCE RACE

Fifty-Four Attend League Service at Petherick's Corners on Thursday.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, May 17 (Examiner Correspondence) — Thursday evening's league service was perhaps the most successful yet held by the Missionary department of the society. Fifty-four members were out with the sides tied in attendance. The Fords have a substantial lead over the Durants as shown by the chart of the trans-Canada race prepared by Fred Barnum.

The program was as follows: devotional address beginning a series of studies on the Home Mission work of the United Church by Rev. F. G. MacTavish; a vocal quintette by Messrs. J. Cole, N. Nelsh, A. Collett, F. Osborne and D. Walker was heartily encored also vocal and guitar music by Misses Cora and Gladys Petherick. A reading by Mrs. L. Anderson and a very interesting address on friendship by Don Barnum, one of Seymour and Campbellfords famed junior orators were the concluding numbers. The program was very ably criticized by Roy Barnum, of the Toronto School of Pharmacy, who is holidaying at his home here.

COMMITTEES NAMED.

Mrs. W. Blackwell commenced her eighth term as president of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association, yesterday afternoon, when she was unanimously elected as presiding officer for the coming year. The popular president of the association finds no difficulties at the annual elections.

All elections yesterday were unanimous, with the following ladies slated for office for 1932-1933: Mrs. H. Rush, honorary president; Mrs. W. Blackwell, president; Mrs. F. C. Neal, vice-president; Mrs. V. Eastwood, Senior, second vice president; Miss M. F. Hatton, third vice president; Miss Tena Mathers, secretary; Mrs. H. W. Webber, telephone convenor; Mesdames J. E. R. Munro, T. Cruikshank, G. E. Porter, R. J. Kidd, G. N. Gordon, H. Wightman, N. H. Sutton, Miss A. Wood, Miss A. L. Going and Miss Linden Hall, councillors.

The following ladies were named as convenors of auxiliary clubs; Mrs. B. L. Barns, Arts and Crafts; Mrs. L. J. Pettit, Dramatic club; Mrs. R. Gliddon, program; Mrs. H. E. Connelly and Mrs. A. Barton, social; Mrs. F. Hooper, exhibition; Madam Sifroy Goulet, Causerie Francaise. The convenor of the Art Study Club has not yet been named.

Regret was voiced at the retirement of the secretary, Mrs. F. C. Webber, and Mrs. Blackwell spoke of her constant good work. The president also thanked the executive officers and the members, for their splendid support during the past year.

A vote of appreciation to Mrs. Blackwell for her untiring interest in every phase of the society's endeavors, was voiced by Mrs. Munro.

Brief Meeting

It was very expeditious meeting that went through in efficient and businesslike style, presided over by Mrs. Blackwell, with Mrs. T. Cruikshank taking the chair for election of officers.

Reports of officers and convenors were presented in brief style.

The minutes of the last annual meeting and the secretary's report were given by Mrs. Webber, showing a year of varied and successful activities. Between seventy and eighty paid-up members are registered, Mrs. Webber commending the treasurer, Mrs. H. W. Morphet, for her businesslike handling of finances. There are four study clubs in the association, all recording splendid programs for the past year.

Eleven general afternoon meetings were held, with delightful programs.

Mrs. Weber recorded this as the 28th annual report of the organization, which was formed in March of 1905 by a group of women meeting in the Y.W.C.A. There were forty members for the first year. Miss M. F. Hatton, who was treasurer of the original society, is still a member.

The financial report, given by Mrs Morphet, showed a balance from last year of $46.15, with receipts totalling $256.04. Expenditures included various items, among them a donation of $5 to the Well Babies' Clinic; rent, $90; printing, $28.64; prize for Fall Exhibition, $5; for four University Extension professors who gave addresses to the club, $40. The total expenses were $274.18, with a balance on hand of $28.01.

Mrs. R. Gliddon, Program convenor, gave a very interesting and detailed report of the general meetings.

Mrs. V. S. Foster, joint convenor of the Art Study Club with Mrs. R. F. Downey and Mrs. F N Neal, spoke of the nine meetings held in this auxiliary club, with Florentine Art as the main object of discussion There are eighteen members Arts and Crafts.

Mrs. B. L. Barns reported eight meetings and twenty-five members for the Guild of Arts and Crafts, with a variety of subjects taken up. Through the influence of Mrs. W. H. Pretty, the sum of $13.94, a balance from the old Weaving Club, has been handed over to the guild.

Mrs. L. J. Pettit reported six meetings held by the Dramatic Club, when works of Charles Dickens; Pickwick Papers, David Copperfield and Nicholas Nickleby, were studied.

Madam Sifroy Goulet, speaking first in French, then in English, reported for the Causerie Framcaise, which held regular meetings, first at the Conservatory, followed by auxiliary meetings in the afternoon at the homes of members, when French conversation was taken up.

Mrs F. Hooper, convenor of the Exhibition committee, outlined the several exhibitions held during the past year and thanked the members who had assisted, especially with the Kiwanis Fair.

Mrs. F. C. Weber suggested the keeping of a book which would record the various activities of the society, such as was done after the organization was first promoted, and was discontinued in the war years. This suggestion met with general approval.

Mrs. Blackwell, in a brief presidential address, quoted Sir Robert Falconer in a recent public discourse, who urged a return to consideration of "the good, the true, the beautiful," as a remedy for the woes of a very utilitarian age.

The president referred to the beauty of many things in daily life, and asked the members to try to see this, rather than the ugly aspect.

MADAME BLANCHE IS AT ELITE COURT

Free Reading of Tea-Cup is Assured to All Who Attend.

At the out set of a two week's engagement at "Elite Court" Tea Rooms where she is giving daily tea cup readings free to all lady patrons, the masked mystery lady was identified as Madame Blanche, widely known to radio fans throughout Canada and the United States as an expert handwriting character analyst.

Madame Blanche's identity was unmasked by a local lady, who has received a 5-pound box of chocolates presented through the courtesy of Louis Yeotes, proprietor of the Elite Restaurant and Tea Rooms.

That this innovation of Mr. Yeotes' is popular was apparent by the large number of persons who yesterday availed themselves the opportunity of a free tea cup or palm reading. And to all who were disappointed on the first day of Madame Bleanche's visit to the restaurant by their inability to secure a reading, it may be of interest to know that she will be in daily attendance at "Elite Court" for the balance of the next two weeks between the hours of 3 and 6 p.m.

There is no set limit to the purchase made by any patron of these new tea rooms; everybody is welcomed by the management and everybody is assured of a free reading.

Madame Blanche, who is a resident of this city, has established a reputation for her ability to delineate character, and in her long association with the Lowney Company of Montreal, by whom she is engaged as handwriting analyst, has become known to radio fans throughout the continent through the weekly broadcasts conducted from Montreal. Among some of the more recent character analyses which she has given to prominent people, was the one she gave to Jean Harlow, the platinum blonde of filmdom on the ocasion of her recent visit to Toronto.

Up! Up! Up to the Moon

(By Olga Westbye, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Westbye.)

My friend Howard and I were driving out on the Chemong Road when we heard a great commotion and saw crowds of people assembled in a field. We were just back from a long journey, so didn't know what it meant.

"What on earth are they doing?" questioned Howard.

"Must be an accident," I answered. I stopped the car and sprang out, followed by Howard.

Upon inquiring a surprised voice answered us. "Don't you know the Man in the Moon is landing here?" it said. I winked at Howard. "Here he comes," yelled every one.

Open-mouthed, I watched, and was able to see from a distance a rocket come down with tremendous speed, to land and then spring into the air again with the aid of springs. The two of us pushed forward to get a better view.

A fat little man with merry blue eyes, and a silvery beard dressed in heavy furs was standing among the crowd of people. Mayor Hall was shaking hands with him. As his Worship caught sight of us he turned. "Come on, Westbye, Howard, meet Mr. Gold Moon," said he. "With pleasure," I answered. The crowd made way for us.

"You're no stranger," said Howard. "I used to lie in bed and watch you."

"I think you were brave to undertake such a journey," said I.

"Wogla, Mongla seegal baler," he answered, grinning

"He means you must go up and see him when he goes back," interpreted Mayor Hall.

"Howard!" I cried. "We will! By George we will!"

"I'm with you," said Howard. Everybody said we were out of our heads. "They'll never be seen alive again," was the public opinion.

Not so our. We went on building the rocket and making our preparations. Howard and I had discovered a liquid looking like water. In my first encounter with this liquid, I had been thrown high in the air, and I haven't recovered yet. However, we had our rocket well stocked with fuel. Our apartments were fitted like King's palaces. Soft rugs and silken curtains, couches and reading material. We were also well supplied with good food, warm clothing, games and musical instruments. We spent a great deal of time pouring over the map of the moon.

"This is the mountain where the Man in the Moon has his cavern," I said, pointing to a rocky district on the map.

"It looks like we are going to have some trouble getting there, prophesied Howard anxiously

"Let's not worry until we arrive," said I.

Parachutes and oxygen masks were a necessity. Day after day we cleaned, oiled, hammered and tacked. The most skilled mechanics in the world prepared our machine for its adventuresome journey. People still jeered, but what cared we, young and inexperienced, placing our faith in the rocket, luck and the weather.

"Some time these people will sing another tune," was our thought.

Everything was ready. Women fell on our necks, weeping like fountains, and Howard and I were rather disgusted. My Scotch tailor come around, shouting for unpaid bills, but I told him I'd pull out a piece of the golden moon, and bring it back to him. Last goodbyes were said, and, stepping into the cockpit. I adjusted my glasses and started the controls. The rocket shot up like a thing possessed.

"Jove, Westbye! We're really going!" cried Howard. "I laughed nervously. "You're pale old man," I cried.

Houses shrank to mere dots, and the river looked like a silver ribbon, lying on a green coverlet. I felt much like playing with the trees and trains, they looked so tiny. A light cloud enveloped the machine, and our view of the earth was lost. Next we turned our attention above. The moon was winking up there in a friendly way, which lightened our hearts a great deal.

"It looks like a green cheese, Howard," cried I. Books and papers, games and banjos claimed our attention for days, but finally we were so close that Howard suggested we watch our goal. Nearer and nearer we came, until I was able to distinguish huge mountains, and gaping craters.

"We're going down!" cried Howard hoarsely.

"The lever, shove it down and flood passages!!" I shouted back.

Just in time Howard shoved down the stick, and sank, chalk-white into the nearest chair.

The rocket shot up and landed on the moon.

"Here we are! Who said we couldn't do it?" I yelled.

I hurried to the supply room, procured two oxygen masks, and jumped out, with Howard close by me.

The intense heat and glaring sun struck us full in the face. Not a thing but rough uplands and towering mountains could be seen. Above us, in a sky of inky blackness, blazed the red ball, known as the sun, and thousands of beautiful, brilliant stars. A weird, ghastly stillness made things even more horrible. There was no sound of tinkling water, stirring breeze or rustling trees, because there wasn't any air, and there must be air to carry sound.

"A typical hades," said I, smiling grimly. Into the cabin we went, studied the map, and then began our journey. We easily leapt many feet from crag to crag, our weight was so lessened by lack of air. We drew nearer to the huge mountain, wherein lived the Man in the Moon. He came to meet us, talking his funny language, some of which we had previously learned.

"We cannot stay long," I explained. "Because we haven't enough fresh air."

We entered the cavern, where we feasted on Claftora, blue stuf which tasted very good indeed. Half expecting to be poisoned, I ate it. Then we had a look at the earth from the moon. Could this little round disc be the world where we had lived and where our friends were now living. But it was.

And as I slept, on a pile of food bags, I reflected on my childhood dreams of the "Man in the Moon" and the glory which would be ours, on returning.

When Fleetwood, England, was plunging in darkness by a breakdown of the electrical plant two lighthouses on land and one three miles at sea were forced to use emergency oil lamps.

CHURCH CHOIR WINS STRIKE.

Because the request for $35 toward its annual dance, made by the choir of Old Parish Church, Falkirk, Scotland, was not granted by the church heads, the singers struck on a recent Sunday morning. The service was without music, and the minister, Rev. Alexander London, stated that the choir had written him that the strike was to show disapproved of the board's action. He added that the request was voted down by one vote, and that the church had sufficient funds, therefore should help the choir dance His appeal brought such hearty response that the full choir sang at the evening service.

POLICE UNABLE TO DETERMINE MOTIVE FOR KIDNAPPING BABY

Like Looking For Someone in an Impenetrable Fog.

LITTLE HEADWAY MADE.

(By Mark Barron)

TRENTON, N J., May 17. (CP)—Police, blanketing the entire Atlantic seaboard in their search for the kidnapper-murderers of the Lindbergh baby, find their investigation handicapped through inability to determine definitely the motive for the crime.

"It is like looking for some one in an impenetrable fog" one official working on the case explained here to-day. "If we knew the actual motive then we wouldn't be conducting the search so blindly.

"Clues that we now have would be of much more value and seemingly unimportant evidence might take on a much more valuable aspect—if only we had the motive of the crime to hook up with them."

Dozens of theories have been advanced and many of them are extremely logical. The one given most credence by the police is that the crime was committed by gangsters solely for ransom. This is the theory held by Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey. He discounts entirely the theory that the baby was kidnapped for reasons of revenge.

Lndbergh Has No Enemies

Though Col. Lindbergh has no enemies, it is pointed out a figure of his prominence may have some foes who might have been brooding over a fancied wrong or slight.

Gov. Moore's views largely coincide with those of Police Commissioner Mulrooney of New York, in that both believe that kidnapping suddenly became the new popular racket with gangsters and racketeers who have suffered financially from prevailing economic conditions.

This theory has staunch support in the revelations of the meetings with the alleged kidnappers by Dr. Condon in the Bronx and the intermediaries at Norfolk, Va.

Other Possible Motives

While the ransom motive points to New York Gangster, there are other possible motives which point to some one who lives in the vicinity of the Lindbergh estate at Hopewell. Prosecutor Erwin F. Marshall, of Mercer county, where the body was found, said that it is "a possibility" that the crime might have been committed by someone living nearby.

On the night of the kidnapping a quick checkup was made of the activities of the inmates of the state home for epileptics, which is only a few miles from the Lindbergh home. It was thought that one of them might have been responsible. Investigation also was made of the "Jackson White" a primitive clan who lived back in the Sourland Mountains. Although these two theories have not been discarded, they are being treated as minor to the gangster ransom motive.

ANNOUNCE LISTS FOR CONFERENCE

Majority of Dominions Have Named Delegates to Ottawa Conference.

TWO TO COME YET.

LONDON, May 17. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The Dominions office to-day announced all delegations to the Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference next July had been completed with the exception of those of the Irish Free State and New Zealand.

Momentary pre-occupation with internal problems was thought to be ready for delay of the two Dominions in naming their delegations. Both have already accepted the invitation of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada to attend the conference.

Attendance of all delegates named seemed assured except in the case of Great Britain where international engagements, particularly the Lausanne conference on reparations, may force some changes before the Ottawa conclave.

Six From Britain.

Great Britain has named six delegates: Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council; J. H. Thomas, Dominions Secretary; Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Lord Hailsham, Secretary of State for War; Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade; Sir Philip Cunliffe Lister, Secretary for Colonies.

Australia will send two delegtes, Stanley Bruce, Assistant Treasurer, and H. S. Gullet, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

South Africa recently named three delegates: N. C. Havenga, Minister of Finance; P. G. W. Grobler, Minister of Lands, and A. P. J. Fourie, Minister of Mines and Industries.

India named the largest representation of any participant except Great Britain. The Indian government will send: Sir Atul Chandra Chatterjee, R. K. Shanmukham Chetty, Sir Padamji Pestinji Gingwalawn, Sir George Rainy, Haji Abdullah Harcon Shahibzada and Abdus Samad Khan.

Southern Rhodesia will send an official representation of three and a staff of four. The official representatives will be: Sir H. E. Moffat, Premier; P. D. Fynn, Treasurer, and J. W. Downey, High Commissioner in Great Britain.

Besides the official delegations most of the Dominions will send staffs of advisers. The advisory staff of the British delegation already numbers eight and it is thought more will be added before the party sail for Canada.

Launch Sales Drive In Latin America

Further evidence of Canada's expanding trade with Latin America is provided by the decision of the Pal Blade Corporation Limited, of Montreal, to launch a sales drive, in both Central and South America, for their popular safety razor blade during the coming summer.

To this end, Mr. L. J. Wise, widely known in Canadian business circles, is now on his way to Buenos Aires to arrange distribution and sales outlets and to make a general survey of this market, where he has already launched succesefully several well-known American manufactured products. Mr. Wise will be in complete charge of the Pal export business and foreign trade promotion.

In making this announcement, the directors of the Pal Blade Corporation state that they are confident a lucrative market exists in South America for all kinds of Canadian manufactured products. They believe that, given intelligent and energetic direction, opportunities for expanding Canadian trade in that market are great, particularly in view of the feeling of woodwill which has been engendered between Canada, Latin America and the West Indies by the recent Trade Cruises.

SOVIET FARMERS RUSH PRODUCTS TO MARKET

New Rule Allows Chance to Boost Sales

MOSCOW, May 17 (A.P.)—First reports from the Provinces, received to-day, indicate the recent decrees permitting the sale of a greater proportion of grain and meat by farmers were being received with widespread enthusiasm on the collective farms throughout the Soviet Union.

Great numbers of farmers flocked immediately from outlying centers into the town, bringing not only meat but dairy products and vegetables to sell in the open market. Ten eggs brought one ruble (about 50 cents). A quart of milk sold for 35 kopeks about 17½ cents). Meat sold for 50 cents a pound; 36 pounds of potatoes sold for 32 cents.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

NOW THAT FRESH GREEN VEGETABLES are so abundant and reasonable, they should be served daily in as many different ways as possible.

• • • • • • •

Just now there is a fancy for serving wilted leaf greens. To many housewives such preparation of greens comes as a novelty. The fashion for years has been to serve the greens uncooked as salad vegetables, which makes cooking them seem peculiar.

• • • • • • •

To-day we will recall some of the old recipes of fifty years ago, when every homemaker was supposed to be a fine cook.

• • • • • • •

Wash one or two heads of lettuce, separated into leaves, and put into a vegetable dish. Cut the leaves two or three times across, and sprinkle, not too generously, with salt.

• • • • • • •

Fry three to five full slices of bacon well streaked with lean and cut into small pieces. The quantity depends on the number of heads of lettuce to be dressed.

• • • • • • •

When the bacon is cooked and while still piping hot, pour gradually into the pan one-half to three-quarters cup of boiling hot vinegar. Stir the bacon and vinegar mixture and pour boiling hot over the lettuce. Toss the lettuce with a fork to get all mixed well.

• • • • • • •

Have ready one or two hard boiled eggs cut into slices. Quickly garnish the top of the lettuce with these slices and served immediately while steaming hot.

• • • • • • •

For wilted cabbage, cut the cabbage into shreds as for cold slaw. Put two scant tablespoons of butter into a frying pan, and when steaming hot, put in the shredded cabbage.

• • • • • • •

Stir briskly for a few moments until cabbage is tender. Season with a little salt and pepper and serve immediately. Other green leaf vegetables can be cooked in the same way.

SAFE SLAM BIDDING

It is axiomatic that Slams should not be bid, regardless of the number of playing-tricks in the combined hands, unless the probability of losing tricks to missing honors — particularly Aces—has been eliminated.

In the Approach - Forcing System this has been provided for by the overbid of a suit bid by the opponents.

In the early stages of bidding such a bid is the equivalent of a strong Takeout Double; in the later stages it is a distinct Slam try.

In deals played with a suit as trump, Aces and Kings adversely held often lose much of their power, as the hand below illustrates:

South—Dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

	♠ 10 9 8 3 ♡ 6 2 ◇ A K 9 6 2 ♣ 4 2
♠ — ♡ J 10 5 4 ◇ Q J 10 5 ♣ A K 10 9 5	W E S	♠ Q J 2 ♡ A K Q 9 3 ◇ 4 ♣ Q J 8 3
	♠ A K 7 6 5 4 ♡ 8 7 ◇ 8 7 3 ♣ 7 6

The Biddingt

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♡
1♠	2♣(1)	3◇(2)	3♡(3)
Pass	4♣	4♠(4)	5♣
Pass	5♡(5)	Pass	6♡(6)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—This bid, after passing, implies adequate support for the heart bid and no losers in the spade suit.
2—While North has strong support for his partner's spade bid, he wishes to bid diamonds in order to indicate a safe lead in case East obtains the contract and South's spade suit is weak. He does not know whether West's Overcall of the spade bid is based on control of the first round of the suit or a void in it.
3—The heart suit is rebiddable.
4—North now shows his spade support. This contract will be defeated only 2 tricks.
5—West has already shown no losers in spades and a biddable club suit. His only reason for not bidding the Slam is that he does not know how many losers East may have in diamonds. The contract of five appears safe, but East is in the best position to decide as to the Slam.
6—East, with strong support for clubs and a solid trump suit, in view of West's valiant bids, feels that the chance of a Slam is better than even.

If North and South had bid six spades, their loss would not have been greater than they suffered through permitting the making of a Slam. Their losing tricks would have been one spade, two hearts, two clubs and one diamond, a penalty of 5 tricks, which doubled would have been 1000 points, but each had a faint hope that the Slam might be defeated.

In the play South opened his highest diamond. North won, but this was their only trick. East trumped two spades in the Dummy and discarded the remaining one on the established club suit.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: How are honor-tricks counted in the Responding Hand?

Answer: The same values are used as in the honor-trick table, excepting in the trump suit. In the trump suit, Ace=1; King=1; Queen=½. If necessary to complete the count for a Raise, the Queen may be counted as 1.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EAT SOME BREAKFAST.

Just why the idea ever got abroad, that doing without breakfast was a good way to start the day is hard to understand. Not that the majority of people who work indoors need a large breakfast, because, as a matter of fact a light breakfast taken regularly is really good sense.

The point to be remembered is that the average individual unless he takes a meal before going to bed, eats his last meal of the day between 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. If, then, he gets his breakfast at the usual hour of 6:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., it is 12 hours at least between the evening meal and breakfast. During that 12 to 14 hours the stomach has been completely emptied of food, and usually the small intestine also, so that there is nothing but the waste of previous meals lying in the waste reservoir, that is the large intestine.

As the stomach has had this long rest and is completely empty it is in good condition to take care of any food that is eaten. This is the reason that light, but nourishing food should be taken, although you may not feel very hungry in the morning.

There is another important point to be remembered, and that is that when food enters the stomach it first seems to remain or collect in the upper part, which soon begins to contract or squeeze the food down into middle part of stomach. This squeezing movement continues and sends the food down against the small intestine; the small intestine then begins to contract and these contracting or squeezing impulses continue down the small intestine, down its entire 20 feet of length, until it reaches the large intestine.

What happens then?

The large intestine carrying or holding the wastes of previous meals is then stimulated to contract, and this contracting or squeezing sends wastes farther down and thus out of the body.

Thus one of the mistakes sufferers with constipation make is to try and eat very small meals so that there will not be much more waste to go down and remain in the large intestine. If they would eat meals of the regular amounts, particularly bulky foods like fruits and vegetables, the rough wastes from these foods would irritate or stimulate the large intestine to contract, and prevent constipation.

So don't try to do without breakfast. The system is ready for food, and food stimulates activity all down the intestinal canal.

SPRING STYLES IN MEAT DISHES

Delicious Dishes Which Appeal to Jaded Appetites.

SAVE HOT COOKING

By EDITH M. BARBER

What are the spring styles in meat dishes this year? What are well-dressed meats wearing this season? The housekeeper is usually interested in this question when the warm days arrive. While we are far away from the days when meat in warm weather was considered "heating," appetites are still inclined to be slightly jaded in the springtime.

Housekeeprs are also weary of ordering and preparing every day the usual roast, so that they are looking for suggestions which will make one day's choice do as well for another day's main dish. The first warm days make long cooking a task and the kitchen seems hotter when the oven goes for long hours than when we have settled down to acceptance of a higher temperature for the summer months.

It is a good plan, for this season, to buy extra large roasts, and to serve them hot one day, cold another day and to make the remainder up into one of the well-seasoned dishes which will be acceptable for dinner. Meat pies, creamed and scalloped dishes, croquettes and salads, all have their place in the warm weather dinner menu.

A baked ham, for instance, can be used in a dozen different interesting ways after its first appearance at the table with its crust of brown sugar and its sauce, seasoned with mustard, cloves and vinegar, or with one of the port wine flavorings. Large or small slices can be cut and "frizzled" in a tiny bit of butter. And then can be poured on a glass of grapes or any tart jelly to melt and heat. The slices may be spread with a paste of bread crumbs well seasoned with mustard and Worcestershire sauce, and moistened with vinegar. The slice should then be put into the broiler to brown. A mushroom sauce may be served with this. For lunch the small pieces may be frizzled to furnish the foundation for poached eggs, which when covered with Hollandaise sauce are known as Eggs Benedict. Rounds of toast or of toasted English muffins are served under the ham.

Sliced roast lamb can be cooked in butter a few moments and served with a mint jelly sauce. The sliced lamb may also be heated in a curry sauce and served with a rice border. Cold lamb or veal are delicious with a sauce of whipped sour cream and horseradish. The dressing is also delicious with a jellied veal or lamb salad. When whipped cream of mayonnaise is beaten into a jellied salad we have a mousse, which is a popular dish for supper or lunch on warm days.

Veal, lamb or pork with a cream sauce flavored with pimentos, green peppers and mushrooms make a dish which we designate as "a la king."

The last bit of meat around the bone from any roast may be minced and used to flavor a cream sauce to serve around an omelet. A few peas or minced carrots or both, or a little pimento or green peppers, all add flavor and color and we can then give our omelet the name "a la reine."

KNOX MOTHERS GUESTS OF GIRLS AT BIG BANQUET

Annual Mother and Daughter Banquet is Held Under Auspices of C.G.I.T.

LENGTHY PROGRAM.

"A mother is a wonderful thing —God's rarest gift to the world. There are many people who may love you, but only a mother understands. She loves you. She works for you. She always forgives you. And the only bad thing she ever does to you is to go away and leave you."

The president of the C.G.I.T. of Knox United Church, Miss Verna Huffman, quoted the above sentences as part of her toast to "Our Mothers," proposed last night at the Mother and Daughter banquet held under auspices of Knox Church Canadian Girls in Training group, in the lecture hall, with upwards of a hundred guests present.

It was a bright and friendly gathering—this annual event when the girls entertain their mothers, who seem to take fully as much interest in the proceedings as the girls themselves. It was impregnated with the spirit of affection, that kindly and intimate feeling which springs from one of the loveliest bonds on earth, the union of mothers and their daughters. Under direction of the chairlady, Miss Peggy Donaldson, leader of Knox C.G.I.T., everything passed off in the most efficient style, with a very entertaining program of incidental music furnished by C.G.I.T. members and an appropriate toast list.

In the big lecture hall, the tables were laid, the head table branching out in three long parallel forks that were arranged with potted plants, daffodils in vases, and were crossed by blue streamers. The soft blue and white of the C.G.I.T. colors appeared also in the dainty place cards, the tall candles in silver holders and the interesting programs of blue, with white silhouettes as decorations for the covers. A pleasant candle-lighting ceremony opened the proceedings, each place having a miniature candle which burned down to its candy holder. A very appetizing repast was served by girls of the Volunteer Bible Class, assisted by two young men as volunteer helpers, Joe Daynes and Don Charlton.

After Grace had been pronounced by Mrs. R. Laing and the toast to The King honored, community singing was led by Miss Kathleen Benson in characteristically efficient and jolly fashion, with W. R. Petter, the accompanist of the evening, at the piano.

Romance in Relation

The chairlady, Miss Donaldson, spoke briefly, referring to the romantic relation which usually exists between mother and son "But the daughters represent the dear, everyday things, where the element of friendship creeps in, and where as the daughter grows older, the mother comes to be a contemporary, a sister and a comrade."

The toast to "The Church" was proposed by Miss Eloise Darling, who mentioned the fact that the church is always spoken of as "she", emphasizing the patience of a mother in dealing with her children.

The Rev. W. McDonald, replying to the toast, amplified the idea and spoke of the manner in which the Roman Catholic community refers to the church as the "mother of the faithful".

"The church is our mother" he said. "We use that term in different ways, not only for the head and heart of the home but also for the head of a movement, as Florence Nightingale is referred to as the mother of a movement which helped people the world over."

The reverend speaker alluded to the assistance given the work of the church by its feminine members and to the manner in which C.G.I.T. groups and their leaders helped. He went on to speak of the change in church work during the past quarter of a century. Twenty-five years ago, the two big social events of the year were the Sunday School picnic and the Christmas entertainment. There was no attempt made to organize classes and such things as C.G.I.T. groups, summer camps and vacation camps, were unheard of.

"But in later years, we have so many organizations designed to broaden the program for our young people and we thank God for this equipment and leadership. God bless you in your endeavors. Go on and prosper and may your leavening influence be felt in your homes and your families."

The toast to "Our Mothers" referred to above, was proposed in beautiful fashion by Miss Verna Huffman, who referred to confidence as the "one absolute essential" in the relationship between mother and daughter.

Her mother, Mrs. E. Huffman, in her response, made a plea for a more sympathetic appreciation of the daughter's viewpoint, on the part of the mother, who should remember to be unselfish with her child and keep an open mind always.

The toast to "Our Daughters" was voiced by Mrs. J. Allen, who alluded to them odern eddudcation of theg irl in meeting every situation that might arise in her life.

The response was made by her daughter, Miss Ruth Allen, in a very finely-worded little speech that ended with her request to the members present to rise and repeat with her the four-fold pledge of the C.G.I.T.: To cherish health, seek the truth, know God and serve others.

Serve Others

The fourth item in this pledge was emphasized in the speech of the guest of the evening, Mrs. W. H. Morton, who based most of her eloquently-worded talk on the endeavors of the Women's Missionary Society and the manner in which C.G.I.T. girls might link themselves up with its efforts.

Since December 20th, 1915, when five people in a Toronto grill-room organized an Advisory Committee for co-operation in Girls' Work, the movement for Canadian Girls in Training has increased, until now there are 3100 organized clubs in over 900 communities.

Their pledge is based, said Mrs. Morton, on the Scriptural passage which says that Jesus grew in favor and stature with God and man, and they strive to realize this ideal in their lives, in a four-fold way.

"The tragedy of young life is its ignorance as to what really constitutes an attractive personality; that character which expresses in every thought and word and mind of Jesus."

Mrs. Morton then went on to outline the work carried on by the Women's Missionary Society, both at home and abroad. She referred to the manner in which it has assisted the outcast girls of various foreign lands; the girls of India and China and Africa, until now they stand with their school careers behind them, degrees in their hands, ready to carry on the work of Christ in the saving of souls.

"Shall we forget the cruel practices of the witch doctors of Africa, the child marriages of India, the foot-binding of China and the degrading social customs of Japan?"

Work of W.M.S.

"The W.M.S. has been instrumental in having the Bible translated into almost seven hundred lanugages; in educating these plastic minds that were hitherto blinded by false teachings and in taking, through the healing powers of our physicians and nurses, the the doctrine of salvation to many a darkened soul."

Mrs. Morton also spoke of the work carried on in Canada, and urged the young girls to help in any one of three ways: By studying the work of the church at home and abroad; by contributing to the work of the missions; by going to foreign lands or helping as missionaries in our own Dominion. She concluded by quoting:

"Christ has no hands but our hands to do His work to-day; He has no feet but our feet to help them on His Way; He has no tongue but our tongue to tell them He died; He has no help but our help to bring them to His side."

The program which proved to be an interesting adjunct to the entertainment of the evening included a vocal duett by Miss Agnes McCracken and Miss Alice Davis; an instrumental duett by Miss Annabelle Herd, playing the violin, and Miss Marguerite Wood, playing the Hawaiian guitar; and a vocal solo by Miss Helen Hetherington. Each number was encored.

Miss Vera Squires, one of the guests of the evening, spoke briefly, drawing the attention of the girls to the second camp which is being sponsored this year by the Peterborough Girls' Work Board, to be held from July 4th to 11th, with a camp mother and three leaders in charge and asking those desirous of attending to get in touch before June 4th, with Miss Preston, Frederick avenue.

The vote of thanks to the speakers, the assistants and the musicians of the evening, was voiced by Miss Eunice Thexton, secretary of Knox Church C.G.I.T., and was seconded by Miss Donaldson. The Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. McDonald.

TORONTO HURLER HOLDS FLOCK TO 6 SINGLES IN SERIES OPENER

Fritz's Stops on Arlett and McGowan Saves Leafs in Ninth.

Errors Account For Runs.

TORONTO, May 17.—The Orioles may be fence-busters in Baltimore, but they accomplished no fence-busting down at Maple Leaf Stadium yesterday as Art Smith, the Leafs' curve-ball specialist held Fritz Maisel's hired help to six hits and won the first game of the series 2-1.

Buzz Arlett, who leads the International in home runs, with 12, and who went into the game boasting a batting average of .402, was blanked by Smith, though he all but broke up the game in the ninth when with runners on first and second he forced Ray Fritz to make a marvelous stop back of first base and deprive him of a hit.

Buck Jordan gathered three of the Flocks' six hits, two of them scratchy, while Frank Packard, another home run slugger in the Oriole line-up, couldn't do a thing with Artie until the eighth, which heat he opened with a single through short and then became one of the victims in a double play. McGowan and Regan made the other Baltimore hits.

In Trouble in Ninth

Smith wasn't in any trouble until the ninth when he gave his only pass of the game to Heffner and Regan shoved a single into centre. Jordan cracked to Fritz, who tried to get Regan at second and made a throw that Owen could not get and Heffner rounded third and continued on to the plate with the Orioles' orphan run.

As Fritz made his great play on Arlett the runners moved to second and third and there they were left when McGowan gave Fritz a chance to make another fine stop on a slash down the first base line and end the game. Smith pitched cleverly and his mates backed him up in fine style, Fritz's poor toss in the ninth being the only flaw in their work afield.

Oriole Errors Costly

The Orioles not only failed to give an impressive display of their acknowledged hitting power, but they also fell down in a defensive way, two of their three bobbles making possible the Leafs' two runs, the Leafs being quick to take advantage to the opportunity to cash in on them.

Jim Chaplin, former Giant, gave up seven hits with Tammy Hughes and Fritz getting two each, but he had trouble on Fritz's hard rap to the box with two out in the sixth. Fritz reached first handily enough and Hughes fired a triple, getting a hit of that size when McGowan, running well into left field, dropped the ball after getting his hands on it.

That accounted for the Leafs' first run and they ran down their second and last in the eighth with one out on Jim Stroner's wild throw on Owen's rap to third, successive singles by Fritz and Hughes which filled the bases and a lift to right by Ralph Michaels.

Frank Packard made the other Baltimore error. He dropped a fly ball hit by Pete Stack in the seventh with two out and Smith made the third out when he grounded to second.

Both pitchers displayed excellent control with Smith doling out the lone walk of the contest. He struck out three and Chaplin two. It was an interesting game and the attendance, about 1,000, included many women fans. It was their day for a dime.

RALLY IN FIFTH WINS FOR TIGERS

Former Leaf Players Star in Detroit Victory Over Athletics.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—The Detroit Tigers staged a five-run rally in the fourth inning yesterday to take the opener of the series with the Athletics, 6 to 4. Rogell's home run off Walberg in the seventh provided the extra counter.

Vic Sorrel, after being walloped for seven hits and four runs in the first three innings, whitewashed the Mackmen the rest of the distance. He allowed only one hit, a single, in the last six innings.

Sugar Cain, rookie right-hander, was driven out of the box during the Tigers' uprising in the fourth inning.

Scots for Manchester

Manchester United, continuing their policy of building up their team for next seasono, have signed Arthur Richard Black, the Morton centre forward. Black, who has been a prolific scorer for the Scottish League club, is 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 12 stone.

Manchester United have also signed W. McDonald, the Aldrieonian inside left. McDonald is a regular goal-scorer besides being a player of high constructive ability.

Jack Roscamp, Blackburn Rovers' famous utility player, was yesterday transferred to Bradford City. Roscamp joined the Rovers in 1922. His most successful season was in 1927-28—Blackburn's cup-winning year—when he scored the goal which gave his side victory over Arsenal in the semi-finals, and obtained two goals in the final against Huddersfield Town at Wembley.

STRIBLING WINS IN NINTH ROUND

Joe Doctor of Buffalo Disqualified for Stalling by Referee Marsh.

BELANGER IS VICTOR.

TORONTO, May 17. — (By the Canadian Press.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia heavy, was awarded the decision in a 10-round bout here with Joe Doctor of Buffalo last night when Referee Lou Marsh stopped the fight in the ninth round, disqualifying Doctor for stalling.

Stribling, trying hard to please the 3,000 odd fans who witnessed the bout, was unable to make great headway in getting to Doctor's awkward defensive tactics. When Referee Marsh halted the bout the Georgian was far ahead in points.

A former world's flyweight champion, Albert (Frenchy) Belanger, started his come-back trek in a six-round preliminary when he was extended to beat Pancho Linda, a Phillipino. Belanger, now a full-fledged bantam was making his first appearance in the ring in more than a year.

His added weight appeared to slow him up considerably and his dynamite punches, which helped him climb to the top of the fly-weight ranks were lacking. Belanger scaled 121¼ while Linda weighed 119¾.

Browns Again Hand Senators a Shutout

WASHINGTON, May 17. — Sad Sam Gray held the league leading Washington Senators to three hits yesterday in turning in a 2 to 0 shutout victory for the St. Louis Browns.

It was the second straight shutout registered against the Senators by the Browns in the current series. Yesterday Stewart blanked the Senators 1 to 0.

The defeat placed the Senators but a half game ahead of the New York Yankees, who are in second place.

The Browns scored a run in the second when Ferrell walked and came home on a double by Melillo. Levey's double in the fifth and a single by Gray gave the Browns their second tally.

Boston Sox Drops 5th Straight Game

BOSTON, May 17. — Although Smead Jolley hit two home runs, the Boston Red Sox dropped their fifth consecutive game yesterday, and their second straight to the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 3, in ten innings.

Successive doubles by Luke Appling and Charles Berry gave the White Sox victory.

The Red Sox left fielder homered in the fourth inning and again in the ninth inning with a man on base to tie the count. Four errors by the Red Sox were instrumental in giving the White Sox the game.

It was the 21st defeat in 25 starts this season for the Red Sox, who occupy the cellar.

Cricket Genius Touring With Aussies

June, July and August will be red letter months for Canadian cricket followers for the Australians will be in our midst, playing test matches in Vancouver, Winnipeg and Montreal, with an itinerary blanketing the Dominion from Victoria to Montreal. Not since 1913 have the Aussies been here. Chief interest centres in Don Bradman, who is to cricket what Babe Ruth is to baseball. This 24 year old super batsman with several world's records to his credit and world's records in cricket are much more international affairs than they are in baseball. He was the first Australian to make 1,000 runs in test matches and consistently, one might suppose, his season averages have been what a batting average of .500 is in baseball. Bradman, born in the village of Bowrai, near Sydney, was the son of a poor carpenter who could not aford to buy him even a cricket ball and bat but somehow the lad managed to acquire discarded equipment and, using the stump of a eucalyptus tree for a stump, practised night after night. In four years, at 16, he was making local cricket history. From then on it was just one thing after another for the Antipodean and in the 1930 test matches in England he roused the sporting world to a remarkable pitch of enthusiasm by his exploits. Canadians will see in Bradman a young man of modest mien and boyish grin, quite unaffected by the adulation that has come his way. And on the playing fields they will see a veritable cricket genius in action, who to this era is perhaps even more than the late W. G. Grace was to the last.

YANKS CROWD SHUTOUT MARK

Comez Hurls New Yorkers to Fourth Straight Whitewash Win.

1ST TIME IN 26 YEARS.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The Yankees continued to get sensational pitching yesterday. Lefty Gomez setting the Cleveland Indians down 8 to 0 for the team's fourth consecutive shutout victory.

The feat of the Yankee mound staff in holding the opposition runless in four straight contests ties an American League record that has existed for 26 years. The Boston Red Sox last turned the trick in 1906, while Cleveland had performed the feat in 1903.

With 40 scoreless innings behind them, the Yankee curvers need only one more to tie Cleveland's mark of 41. The National League's record for consecutive shutouts is six.

As a result of yesterday's triumph, their seventh in a row, the Yankees took over first place in the American League, displacing by a few percentage points the Washington Senators, who lost to St. Louis.

Gomez granted only five hits and received inspired support in the few instances the Indians threatened to score. Earl Combs made several great catches in the outfield to cut off scoring chances and drove in four Yankee runs with a single and a triple. Gomez himself drove in two runs with a double.

SIXTH TRIUMPH FOR RED LUCAS

Howley's Star Pitcher Helped By Six-run Rally Against Giants.

FINAL COUNT 6 TO 2.

CINCINNATI, May 17.—Charles (Red) Lucas, mainstay of the Reds' pitching staff, hurled masterful ball yesterday and his mates rallied to score six runs in a hectic sixth inning to defeat the Giants 6 to 2.

Lucas, scoring his sixth victory against one defeat, limited the Giants to three hits, one of which was a home run by Koenecke in the third inning. From that point on he was invincible, not a Giant reaching first base the last six innings.

There was excitement aplenty in the Reds' big sixth inning when they bunched five hits with two passes off Freddie Fitzsimmons. The rally took place in a heavy shower and play twice was interrupted before the inning was over.

The bases were filled and one out when the time first was called by Umpire Bill Klem, and the arbiter had to pull his watch on the Giants to make them take their field again.

Chick Hafey then came up and doubled against the wall tying the score. A pass to Lombardi and Heath's single scored two more before Bain again forced an interruption.

When they again took the field Lucas came through with a single that scored two more and put the game on ice.

PORT HOPE PLAYERS ARE REGISTERED

Registration by Teams Slow —Games Scheduled for Next Week.

The lack of one team not having their official forms with the registration of players in the hands of the local secretary seven days before the Cup-tie competitions prevented the P. & D.F.A. from accepting the schedule as submitted by the committee appointed at a meeting last night.

When the draw for the Holloway Injured Players' Cup took place, it threw three teams into a bye — Packers, Deloro and C.G.E., and the first round resulted in Caledonians playing Port Hope here on Saturday, with Jack Clark as referee pro tem. The Canadian General go to Deloro in search of League points with Alex. McKinley handling the whistle. The local team is responsible for his transportation.

On 24th May.

On the holiday, Deloro travels to Port Hope in a League encounter, which has been arranged to comply with the lakeshore management's request. In the city, Canadian General meet the Packers in a League match. Kick off at 3. Referee, Alex. McKinley.

HERD OVERCOMES SKEETER'S LEAD

Joe Bloomer's Relief Pitching Features Buffalo's 9-4 Victory.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 17.—After spotting the Jersey Skeeters four runs in the first inning, the Bisons came back vigorously to give the invaders another sound shellacking here yesterday afternoon. The score was 9 to 5, and the victory made it three straight for the Schalk crowd.

The marvellous relief twirling of Joe Bloomer featured the victory. After taking the mound for the Bisons with two on, no one out and the Jerseys leading by one run in the third, he faced but 20 men in seven innings and allowed just one lonely single in the ninth inning, no other runner reaching first against him.

Detore, Mueller and Werber hit long homers for the Bisons.

Cubs Score 11-10 Win Over Phillies

CHICAGO, May 17 — After the Philadelphia Phillies had scored three runs in the ninth inning yesterday, the league-leading Chicago Cubs came to bat in their half of the inning, scored two runs and captured the slugfest contest, 11 to 10.

A total of 31 hits were scored, including home runs by Hal Lee, who hit two of them and Chuck Klein for the Phillies, and Johnny Moore for the Cubs.

Both teams used four pitchers.

Normal Boy Beat Millbrook Team

MILLBROOK, May 17— Examiner Correspondence.—A ball team from the Normal School, Peterborough, journeyed to the village on Thursday and enjoyed a friendly game with the boys from the Continuation School, the visitors winning out by a score of 11-10. On Saturday afternoon two teams from the Omemee High School also motored here and played off with the girls' team, and the boys of the M.C.S., the former being victors by the close margin of 13-12, while the latter lost by three runs, the score tallying 11-8.

The Omemee players, and a host of their friends, were entertained for tea in the Assembly Hall of the school at the close of the afternoon's play, the local staff and scholars acting as hosts for the occasion, and a very pleasant social time being enjoyed together. Return games will be arranged for in the near future.

Lands Fine Trout.

Constable J. Deyell enjoyed a rare streak of 'fisherman's luck' on Friday when he landed a trout from the King street creek in the immediate vicinity of the Millbrook garage, the speckled beauty weighing two pounds one ounce, and measuring a trifle over sixteen inches. By a small margin this outclasses the member of the finny tribe caught at Campbellford on May 12 by Carl Johnson, the trout in that instance tipping the scales at two pounds and measuring an exact foot with four inches to the good besides.

Constable Deyell left the measuring and weighing to G. W. Sayles who carried it to his confectionery store, where the tabulating was done in the presence of several witnesses. It was the largest specimen caught this season in local waters, though some other fine members of the speckled tribe have been secured in this vicinity by 'home grown' fishermen since the opening of the trout season on May first.

HASTINGS CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Team is Grouped With Deloro, Madoc and Havelock in Intermediate Series.

HAD SUCCESS LAST YEAR.

HASTINGS, May 16 Examiner Correspondence.) — The Hastings Baseball Club held a meeting in the Star office on Friday evening when the finances of the club were discussed, and it was pointed out that although the club is about twenty-eight dollars in debt, last season was started with a deficit of fifty dollars.

Immediate steps are being taken to clear off this debt before the season opens.

The team that made such a good showing in both O.B.A.A. and Northumberland County Leagues last year bolstered by one or two players, will carry on, likely under the management of the Rev. Father Kelly. Hastings is grouped with Deloro, Madoc and Havelock in the intermediate series, and is not going to enter the Northumberland County League.

Heavy Hitting Helps In Robins' 11-1 Win

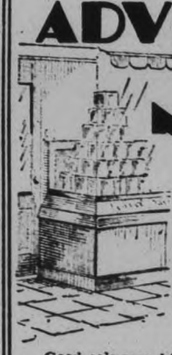
PITTSBURG, May 17. — The Brooklyn Dodgers staged a strong batting attack in defeating the Pittsburg Pirates 11 to 1 yesterday.

They pounded four Pirate pitchers for a total of 16 hits, eight of them coming in the final inning to score eight runs.

The Dodgers batted around in that frame with Van Mungo striking out twice, and Johnny Frederick hitting a home run.

Both Paul Waner and Grace obtained two hits each—the only hits off Mungo.

ADVERTISING for the MERCHANT of TO-DAY



Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Peterborough district with the co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner.

Good salesmanship is part knowledge of your goods and part knowledge of your customer. Size up your customer—some may require a lot of talk, but nine times out of ten the best salesman is conservative; not bubbling over with enthusiasm, but reserved in language, giving the customer a chance to talk—to ask questions. Sales are lost by over-selling as well as under-selling.

A few days ago I started to look for a washing machine and an electric ironer. The combined price for these two items would be around $300.00. My interest in merchandising prompted me to note the attention paid by the salesmen in the various outlets.

First call—power corporation retail show-room. I was interested in one particular model of a widely advertised machine. The regular saleslady for this department was busy, so another saleslady did her best to answer our questions. This was difficult, because she was not familiar with the machine.

This brings up the necessity of having every member of your staff study the products sold and know how to demonstrate them. There may come certain times when the regular demonstrators are rushed, and it will be necessary to transfer salesmen from another department. They should know how to step into the breach.

Before leaving the store I asked for some literature describing the two machines. After several minutes of searching, the only folder they could find was one in French, and even that was the last one.

Make sure that you always have a sufficient quantity of manufacturer's sales literature on hand. Keep them where you can get them easily. A display rack makes a convenient way of keeping them.

The next call was at the branch office of another well-known line. The feeble attempt of the salesman was his reading the wording of a display card tell the features of this machine. He did not know anything at all about the machine, and on asking if a certain item was included, he had to call up the factory to find out. Here again I was unable to get any literature or pictures showing the machines.

No salesman should be allowed on the floor that is not able to give the details of the product without reading the description card.

The third store was the branch office of another well-advertised line. Here the salesman was of the "know-it-all" type who insisted on telling his memorized sales story, without giving an opportunity for us to ask any questions. He quoted facts, that had absolutely no bearing on my interest in the machine in a tone that could be heard across the street. Such things as he had to sell so many more machines in the next few days to get the company's bonus for being the "crack salesman." He seemed to think that I would be interested in the machine because his company had spent so many hundred thousand dollars in building a factory in my city. Why should I be interested in what the first floor of the factory was used for—or the second—or the third—or the fourth?

He claimed certain exclusive features, which he said were on no other machine on the market, but which I had just seen on the other makes I had just looked over. The "Smart-Aleck" salesman never inspires confidence.

At the fourth store the salesman quietly told his story and was able to fully answer quickly and satisfactorily, the questions put to him. My interest now centred around this fourth machine, not so much from the machine itself, but from the confidence built up through the approach of the salesman.

As pointed out above, an important part in selling to-day is a complete knowledge of the products you are selling—a fuller use of the advertising and descriptive material available to you—and above all, a study of the customers you are trying to interest.

Mr. Edgar will be glad to answer questions in this column, if readers will address their communications in care of this paper. Confidential replies can be arranged through the editor.—(Copyright).

KNOTTY LEE PLANS TOURING ONTARIO WITH PRO OUTFIT

Red Wings, Babe Dye and Other Stars Will Travel With Independent Club.

JAP TEAM COMING.

TORONTO, May 16.—Knotty Lee will introduce a new class of semi-professional baseball, entirely different from the "old style" of semi-pro ball, to the Toronto fans game throughout Ontario and the north country. Lee has been quietly developing his plans during the past winter for this new venture of which he is certain will go over big with all Ontario's baseball followers. Knotty's plans does not call for a league of semi-pro teams. One superior team will not be merely a squad of the "old type" semi-pro players but will be a fast aggressive team of players who had professional experience. This squad will be equal if not better than any class "B" team in organized professional baseball. In other words it will be a semi-pro team in name only. Another major feature is that it is intent for all players to be Canadians.

Home Bred

Knotty Lee has always been strong for Canadians and he has done more to advance Canadian boys in professional baseball than any other person in the country. Arrangements are being made to bring in the major semi-pro teams from the States to play games both in Toronto and other Ontario cities and towns. A series of games will also be played in Northern Ontario. The list of these major semi-pro teams of which only a very few have even visited Toronto as yet, includes: The Tool Shop Club of Detroit, who has won the A.A.A. semi-pro championship for the last two years. This team is managed by Oscar Stanage, the old Detroit Tigers' catcher, who played for the Toronto Club under Dan Howley.

Another Michigan team will feature Bob Veach an ex-Deroit Tigers outfielder. A team from Waughamton, Ill., with ten brothers on its line-up may also put in appearance here. Another old-timer who may visit here, Red McKee, manages the Buick-Nationals of Flint, Mich. The list of visitors will include several of the superior colored teams from across the line.

Jap Team Coming

Efforts are being made to have the team from Japan, who is touring the States this summer, to come here to play several games. The famous House of David team have been already booked for twenty-five games here and other Ontario centres. Eight of these games will be played in Northern Ontario.

Another outstanding feature will be games to be played with two 'ladies' teams. These teams play baseball not softball, and they have been playing against the best of semi-pro men's teams in the States. The teams are the Philadelphia Ladies and the Chicago Bloomer Girls.

Red Wings and Babe Dye

A partial list of players who are available for Knotty Lee's new team includes: Red Wingo, Babe Dye, Joe Miller, Catcher Rice, who has played in the Mid-Atlantic league; Pitcher Steamer Lucas, Johnny Noble, who with Baltimore, Alf Noble, who was with Buffalo; Pitcher Whitehouse who has played in the Central League for the past three years; Dan O'Connor of Guelph, who went south with Buffalo, Yank Boyle, Rolly Connacher and Alex Levinsky. Lee claims that there are at least four parks in Toronto which are suitable for baseball and all four are available. The park or parks where Knotty's new team will play has yet to be chosen, but this point will be cleared up next week.

WOOLER BLANKS AIRMEN 13 TO 0

Result Leaves Three Teams in Tie for Lead of Trenton Softball Loop.

HEAVY SLUGGING.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WOOLER, May 17. — The first game which the Wooler Leafs have played in the Trenton Softball loop was won by the Wooler Leafs on Friday evening from the boys of the Air Force Station at Trenton.

The Wooler boys were in excellent playing condition and overwhelmed the Airmen by a 13-0 shutout. This game leaves three teams tied for first place, namely, Wooler Leafs, Shamrocks A. C. and the Continental Life Team.

As it was the Leafs' home game, the visitors went to bat first and went down in order. When the Leafs came up they showed their teeth by scoring two runs. In the next frame the Leafs scored seven runs and fanned the three Airmen who walked to the plate. The homesters did some heavy hitting in this inning, Stacey making a circuit clout and G. Rutton a three-bagger. Throughout the rest of the game the boys from the Airport held the Leafs to one or two runs for each inning, but failed to score themselves. Only once did they show any real attempt to score. This came in the seventh chukker when with Gobiel on third and one out, Wassiah hit a single. He chose the wrong direction and hit it to the third sacker who promptly sent it home and saved the run.

The Leafs battery for the first four innings consisted of Luther 'Soup' Free and Doug. Fox. After the fourth frame they replaced Free by Stacey who carried on the work of his predecessor and completely blanked the opposition.

The Leafs played airtight ball and any hit by the Airmen was quite certain to result in a put-out. The opposing hurler was Wray with Reeves receiving, but the Leafs murdered his offerings and Wray was replaced by Wirder who held the Leafs to fewer hits. The Airmen seemed particularly week in batting and only six of them scored safe hits as against the seven strike-outs.

The Leafs were hitting hard but many of their men were safe on errors. Canada's Airmen are good in the air but they seem to be out of their element on the ground. This is their second defeat and both defeats were by long scores.

A fairly large crowd attended this game and they were favored by the weather for the first time since the season opened. On previous occasions it has been rather cold and wet and in spite of the skill of the teams the games have not been as good as usual.

The diamond upon which these games are played is situated on the edge of the bay and it has been suggested that the outfielders be equipped with bathing suits as the balls often roll into the water. During the latter part of the game a boat was stationed out there but during the preliminary practice and the first few innings two balls were thoroughly drenched and it was necessary for some of the boys to form a screen while a player swam out to get it as no bathing suits were available.

Score by innings:

BOX LACROSSE TILT HERE ON THURSDAY

Colorful Orillia Aggregation Will be Petes' First Opponents in Exhibition Game.

Local lacrosse fans will receive their first taste of box lacrosse in an exhibition game at the Brock at 8.30 Thursday evening, with the Peterborough Intermediates playing Orillia. The latter outfit is a colorful aggregation, champions of the Tri-County League last year. The popularity of this game in the north country is shown by the 1900 paid admissions at a recent game in Orillia. The Petes worked out last night in preparation for this battle Thursday evening.

EXHIBITION GAME.

An exhibition softball game between the local Stars, of the Men's City League, and Bryson's, of Lindsay, will be played Friday evening at 6.15 at Central School grounds. It will be a return game, the Stars playing in Lindsay on Wednesday evening.

SOCCER RESULTS

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, May 17 (Canadian Press Cable).—In the semi-final round of the Irish Charity Soccer Cup competition, Linfield defeated Crusaders by two goals to one and Celtic beat Glentoran by five goals to one last Saturday.

76 Miles Per Hour On a Bicycle

"Torchy" Peden of Vancouver covered a measured mile on a bicycle on a United States highway at a speed of 76 miles per hour, riding behind an automobile driven by Bill Spencer, which carried a specially constructed wind screen. The reason why he could set such a record is that he is one of those fellows who comes along about once in every 20 years, a man who is powerful enough in the legs to ride a 96-gear bicycle unpaced. Other riders on the race tracks use 92-gear machines, which means that they cover 92 inches for every turn of the pedals. In his record mile, Torchy uses a 150-gear outfit, and that's where he has a big edge over anybody who thinks he would like to shoot at the mark. Anybody who goes in for raising it, including the present holder, will be a mighty poor risk for insurance companies. It took three trials to set the record. He started with a machine which was tuned up to the highest possible pitch, and after two runs, which did not break a mile a minute, tossed a worthless bicycle into the ditch. He made the third trial with two wheelfuls (spelling optional) of spokes that could be twisted about like picture wire. And he wants to try again. He guards against blowouts on these high speed tests by wrapping his tires completely with tape, and he says that you have to keep peddling full out, in spite of the car's suction, because the minute you try to coast you will go on without your bicycle, which might prove awkward and embarrassing indeed. Stopping is quite a trick too. To do this, the first thing he did was to turn out into the free air, where he got wind resistance. He also wore two pairs of leather gloves, so that he could brake his front wheel with his hands, but not for long at a time, because at that speed the friction would burn through the tires and cause a blowout in no time at all, and a blowout wouldn't be healthy.

CASUAL COMMENT

A full turnout is looked for at the East Peterborough Baseball League meeting at eight in Duffus' this evening. This league's business has been delayed in order that the senior team could be picked, and this has been about completed. C.G.E., Crescents and Cogs are expected entries in the E.P.L., and if a fourth team joined up, it wouldn't take long to get going.

Intermediate lacrossers will practice every night this week from seven to eight, except Friday, and all players are urged to attend each workout. The practices are being held now in the Brock which has a good earth floor and good lighting, as well as screens to protect fans from wild balls. Spectators are welcome any time.

Jerry Coughlin announces an amateur boxing show by the Pioneer Club at the Legion Hall this Friday. Four or five Toronto West End Club mittsers will be down to tangle with Toney Minicola, Fred DeCarlo, Jack Chamberlain and Harvey Smith. The other bouts will be all-local. Ned Minicola will not go on until the cut over his eye is healed.

There'll be softball at Central six nights a week starting next week when the Men's League gets under way. The executive decided last night to shorten the playing season a couple of weeks by playing Saturdays. The schedule, which was ready last night, will have to be revised to take care of this change.

Eight applications were received for the post of umpire-in-chief, several from experienced arbiters. It was a difficult matter to settle, but they finally agreed to give Bob Batley first chance for a week. He has had considerable experience in baseball and softball and is noted for his impartiality. He will appoint a base-umpire to assist him.

The opening game is between Red & White Stores, managed by Percy Harrison, and George Dormer's champion Sugar Bowl outfit on Monday evening. Appropriate ceremonies will mark the softballer's debut as usual, and there'll likely be a big crowd at Central to see them at it again.

A Lindsay softball team played an exhibition game in King Edward Park last night with C.N.R., and the visitors went home with the short end of a 12-4 count, the Railwaymen looking much better all around. The Delahaye brothers made a classy battery, Ab doing the flinging. A few rival City League managers were on hand to look over the more or less mysterious C.N. crew, but they didn't learn much, the outfit playing under wraps and keeping several of their newcomers off the line-up.

The Stribling-Doctor boxing bout in Toronto last night wasn't so hot, Willie the Clutch winning in the ninth when the Buffalo scrapper was disqualified for holding after a poor fight all through. In one of the prelims, Jack Dane, lightheavy, who has done most of his boxing in Peterborough, won on a three-round technical kayo over Art Wilson, Buffalo.

The City Baseball League meets again on Thursday night, and it is hoped by that time to have twelve teams in, four in each division. At present there are two juniors, two or three juveniles and three bantams. The Kiwanis, Rotary, and Kinsmen Clubs, and several individuals who have done much for young ball players in the past are being asked to enter one or more teams again. The expense is not heavy, and if desired, the league will appoint competent managers who will line up the teams and do all the work.

The fifth annual celebration of Canadian Sports Week runs from Saturday to the 28th. During that week, sporting organizations, athletic associations and clubs throughout the country are arranging special programs with a view to increasing membership and bringing sport activities more prominently to the notice of those who aren't ardent followers of athletic games of one kind or another. It should receive worthy notice also in Peterborough.

SATURDAY GAMES IN SOFTBALL LOOP

City League Teams to Play Six Nights of Week—First Week's Games.

Saturday night games will be played in the Men's Softball League this summer, making the schedule run six nights a week and being completed about the first of August. This was decided after considerable discussion at an executive league meeting in Duffus' last night at which all members were present. Various other details were settled also.

Following the reading of correspondence, it was announced definitely that the C.G.E. would enter, making it an eight-team loop. Then the matter of an umpire-in-chief came up. Eight applications were discussed, ending in a vote to appoint Bob Batley to this position for one week's trial, with him appointing the base umpire. It was announced that permission had been obtained for the league to use Central School Grounds for games, paying for any damage done. The question of removal of a bench on the grounds will be taken up with the school and the Property Committee.

The application of a certain player for a certificate was left in the hands of the secretary who will write to the O.A.S.A. about it. Opening day ceremonies were also left to the secretary with several prominent men named to take part. It was decided to shorten the playing season by having games on Saturdays as well as the first five days of the week, and the schedule which was submitted last night will be revised accordingly. Following is the first week's games:

May 23—Red & White Stores vs Sugar Bowl.

May 25—All Saints vs. The Examiner.

May 26—C.N.R. vs. Canadian General Electric.

May 27—Decks' vs. The Stars.

May 28—The Examiner vs. Red & White Stores.

A few other matters of minor importance were discussed and the meeting adjourned.

WILL NAME CREWS FOR LOS ANGELES

Oarsmen Selected May Have to Defray Portion of Their Expenses.

TORONTO, May 17.—(Special to The Examiner).— The Canadian Olympic committee on rowing will decide who it to represent The Land of the Maple at Long Beach, California, next August 9-13. The committee furthermore does not have to select representatives from each class of oarsmen or sculler. They could, for instance, name a senior four for the honor instead of a senior eight if they considered that four superior to the eight and more likely to score a win. In 1928 they picked the Argonaut senior eight and refused to send a four from the same club because of the fact that the smaller boat, although winners of their particular class at the trials, was not considered fast enough.

The committee also announced that contestants in the Olympic trials must be prepared to bear the greater part of their expenses should they be selected to go to California. They do not say, however, that the crew will be called upon to defray part of the expenses, but hint that it may be necessary in case the Olympic committee does not reach its financial objective.

The winning crew is going to have two weeks to reach Los Angeles after the trials at St. Catharines. This will be sufficient time in which to make final arrangements and depart for the scene of battle. Trouble will arise, however, if one of the Western crew come home ahead of their fellow-oarsmen from the east. The train fair, for an eight from say Winnipeg or Vancouver to St. Catharines and back home again before leaving for the Pacific Coast is going to run into a few hundred dollars. There is not much fear in the east, however, that the senior eight title will leave these parts.

U.S. Trials in July

The American Olympic trials for everything except the senior eight will take place in Philadelphia on July the first and second. The fours, doubles and singles will be represented on this occasion. The senior eight competition is to be held at Lake Quinsitamindu, at Worcester, Mass., on July 7-8-9. The competition is sure to be keen here. There is much speculation at the present time as to whether another college will win the honor of representing the states in this class. Yale did it in '24. California did it in 28. California is again a strong contender. They have spent much time and money on this year's crew. The crew has responded by performing quite credibly to date. There is not much chance of the Naval Academy of Annapolis being a factor in this year's race. They have lost too many star men through graduation. The really big threat will be a non-collegiate senior eight from the Penn A.C., of Philadelphia. This crew has proved its worth long before this. They have won consistently in Europe and America. Boasting experience and exceptional ability they must be considered strictly in the running. The Penn crew is stroked by Chet. Turner, former Torontonian, who learned his rowing at the Argonaut Club in this city. Turner incidentally is the main cog in the machine of this crew from Philly.

NOT A PROTEST

Statements issued in the French press to the effect that the English Football Association had sent a letter of protest to the French Football Association, against the proposed engagement by a French team of the two Chelsea players, Gallacher and Law, were denied by Sir Frederick Wall, the secretary of the football association, in an exclusive interview with Reuter.

Sir Frederick stated that his letter was in no way a protest.

"I just wrote it to them" he said, "in a friendly way, thinking perhaps they were not fully appreciative of what the engagement of Gallacher and Law by a French team would mean.

"I wished amicably to point out that these two men were bound to their clubs till such a time as their agreements expired."

SOME GOLFER

Noel Layton of Walton Heath is a golfer whose nerves must be under splendid control. He had his golf umbrella turned inside out and wrecked, its shaft being broken, by a violent gale while he was playing the fourth hole at Prince's, Sandwich.

Yet he went on to complete a brilliant second round of 73, which added to his morning score of 78, gave him an aggregate of 81, and victory in the 36 holes open competition for the Prince of Wales' cup.

NEW SPORT EVENTS FOR CHOATE'S CLUB

Organization to Foster Softball, Swimming and Tennis in Summer Months.

Preparations are under way for the recently-formed Choate Athletic Club in East City, to take in several lines of sport for girls this summer. These will include softball, swimming and tennis. At present, more than two dozen members belong to this girls' club, the first of its kind in Ashburnham.

The officers are: Honorary President Dan McCabe; president, G. E. Choate; vice-president, John Sullivan; secretary-treasurer, Miss Agnes Dixon; executive committee, Mrs. A. Would, Miss M. Mortimer, Miss A. Dixon, Miss D. Merrett and Miss M. Blade. Jim Ellis is athletic director.

The Choate Athletic Club was organized a short time ago to give the girls in this part of the city properly coached competition, with social activities perhaps being taken up later. They have entered a team in the Girls' Softball League, and will also go in for swimming and tennis during the summer. A tennis court has been obtained by the club at Nicholls' Oval. In the winter, basketball, hockey, skiing and skating will be some of the activities entered by the girls of this club, which will likely be enlarged by that time.

DETROIT, May 17 (C.P.)—Ernie Arthur, Montreal, claimant to the Canadian middleweight wrestling championship, defeated Billy Thom, Indiana University wrestling coach, two falls to one in a one-hour finish match here last night. JERRY HAS A COOL RECEPTION

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

To some folks you can ne'er explain;
'Tis waste of time with naught to gain.

—Jerry Muskrat.

Jerry Muskrat was fairly bubbling over with joy. He was anxious to get home to the Smiling Pool and tell Mrs. Jerry the glad news that Peeper the Hyla had come out from his long winter sleep and begun to sing, a sure sign that Mistress Spring had arrived. So Jerry hurried on through the swamp and presently, right before him, was the Smiling Pool. It wasn't what you would call smiling yet, for the water was still almost to the top of the banks and the current was swift and the water was somewhat muddy. But Jerry knew that the flood was over and that the water would steadily go down and become clear. Then the Smiling Pool would smile whenever jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun shone.

Jerry first looked for his house in the Smiling Pool but there was no sign of it. It did not surprise him, for the water was still so deep that he hardly expected even the top of the roof to show. Then he looked over to the bank where his other house was and there he saw Mrs. Jerry sitting on the end of a log that had lodged there. He swam over at once.

"Here I am back again!" he cried joyously.

"It is time" replied Mrs. Jerry coldly.

"And I've brought great news. Peeper and Hyla is singing, and, you know, that means that Mistress Spring has arrived!" cried Jerry still joyously.

"That is no news," replied Mrs. Jerry. "I've known that for three days."

"Oh!" said Jerry, and the joyousness was gone from his voice.

He waited for Mrs. Jerry to say something, but she appeared to have nothing to say. At last he ventured to ask if she wasn't glad to see him back

"You should have come back with me," she retorted.

"No, my dear, you should have gone on with me" replied Jerry eagerly. "I found the pond of Paddy the Beaver and made friends with him and Mrs. Paddy."

"I'm not interested in Paddy the Beaver or in Mrs. Paddy either" retorted Mrs. Jerry crossly.

"They have the most wonderful house, built the way we build ours, only bigger and better" continued Jerry.

"I don't believe it is any better," sniffed Mrs. Jerry.

"And I learned how to build a dam!" cried Jerry.

"What good does you? We haveo

"And I saw Buster Bear" continued Jerry.

"What good does that do you? We have no use for dams, whatever they are" retorted Mrs. Jerry.

"And I met Honker the Goose and his flock and saved one of them from Yowler the Bobcat," Jerry went on in not quite such good spirits now.

"What did they do for you?" asked Mrs. Jerry.

"And I saw Buster Bear," continued Jerry.

"You are lucky that he didn't see you first," replied Mrs. Jerry.

"And—and—and I wish you had been with me" finished Jerry lamely.

"I'm thankful I wasn't" replied Mrs. Jerry. Then she added, "It is a wonder you didn't stay away until I could get the house all fixed up. I suppose you thought I would get that done while you were off visiting."

"No," said Jerry. "No, I didn't think anything of the kind. Of ccurse not. I started for home just as scon as I could after the water began to stop rising and I came just as fast as I cculd and"—

Mrs. Jerry plunged into the water, slapping it with her tail as she did so and without waiting to find out what the danger might be Jerry followed her. Hooty the Great Horned Owl swept over the log and snapped his bill in disappointment. He had two hungry babies to feed and had begun his hunting in the middle of the afternoon.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS."

If May 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11.15 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 4.20 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11.15 p.m. The danger periods are from 6.35 a.m. to 8 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 3.30 p.m.

The tempo of life's activities on May 17 will be decidedly large. Work will be done in a fumbling manner, social activities will lag, and there are few things for which it could be called an auspicious time from an astrological viewpoint. A poor time for dealing with important correspondence.

Children born on this May 17 will have warm, fervid natures. They will be full of self-esteem, and will face the world with an undying optimism. They will be both interested and interesting, and will become favorites both in the schoolroom and on the playground. They will make average students.

Born on May 17, you have nimble wits and undeniable charms. You are largely tolerant, not easily irritated, and resolutely keep your mouth from drooping at the corners. You are more active mentally than physically, and are better at thinking things out than doing them, personally. You are quicker with your tongue than on your feet. You are clear and emphatic as a leader or director, and exhibit more patience than most people of your temperament. You have a way of winning the loyalty and affection of your associates, and of making any one and everyone be of some service to you. Your selfishness is sweetened with affability and smiles, and your gratitude is effusive and genuine. It is true with you, as with others of your type, that not by giving out, but by receiving things you make people fond of you.

You are not fond of solitude, and are soon bored with your own company. You are constantly craving excitement, change, and some form of outside stimulation. You almost intemperately enjoy the social side of life, and more often—and many times gladly—let play interfere with work than duty with pleasure. Your egotism shows up in relation to anything which is yours, especially the human element, and you will not brook any criticism of your children, friends or family. If you can keep from falling into the taken-for-granted rut, you will retain your marriage happiness.

TOURIST TRADE BE MAINTAINED COMING SUMMER

Fred Roy Has Returned From Detroit Sportsmen's Show.

SHOW BIG SUCCESS.

"We are going to have a satisfactory volume of tourist traffic this summer. Notwithstanding the fact that people in the larger centres of the United States have felt the depression, there is a large percentage of them who intend to take their usual holidays anyway."

Such was one of the optimistic impressions gained by Fred L. Roy, who returned last evening from the Detroit Sportsmen's and Outdoor Exposition, which he attended as official representative of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, and Trent Waterway-Iroquois Trail Association.

Mr. Roy was enthusiastic over his recent trip and confident of the advantages which this district will reap during the coming summer through the advertising propaganda he was able to put over in co-operation with the exhibit of the Provincial Department of Highways.

Besides exhibiting the numerous reels of film of the Kawartha Lakes and Trent Waterway districts which included the Government film, "In the Wake of Champlain," Mr. Roy distributed hundreds of illustrated brochures describing the scenic beauties and healthful advantages of the district he represented.

Quebec Advertising.

He is absolutely sold on the necessity of this district continuing its publicity campaign with added vigor, and in stressing the need he mentioned the fact that upon emerging from the Detroit Tunnel at Windsor he was handed a large sheaf of attractive and well illustrated pamphlets advertising Quebec as a vacation centre.

"Quebec is making a bid for Ontario's tourists," he said, in making the definite recommendation that the Trent Waterway Association might well copy Quebec's methods and have a representative stationed at Windsor and Niagara—the two principal points of entry, to hand out literature advertising the advantages of the Trent and Kawartha Lakes districts.

The show itself, held from May 7 to 14 inclusive, was a decided success, Mr. Roy claims, and immense crowds packed the Convention Hall on Woodward Avenue, in which the show was held.

The Exposition differs from the National Motor Boat Show at New York and the annual show at Cleveland in so much as it covers the entire sphere of outdoor life. Not only motor boats, but all kinds of sporting goods were on disp'ay, including fishing tackle, camping equipment, and trailers, etc.

Casting Competition.

Great interest was taken by the crowds in the casting competitions that were conducted and competitors were present from all over the States. There was a large tank in the centre of the hall, also in which log rolling contests were held and some wonderful feats were performed by Michigan lumber jacks.

The State of Michigan sponsors the Exposition, which Mr. Roy describes as being most elaborate. The State's own display consisted of live specimens of the animal, bird and fish life.

To anyone who might question the advisability of the Chamber of Commerce having an exhibit at a show of that nature, said Mr. Roy, he would remind them that the people of Michigan generally speaking know their own State well, and are anxious to seek fresh vacation grounds.

At present the tendency is for the Detroit people to go up to the Soo and the Rainy River districts, unaware of the fact that the Trent Waterway District is in closer proximity and replete with excellent fishing facilities.

"Our object in going to the exposition," he stated, "is to give them the facts concerning this district and results are already beginning to exceed expectation."

As an example of what he meant Mr. Roy stated that among the numerous people who are already acquainted with this district and who came to see him at the show, were two men who had been recommended to spend a holiday here by Mr. Roy when he was attending the Cleveland Show last Spring.

The two men did come into the district last summer and had some excellent lunge fishing at Pigeon Creek. One day last summer they visited Mr. Roy's cottage at Chemong and asked where they might get some good black bass fishing.

"If you want to travel over one of the worst roads in the world" Mr. Roy had told them, "you might go on up to Kosh Lake at the head of Stony Lake." He directed them up there and that was the last he saw of his two visitors until he met them again at Detroit the other day. They expressed the intention of coming to this district again this summer, and told Mr. Roy that they had gone up to Kosh Lake as he had directed them last Summer, and had experienced some of the greatest fishing they had ever had. "We caught so many fish, that eventually we had to start throwing them back into the lake," the claimed.

There were many other people who had had similar experiences of the district and who were keen on making return trips, while the visitors to the booth also included former Peterborough residents who were delighted to see pictures of Rice Lake and other familiar points of interest. Included among the old Peterborough residents who visited the booth were: Newt Staples, Alf Austin, Fairen Stevens, Frank Shook and Basil Rogers.

DEAD FLIER'S RELATIVES SUE MAYOR, AERO CLUB

WINDSOR, Ont., May 17—(CP)—A writ asking fifty thousand dollars and costs was filed today Sandwich against ex-Mayor John Wigle of East Windsor and the Border Cities Aero club. Relatives of the late Maurice Heller, 24-year-old East Windsor lawyer, are the plaintiffs.

Heller was a passenger in an airplane piloted by Wigle which crashed at the airport on May 20 last. He died the next day of injuries. Wigle escaped with slight injuries.

The Aero Club is made a defendant because Mr. Wigle was a member of the organization and the club operates the airport.

Mrs. Lena Heller and Mervin and Joseph Heller, mother and minor brothers of the crash victim, are the plaintiffs in the action. They are residents of Toronto.

Galt Unemployed Appeal To Council

GALT, May 17 (C.P.). — At a meeting of the Galt City Council last night, it was decided this city would go on daylight saving time on June 30 and continue on it until August 30.

The Council Chamber was crowded with unemployed seeking a hearing. Stanley Pratt, a leader of the unemployed, was denied a hearing but G. W. Simpson addressed the Council and presented a series of resolutions asking a $5.00 credit slip a week for married men without children and for those with children $1.00 a week extra for each child, the city pay for the shelter of married men in danger of eviction for non-payment of rent and the city pay electric bills.

The men expressed a desire to work for the necessities asked, and also requested representation on the Relief Committee.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 2

By Edgar Rice Burroughs
(Metropoli tan Newspaper Feature Ser vice, Inc.)

It was nearly a year now since Ibn Jad had set forth on his mad adventure, taking the advice of a learned sahar, a magician of great reputation. Its purpose was known to few beside the wily shiek. Now as Allah would have it, his route had led him near two spots that for many moons were destined to thwart Ibn Jad's ambition to reach the mystic city of the lost crusaders.

Two marches to the north stood the round dwelling place of Fejjuan's father. But of more immediate importance in the life of Sheik Ibn Jad, was the nearer presence of Tarzan to the sheik's elephant trackers....Fejuan, the slave, halted in his tracks. Silently, with upraised hand, he cautioned the men behind him not to move a muscle.

Directly before him, the black saw dimly through the foliage the great bulk of Tantor, the elephant. Fejjuan motioned to Fahd, who moved stealthily to his side. The slave pointed toward where a patch of grey hide showed through the screening trees. Fahd raised his ancient gun to his shoulder. There was a flash of flame, and a burst of smoke.

Then came a terrific roar as Tantor, unhit, bolted through the forest. As he surged forward, Tarzan, at the first sound of the shot, started to spring to an upright position. The same instant the elephant passed beneath a low hanging limb. It struck the ape-man's head, sweeping him to the ground, where he lay stunned.

MILK VENDOR MUST SUPPLY CERTIFICATE

Board of Health Asks Department to Make Peterboro Restricted Area.

TUBERCULAR COW SOLD.

That a request be made to Dr. W. A. Moynihan, of the Ontario Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture, that Peterborough be placed under the restricted area test, so that all cattle supplying milk to the city be tested for tuberculosis and other bovine diseases, was the motion passed this morning by the local Board of Health.

Dr. Moynihan was in the city six weeks ago and outlined the system by which his department would test the city's milk supply without cost to the city. While the members of the Board were in favor of making the city a restricted area at the time of Dr. Moynihan's visit, definite action was delayed.

However, the motion requesting the milk test was voiced to-day by Dr. J. M. O'Brien after it became known that a herd owner, supplying milk in the city, had recently sold a cow that was found to be tubercular. This herd owned was asked two weeks ago, it was stated by Chairman J. J. Turner, for a certificate of health of his herd to be furnished the Board.

"This certificate attesting to the health of his herd has not been furnished us yet," stated Chairman Turner.

"Write him and inform him that if that certificate is not forthcoming at once his license will be cancelled," said Mayor Denne. That was expressed later as a motion and carried unanimously.

Immediately Dr. O'Brien voiced his motion asking that restricted area herd tests be made here. The motion was seconded by Alderman W. Stocker, and carried.

The Sanitary Ice Company's tender for 40 tons of Mountaineer coal at $7.46 per ton, was accepted by the Board as next winter's supply for the Isolation Hospital.

There are six cases of contagious diseases in Queen Mary's Hospital in April: two of Scarlet Fever, two of Measles, one Diphtheria carrier and one Spinal Meningitis.

The milk test in Peterborough showed that the milk was very satisfactory, reported Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H.

Alfred O. Phillips complained that there was a barn at 863 George street, fifteen feet from his house, 163 Antrim street, which was being used as a stable for horses. Besides the foul odor and the sleep-disturbing sounds of tramping hoofs the barn was infested with rats, his letter to the board stated, in urging that some action be taken to alleviate the nuisance and health menace.

Charles Stapleton, sanitary inspector, was ordered to tell the owner of the barn that it must be cleaned up, or the barn would have to be removed, or cease to be used as a stable.

Letters will be sent out to a score of householders informing them that they must install sanitary conveniences.

SECOND ANNUAL CONGRESS HELD AT ST. PETER'S

Eucharistic Solemnities Attended by Large Congregation This Morning.

DIOCESAN EVENT.

Sermon Preached By Monsignor McColl of Lindsay—Afternoon Conference.

The second annual Eucharist Congress in the diocese of Peterborough was begun at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning with the solemnity of Pontifical High Mass attended by a large congregation of the laity and virtually all the diocesan clergy. Holy Hour at 7.30 o'clock this evening, conducted by Rev. Chris. McCarney of Trout Creek, will conclude the day's devotions which were marked throughout the afternoon by exposition of the Blessed Sacrament.

Bishop O'Connor was celebrant of the Mass with Rev. Father Costello as assistant priest. Deacons of honor were Rev. J. J. O'Brien of Peterborough and Rev. Joseph O'Sullivan of Wooler.

Rev. L. Cleary was deacon and Rev. Vincent Masterson, D.D., subdeacon. Rev. John Finn was master of ceremonies, assisted by Rev. P. P. Butler of Kinmount; and Rev. P. Lynch was cross-bearer.

The visiting clergy included Rev. Monsignor Kelly of Cobourg and Rev. Monsignor McColl of Lindsay; Rev. P. J. Kelly of Hastings, and Rev. Father Phelan of Campbellford; Rev. V. Gillogly of Victoria road; Father McCarthy of Norwood and other priests of the district and city.

The sermon was to have been delivered by Rev. Father Galvin of Downeyville, but he has been seriously ill in St. Joseph's Hospital. Monsignor McColl of Lindsay preached the Congress sermon.

The day's program included a conference at St. Alphonsus Lyceum this afternoon presided over by Bishop O'Connor. Rev. J. J. Garvey of Lakefield read a paper entitled "Saintly Priests, the Need of the World," and Rev. H. Black's subject was "How to Promote Attendance at Mass"; other priests leading in the discussion of the two themes.

Prior to High Mass and also at its conclusion, the Sacrament was borne in procession through the Cathedral by Bishop O'Connor, attended by the clergy.

Sermon on The Eucharist

Monsignor McColl of Lindsay preached the sermon, quoting as his text, "I am the living bread which came down from heaven, and if any man eat of this bread he shall live forever; the bread I shall give is My flesh and blood for the life of the world."—St. John 6, 51-52.

The purpose of the annual congress, the first of which was held last year at Victoria Road, was to promote throughout the diocese love for God in the Blessed Sacrament, Monsignor McColl said. In the words of St. John, the divine person of the Eucharist was none other than Jesus Christ. He had shown love and compassion not only for the people whom he had met while on earth, but also for all mankind by giving His life for their redemption. In the Sacrament He has multiplied His presence to be in the midst of all people.

God's purpose in creating man and the human soul, Monsignor McColl continued, was that man should know Him and love Him and serve Him for the attainment of the eternal happiness of heaven. The only thing that can prevent man from rising to that goal is mortal sin. A primary aid to that end is the sacrifice of the Mass.

"The sacrifice of the Mass is the most perfect form of sacrifice. It would be impossible for a God to contribute anything greater and more influential to help us in our eternal salvation than the holy sacrifice of the Mass, for in the Eucharist we have Jesus Christ himself present."

Hence the importance, Monsignor McColl said, of attending Mass not only once a week but every day if possible. Christ instituted the Blessed Sacrament as an antidote and preservative against mortal sin. "It fortifies us against the powerful enemies of this world's temptations and also the temptations of Satan." Holy Communion increases sanctifying grace in the soul, intensifies the sanctity of the soul, increases our faith and makes us more able to fight against mortal sin. The value of our salvation and the Eucharistic aid in attaining it is the price that was paid for it, the precious blood of Jesus Christ. Who would flinch or despair if he knows Jesus Christ is with him? How could we offend God if we truly loved Him, if perfect charity was deep in us.

Monsignor McColl spoke of perfect charity as our love for God because of His attributes of perfection, and man's happiness in eternity will be in proportion to his love for God.

CALL TO PRAYER ISSUED BY POPE AROUND WORLD

Lists Greed First Among Causes of Evils Crushing Humanity.

RAPS SPECULATORS.

Flays Communists — Out to Destroy All Bonds of Law —Oppose Even God.

VATICAN CITY, May 18 (C.P.) —Pope Pius XI., in an encyclical issued to-day, called the world to prayer, pennance, and mortification to save itself from "the peril of terrorism and anarchy" and "the still graver evils that are threatening."

For this purpose he set aside a period of eight days for "reparation" on the octave of the Feast of the Sacred Heart, beginning June 3. He abjured the faithful to abstain during the eight days "at least from entertainments and amusements, however lawful," and urged that "those in easier circumstances" give to the poor "the proceeds of this retrenchment."

In the encyclical, entitled "Charitas Christi"—Christ's Charity — he lists the causes of the present "evils that are crushing humanity."

They are, he said, greed, the accumulation of the wealth of nations in the hands of a small group of individuals, exaggerated nationalism, unequal distribution of wealth, Communism, and "the revolt of man against God."

Mutual Distrust.

From greed, he said, arises "the mutual distrust that casts a blight on all human dealings." He reiterated the words of St. Paul: The desire of money is the root of all evil.

Turning the point of his criticism equally upon Communists and speculators, the Pontiff said a small group of holders of the world's wealth "manipulate the markets of the world at their own caprice to the immense harm of the masses."

"Even those very few," he added "who with their speculations were and are in great part a cause of so much woe, are themselves quite often the first and most notorious victims, dragging down with themselves into the abyss the fortunes of countless others."

"Profiting by so much economic distress," he added, "and so much moral disorder the enemies of all social order, be they called Communists or any other name boldly set about breaking through every restraint."

Most Dreadful Evil

"This is the most dreadful evil of our times, for they destroy every

40 EXTRA MEN WILL GET WORK ON WOOD LOT

Cutting 2,000 Cords of Hardwood for Central Charity Board.

30 NOW AT WORK.

Wood Will Be Available For Sawing Later in the Year.

Employment for forty more men will probably be provided on the wood lot in Dummer Township by Howard Windsor from whom the Peterborough Charity Board has purchased 2,000 cords of hardwood.

Relief Officer Metheral told The Examiner this morning Mr. Windsor had informed him that he would need forty men in addition to the thirty who have already been sent out from the city.

The Charity Board's original order was for 1,000 cords at five dollars a cord delivered in the city at the municipal yard on Townsend Street, but the price advantage and the number of men out of work were conditions that persuaded the Board to double their order. Mr. Windsor has already piled 65 cords at the city's yard, trucking the wood night and day. A week ago he had engaged about thirty men from Mr. Metheral's list, and if he takes on forty more this job, employing around seventy, will be of decided help as a measure of unemployment relief.

17 Miles From City.

Mr. Windsor's lot is seventeen miles from the city, a comparatively short distance beyond Warsaw, and is ninety acres in extent, the wood content being about ninety per cent. hardwood. It has been said that the Charity Board made an exceptionally good arrangement not only in securing the supply of wood, but also in regard to present and future work. Applicants for food and fuel are given a chance to earn money with which to buy their supplies. Those who decline to work are cut off the list. Assuming Hydro Has Moral Obligation to Aird Declares C. A. Magrath.

NO LEGAL CLAIM.

Property Not Developed, But Believed Good Business.

TORONTO, May 18.—(C. P.)—The Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario had a moral obligation to pay John Aird, Jr., for his services in negotiating the purchase of the Madawaska River power rights declared C. A. Magrath, former Hydro chairman, before the Royal Commission today.

There was no legal obligation, he said. Aird had assisted Hydro in making the purchase. He admitted the order-in-council authorizing the payment of $50,000 to Aird had not been passed by the government until four months after Aird received the cheque.

Mr. Magrath concluded his evidence with regard to Madawaska today, but may be recalled when the Commission consider the purchase by the Hydro of the Dominion Power and Transmission Ltd. Hamilton for $22,000,000.

Various Sums Quoted

The Madwasaka, owned by the O'Brien interests at Ottawa, had been offered to Hydro for various sums ranging from $2,250,000 down to $2,000,000, but Hydro eventually obtained the property for $1,800,000.

FEAR 300 LOST IN SHIP TRAGEDY

Passengers in Uproar of Gaiety Thought Fire Alarms Another Stunt.

LINER STILL BLAZING.

ADEN Arabia, May 18 (C.P.). — There was such an uproar of gaiety aboard the French motorship Georges Philippar that when the fire bells sounded on Monday passengers failed to realize their significance survivors of the burned vessel declared to-day.

Shipping agencies officials feared that the number of persons lost might total 300. The ship burned at sea off Italian Somaliland.

Survivors said that all during the homeward voyage from the Far East there had been muh gaiety and dancing, and when the fire bells rang out the passengers thought it was only another stunt.

The first lifeboat to leave the burning vessel floated about for five hours before its occupants were picked up by the British steamer Mahsud. The Mahsud and the Contractor, also a British ship, brought 254 survivors here yesterday.

Stewardess Heroine.

Mlle. Berthe Helbout, a French stewardess, emerged as one of the heroes of the disaster. She rushed about the blazing liner trying to find the parents of a little girl who had been terribly burned. Her efforts were fruitless. Later the child died in a lifeboat.

After the stewardess had been taken aboard the Mahsud she ministered to badly burned passengers despite the fact that she was suffering severely from shock and exposure. Now she is in a hospital.

The Georges Philippar still was burning to-day, her position being approximately thirty miles north of Cap Guardafui, Italian Somaliland.

CONDON VIEWS PHOTOGRAPHS OF 1,900 ROGUES

Intensive Scrutiny of Photos Gives "No Encouragement."

CURTIS CLOSELY WATCHED

Bootlegger Alleges Curtis Double-crossed Him.

MT. VERNON, N.Y., May 18. (CP)—Dr. John F. Condon, "Jafsie", Lindbergh case negotiator, left police headquarters here at 2:43 o'clock this afternoon, after examining 1900 rogues gallery photographs without finding a clue to the kidnappers with whom he had negotiations. he survey was made with Chief of Detectives Michael Silverstein. Dr. Condon indicated that his intensive scrutiny of the photos gave "no encouragement."

Says Double-crossed

MINEOLA, N.Y., May 18. (CP) Inspector Harold R. King of the Nassau county police said to-day that one hour before John Hughes Curtis confessed his whole story about the Lindbergh Kidnapping was a hoax he was confronted in Hopewell with a Long Island Bootlegger who charged him with having double-crossed him in a deal involving a substantial sum of money.

King said the bootlegger was found by John Fegarty, a private detective employed from the start by Col Henry Breckenridge, Col. Lindbergh's friend and lawyer.

He withheld the name of the bootlegger, who, he said, lived in Rockville Center, Long Island.

The man's story, according to King, is that last December he paid Curtis a substantial sum of money with the understanding that Curtis was to use it to purchase influence for him with the authorities at Norfolk. This, he said, Curtis failed to do.

After Curtis entered the search for the Lindbergh baby, King said, the bootlegger started among his associates in the vicinity of Norfolk an investigation of Curtis.

RUMOR NATIVES BURNED ALIVE

Report to League of Nations Depicts Atrocities on Liberian Frontier.

44 VILLAGES RAZED.

GENEVA, May 18. (AP) — The burning alive of many men, women and children by the Liberian frontier military force was reported to the League of Nations to-day in a communication signed in behalf of the British, United States and French governments.

These atrocities, the report asserted, were committed against tribesmen of the Kru coast.

The Liberian delegate submitted a memorandum to the League's Liberian commission confirming the burning of 44 villages and the killing of 81 men, 49 women and 29 children.

The commission recommended to the League Council that a representative be sent to the Kru coast to assist in pacifying the country and to bring about the return of 12,000 tribesmen who have fled their homes.

Violence by the Liberian military force followed an enquiry by the League commission in the course of which many tribesmen accused the government of oppression.

The Liberian delegate declared to the commission that his government had taken "necessary legitimate action" against tribesmen to maintain order and to protect lives and property.

HENRY STATES $66,000 ORDER UP IN OCTOBER

Claims It Was Represented to Ministers as Expenses for Preliminary Surveys.

AIRD PAID IN JULY.

Never Acted as Deputy Collector for Home Smith, Latter Testifies.

TORONTO, May 18.—(C. P.)—The proposal of the Ontario Hydro Commission to pay John Aird, Jr., $50,000 never came before the Ontario Provincial cabinet, testified Hon. George S. Henry, Premier of Ontario, when called this afternoon as a witness at the enquiry before Mr. Justice J. F. Orde. Mr. Henry was examined by A. G. Slaght, K.C., independent counsel. The witness said he was a member of the cabinet at the time and had not heard of any proposal to pay Aird $50,000. The proposal to pay O'Brien $1,800,000 in connection with the Madawaska deal was heard by the cabinet in June 1929, and in October an order-in-council authorized the payment of $66,000 by Hydro.

"Without the slightest knowledge $50,000 of it was paid to John Aird, Jr., in July?" asked Mr. Slaght.

"That is correct," said Mr. Henry.

The $66,000 was listed as expenses for preliminary investigations and surveys" in connection with the purchase of the Madawaska.

Home Smith, Toronto financier, was called as a witness by W. N. Tilley, K.C., commission counsel. He said Aird and Millard had seen him in connection with the Madawaska proposition and had said they did not know Mr. Magrath or Premier Ferguson and he had told Aird to have his father introduce him or give him letters of introduction.

He said he was at times on the "inside circles of the Conservative Party," but had nothing whatever to do with contributions to or for Aird or any party.

To Mr. Slaght, Mr. Smith said he handled Conservative campaign funds in 1930. He did not know who was his predecessor in that connection.

"Could you ascertain who was your predecessor?"

"I don't know why I should."

Mr. Smith declined to ascertain the name of his predecessor. In answer to a question by G. M. Huycke, counsel for John Aird, Jr., the witness said Mr. Aird was not at any time a "deputy collector" for him.

42 MEN BURIED BY LANDSLIDE

Construction Company Rushes Laborers to Aid in Rescue.

WORKING IN TUNNEL.

TEMUCO, Cautin Province, Chile, May 18 (C.P.).—Forty-two workmen were trapped to-day by a landslide at Las Raices tunnel at Longquinay, high in the Andes, where the new southern railroad over the mountains is being constructed.

Eight hundred laborers were rushed to the scene from Temuco to assist in the rescue work.

The safety of the trapped men depended on whether they had air and whether water coming down the mountains had reached them. The tunnel construction company officials were pessimistic about the possibility of saving them.

RADIO CONTROL BILL IS GIVEN SECOND READING

Spokesmen From Every Party in House Endorse Measure.

MOVED BY PREMIER.

Use Radio to Develop National Consciousness Bennett Declares.

OTTAWA, May 18 (C.P.).—Second reading was given the Government's Radio Control Bill in the House of Commons to-day. Spokesmen from every party in the House endorsed the measure.

The bill makes provision for the establishment of a commission to take over control of radio broadcasting in Canada. Second reading was moved by the Prime Minister.

Follows Report.

The bill said Mr. Bennett, followed in general the report of the House of Commons committee and was based on the principle which the Government believed should be adopted, involving as it did the essential requirements without which radio broadcasting in Canada must fail.

Canada must have complete control over broadcasting in Canada, he declared, without interference from foreign agencies. Without such control radio could not be employed as an agency for development of the national consciousness.

STOP SIGNS ON AYLMER STREET

McDonnell to be Through Street From George to Reid.

OTHER PROPOSALS

The traffic stop signs at the corner of Aylmer and McDonnell streets will be shifted to make McDonnell a through street from George to Reid street.

This proposal by the Legal Committee of the council last night will have to be ratified at the June meeting. McDonnell street is part of provincial highway No. 28, and visiting motorist are not accustomed to looking for stop signs on highways. Narrow escapes from collisions at that corner have been reported to members of the council and it was felt that it would be safer to put the stop signs on Aylmer street.

Queen street from Hunter to Charlotte will be also made a through street with stop signs at the Simcoe street corner, and Stewart street traffic will be given precedence over Simcoe street by making Stewart street "through" from the north side of Charlotte to the south side of Hunter.

If the council approves these changes, local motorists are advised to impress them on their memories, including the fact that stop signs will be place on Simcoe street at Stewart.

He was not eligible for entry as he had never become a citizen during his first sojourn here, and had been absent ten years.

Railways Lend Pumps and Hundreds of Men Battle Dozens of Blazes.

QUEBEC, May 18.—(C.P.)—Another day of cloudless skies to-day faced weary fire-fighters throughout the Province of Quebec.

Sully—40,000 trees, property of United States owners, burned close to the Maine border. Some 125 men brought the outbreak under control, barely half a mile from the village which was being prepared for hasty evacuation.

CURTIS PARLEYS GIGANTIC HOAX; STORIES FAKED

History Shown Few Hoaxes So Detailed and None So Cruel.

HELD UNDER GUARD.

Stories Greatly Injured the Cause of Dr. John Condon.

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 18 — (CP) — An elaborate lie, blown into a bubble of hope that hoaxed the civilized world, exploded today on the penpoint of the man who invented it.

Police called it an "enormous deception" to which John Hughes Curtis, 47 - year - old boatbuilder and Lindbergh kidnapping "intermediary", confessed late yesterday. History showed few hoaxes so detailed and none more cruel.

Curtis, under guard of state police today and awaiting decision by prosecuting officers as to what charges, if any, are to be made against him, admitted:

That his whole story of meeting the kidnappers of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was a figment of his imagination:

That the deception was practiced not only against the sorrow-burdened parents of the murdered baby and against the entire world, but even against his two fellow townsmen who served with him as "intermediaries";

And that his trips in naval planes, his journeys to sea on a private yacht and his mysterious "contacts" with the kidnapper-killers were concoctions of untruths, brewed in a finance-frenzied mind.

In a statement admitting the falseness of his whole story and which he wrote himself and signed, he asked the "forgiveness" of Col. Lindbergh for "the inconvenience, worry and injustice I did him in his time of grief."

"For the last seven or eight months," his statement said, "I have not been myself, due to financial troubles."

Curtis, a Norfolk, Va., boatbuilder, went bankrupt several months ago, later reorganizing his company.

The other members of the Norfolk trio whose negotiations in recent days have held promise of leading the law to the kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby were the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, former Canadian clergyman, and Rear Admiral Guy Burrage, retired. Curtis' statement exonerated both of them. It said, however, that "Dean Dobson-Peacock could have prevented this trouble from me when I went to him first, but instead encouraged me."

The clergyman has been requested to come here and tell his story. At Norfolk early to-day he said he would reply to police request

Frightened Horse Drowns Two Men

MONTREAL, May 18. — (C. P.)—A restive horse, which reared and overturned a scow, caused the deaths by drowning of Romeo Vincent, 17, and Samuel Braitman, 43, in the little Montreal river yesterday.

The men were taking a horse and cow across the river in a scow. When half way across the horse began to rear and finally fell into the water, causing the scow to overturn. The men clung to the frightened horse and were drowned with it. The bodies were recovered.

SOVIET RELIEVES PEASANTS FROM HEAVY BURDENS

Meat Collections Eased by Half—Rationing of Food Liberalized.

THREE SIGNS

MOSCOW, May 18.—The Soviet Government has adopted an important policy affecting the state economic relations of peasants and designed to insure the food supply of the country, several developments reported to-day show.

First, Mr. Joseph Stalin and the president of the People's Commissars, Mr. M. V. Molotoff, signed a decree regarding state meat collections even more elastic than the decree regarding grain collections issued Saturday. This decree cuts by half the amount of meat peasants are required to deliver to state organizations at fixed prices and gives them the right to sell the remainder as they like.

Secondly, Mr. M. I. Kalinin, chairman of the Presidium, sent a radio message to local Soviet authorities emphasizing the importance of the grain decree and instructing that special extra sessions of the Soviets be called to discuss it and to give it the widest possible publicity.

The third sign—relaxing the rigid state control of the food rationing system, except for such basic products as bread, flour, meat, herring, butter and sugar—was decreed to-day.

Whatever may be the theoretical advantages of the huge system of state food collection and distribution, its practical application in Russia left the food needs of the country very inadequately satisfied.

Soviet leaders, with the flexibility which they habitually show in scrapping unworkable policies, apparently decided that circumstances require the abandonment of extreme centralization, greater appeal to the direct material interests of the peasant, who does not as a rule shed his individualist coat even after he enters a collective farm.

Grain and meat decrees, which, under different circumstances and in much less sweeping form, recall the general trend of the New Economic Policy which Lenine proclaimed in 1921, giving peasants the right to sell produce freely after paying a tax in kind, were published as the spring planting campaign began, evidently with the hope of stimulating the peasants to greater exertions.

MAGRATH GIVES NEW EVIDENCE

Claims He Watched Aird as He Didn't Want Him to Get Loose in U. S.

ON STAND TO-DAY.

TORONTO, May 18 (C.P.)—The Royal Commission investigating certain affairs of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission resumed to-day, with C. A. Magrath, former chairman, expected to conclude his evidence on the stand. Mr. Magrath testified briefly before adjournment yesterday. The hearing opened earlier than usual to-day, since efforts are being made to conclude two phases of the investigation this week.

In a statement outlining his position in connection with John Aird, Jr., and the Madawaska River development, Mr. Magrath yesterday declared he wanted "to keep that young man pretty close to me" so that United States interests would not be able to step in and obtain power rights on the Madawaska until the Hydro had a chance.

"My own view was to get control of the property," he said, while Aird was trying to develop power and sell it to the Commission. Eventually the Hydro did get control of the property, and paid Aird $50,000 for his work in connection with the deal.

The Reason Why

"I didn't want him to get loose in the United States," said Mr. Magrath, "because he could get into any financial house."

The fight between Hydro and the Foshay interests of Minneapolis, when the latter sold power in the Bruce Peninsula at Southampton, was quoted as an example by Mr. Magrath, who declared the Hydro did not want competition from private ownership concerns because publicly-owned systems were at a disadvantage.

Aird denied absolutely that half the Beauharnois $125,000 had been paid to a political party, when A. G. Slaght, K.C., independent counsel, suggested such a course had been followed. He denied, too, using any influence in assisting the Beauharnois Corporation in obtaining a contract for 250,000 horsepower from Hydro,— a contract which was regarded as essential to the success of the Beauharnois undertaking.

HIGHER DUTIES ON HIDE IMPORTS DELAYS HOUSE

McGibbon Predicts Every Tannery in Canada Will be Forced to Close.

ARGENTINE PACT HINTED.

'Phone Tax Revised — 6 Per Cent to be Added to Monthly Long Distance Bill.

OTTAWA, May 18 (C.P.). — Higher duties on imported hides proved a snag in the House of Commons yesterday as the final drive opened toward an early prorogation. Liberals as well as Conservatives criticised the move from the standpoint of the farmer, the tanner and the consuming public.

Before the duties finally passed, Dr. Peter McGibbon, Conservative, Muskoka, predicted every tannery in Canada would be driven out of business. The duties—free under the British preference, 15 per cent. general and 10 per cent. intermediate—formed a part of the Canada-New Zealand treaty which Dr. McGibbon denounced as wrong in inception and wrong in application. The duties finally passed, but because they formed a part of the treaty, no division took place.

Argentine Pact Hinted.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who negotiated the New Zealand treaty, forecast the possibility of a pact with Argentina. He believed protests against the hide duties were exaggerated and expressed the opinion no Canadian industry, including agriculture, would be injured.

Progress in the House was rapid yesterday. Morning sittings will open Thursday with prorogation slated for the end of next week. A Government bill was passed levying a special income tax of ten per cent. against judges, army and navy men and Royal Canadian Police. It would place them on a parity with members of the general public service whose salaries were slashed ten per cent.

Then the House turned to consideration of the individual tariff and taxation changes announced in the Rhodes budget. With a minimum of discussion, the House passed an increase from ten to 11 per cent. in the corporation tax, levied a surtax of five per cent. on income taxes paid on incomes in excess of $5,000; decreased the income tax exemptions of both married and single persons, and made a tariff concession to farmers importing spare machinery parts.

Phone Tax Revised.

The tax on long distance telephone calls was under fire for some time before passing. Hon. E. N. Rhodes amended the original proposal of five cents for every call to six per cent. of the amount charged by the telephone company to the caller. In the case of public stations and automatic phones, the rate will be five cents for calls in excess of 25 cents, this rate to apply up to 80 cents and five cents for each additional 80 cents. The Finance Minister predicted this tax would produce a revenue of $750,000 a year.

Hurrying through the resolutions the House passed stamp taxes on cheques, money orders and promissory notes and the special taxes on pullman seats and railway berths.

Early in the day the Parliamentary committee investigating gasoline prices reported the cost to the Canadian consumer was not unreasonably high as compared with United States prices. Two Liberal members of the committee, Dr. Thomas Donnelly, who prompted the investigation, and C. E. Bothwell brought in a minority report in direct contradiction to the findings of the majority.

Premier MacDonald Is Able To Leave Nursing Home

Will Go Home to Lossiemouth, Scotland, for a Rest.

LONDON, May 18 (C.P.)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, who recently underwent an eye operation, left the nursing home to-day and returned to his official residence in Downing Street where he had lunch before going home to Lossiemouth, Scotland, to complete his convalescence.

Dr. W. S. Duke-Elder examined Mr. MacDonald's right eye—the one operated on—and decided the Prime Minister could safely leave the nursing home.

Mr. MacDonald said that he would be glad to get back to work again, and that he expected to be very busy in Lossiemouth, although he intended to follow the instructions of his physicians and rest as much as he could. He faces a considerable amount of work in preparation of the Lausanne Reparations Conference in June.

GIVE JUDGMENT WEDNESDAY IN ADAM COX CASE

Evidence is Concluded and Arguments Are Heard by Magistrate.

RESERVES JUDGMENT

Defence Claimed Car Was Accidentally Shoved Into Gear.

Judgment was reserved yesterday afternoon by Police Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in the case of Adam H. Cox, on a charge of criminal negligence arising from the accident at the corner of George and Hunter streets on April 31 in which nine persons were injured when Cox's driverless car raced over the pavement and in among a throng of pedestrians.

Argument by R. R. Hall, K.C., defence counsel, and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecutor, was concluded the afternoon, but the Magistrate decided to weigh the evidence until the afternoon of May 25 when he will return his judgment.

"The evidence barely makes out the fact that the only negligence on the part of Cox was that the car which was in his control ran away from him," stated Mr. Hall in beginning his lengthy argument to show lack of neglect on the part of his client.

Car Put into Neutral

That Cox put his car into neutral before he got out to crank it was established because it was his regular custom was an argument advanced by Mr. Hall. Also that the car was in neutral was established by the fact that he turned the engine over twice while cranking. The Crown had advanced no evidence to refute Cox's statement that he had twice cranked the car, Mr. Hall said.

Knocked into Gear

He maintained that the evidence was clear that Cox in reaching for the primer in his car knocked the shift into gear, argued the counsel. Cox had no guilty knowledge in knocking the car into gear, and this was shown stated Mr. Hall by the fact that he himself was the first one injured by this unconscious act.

Crown Attorney McElderry argued that Cox was guilty of wilful neglect when he first failed to put on his brake before getting out to crank the car. His neglect was in not having performed a duty which made him grossly negligent.

Mr. McElderry argued that it was his theory that Cox had never placed the car in neutral and it was merely because it was in gear that kept it from rollin. down the incline at the corner and out unto Hunter street, which otherwise it would have done since Cox admitted not having put on the emergency brake. He argued that there was only Cox's statement that he had twice tried to crank the car, being able to turn the engine over the first time.

LINCOLN COUNTY JUDGE RESENTS CUT IN SALARY

Threatens to Declare Law Ultra Vires Unless it is Rescinded.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 18. —(C.P.)— The Lincoln County Council was to-day advised by Juvenile Court Judge J. S. Campbell that unless at to-day's session they repealed the by-law which cut 10 per cent. from his salary, he would instruct his solicitor to issue a writ declaring the by-law ultra vires.

In his letter the Judge pointed out that the reduction by-law was passed without concurrence with the City Council, which pays the larger share of his juvenile court costs and without conferring with His Honor on the matter.

He refered to the action of the council in making the cut and in seeking consent for the reduction from the Attorney-General's Department as "high handed and discourteous."

The council cut the salary of the Judge following the advice from the county solicitor that this salary was not under their jurisdiction.

CAILLAUX CALLS UPON EUROPE TO ORGANIZE

Must Export Goods to Pay Debts, Declares French Economist.

COLLAPSE OF MARKETS

PARIS.—It is somewhat remarkable that M. Joseph Caillaux should have again come prominently into the limelight, and certain observers believe that he may play an important role in the near future. He has long been recognized as one of the ablest economists in Europe, but his political activities were checked when, toward the end of the World War, he was accused of having entered into communication with the enemy.

There can be no doubt that, whatever was the technical truth about these charges, his purpose as a statesman who had been in office and might expect to be in office again, was to neglect no means of shortening the war. These are old polemics and are only mentioned to explain why M. Caillaux fell under a cloud.

He nevertheless had a fresh opportunity of exercising his talents during the period of the falling franc. He was made Finance Minister and in view of his financial knowledge great things were expected of him. He failed, as he was bound to fail on this occasion, because what was wanted in the state of incipient panic was not so much an expert financier as a man who was absolutely trusted and who wielded indisputable authority. That man, of course, was M. Raymond Poincare.

Countries Not Self-Contained

In his recent addresses, which have attracted much attention, M. Caillaux has dealt illuminatingly with the different aspects of the world crisis. He pointed out that the population of Europe has grown from 100,000,000 in 1870 to 450,000,000. Obviously there should be European organization. It is useless for each country to think of itself as self-contained.

For the moment M. Caillaux recommends that the European countries should chiefly concern themselves with Europe. That is the first thing to do—to build a European unity. "Unhappily," he continued, "many Europeans do not appreciate the necessity of a rapprochement without which the old continent will fall into chaos and into barbarism."

There is only one method—to come to understandings in economic matters. There are a number of steps which might be taken, but they cannot usefully be taken by one country alone. There are a number of measures which are recognized to be urgently necessary, but nobody will take these measures separately; everybody must agree to take them simultaneously.

The economic division of Europe is one of the principal causes of the present troubles. It may be that the political division of Europe can be justified, but there can be no justification for the failure to provide a European economic code which must provide, basically, inside the Continent, free trade.

Collapse of Markets

Unhappily the opposite course has been taken. Customs barriers are set up everywhere and artificial industries are stimulated behind these barriers. Immense markets have collapsed. At the same time the countries are crushed by international indebtedness.

Since M. Caillaux was one of the French negotiators in the United States it is particularly interesting to observe that he now calls for a clean slate. "It is necessary to export goods to pay debts, but customs barriers have everywhere been raised. We are in presence of impossibilities. The inter-allied debts are among the most incredible things I know, for they are the loans of America to the Allies in order that the Allies might hold out until the arrival of the Americans."

But above all M. Caillaux insists on the need for a mental revolution. There may be technical reasons for the economic disorder, but the general mentality has been such as to increase the disorder and to ignore the remedies. "I believe that the most essential task is to remake a European intellectuality. We will arrive at nothing without intellectuality. What, indeed, is the crisis other than the defeat of human intelligence?"

CALL TO PRAYER

bond of law, human or divine, they engage openly and in secret in a relentless struggle against God Himself they carry out the diabolical program of wresting from the hearts of all, even from children, all religious sentiment; for well they know that when once belief in God has been taken from the heart of mankind, they will be entirely free to work out their will.

"Thus we see to-day what was never before seen in history—the satanical banners of war against God and against religion brazenly unfurled to the winds in the midst of all people and in all parts of the earth."

Of exaggerated nationalism, the Pontiff said: "There is no excess that will not seem justified.

"Abusing this love of country," he said, leads to "hatred, driving all to destruction. Sacred principles are trampled upon" and "polluted."

Referred to the unequal distribution of wealth, he recalled that previously he had advocated energetically "a more equitable distribution of the goods of the earth" to restore health "to the ailing social body."

"If we pass in review," he said, "the long and sorrowful sequence or woes that, as a sad heritage of sin, mark the stages of fallen man's earthly pilgrimage from the flood on, it would be hard to find spiritual and material distress so deep, so universal as that which we are now experiencing.

Whole Humanity Entangled.

"Even the greatest scourges which have left indelible traces in the lives and memories of peoples struck only one nation at a time. Now, on the contrary, the whole of humanity is held bound by the financial and economic crisis so fast that the more it struggles the harder appears the task of loosening its bonds."

Deplorable as is the present state of affairs, he said, the root from which they spring is still more deplorable. "If what the Holy Ghost affirms through the mouth of St. Paul is ever true," he said, "much more is it true at present, the desire of money is the root of all evils.

"Is it not that lust of earthly goods that the pagan poet called, with righteous scorn, the accursed hunger for gold?"

The right order of Christian charity, the Pontiff said, does not disapprove of a "lawful love of country and a sentiment of justifiable nationalism," but the abuse of these "insinuates itself into the relations between people and people."

"There is no excess," he said, "that will not seem justified, and that which between individuals would be judged blameworthy by all is now considered lawful and praiseworthy if it is done in the name of this exaggerated nationalism.

Hatred

"Instead of the great law of love and human brotherhood, which embraces and holds in a single family all nations and people, with one Father who is in Heaven, there enters hatred, driving all to destruction. In public life sacred principles, the guide of all social intercourse, are trampled upon, the solid foundations of right and honesty on which the state should rest are undermined; polluted and closed are the sources of those ancient traditions which, based on faith in God and fidelity to His law secured the true progress of nations."

He pointed out that "impious men" were never lacking but said previously they had been relatively few and isolated and individual, not caring to reveal too openly "their impious minds."

"Today, on the contrary" he said, "atheism has already spread through large masses of the people—well organized. It works its way even into the common schools. It appears in the theatre. In order to spread itself it makes use of its own cinema films, of the gramophone and the radio. With its own presses it prints booklets in every language. It promotes special exhibition and public parades. It has formed its own political parties and its own economic and military systems.

Agitators Continue Work

"Disorganized and militant atheism works untiringly by means of its agitators, with conferences and projections, with every means of propaganda, secret and open, among all classes, in every street, in every hall.

"The leaders of this campaign of Atheism, turning to account the present economic crisis, enquire with diabolic reasoning into the cause of this universal misery.

"The holy cross of our Lord, symbol of humility and poverty, is joined together with the symbols of modern imperialism—as though religion were alive with those dark powers which produce such evils among men. Thus they strike, and not without effect, to combine war against God and men's struggle for their daily bread, with their desire to have land of their own, suitable wages and a decent dwelling, in fine, a condition of life befitting human beings.

"The most legitimate and necessary desires, just as the most brutal instinces, everything serves their anti-religious program, as if the order established by God stood in contradiction with the welfare of mankind and were not, on the contrary, its only sure safeguard, as if human forces, by means of modern mechanical power could combat the divine forces and introduce a new and much better ordering of things."

Assault Against All

These assaults, the Pontiff said, are directed not only against the Catholic religion, but against all who still recognized God as the creator of heaven and earth and absolute Lord of all things. The "insane hatred" they produce, he said, neither happiness nor peace for any class of society, "but will certainly bring all nations to disaster."

This, however, he added, is offset by the consoling sight of the generous enthusiasm for God on the part of countless souls in every quarter of the world, and in all classes of society."

Only through the spirit of penance, the Pontiff said, can stable peace be made possible on earth.

"But to create this atmosphere of lasting peace," he said., "neither peace treaties, nor the most solemn pacts, nor international meetings nor conferences, nor even the noblest and most disinterested efforts of any statesmen, will suffice unless in the first place are recognized the sacred rights of natural and divine law.

"No leader in public economy, no power of organization will be able to bring social conditions to a peaceful solution unless first in the very field of economics there triumphs the moral law, based on God and conscience."

Weed Control Act; What it Requires

The Ontario Weed Act should be considered a basis upon which all citizens may co-operate in the control of noxious weeds.

Every occupant of land whether renter or owner shall prevent the ripening of seeds of all noxious weeds. If the land is unoccupied, the owner is responsible.

If an occupant neglects or refuses to do this after notice, an inspector may enter upon the land, destroy the weeds and the cost, if not paid by the occupant, may be added to taxes.

Any owner or occupant of land who contravenes any of the provisions of the act, is liable to a fine of not less than $30.00 or more than $50.00 for each offence.

Councils' Responsibility.

Every township and urban municipal council must appoint an inspector or inspectors. They must also fix the amount of remuneration and pay it.

Where a council neglects or refuses to appoint an inspector, the Minister of Agriculture may appoint an inspector for the municipality and may fix the amount of remuneration which must be paid by the municipal council.

The council of a municipality shall cause to be inserted in a newspaper circulating in the municipality, a notice of the appointment of the weed inspector and shall forward the name to the provincial weed inspector, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario, before February 1st of each year. Members of municipal councils, township road superintendents or township road foremen are not eligible for appointment as weed inspectors.

It is the duty of the council to see that all weeds growing upon streets or highways are destroyed at the proper time to prevent the ripening of their seed. If the council neglects to have this done, the grant to which it may be entitled under the Highway Improvement Act may be withheld.

Weed Inspector Share.

The municipal weed inspector must see that the act is enforced on all roads, public and private property within the confines of the municipality. This includes railways, provincial highways, county roads, township roads, cemeteries, school and church properties and all private property.

The inspector is not authorized to incur expense on roads. If roads are found to be neglected, he should consult with the road authority and if necessary the reeve of the municipality. If the neglect is not remedied, he should then report to the provincial weed inspector. In the case of railways, notice should be given to the station master of the company, resident in the municipality.

If weeds are neglected on resident land, the inspector should give notice to the occupant and allow a reasonable time for having weeds destroyed. If this is not done in the stated time, the inspector may cause weeds, coming under the act, to be destroyed and may charge the cost of such work against the property.

To avoid the necessity of having growing crops destroyed at or near harvest time, all township inspectors should commence their work early in the season and advise farmers on the best methods of weed control.

Noxious Weeds.

CURTIS PARLEYS

to-day. He said he was mystified at Curtis' reference to him. Admiral Burrage, who was drawn into the affair because of his acquaintanceship with Col. Lindbergh had nothing to say.

Wanted to Acquire Money

Curtis' somewhat confused statement indicated his object in the hoax was the acquisition of money by the sale of his story to newspapers and news reel companies. He said he had received large offers from each. His purpose was defeated by the insistence of those offering to buy his story that the child be produced and the "negotiations" completed.

This was impossible, for there were no negotiations save those in Curtis' head—and they baby lay murdered.

There were other developments in a night that marked one of the most hectic, wierd and almost unbelievable chapters in the entire history of the case.

One of Band Arrested

In New York, Frank Parzyck, 29, said he was one of a band of six men who kidnapped the baby. The child was not slain deliberately, Parzyck said. He was killed in falling from the ladder while being taken from the second story nursery window of the Sourland home of the Lindberghs March 1.

Commissioner Mulrooney of the New York police personally questioned of Parzyck—described as a user of narcotics—and expressed the opinion that the mans story "rang true." Early to-day Parzyck was taken to several places on Jamaica Bay where he said he had been with the other "kidnappers"—members of a smuggler crew, he called them—but he could identify none of the places. He said it was "too dark" He was to be taken back there during the day.

Volunteered Confession

The Bronx grand jury started its enquiry into the payment of $50,000 ransom money by another intermediary—Dr. John F. Condon—to a man who represented himself as acting for the kidnappers. Condon himself was not called before the jury. He is to tell his story Friday.

Condon, whose negotiations for the return of the baby led him, despite his 72 years, into adventures in strange places, as the silent Bronx cemetery where he paid over the ransom money; the bay where he took a ducking in the cold waters while seeking to renew his contact, and to journeys in the dead of night, following the lure of messages given him by a mysterious, veiled woman—said the Curtis hoax had been disastrous to his own efforts.

He said that publication of a statement attributed to Curtis that Col. Lindbergh was willing to pay, through him, $100,000 ransom, had caused the kidnappers to drop their Bronx negotiations and seek greater gold through Curtis.

All Story Not Told Yet

"All the story hasn't been told yet," said the retired school master. He indicated that he still was hopeful of leading the police to the man who got the $50,000 ransom money.

A Monterrey, Mexico, report that Harry Fleischer, the much-discussed Detroit "Purple" gangster, had been arrested and had confessed the kidnapping, was quickly denied by police at Monterrey and by Federal authorities at Mexico City.

Curtis' confession, typed in the presence of police officers under the very roof of the parents the hoax hurt most, seemed not to calculate the additional consequences the deceit had caused. It expressed "regret" for "inconvenience" caused Col. Lindbergh, but it said nothing of the expenditure of time and money, and the risk of human life it incurred.

Sailed In Imagination

It made no mention of the fleet of coastguard craft which flung itself out to sea to search for the "fishing schooner" that sailed only in Curtis' imagination. It said nothing of the yacht that headed into a dangerous storm on an impossible quest; or of a dead baby's father who, with a cold Atlantic wind whipping his bronzed face, stood on the yacht deck, flashing signals with a flashlight—signals to brain children of the Norfolk boatbuilder.

"I never knew such people as I named to Col. Lindbergh," the boatbuilder confessed, setting it down in his own typewriting. "They were creatures of a distorted mind."

Curtis said he was "brought back to my senses" a few hours before the confession was made by a telephone conversation with his wife who told him "of the trouble she was having, and how the children missed me."

History has set down other hoaxes, but none, perhaps, so revealing of elaborate detail. Curtis invented a phantom ship. He placed aboard her a phantom crew. He gave them names, and he gave them aliases. He sailed his ship, with her crew of abductors, extortionists and murderers up and down the Atlantic seaboard—into inlets, along the coastline and into Long Island Sound. He invented engine trouble for the craft, and arranged repairs. He fabricated motorcars on shore, conferences in hotel lobbies and cafeterias, and telephone and telegraphic messages with women agents of the ghost crew; and he described these women in detail—even to the kind of dresses they wore.

With the Curtis clues shot down like a brilliant toy balloon arrowed by an accurate .92, the police were left to-day only with the story of Dr. Condon and with their own—found clues to hunt the baby killers.

"I would know the man I paid the money to—know him in a thousand," Condon said.

But the days lengthen—and the killers have not been found.

Skipper Is Wrathful.

Captain Leonard T. McLain, who piloted the yacht Cachelot in a rouh Atlantic ocean to meet the kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby, did not mince words when he learned John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk shipbuilder, had confessed his part was all a hoax.

"A cruel, despicable piece of work," was the Maine skipper's comment.

He went on to tell of the final voyage — when Col. Lindbergh, aboard the Cachelot, heard of the finding of his son's body.

"I had every confidence that when we left Atlantic City we really were going to meet the kidnappers," McLain said. "That confidence was caused by the fact that Lindbergh himself was aboard. His very manner seemed to create a feeling among us that we would be successful. It was Lindbergh who stood atop the pilot house in a vain effort to attract the vessel we went out to meet by flashing signals. It was a cruel piece of work to make him believe that the voyage would mean the return of his son. It was a cruel, despicable piece of work."

Captain McLain said he had been firm in his belief that such negotiations could not be carried on at sea.

"Only the mate and myself could handle the dory in such a sea," he declared, "and it was between us who would actually make the contact. Even Col. Lindbergh felt so sure that we would get back his baby that he wanted to go himself. But it was finally decided that when we met the boat we were supposed to meet, that either the mate or I would actually bring the baby back to the Cachelot.

"The Colonel's spirit was very high. Even when we had put in at Cape May he was not downcast. Then he learned of the discovery of his boy's body. You know the rest."

92 Dead, 910 Injured During Bombay Riots

BOMBAY, May 18. (AP) —The list of casualties of the Hindu-Moslem riots which entered their fifth day here to-day was increased to 92 dead and 910 injured when four persons were killed and 60 injured as the rioting broke out afresh this morning.

The fighting had subsided overnight and the city was quiet until shortly after daybreak.

Throughout the night, with the new curfew ordinance in force, soldiers stood in the shadows throughout the troubled area watching the wrecked shops, the contents of many of which were strewn across the roadways.

TRACING CURTIS' WHEREABOUTS.

NORFOLK, May 18 (C.P.). — It was learned from an authentic source to-day that Norfolk police have been checking the whereabouts of John Hughes Curtis on the night of March 1 when the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped and that his whereabouts at that time have not been definitely established.

THE CURTIS CONFESSION.

The Lindbergh case goes from bad to worse as fresh evidence develops that, far from showing pity for the stricken parents, there have been many people in the United States who have seen in the tragedy of Hopewell nothing but a chance to line their pockets or grab a little front page publicity.

The latest scandal is the confession of John Hughes Curtis, of Norfolk, one of the two negotiators whose activities filled the American newspapers with daily columns that the parleys so often described were creations of his imagination, made up to be sold to the newspapers and film companies.

If what Mr. Curtis now says is true, it is impossible to think of fitting words to describe a man who would take advantage of an appaling situation to make money for himself, regardless of the cruel deception placed on heart-broken parents bewailing the loss of a loved one.

We say "if what he says is true" advisedly, for there is a more sinister and more disturbing explanation of the "confession," namely that the gangsters responsible for the kidnapping and slaying of the Lindbergh baby may have intimidated the Norfolk man by dire threats of what would happen to him should he betray them to the authorities.

No matter which story you believe the whole incident is a sad commentary upon the moral turpitude that seems to exist to such a marked degree across the border.

THE NIXON-HEPBURN COMBINATION.

Many political commentators are having difficulty in arriving at the exact relationship existing between the two wings of the opposition in Ontario.

Hon. H. C. Nixon, the Progressive leader, and Mitchell F. Hepburn, the Liberal commander in the field, are working together in perfect harmony in opposition to the Government led by Hon George S. Henry, and yet there has been no formal alliance of the Liberal and Progressive forces, which makes the situation rather baffling.

Furthermore, when the pronouncedly dry attitude of the Progressive party is considered in conjunction with the decidedly moist views of many in the Hepburn camp, the possibility of an amalgamation of the two forces does not strike the casual observer as being very bright.

The convention that nominated Mr. Hepburn, it will be remembered, tossed the prohibition plank out of the window, and with the Liberal leader swinging well to the wets, as well as to the left, about the only thing he would seem to have in common with the Progressive party is that they are both opposed to the Government and its policies.

The air will probably not be cleared until a provincial convention of the Progressive organization has had a chance to consider the situation and to decide whether or not a permanent alliance with the Liberal forces is feasible.

PROTECTING THE MILK SUPPLY.

The decision of the Board of Health to have Peterborough declared a restricted area so that all cows, the milk from which is to be sold in this city, will be periodically inspected by officials of the Federal Department of Agriculture, is another step toward assuring this community of a safe milk supply and will doubtless be approved by the public generally.

It is true—and fortunately so—that a large proportion of the milk furnished local consumers is pasteurized, and the families so protected are in no danger of infection, but it is equally true that quantities of raw milk are also sold here, and the consumer of this product has the right to feel that in purchasing this milk he is also being protected in so far as the efforts of the authorities can ensure the purity of the milk offered here for consumption.

The vital necessity of a safe milk supply is so generally recognized that it will be a shock to the public to learn that a case of bovine tuberculosis has been discovered as having developed on a farm which supplies milk to be sold in a raw state to Peterborough families.

The Board of Health in demanding from the owner a certificate showing the rest of his cows in a healthy condition and in deciding that the department should be asked to make restricted area tests here are moving in the right direction.

No community can afford to take chances with its milk supply, and barring general pasteurization, the step now taken should be the most effective action that could be launched to give the community greater protection.

TOO MANY HORN-CARRIERS.

If Premier Henry ever takes the trouble to read the provincial newspapers or if some of their recent issues have been brought to his attention, he must be impressed by the fact that a strong current of public opinion supports the idea that he was guilty of a major political error when he discarded the policy the Globe mapped out for him next week.

Mr. Henry's Government will in all probability face the electors in a provincial election next year, and many of the provincial dailies have said in the past few days that it could go into such a battle with no more effective ammunition than the announcement that it intended to put into effect a radical policy of retrenchment in connection with the cost of government.

The suggestion that the Legislature should be reduced to the same numerical strength as that of Ontario's representation in the Federal Parliament —88 members—has made an instantaneous hit throughout the Province, for it fits in with the general impression that government would not only be cheaper but decidedly more efficient with a smaller Legislature.

It used to be a favorite pastime of brass bands in the old days to pad their membership with non-players on occasions when they wanted to bring their strength to impressive proportions; these counterfeit musicians, commonly known as "horn-carriers," were provided with instruments which they pretended to play.

That is the trouble with parliamentary bodies in general; most of the work and the effective and constructive thinking is done by a comparative few, while the "horn-carriers" draw their indemnities and contribute nothing of value.

SECRET MEETINGS.

The general public is usually suspicious when municipal boards insist upon conducting business behind closed doors with the press excluded. There may have been a time when reporters were looked upon with suspicion; but in these days public men soon realize that there is no person more loyal to his community and its best interests, than the scribe who is gathering information for his readers; with the result that trust is reposed in him, and it is never betrayed. The mere fact that he is taken into confidence is the surest way to insure the competent handling of public business.

But every little while some incident arises in which reporters are asked to leave council chambers during certain discussions; but the opposite happened at a council gathering in a Nova Scotia town recently. The members of the town council were asked to leave and the four reporters present remained in possession, complete and undisputed, of the council chamber.

The matter of street paving was being considered when the street committee retired by consent, to the engineer's office. The council adjourned. The remaining members of the council were asked to go into the engineer's office. When they all got together the council was re-assembled and the business transacted. The civic fathers came out of their retreat and one of them returning to the council chamber informed the waiting scribes, "that was easy," and another remarked, "You can get it from the clerk."

No doubt the ratepayers of that town thought it might be interesting to learn at first hand what discussions went on at that private meeting. It was a novel plan for the aldermen to leave the council chamber, but our guess is that if they do it often enough they will eventually leave the council chamber for good.—Chatham News.

"THE SUBSIDIZED PRESS."

So often have we heard of the "capitalist press" or the "subsidized press" that we never pay much attention to such remarks. Even Mr. Hepburn made use of it within recent days, the "subsidized press" being the manner of his reference. Our own idea is that the press has been very fair to Mr. Hepburn. When he came here to speak a few weeks ago we announced several times (no charge) that he was going to be here. The central office of the Liberal association in Toronto sent along a picture of Mr. Hepburn a day or so before he spoke, and we put that in the paper, too, (no charge). We have a sort of half-baked idea that we had something to do with getting the folk out to listen to him. The day after he spoke we printed not only an account of his speech, but we wrote an editorial about him saying that he was a smart, up and coming young man, or something like that. In all we thought we had used the visiting gentleman from over St. Thomas way so well that he'd like to come back again. Yet since then he has been romping around the country talking of the "subsidized press." If there are agencies or forces or organizations or individuals around who —or which—are actually subsidizing the capitalist press we would like to know who they are and where they live. "Subsidized" and "capitalistic" give the impression of plenty of available money which can be had by rapping the necessary number of times on a mahogany door. We are quite certain that we know more newspapermen in Canada than Mr. Hepburn does; likewise, we know more about the newspaper business, and we might inform Mr. Hepburn that we have yet to come across a grafter.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

When some of the conditions at home are considered the United States' demand for a clean-up in Hawaii is amusing.

Premier Bennett is akin to most of us in one respect at least. He told the railway committee that he doesn't carry much money around with him.

If prosperity would only come back to Canada as quickly as the weather changes in this country life would indeed be a bowl of cherries.

Counsel in the Hydro probe are apparently acting upon the advice of those radio sleuths, Snoop and Peep, namely "Grill him!"

Politics in Australia cannot truthfully be described as static. There is something new every day or so.

A majority report of the parliamentary committee finds that gasoline prices in Canada are not unreasonable. From the amount of driving being done the conclusion is justified that the consumer agrees with the verdict.

Endorsation of Government operation of radio seems to be unanimous with the exception of the people who own radio sets and do the listening-in.

A circus did the biggest business in New York this spring that it has ever succeeded in doing in that city. Just another curious feature of this period of depression.

GRAIN, CATTLE, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, May 18.—With receipts of butter normal, and a good demand, local brokers were able to clear receipts yesterday at steady prices. Ontario and Western supplies were offered on spot at 17½c for No. 1 creamery solids, and 16½c for No. 2. There was no weakness evident, and reports from Montreal told of a firm undertone in that city, and movements of supplies fairly good. In Toronto, Western and Ontario butter found sales, and brokers were able to keep storages fairly clear.

Cream.

Cream prices were steady at the increases reported on Monday. Local buyers were quoting country shippers 18c for special, 17c for No. 1, and 14c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Cheese.

There was only a small demand for new cheese, but prices were about steady at 9¼c to 9½c for large, 9¾c to 9¾c for twins, and 8¾c to 10c for triplets. Prices to retailers were steady at 11c for new large, 11¼c for twins, 11½c for triplets, and 13½c for new stiltons.

Eggs.

Receipts of eggs were not exceptional for this season, but the demand was poor. Brokers found difficulty in moving storage-packed supplies, and wholesalers did not receive much demand from the trade. Prices for graded eggs were lower at 15c for extras, 13c for firsts and 11c for seconds, in used cases, and 15½c for extras and 13½c for firsts, storage-packed. Prices to country shippers were 1c per dozen lower, at 13c for extras, 11c for firsts and 9c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned, and 1c less to retailers at 19c for extras in cartons, 17c for extras loose, 15c for firsts loose, and 13c for seconds loose.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, May 18.—The long expected increase in butter receipts failing to materialize yesterday, the Montreal butter market remained firm and unchanged yesterday at 16½c per pound for No. 1 first in cartons or less. Receipts were only 465 boxes. At this time last year Montreal was selling butter for export, there being a surplus here, but this year so far there has not been enough for domestic requirements. Most of the Western butter coming East was being sold at Toronto, where prices were slightly higher than here.

On the cheese market prices were shaded ¼c to 9¼c per pound in some cases for current receipts, while other sellers secured 9¼c. Receipts were 1,430 boxes.

The egg market held steady, with receipts on the light side at 3,208 cases. Fresh eggs from Ontario and the Prairies, on spot or for shipment, graded, were quoted at 17½c to 18c for extras, 14½c to 15c for firsts and 13c for seconds.

Potatoes were unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Piling up of evidence that domestic winter wheat crop prospects had deteriorated, not improved, since May 1, gave a vigorous hoist to grain values yesterday.

Wheat rose to about 3 cents a bushel over last week's low, influenced especially by an official report that 60 per cent. of winter wheat acreage in Nebraska would be abandoned, an amount 20 per cent. more than the May 1 Government forecast. Heavy selling to realize profits, however, led to setbacks from top prices.

Advances Moderate.

Wheat closed unsettled, ½c to ¾c above Monday's finish; corn at ½c decline to ¼c advance; oats, unchanged to ¼c higher; and provisions unchanged to 15c up.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 18. — Stimulated by adverse crop advices from United States winter wheat area, the wheat market easily created a wave of selling inspired by relative weakness in the securities market here yesterday. Prices closed ¾c higher for the day.

May wheat rested at 63½c, July at 60c, and October at 65¾c. The market at Liverpool resumed trading yesterday after the Whitsuntide holidays and a little export was worked during the session.

Reports from the United Kingdom and the Continent indicated that European traders were becoming more impressed with the extent of the damage to the United States winter wheat crop. The undertone at Liverpool was steady and inclined to strengthen.

The market here opened fractionally higher on strength at Liverpool, fluctuated nervously and then pointed higher.

Demand for cash wheat was not keen and spreads eased fractionally. A fair inquiry for rye, presumably for Finland, enlivened the coarse grain activity, and some sales were reported. Other pit operations were routine.

Voice of the People

A NASTY RUMOR.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir:

A rumor is being circulated that it is the intention of the Dominion Government to declare a moratorium for all banks and other dividend-paying concerns. It is hardly possible that such an idea has occurred to anybody in a responsible position.

It is true that Mr. Bennett proposed in his election speeches to follow the U.S. but this is going even further than the U.S., although Mr. Hoover's recent threat may have given birth to the rumor here.

A word from The Examiner might allay the alarm.

J. H. BURNHAM.

FISHING.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

I wish to point out a few facts which I regard as faults in the laws governing the taking of fish from the rivers and lakes, especially in this district.

I am only an amateur at the art of fishing, but I am a firm believer in fair play and sportsmanship, which I feel are not shown by the existing regulation for the catching of fish, and of pickerel in particular.

It seems to me that the present Game and Fisheries Department are trying, even at this critical time, to prevent the poorer class of people from adorning their tables with this staple fish. Understanding the good intent of this body in forbidding the taking of these fish from April 15 to May 15 inclusive we cannot blame them, but we wonder if in this their purpose was the same as is the effect. By the latter I refer to the fact that by this they saved them for American tourists who will soon be here by the hundreds. The tourist trade is, I believe, the third greatest industry of this country, but though this profit to the merchants of Canada is not to be debarred, I do not find in it an excuse for giving these visitors a greater chance or even as good a one as to we Canadians. I was visiting among our Kawartha Lakes last July and I met campers who were shipping over a dozen lunge and a large quantity of bass, packed in ice to their home in Cleveland. Does this fall in with our controllers' motto: "Fish for fun not for food"?

The object of this letter is to ask if this exportation rather than the permission to catch pickerel during this month could not have been cut down with less damage to the sport of fishing and more benefit to the poorer people of this district.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space in your paper, I remain,

Yours truly,

FAIR PLAY.

SON OF THE GODS

INSTALMENT NO. 22

"Did you wind it up?" Al Wagner inquired of his daughter when she burst into his presence late that afternoon. Alanna answered him shortly, and he voiced his relief. "Thank Heaven! I hope you didn't mince matters. The miserable skunk!—But I still think I was the one to do it. What did he say?"

Alanna tossed her arms aloft in a furious gesture. "He didn't open his mouth."

"He'd have opened his mouth to me," the father growled. "I know those Chinks; I've worked hundreds of them. Lord! I wish you had let me see him. I wouldn't have let him off so easily. Why, if he brags about this affair, it will ruin us."

Alanna uttered an explosive sound which indicated her contempt of consequences.

"Oh, jeer it you want to!" Wagner cried testily. "You know it's true just the same! Now then, I hope this will be a lesson to you, young lady. It serves you right for playing around with every good-looking stranger you meet."

Harshly Alanna said: "I horsewhipped him."

"Huh?" This interogration came with a jerk, then, as the girl's words sank in, a paralysis crept over her father; horror numbed him.

"I wore out a crop on him."

"Horsewhipped him? — When? Where?"

"Just now. In the tea garden. In front of everybody. I'd have killed him if I could."

"Oh, my God!" The cry issued weakly from Wagner's lips. he seized his head, he stared wildly at his daughter.

Now that Alanna had found her voice words rushed from her, she stormed about the room in a gusty passion. But the tornado blew itself out as rapidly as it had blown up, she faltered, hesitated, her voice broke and her bosom heaved. Without warning, she burst into tears.

Wagner approached and shook a clenched fist over her.

"Yell!! Raise the hotel and have us thrown out!" he shouted. "That's your mother all over again. She always fixed it so we could never stop twice in the same place. You've got all she had, and more. This horsewhipping seems to run in the family; she threatened to horsewhip every woman I spoke to. But —you did it!—Do you realize what you've done to yourself? And to me? Bawled us out!—But no, you never stop to consider anything, do you? You couldn't act like a lady; you couldn't let the matter drop; you couldn't take that rotter off alone somewhere and beat him up. You had to do it in Tiffany's window."

"He—he kissed me!"

"So you boasted. Why didn't you guard it as a family secret? Now it will be in the papers, of course. Oh, you're as private as an eclipse. Engaged to a Chinaman! We'll never live that down."

Alanna wailed, a paroxysm of such violence seized her that she slid ungracefully off the lounge. She made no effort to rise; she merely sat on the floor and rocked herself in misery. "I love him," she moaned.

"Humph! That's likely," her father sneered. "Love a Chinaman!"

"I do. I don't care what he is. I love him."

"Then take it out in loving," Wagner spoke through clenched teeth. "We're going to leave here as soon as it gets dark enough to escape—I can see the headlines tomorrow morning—"

The telephone rang with the startling suddenness of a machine-gun burst and he snatched it up.

"Hello!—Wagner speaking—Who? Tel him to go to hell!" He crashed the instrument upon its stand. "There you are, Typhoid Mary! A gentleman of the press! Lord! You're the image of hard luck for me. Call your maid and get your things together before they break in on us."

"I'm not going," Alanna declared.

With an effort that brought the sweat, Al Wagner calmed himself sufficiently to argue; when this failed he fumed, then he raged and at last he threatened. Alanna was granite. To run away would be a confession of guilt, an admission of shame. And what had she to be ashamed of? Nothing. If anybody dared to throw it up to her, get smart, she'd give them a taste of—Well, she had other crops and she could use them. What did she care for a little gossip? Not—that. There was mighty little that she cared for now; her heart was in pieces. Leave Paradis? Rather not. They would say no more about it—not another word.

During the time it took her to voice her contrition and her promises of reform, the telephone rang three times. They let it ring.

In despair at last Wagner stamped off to his own suite and locked himself in. Later he ordered his dinner sent up and ate it in the solitude of his chamber. He wondered apprehensively if he would have to live in this wretched room, penned up like a wolf, until he grew a beard long enough to serve as a disguise.

Cyril Bathurst returned home late that night. He had attended a party where he had been forced to listen to various accounts of the occurrence at the tea dance and to comments upon racial questions which did not set well with him, hence he was not in an agreeable mood.

He was astonished to find Alanna Wagner waiting for him.

"Where is Mr. Lee?" she inquired without preamble.

"On his way to Paris. He sails tomorrow for America."

"Why did he go?"

Bathurst opened his lips, then he hesitated. Coldly he asked, "Isn't that rather stupid, coming from you? You're not a stupid girl."

"What I mean is—does he hate me?"

"Probably. I would, if I were in his shoes."

"The idea of his making love to me! Kissing me! Why, he spent half of last night under the cypresses. Can you bear it?—Did you know he's an Oriental?"

"I did."

"I—I could kill him! It's outrageous!" the girl cried stormily.

"Right! Filthiest trick I ever heard of. So unfair."

"Yes. Unfair."

"You should be thrashed within an inch of your life."

"I?" Alanna started.

"Certainly Surely you don't hold him to blame? That Mongolian tiger didn't drag you out of the Casino and into that thicket, did he? I fancy not—I'd like awfully to give you a piece of my mind, Miss Wagner, but I can't very well do so under my own roof."

"Please do. I came uninvited."

"Thanks awfully. I wil. You're vulgar and ill-bred and cruel. I'll wager you were one of those nasty little brats who pull kittens' legs just to hear them squeal. You think it's clever to disregard everything conventional and to outrage all the decencies. You're utterly indifferent to other people's feelings. Really, I'm sorry your father isn't present but you may repeat what I say and he can find me any time."

"Go ahead," the girl urged defiantly.

"Righto! It's a pleasure I can't deny myself. We Europeans often spoil our women after they grow up but Americans seem to ruin them at the breast and you're a typical example. Look around you here in Paradis. Vain, overdressed, impudent, empty-headed women, as loud and gaudy and wasteful as macaws. It's the same all over Europe—Imagine a girl of your age coming to a man's house, alone, at this ungodly hour, and confessing—boasting—that she spent half the night in a young fellow's arms! Thoroughly smart and up to date, no doubt, but it jolly well shocks me. I wish you were my daughter, for half an hour. I'd teach you what a crop feels like. Sam Lee is a fine, clean, upstanding boy, and far too good for you. He held you at arm's length as long as he could and that drove you frantic. Oh, I saw the way you went at him! Disgraceful! Now you hate him'; you 'could kill him'! Well, you did something a damned sight more cruel than that."

"Yes?"

"You humiliated a proud, sensitive—"

"What about my pride?"

"Sam is a gentleman of breeding. His pride is stiffer keener and higher tempered than yours, or mine, for he has something to be proud of. I have little and you have nothing—except your good looks. You see I don't bend the knee to your father's money."

In a voice that surprised her listener Alanna said: "Just a minute. I'd like to speak my piece. I'm awfully mad—about the kittens. I never did—! I love animals. I'd die before I'd hurt one—The rest was true, except what you said about American girls. They're not al spoiled and selfish; you see only the ones like me. I know I was rotten. I came here to apologize to Sam."

"Oh, I say!" Bathurst exclaimed. "I'm sorry I ran on as I did."

"That's all right. I've known the truth about myself for ages. I'm like father's soap; it's highly scented and beautifully wrapped up, and the boxes are expensive and all that, but it's made out of scraps from the stockyards. That sizes me up; lavender and leaf lard, roses and refuse. I'm wild about Sam but that doesn't change the situation. It merely explains my actions. You see this is the first gate I ever found that was too high for me to jump; I suppose that's why I fell so hard. That's what drove me frantic."

"Do you honestly care for him?" The girl nodded; her eyes were wide and dark with pain; her face was white and stricken. "When you've had everything, it comes hard suddenly to find yourself without anything. Smash! Bang! All gone!!—I'm a smart aleck, because it makes people laugh. It's my principal accomplishment. This serves me right." There was a pause, then the speaker inquired with an effort, "Did I—hurt him much?" At Bathrust's answer, she flinched as if he had struck her. "I'll never forgive myself, of course. If I hadn't cared so terribly I couldn't have done it. But—he hurt me and I've never been hurt. Everything came to an end so swiftly—"

"Has it necessarily come to an end?"

"Oh, positively! There's no way out! You playwrights make absurd things happen on the stage but in real life people have to be practical. They have to look facts in the face and live up to certain fixed rules of behavior, no matter how rebellious they may be.

"You're a good little sport," Bathurst asserted feelingly. "I apologise."

"Thanks. That thing about the kittens hurt like the dickens. Come, take me home, quick. I want to cry."

OUT FOR THE MAXIMUM

DUBLIN—Former President William T. Cosgrave in a vigorous speech here today said he and his party felt Free State delegates to the Ottawa Imperial Economic conference must get all they can from the meeting.

"This is not a time when the Irish Free State can afford to refuse any possible economic advantage which is available to any other country," Mr. Cosgrave said.

HALIFAX, May 18 (C.P.).—Hearing of applications for writs of habeas corpus on behalf of eight 'Communists' sentenced to be deported by a Federal Immigration Board of Inquiry continued to-day in Supreme Court before Mr. Justice W. F. Carroll.

C. B. Smith, K.C., representing the immigration authorities, declared the men had been properly arrested, tried and sentenced, and therefore were not entitled to consideration by the court. Unless it was proved the Board of Inquiry had lacked jurisdiction in the cases the applications should be dismissed.

TRUCK DRIVER CLEARED; STRUCK MAN ON ROAD

BRANTFORD, May 18 (C.P.) — Magistrate Blake to-day dismissed Harvey Wheat, Toronto, transport driver, of charges laid in connection with the death of Albert Piper or Lee, who was found dead on highway west of Paris, April 12. The Magistrate did not call the defense, holding that evidence showed Piper had been hit previously and that when struck by the truck driven by Wheat he was just an object on the road.

Acts Of Vandalism Found At Shipyard

QUINCY, Mass., May 17.—Harry E. B. Gould, superintendent of the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, announces "several acts of vandalism" on ships under construction at the plant had been discovered during the past few days.

So far, he said, with one exception the damage discovered had been confined to petty destruction which was immediately noticeable, but he expressed the fear that more serious damage had been committed on ships that have been launched. He said the damage may have been wrought by employes disgruntled over wage reductions.

The main electric feed cable on a liner delivered to its owners during the past month was found to have been severed.

NICKEL SHOWS SMALL DECLINE

International Milling Also Shows Drop in 400 Share Turnover.

OILS LIGHTLY TRADED.

TORONTO, May 18.—(CP)—Still indecisive in its movements, Toronto Stock Exchange market this morning gave no indication of a decided turn in sentiment. The list fluctuated idly in the wake of New York. The turnover the first hour was about the lowest of the current dull period, with only ten stocks out and something less than 500 shares showing on the board.

The outstanding issue on the board was International Milling preferred, which dropped from an opening price of 94¼ to 92½ on a turnover of about 400 shares. Other stocks in the same grouping were inactive.

There were small losses shown by C. P. R. Brazilian, International Nickel, Smelters, Bell Telephone was firmer at 89 and Ford of Canada ¼ higher at 7⅜. Walkers, the food and chain store stocks were unchanged.

Oils were lightly traded, mostly unchanged from last night's levels.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 18 (C.P.) — Stocks closed lower to-day, turning heavy in the afternoon, although volume remained light. Transactions approximated 700,000 shares. Net losses for American Telephone, U.S. Steel, Chesapeake & Ohio, Corn Products, Westinghouse, American Can, General Electric, Santa Fee and Woolworth amounted to about a point. Coca Cola was off 2.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, May 18 (C.P.)—Price action was confined and irregular in dull and featureless trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market to-day. Changes on end displayed a slight majority or recessions.

Declaration of the regular 50-cent dividend and an extra of 50 cents by Lake Shore resulted in an advance of 75 to $27.25 in shares of that company. McIntyre and Pioneer of B.C. were also a little stronger, but Teck-Hughes eased a few cents and other higher-priced golds were inactive.

Noranda met some selling in the forenoon and closed down 40. Hudson Bay weakened again, dropping 7 from last night, and International Nickel slipped 15. In the oil section Ajax Oil was up a couple and Peninsular Pete off a fraction.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, May 18 (C.P.). — In sympathy with Wall Street, the prices on the Montreal Stock Exchange suffered fractional reverses at the close to-day. Sales volume was slight, with price movements confined to narrow limits.

International Nickel made a negligible response to the quarterly report which showed a sharp curtailment of earnings and profits for the period. The stock appeared in odd lots only in the morning, and only in the late trading did board lots change hands, being quoted at 5⅛, off ⅛.

Montreal Power was a shade firmer in the early trade, but closed unchanged at 26½. Brazilian Traction was steady at 9¼ and Canadian Pacific Railway lost ⅝ at 11¾.

Dominion Glass established a new low at 40, off ten points. Shawinigan Power dipped ¼ to 10¾.

Both Canadian Car issues declined ⅛, the Common closing at 4 and the Preferred at 11⅞.

Livestock-Produce Quotations

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, May 18.— (C.P.)— The best thing that could be said of to-days market on Toronto Stock Exchange was that the process of slow liquidation was almost at a standstill, though net changes where they did occur were mostly on the side of the decline. Trading showed but slight improvement over that of the first hour when the turnover aggregated about 500 shares.

C.P.R., heavy with Wall Street rails, declined 5-8 of a point to again equal its record low of 11¼. Brazilian and Nickel were each off less than ½ point. Smelters dropped 1¼ to 34 and Page Hersey at 40½ was off ½ point. International Milling Preferred, which had sold down 1¾ points during the morning, steadied at its mid-day price of 92½.

Oils were unchanged to slightly easier. Chain Store stocks were unchanged. Ford gave up an initial gain of ¼ point. Bell Telephone, Montreal Power, Shawinigan were firm, each a small amount above their previous finals.

FORMER STIRLING GIRL PASSES IN CALGARY

CALGARY, May 18.—Stricken by a heart attack, Mrs. A. Hayden, wife of Charles A. Hayden, managing editor of The Calgary Herald, died here to-day in her 53rd year.

Mrs. Hayden was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Campion and born in Stirling, Ont. Besides her husband she is survived by her mother and two sons.

Man's Remarks in His Own Pigstye Must Be Addressed Solely to Pigs

HAMILTON, May 18—Some months ago, Art Bone, charged with assaulting Mrs. Annie Hall, told Magistrate Vance what a strong man he was and how many dumbells he could lift. His worship then advised him to "keep to dumbells and leaves the belles alone."

He did not heed that advice, and today he faced charges of using insulting language to Mrs. Hall and stealing some photographs of her.

Mr. Bone lives near the Brantford highway and Mrs. Hall resides nearby. One day Mr. Bone strode into his pig pen, drew himself to his full height and launched a stream of investive at Mrs. Hall.

"And I can say what I like in my pigsty," he told the magistrate.

"You can, so long as you address your remarks solely to the pigs," retorted his lordship.

One year's suspended sentence was the punishment inflicted.

AIRD WAS PAID

not been developed, and that it was in a "dead stage" so far as the Hydro is concerned at present. However, the Madawaska would eventually form an integral part of the Hydro system, and the purchase was regarded as good business.

W. N. Tilley, K.C., commission counsel, questioned the former Hydro chairman this morning. Mr. Mcgrath explained before starting on direct evidence that he might have seen Aird on various occasions but was not certain of dates, and Aird might have seen him oftener than he had stated.

He wished to make it clear, he said, that no one had sent Aird to see him regarding the Madawaska. He had seen Sir John Aird once, but did not know J. H. Black or Heber Smith. He had met Peter White, K.C., but did not remember this meeting as concerning the Madawaska. Nor did he remember meeting Fred Roberts, Toronto lawyer, or E. C. Cousins of the local Harbor Board in that connection.

In discussions with Aird, he had been given the impression that Aird's option on the Madawaska had expired, witness said.

Reported Against Purchase

On Oct. 12, 1928, a committee of engineers reported against the purchase of power from any company on the river and recommended that Hydro take steps to purchase the power rights.

He had not differed with the engineers on their stand, he said.

Aird had written to J. A. O'Brien, representing the owners of the power rights, saying things looked optimistic, despite the fact the engineers had ruled against the scheme.

Mr. Magrath knew nothing of this letter, but said he "wanted to keep that young man close" to him so Aird could not dispose of the property to others and thus create competition.

C. Alfred Maguire, Hydro Commissioner, whose name has been prominently mentioned in the investigation, came into the room at this stage, and was followed shortly afterward by Premier George S. Henry. Both may testify later.

Referring to the Aird payment of $50,000, Mr. Magrath said every cent paid for expenses was closely scrutinised by the Hydro engineers. There had been discussion as to paying Aird a fee of $25,000 for "stepping aside," plus the actual moneys he had expended. There had been questions about the purchase—to the effect Hydro did not know what to do with the power. "The power will be necessary in meeting the needs of this Province, and if it fell into the hands of others it would be embarrassing," Mr. Magrath said.

Not Dissenting Voice

Everything done by the Commission was done unanimously, he said, and nothing was ever allowed to go through if there was a dissenting voice.

A memorandum which said Aird was to get $50,000 for a fee and the same amount as expenses, was merely a recommendation and "did not mean he got it, by any means."

On one occasion Aird had "written a very foolish letter" in which he asked the Commission "to give him some money whether the deal went through or not."

"I immediately decided we did not want any business with Mr. Aird" witness said, "and then wrote him making it clear payment would only be made if the property was obtained in one year." The commission had got in touch with O'Brien before the letter was sent. The draft of the letter was kept on fyle, however. In a telephone conversation with O'Brien, witness said, he had stated it was better to get together direct to discuss the sale of the property. He had told Aird of this conversation with O'Brien, so Aird would not feel "I was going behind his back."

Good Go-Between

Aird's "stepping aside" and the possibility of his "facilitating competition" had been considered by the Hydro in the entire negotiations. "We were negotiating with O'Brien and I felt Aird would be a good go-between."

"I don't know if you have ever been to an Irish fair and seen one Irishman trying to sell something to another Irishman. If you have you'll realize the value of a go-between," witness said, as the court roared with laughter.

In all his dealings with Hydro, "O'Brien has been a gentleman", said witness, "and I happen to know he spent $19,000 on that property before he did any business with Hydro."

He had put the transaction before G. Howard Ferguson, then premier and had been treated fairly and decently in every respect.

Friendly Relations

Mr. Magrath said relations with Mr. Ferguson had always been cordial and friendly.

The fee finally paid Aird was $50,000 and no more had ever been paid. He himself had settled on the amount. He had also settled the amount to be paid O'Brien, offering $1,800,000 and that was all.

The money to Aird worked out at around 2½ per cent on the purchase price of the Madawaska. "Millard is absolutely wrong," said Mr. Magrath with regard to the suggestion Aird had received more than that sum.

"I'm rather sorry any young man should make that statement," he said, when asked if Aird and Millard had been advised not to enter the $50,000 in their income tax returns.

"Did anyone connected with the Government suggest special consideration for Aird?"

"No, Mr. Tilley, No. There has never been any interference by the Government in any respect. There was never any suggestion regarding Aird or anyone else, nor anything out of the way in the transaction."

What was accomplished in 1928, he continued, was done in the best interests of the Province, and it was good value for the money. "My judgment is we made fully as good a bargain as any ever made."

Here A. G. Slaght, K.C., objected. He had been forbidden to touch on the merits or demerits of the bargain, and Mr. Magrath should not be allowed to make general statements of this nature.

His Lordship thought the Commission should hear what the general impression of the Hydro Commission was with regard to the purchase. "I think Mr. Tilley's questioning is all right," Mr. Justice Orde ruled.

"I think it was fair to Mr. Aird and good business for the Commission," witness continued.

O'Brien's Offer

Distinct recollection that O'Brien had expressed the opinion that Aird had "some regrets" in the matter and should be taken care of, was voiced by Mr. Magrath. On one occasion, added witness, O'Brien had intimated: "Give me my price and I'll take care of him."

Eventually the Hydro obtained the property for $1,800,000, and Hydro paid Aird $50,000, said the witness. He had not heard of the Aird $125,000 Beauharnois payment until last summer, and knew nothing about it all, he said.

A. G. Slaght, K.C., then examined witness. He had kept himself out of politics, said Mr. Magrath, and even if the $125,000 had been paid for political purposes would have known nothing about it.

G. A. Gaby, chief engineer of Hydro, had not been in favor of buying developed power, witness said.

When the $50,000 was paid, the other commissionersk new all details, he continued. He did not know Peter White, K.C., J. H. Black and E. C. Cousins had interviewed Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Gaby on the project.

If Gaby had thought the visits were "sinister" he would have reported to the chairman, witness felt sure.

Out of O'Brien's Garden

"If you think Aird plucked $50,000 from the Hydro tree you are mistaken. It was Mr. O'Brien's garden that money came from—for we set the price" witness told Mr. Slaght.

"Yes—and we never lost sight of the fact it was the people's money we were dealing with."

Mr. Magrath knew nothing of the visit of C. Alfred Maguire, Hydro commissioner, to the office of Sir John Aird. Nor had Maguire disclosed any "outside overtures" made to him. However Maguire might have mentioned meeting someone on the street and talking of Madawaska.

Aird's efforts had been those of a promoter trying to sell power to Hydro, witness continued.

that men prefer to work than accept handouts, the wood will be available for sawing later on in the year. By this arrangement the Charity Board obtains at a favorable price a large supply of wood for their ordinary relief requirements, and can also afford men employment in the present chopping operations in the bush and finally in the city yard.

Mr. Metheral says that reports from the men he has already sent out to the Windsor lot indicate that the conditions and financial results are quite satisfactory.

N. ZEALAND TO MAINTAIN NAVAL DEFENSE OUTLAY

WELLINGTON, N.Z., May 18 (C.P. Cable).—Prime Minister G. W. Forbes to-day said New Zealand would not reduce expenditures for naval defence.

The government, the prime minister said, had decided to refuse acceptance of the Expenditure Commission's recommendation that New Zealand's naval defence be transferred to control of the British Government.

Nor, he added, would the Government curtail its vote for the construction of the Royal Naval Base at Signapore, which it hopes to see definitely completed.

BROKEN BACK NETS LAD $7,500 CASH, $400 YEAR

TORONTO, May 18 (C.P.).—By an agreement between the parties in the action, David McCafferty, 15, whose back was broken April 23, 1930, in a fall down an elevator shaft at the Toronto General Hospital, where he was employed as a page boy, is to be paid $7,500 cash, and will receive $400 per year for life. In his claim he asked for $50,000 damages.

Defendants in the action before Judge Sedgewick at the Spring Assizes, were the Otis-Fenson Elevator Co., Ltd., and the Toronto General Hospital.

Less rain fell in the Irish Free State, in February, than in any February in 95 years.

CONDON VIEWS

Police S. W. Ironmonger said today he did not believe that John Hughes Curtis had made a complete confession regarding his fake negotiations in the Lindbergh case and that he has withheld "something important."

The investigators here said Curtis was evidently describing his own car when he asked police to look out for a green sedan. A search here resulted in the finding only one car of his description and this one, officers said, was his own, which they found parked at his boat building plant.

Mrs. Curtis, shortly after the announcement that her husband had confessed to have faked his negotiations, stated that Mr. Curtis was at home on the night of Mar. 1.

Dean Dobson-Peacock reiterated his opinion today that an attempt at extorting $50,000 through the Norfolk "intermediaries" revealed to him after he was mysteriously summoned to New York had no connection with the activities of the Norfolk "negotiations." The proposal, he said, was rejected after he and Curtis had conferred in New York and decided that they had better "clues."

Asked Down Payment

The minister said he made a private trip by aeroplane to New York after he received a mysterious summons on the telephone. He said he feared that Curtis might be in danger or that he was needed. Upon arriving at the Park Central hotel in New York a man serving as a guide arranged an interview with a second man who then made the ransom proposal. Dean Dobson-Peacock said $500 down payment was asked, with the $50,000 ransom to be paid upon the delivery of the child. He said identity of neither man was known to him.

Ordered To Hopewell.

HOPEWELL, May 18 (C.P.). — Friends disolosed to-day that quick thinking by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was responsible in part at least for the confession by John Hughes Curtis of the hoax which caused widespread search at sea for the kidnapped baby.

Informed last Thursday night aboard A. L. Foster's schooner Cachalot anchored at Cold Spring Harbor, N.J., that his baby had been found dead, Lindbergh immediately began packing his bag, remarking: "Come with me to Hopewell, Mr. Curtis."

An automobile left Cold Spring Harbor at 9 p.m., arriving at Hopewell early Friday morning. Curtis was taken to police headquarters; then began the questioning and checking up trips which ended in his confession.

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey announced to-day that "all police work, State and Federal, is to co-ordinate and all forces are swinging along with the same purpose in view."

Hampering Justice.

Gov. Moore said it was probable that Curtis would be arraigned today after a complaint had been sworn out against him by the police. A State charge, if made, the Governor said, would probably be that of making false statements," which in effect means hampering the ends of justice."

There were reports here to-day also, that Curtis would be charged by the United States Federal Government with hampering the functions of the Government. On the strength of his story, the coastguard patroled the coast.

A report disseminated by a news service (not the Associated Press) that Curtis had actually attempted to take his life, was officially denied at the State House.

Woman Aids Police

HOPEWELL, N.J., May 18 (C.P.) —Police disclosed to-day that a woman was helping them determine the true and complete facts concerning the activities of John Hughes Curtis, fake negotiator with the kidnappers of the murdered Lindbergh baby.

The mid-afternoon statement of Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of State Police, follows:

"Miss Ruth Gay came voluntarily to these headquarters with investigator from this point last night and has been actively co-operating with the police in an effort to determine the actual facts of Mr. Curtis' activities and to vindicate her self so far as any inferred implications of her connection with this deception might exist.

"Miss Gay is being questioned and a statement is being taken which will be investigated and checked.

"There has been nothing developed up to this time which would indicate that Miss Gay was knowingly involved with any intention of deceiving either Col. Lindbergh or the authorities.

"Two telegrams have been sent to Dean Dobson-Peacock, former Canadian clergyman, associate of Curtis in his negotiations, both of which he has ignored; although we have the assurance of the telegraph company they have been personally delivered.

"Investigation has developed that the alleged anonymous telephone call which summoned Mr. Peacock to the Park Central hotel in New York, where he registered under the name of Hill, was apparently put in by Curtis. Upon his arrival in New York Peacock went directly to Curtis' apartment in the Prince George hotel and interviewed Curtis.

"In a telephone conversation with Peacock this morning he said he would not come to Hopewell to-day and indicated that he did not know whether he could get to Hopewell at all.

No Desire to Co-operate

"He would give no definite answer as to when he would come to Hopewell and shows no desire to co-operate with the authorities at this point although he was told that he was involved by the statements of Curtis and his presence was wanted for thep urpose of facing Curtis.

"Nothing has been developed to indicate that Admiral Burrage (the third of the Norfolk negotiators) was actively involved in this deception.

"Inspector King at Nassau County, N.Y., brought a man from Rockville Centre, Long Island, to these headquarters to confront Curtis. During the time that this man was at these headquarters Curtis' story began to break and it was not necessary to confront him.

"No report on Curtis' investigations has been received as yet from the chief of police at Norfolk. Mr. Curtis is still being questioned and no arrest has been made as yet.

"The matter of arrest and arraignment, when decided upon, will be taken up with the prosecutor. Dr. Condon is still working with investigators from this point and is continuing the search of galleries for the man he calls 'John'.

JURIST DECREES TRADE TRIBUTE TO RACKATEERS

Penalizing of Payments as Participation in Crime Recommended.

PAYING OF TRIBUTE

NEW YORK, May 18. — A law in every state "prohibiting business men from paying tribute to crooks" is the recommendation of Fedreal Judge William Clark, of the United States District Court in Newark, N.J., to bring American business "back to the times when honest men could do business in an honest way."

Judge Clark presided in the Sprague case in the United States District Court in Newark in December, 1930, testing the validity of the Eighteenth Amendment, and while his ruling voided the dry law, it was not upheld by the United States Supreme Court. His suggestion that the stigma of criminal should be laid on the business men themselves who aided crooks and grafters by paying tribute was made in the course of an interview on commercial crimes and rackets for Credit and Financial Management, official publication of the National Association of Credit Men.

Judge Clark holds that the great percentage of American business is free from criminal ramifications, and that it is the smaller percentage that opens fields of endeavor to classes having dishonest methods for acquiring cash and property. The attitude of some creditors toward debtors of doubtful monetary and personal standing opened one such field, Judge Clark said, and another lay in the relations between some business men and certain labor groups operated as "unions," but in reality offshoots of "gangland."

"Not long ago," he said, "the case of a group of laundrymen in a large city was brought to my attention. For some reason or another, a gang of hoodlums started preying on all owners of laundries in that city. Delivery trucks were raided and clothing was destroyed. In a few days representatives of the gang called upon the laundry owners and asserted that for a certain sum the trucks would be left alone and the owners protected from gang onslaught.

"I was surprised to learn that laundry owners agreed to pay this tribute. However, later they tired of that procedure and formed an organization to combat the gang. Special policemen were employed to act as guards for the trucks, but it soon turned out that some of these 'special policemen' were members of the gang, and as a result the trucks were raided again.

"The laundry owners decided it was cheaper to pay the tribute than to maintain the organization, and I understand they are still 'paying off' the gang.

"In my opinion, the laundry owners are just as much to blame for their plight as the hoodlums. I cannot understand why legitimate business men cannot find some means to stop the activities of bandits preying on their business. By continuing to pay tribute to the gang, they are placing themselves in the position of aiding crooks to make 'suckers' out of American business men."

STEVENS RAPS LONDON AGENTS

Criticizes Willis Severely for Distributing Propaganda on N. S. Wales.

ORDERS ACTIONS HALTED.

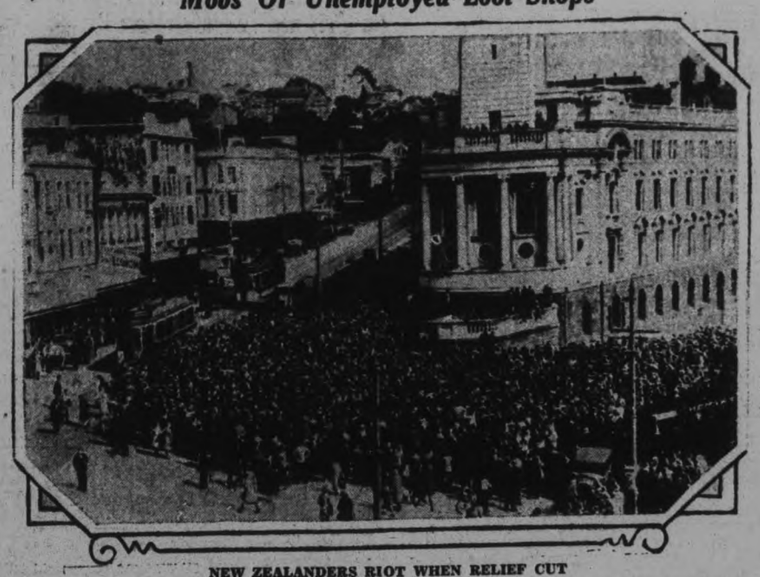
SYDNEY, N.S.W., May 18 (C.P.).—B. S. B. Stevens, new Premier of New South Wales, to-day forwarded instructions to A. C. Willis, agent-general for the State in London, severely criticizing him for issuing "propaganda."

"The Government regrets you used the office of the agent-general for distribution of propaganda of a repudiatory nature," the Premier's instructions said. "Your action in publishing the Lang pamphlet, setting forth reasons why New South Wales should repudiate external debts, is questioned. You are directed immediately to cease any further propaganda and to cease any further statements regarding the attitude of New South Wales towards bondholders."

The new Government to-day pledged itself on behalf of the people of the State completely to observe decisions of the last Premiers' conference for rehabilitation of the Commonwealth and the States.

Dealing with financial questions, the Government said it had found the policy of former Premier J. T. Lang, who was ousted last Friday, had destroyed any chance of effecting a reduction of interest on overseas debts.

Mobs Of Unemployed Loot Shops



NEW ZEALANDERS RIOT WHEN RELIEF CUT

Twice within a month, mobs of unemployed have rioted in New Zealand, in protest against reductions in relief allowances. Several thousand rioters looted shops in Wellington, May 10, and clashed with police, 24 of their number being arrested. The earlier outbreak, in Auckland, last month, is illustrated in the picture ABOVE. Hundreds of the demonstrators participated in rioting and looting. Fierce rioting lasted for two days before police reinforcements and naval detachments quieted the unruly mob. Every shop window in Queen St. was broken by the looters.

SALINITY OF OXFORD LAKE UNEXPLAINED

Salt Lakes, 17 Miles Inland, Played Part in Town's Development.

EXPLANATION GUESS-WORK

OXFORD, N.S., May 18 (C.P.).—Snug in the hills of Cumberland County, seventeen miles from the Northumberland Strait, the residents of this picturesque town breathe air with a salty tang. It has been so, as far back as its pioneer days when the first settlers used to ford the River Phillip in ox-carts. And to-day, travellers on the trans-Canada highway, going to Springhill, taste the same flavor as the winds sweep over a chain of salt lakes—sometimes tossing the spray on the road, where it evaporates, forming irregular white lines of salt.

The lakes have played a more important part in the building up of Oxford than in recent years. Decades ago, when salt was difficult to obtain, a few families maintained their supply by evaporating the water in huge iron pots. Over sixty years ago, Rufus Thompson started a grist mill and plaster kiln on their shores, run by water-power of the lakes' overflow, which crosses a low interval and empties itself into the river. After his death, the mill was operated by his sons, Inglis and Richard, until it was finally closed down in 1910. To-day the lakes form a beauty spot, and their only contribution to the industry of the town is huge quantities of ice, cut every winter and stored for summer consumption.

The salinity of the lakes has never been exploited. They are fed by springs, some of them so hot that there are weak spots in the ice all winter long. The fact that the lakes are higher at times is accounted for, some say, by a subterranean duct from Dry Lake—a fresh body of water two miles distant—acting as a siphon.

Three Lakes In Group.

There are three lakes in the group, covering about ten acres, in the shape of a Y, and connected by shallow channels. The tail of the Y is about three feet deep over half its area, and drops suddenly to about thirty feet for the remainder. A tiny separate lake, almost round, is of unknown depth, but which, in local opinions, is said to be bottomless.

The district surrounding the lakes is covered with outcroppings of limestone, very soft, and easily kilned into plaster. In the days of Rufus Thompson's mill, the "plaster rock," or limestone, was taken from a high ridge back of the lakes and brought to the mill on scows. The porous softness of the rock accounts for the fact that the nearby woods are full of pot-holes, varying from a few feet to hundreds of yards in width and some of them nearly a hundred feet deep. They are of all ages—some so recent that not even grass has taken root on the sides, and some covered with six-inch spruce.

Closely linked with the story of the lakes are legends of the cave, which at the opening, is a mere fissure in the face of a limestone cliff at the bottom of a pot-hole. Some people say it extended, originally, back to the Bay of Fundy. Others say from experience an underground river cuts through it. The boys who have dared explore it in the last few years say it extends through five or more rooms, connected by passages, to a distance of about thirty rods on a gradual slope. Beyond that? They do not know. But some have found the initials of their fathers carved on the walls. Bats in countless numbers festoon the walls and create a terrific disturbance when awakened by their torches. Some twenty years ago, one hardy adventurer took planks as far as the third room and made a "den," but left the community after a very short sojourn there a victim of bad nerves.

The beauty of the lakes and their curving wooded shores and islands has so far remained unsung. The park that once bordered them, the boathouse, and the canoes are but half-forgotten incidents of pre-war days. The phenomena of their salinity has never been actually accounted for, although generations have been born, lived a lifetime of casual curiosity within a few miles of them, and died leaving pieces of the puzzle to be fitted together.

ICE DRIFTS OUT TO SEA WITH MAN AND BEAR AT COST OF TWO LIVES

Would-Be Rescuer With Canoe Takes Man Off Floe.

LAST SEEN OF THEM

OTTAWA, May 18 (Special to The Examiner)—Ingenious and resourceful as the Eskimo has become in combating the hardships and hazards of the arctic, the northern natives occasionally fall victim to the storms and icy waters of their home.

A particularly pathetic instance of this is recited in the account of Constable McCormack of the R.C.M.P. as set forth in the annual report of the force.

"Native Saudluk," he writes, "was outside his tent during a very heavy gale from the northeast, putting some stones around the bottom to prevent the wind from blowing it down.

"While doing so he noticed a bear on the ice—which was newly formed—about two hundred yards from the shore. He must have got his rifle and gone after the bear, because when Native Killikpallik came out of his tent to see what was relaying Saudluk he noticed that the ice had broken off close to the shore and was drifting out to sea with Saudluk on it.

Went to Rescue—Both Lost

"He at once raised the alarm and launched an eighteen-foot canoe to go to Saudluk's assistance. It was now getting quite dark and the natives on shore could not see very much, but they did see Native Killikpallik reach the ice and take Saudluk on board his canoe, but after that no one knows what happened.

"Older natives are of the opinion that the wind was too strong to be able to get the canoe back to shore or else they broke the oars in trying to do so.

"Both natives were very lightly clothed and there was no food in the canoe for this reason natives are of the opinion that even if the canoe did stay afloat the occupants had very little chance of remaining alive.

"There was no attempt made to lauch a heavier boat and go to their assistance, because of the fact that the only other boat available was a motor boat and it was hauled up for the winter. All the other men were out on a seal hunt about fifteen miles from the scene of the accident and only the women left, with Saudluk and Killikpallik."

This occurred off the coast of Southampton Island.

Drowned Chasing Fox

Another tragedy of drowning in the arctic waters is thus related by a native survivor in his own words:

"I am Ee-i-tuk, an Eskimo of Eclipse Harbor. Late in the morning about March 20 Simeak and I left our igloo by dog-team to go and visit our traps.

"We arrived at one of Simeak's traps, which had a fox in it. When we approached the traps the fox broke the chain of the trap and got away. Simeak ran after the fox to catch it. I saw Simeak was about to catch the fox, so I turned about and was going to look at another trap, which was behind a little hill. Just then I heard Simeak yell and when I looked around I saw him falling over the ledge of ice that is fastened to the cliff and formed by the rising and fall of the tide.

"This ledge was about ten feet high and it was open water below. As this was a sheer drop, I knew it was no use to go to his help right away. I ran back to the sleigh to get a sealskin line.

Saw Body Floating

"When I got back to where Simeak had fallen he was unconscious and floating on top of the water. I tried to throw a loop made with a sealskin line over him, but could not manage it. Then I got down as far as I could and, tying my own gun to the sealskin line, I was able to throw the gun over Simeak's body and pull him in toward me.

"When I got him within reach I tied the line around his body and climbed to the top of the ledge and pulled the body up. When I got him up I knew Simeak was dead."

DELIVERY WAGON OF LATEST DESIGN

Many New Features Are Embodied in New Purity Bread Wagon.

Embodying new features of delivery wagon design, a vehicle was recently turned out of the local shop of Fitzgerald and Company on McDonnel street for the Purity Bread Company, and is now on regular delivery service in this city.

Easily distinguishable by its bright crimson newness, and its unusually low-swung body, the van is mounted on what is technically known as a drop centre gear which allows the wagon to turn easily in a radius of 18 feet, as compared with the 28 foot turn which is described by wagons of older pattern.

Besides the drop centre gear, which was developed in Fitzgerald and Company's shop, and the design for which is to be patented, the van is mounted on solid rubber-tired automobile wheels. Three distinctive advantages of the vehicle are: ability to turn in short space; low sung van facilitating the work of the delivery man; and silent, rubber-shod wheels.

Fitzgerald and Company, oldest established manufacturers of commercial wagons, sleighs and truck bodies in this city, and whose commencement in business here dates back eighty-two years, have enjoyed a long business connection with the Purity Bread Company, having been entrusted with the construction of most of the wagons now in service.

It is stated that the Purity Bread Company is so well satisfied with the wagon of new design that they are now contemplating having a number of their older wagons converted to the new type.

Charles B. Adair, manager of Fitzgerald and Company, told The Examiner that "business is a shade better than last year." Already this month the firm has shipped out several new wagons including, one to Oshawa and Brockville; two each to Lindsay and Timmins, and one to Kapuskasing. They have also under construction at present a milk delivery wagon for H. G. Graham, dairyman of Fenelon Falls, and a large motor trailer for a Montreal business man.

ALL TOBACCO SALES LICENSED BY LEGAL COMMITTEE PROPOSAL

Fee of $20 to be Charged Retailers After July 1st.

GOES TO COUNCIL

Effective July 1, the license to sell cigarettes by retail at a fee of $20 a year will be extended to include all lines of tobacco, plugs, cigars and the packaged fine cut.

This recommendation to the city council by the Legal Committee with Alderman Fitzpatrick presiding last night was made in response to a petition from tobacconists for some redress from the situation which has developed during the last year or more by reason of the increased demand for fine cut sold without restriction in grocery stores and other shops that carry tobacco only as a side line.

The deputation of tobacconists asked that either the cigarette license by-law be rescinded, or that it be amended to cover all kinds of tobacco. Some members of the committee were inclined to dispense with the cigarette license, and would have pressed for free trade were it not for the fact that the city would have to forego the income of $2,000 collected under the cigarette licensing by-law.

This year's budget was pared too fine to pass up $2,000 at a time, as Mayor Denne pointed out, when the demand on the city treasury is exceptionally heavy. So instead of annulling the by-law and letting everybody sell sigarettes, it is broadened to embrace the other lines, such as the offending fine cut that has made a substantial invasion of the "tailor made" field, and also cigars and plugs. The committee was also reluctant to surrender the control of the sale of cigarettes to minors, the original purpose of the by-law.

The resolution was moved by Ald. Tuggey and seconded by Ald. McNabb. It was decided to make the change effective on July 1 to enable any retailers to dispose of stocks of fine cut, plugs and cigars if they do not intend to take out the $20 license.

Spring Feeding of Plants

Trees, shrubs, flowers and lawns need periodic feedings to keep them in best growing condition. The proper food for plants is one which contains all the necessary elements of growth and it is best that it be in a balanced form.

Fortunately for the owner of a city or town home there are now rapidly available commercially prepared plant foods which are easy to apply, convenient to handle, not very expensive, and which, through experiment, have been established to contain all the necessary elements for plant growth. This is the type of plant food most practical for the city home owner to use and one which will serve his purpose to perfection.

Shrubs.—On established shrub plantings apply the food in the spring before the soil is worked. Where maximum results are desired it is advisable to feed the shrubs six weeks after the initial application. For newly planted shrubs it is advisable that the food be mixed with the soil at the time they are planted.

Trees.—Usually trees are left to grow the best they can under the circumstances, but periodic feedings will promote a healthy growth and keep the trees in much better condition. Established trees need be fed but once a year in the following manner:

Make holes in the soil with a crow-bar or other sharp instrument to a depth of 12 to 18 inches under the drip of the branches of the tree. Fill the holes half full of plant food and then complete the filling with soil. In case of newly planted trees it is advisable to mix the plant food with the soil at the time of planting.

Perennials.—A surface application of plant food to the perennial bed in the spring will be found very beneficial in promoting vigorous growth of the plants. On the plants' vigor depends the size and number of flowers produced, and as perennials are gross feeders it is necessary that sufficient plant food be given them from time to time to prevent the soil from becoming exhausted.

Lawns.—In making new lawns it is advisable to incorporate the plant food in the soil a few days before time of seeding if possible. For old-established lawns an early spring feeding of plant food at the rate recommended by the manufacturer will be found very beneficial in promoting root growth and establishing a thicker lawn. Feeding lawns will be found to promote the growth of the grass sufficiently so the grass itself will have a tendency to crowd out weeds, at least the thickening of the turf will prevent further inroads of these distasteful pests.

New Yellow Annuals to Deck the Garden

Yellow is the most cheerful and brightening color for extensive use in the garden. New yellow annuals are welcome and this year the plant breeders offers two striking novelties which every gardener will want to try sooner or later.

The most remarkable of these is a new nasturtium, Golden Gleam. In addition to its beautiful yellow coloring it is a double nasturtium, or more accurately semi-double, with the delicious spicy fragrance characteristic of these beautiful annuals. It is the first of a new race of nasturtiums. It comes true from seed and has been tried in gardens of the world before introduction to the trade. Gardeners in Europe, Asia, Australia, and South America, as well as in the United States and Canada, made trial plantings last year and from all come words of commendation.

It was shown at the Royal Horticultural show at Chelsea, England, in May and was recommended for trial at Wisley, the national trial gardens of England, where new plants are tested. It received a fold medal at the Atlantic Flower show in September. It is offered this year for the first time.

The second yellow novelty is the new California giant zinnia, Daffodil. This was so named because it has the rich golden yellow of the famous trumpet daffodil, King Alfred. While there have been many yellows in zinnias, none has shown this brilliant tone of deep golden yellow.

Both these annuals are of as easy culture as other members of the genus, which are among the easiest of all annuals and the surest to produce liberal crops of bloom. Both are valuable for cutting as well as for garden decoration.

There is still a third novelty in yellow annuals as welcome, although not as strikingly different as the twoforegoing. This is the all-double lemon African marigold. The orange all-double was a novelty last year. The new variety carried the 25 per cent. of all double blooms that made the orange all-double so welcome a novelty last year. While the type African produces a majority of all-double flowers, there are a number of single and semi-doubles in each planting that must be removed or spoil the effect of the marigolds bed. This new marigold has been subjected to rigid tests.

Give a Thought to the Proper Vines

There is much beauty in vines properly chosen and well placed. A little thought regarding the purpose for which each vine is planted will enable you to choose the proper one.

The vines which cling to brick and masonry have little growths along their stems which become fastened to the wall. Such vines as Boston ivy, English ivy and climbing euonomous belong in this group. Other types of vines grown against walls must have artificial support.

Many vines have a particular value in their flowers, such as climbing roses, wisteria and clematis. These are all adaptable to lattice and trellis. Vines with a climbing habit and heavy foliage have their place in screening and completely covering large spaces. The girginia creeper, Dutchman's pipe, clematis, bittersweet and honeysuckle are examples. They make excellent coverings for pergolas.

Sometimes it is fruiting qualities that are desired. The bittersweets, matrimony vines, climbing roses and others have attractive fruits for picking or for winter color and interest.

As important as the choice of vines, is their proper placing. Vines on houses should enhance, the architecture and not obliterate it from view. The outside chimney usually seems cold and unattractive without the companionship of a vine.

Pines and Sapsuckers

About this time of year it is a good thing to put out suet and other food for birds, if you haven't been doing it already. The sapsuckers are very industrious at saprising time, and they often work havoc with stems of young trees, particularly pines. We have seen a lot of young Scotch pines completely girdled by the boring of these mischief-makers. Austrian pines also attract them a good deal.

Put out some food for these birds, in a place where they will easily find it. While it may not distract them entirely from the sappy trees, it will lessen their depredations appreciably.

HOW TO SUPER FOR COMB HONEY

Two Factors: Strong Colony of Bees and Heavy Flow of Nectar.

AVOID SWARMING

(Experimental Farms Note)

To produce comb honey successfully two things are essential—first, a strong colony of bees, and secondly, a heavy flow of nectar. Assuming these two factors are present, the next point to consider is a plan of manipulation whereby the bees may be made to make the best use of the nectar available. The two greatest difficulties in the production of comb honey are, first, to keep the bees from swarming and, secondly, to force them to build full, clean sections. Both problems can be largely, if not completely, overcome by skillful supering. While different comb honey producers may have different methods in building up their colonies for the flow, there is very little difference in the methods of supering.

The following system has been largely used at Ottawa and has proven very satisfactory:

At the beginning of the main honey flow a shallow super of extracting combs is given above a queen excluder to each colony. When the colony on scales shows a daily gain of one and a half to two pounds, the super of extracting combs is raised and two supers of sections are placed between it and the brood chamber of the colony, leaving the queen excluder beneath the supers of sections.

The Bee Escape.

A bee escape board fitted with bee escapes is placed between the supers of sections and the super of extracting combs. As soon as the bees have gone down from the super of extracting combs, it is removed and given to a colony that is to produce extracted honey. When the bees are working freely in the supers of sections and they are from one-half to two-thirds filled with honey, these two supers are raised and a third one placed beneath them. If the honey flow continues a fourth or even a fifth super may be added in the same manner.

When preparing the supers of sections, it is advisable to place all the sections in the centre of the super with one shallow extracting on each side next to the walls of the super. These combs act as bait and will draw the bees up into the super much faster than without them.

Extreme care must be taken not to over-super after the peak of the flow has been reached, otherwise a large portion of the sections will remain unfilled. It is much better to crowd the bees as the flow tapers off. A colony of bees on scales throughout the active season acts as an indicator of the amount of nectar coming in daily, and is a guide to the supering of the colonies.

APPROVED MALES AID PRODUCTION

R.O.P. Birds Required to Have Health, Strength, Vigor—True to Breed Type.

In poultry breeding work the male bird is more than half the flock. He must have health, strength and vigour; he must be true to breed type; and he must have suitable production breeding behind him to justify his worth.

These essential qualifications are combined to a high degree in R. O. P. approved cockerels, which:

(a) Are the progeny of the mating of R.O.P. certified females with approved or registered cockerels;

(b) Come from parent stock of known production ability and egg size;

(c) Before being approved must qualify as to health, vigour, vitality and trueness to breed type;

(d) Are largely used to head matings of approved flocks supplying eggs to approved hatcheries;

(e) Can be secured only from bona fide R.O.P. breeders.

When you head your breeding pens with R.O.P. approved cockerels you:

(a) Have a male bird of known breeding;

(b) Stand to benefit materially through an increased average production in your pullet laying flocks;

(c) Can benefit through the sale of hatching eggs to approved hatcheries;

(d) Have the advantage of expert assistance in the selection of the male bird;

(e) Improve the efficiency of and increase the returns from your poultry breeding work.

The poultry division of the Dominion livestock branch, at Ottawa, would be glad to put you in touch with R.O.P. breeders who have for sale R.O.P. approved cockerels of the popular breeds, at reasonable prices.

Apple Season Closes

The current issue of the Federal Fruit Market Report shows that practically all of last year's apple crop has moved into consumption. The amount in cold storage at the principal centres is now only 18,475 barrels and 227,844 boxes; with a further 15,600 barrels and 52,639 boxes in common storage and at the principal marketing centres.

Feeding Transplanted Vegetables

Those vegetables which require a long growing season and for that reason are started in the greenhouse or in a hot bed, are vigorous growers when set in warm, thoroughly prepared soil that has been well supplied with plant food.

Quality and productiveness are dependent upon the maintenance of a vigorous though normal growth throughout the growing season. Such growth means that the plants are obtaining the necessary food and water and that the vegetables produced will be of highest quality, not only from the viewpoint of flavor but also from the standpoint of mineral content. This latter quality is of great importance, since the health of the family is dependent upon a diet containing elements essential for the human body. These elements are supplied chiefly by the vegetable content of the diet.

In transplanting vegetables, mix thoroughly one level tablespoonful of complete plant food with the soil in the bottom of the hole before setting out the plant. Then apply plant food over a radius of two feet from the plant, at the rate of one rounded teaspoonful per square foot of ground.

Four to six weeks later another application of a complete plant food at the rate of four pounds (about two quarts) per hundred square feet should be made. This is equivalent to a rounded teaspoonful per square foot. Apply over the entire soil with the exception of that immediately adjacent to the plant since the roots of the plant will have penetrated through most of the soil area by this time.

POULTRY FLOCK NEEDS GREENS

Clover(Oats, Kale, Chicken Lettuce All Give Good Results.

ALFALFA LEAVES GOOD

LIFFORD LINE, May 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—Don't neglect to make adequate provisions for fresh tender green feed for the poultry flock during the summer, as well as for a supply of storable green stuff for winter use. Where the birds are on free range and where oats and clover are being grown near the poultry house it may not be necessary to make other provision for summer, but where the birds are confined to yards or where they will not have ready access to a clover field during the late summer and fall some special planting should be done. Both growing and laying birds must have tender green feed at all seasons of the year.

Oats Splendid

During the early part of the season there is probably nothing better or easier to produce than oats. Sown in the yards or on a strip near the poultry house, oats will supply an abundance of tender leaves for several weeks provided enough are sown that the birds will not be able to keep them eaten off too closely at the start. If clover or alfalfa seed is sown with the oats it will supply a second crop of green stuff in the fall.

For fall and early winter greens kale is good. It must be given some protection early in the season, either by being grown in a fenced yard or grown at a greater distance from the poultry house than a strip of oats or some other green crop. The hens or pullets will eat the kale in the field in the fall and what is left can be pulled and fed to them in the house after they are confined. Frost does not injure kale as it does cabbage and hence it does not need to be cut before frost and stored in a cellar. Until actually covered with snow it can be cut daily as required and fed as soon as the leaves are thawed. Sow it in drills like turnips.

Greens Thrown In

Where the birds are confined to a small yard the green stuff may be grown in the field or garden and cut and thrown to them every day—lettuce in the spring and early summer and kale or cabbage later on. Some seedsmen carry a supply of special "Chicken lettuce," which grows a larger crop than ordinary lettuce. Cabbage may be grown in quantity and stored for use during several months in winter, when it is probably the best of green feeds next to alfalfa leaves. There is no better winter green feed than well cured leaves of alfalfa. Leaves of some sort make better green feed for winter than roots such as mangels or turnips.

Production of creamery butter in Canada during 1931 amounted to 224,661,940 pounds (preliminary report, an increase of 20.9 per cent over 1930.

Canada is third among silver producing countries being exceeded only by Mexico and the United States.

Read the Tag on the Bag

The Fertilizer Division of the Dominion Seed Branch sounds a timely note in its caution to farmers as to the importance to them of reading the tag which must be affixed to each bag of fertilizer sold in the Dominion. It is important that the farmer make sure, before accepting delivery of fertilizer in bags, that it is labelled properly, and that the analysis shown on the tag is what he has ordered and wants. It is this guaranteed analysis which represents actually the real worth of the fertilizer. The label may appear on the bag itself, or on a tag attached. Should a fertilizer be delivered without such a label the matter should be brought at once to the attention of the nearest office of the Dominion Seed Branch, responsible for the proper enforcement of the Act.

SOME SPECIALS FOR THE GARDEN

Swiss Chard, Salsify and Mushrooms Make Tasty Dishes.

TIPS GIVEN

LIFFORD LINE, May 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—Each spring farm gardeners do well to include in their lists a few extras for the sake of variety.

When planning the garden for vegetables in variety all season, one should not overlook Swiss Chard, a form of beet plant with fleshly leaf stems very desirable as greens, following spinach, from early summer until fall. It is known also as leaf beet. The seeds resemble those of the common beet and are planted in exactly the same manner. Best growth comes from soil well enriched and thoroughly prepared. Plant the seeds in rows of 18 to 24 inches apart in hand-worked gardens and 36 inches apart in farm gardens with 10 or 12 seeds to the foot to insure a good stand. One packet of seed will supply sufficient chard for the average family. Plant one inch deep and firm the soil.

When nicely started thin the young plants to stand about six inches apart in the row. The thinnings may be used as young greens. All through the season cultivate the same as for beets.

When cutting the growing and mature plants for greens remove the outer leaves and steams right to the ground, using a knife or shears. Leave the roots and hearts of the plants to replenish the supply. The leaves and stalks or midribs may be cooked together as greens or the leaf blades stripped off for greens and the stalks used for cooking like asparagus.

Oyster Plant

Salsify also known as oyster plant is a little known but very delicious vegetable. The seed is planted in rows at the same time that other early garden seeds are planted. It is thinned and cultivated during the season just as beets carrots and radishes are cultivated. In the late fall after the ground starts to freeze, the roots are ready to use. The roots are dug in the fall and kept in a cool basement or root cellar.

Another Delicacy

Mushrooms grow wild in many parts of Canada but they are dangerous if picked indiscriminately. They can however, be easily and safely produced from spawn and huge crops in comparison to the uncertain supply available under natural conditions are secured. Moreover, they will grow practically all the year round in some dark cellar, free from frost, or they can also be grown outside in boxes or special beds during the summer and early fall. When ordering spawn from your seed merchant ask for the special cultural direction. This delicacy never cheap, is quite easily produced. Beds are made with fresh stable manure, which, after heating are covered with the mushroom spawn broken in pieces about three inches square. When the spawn starts to run through the manure below, a layer of soil is added and on top of this the bed is covered with about eight or ten inches of straw or litter, which should be sprinkled with water during hot weather. It is important to have manure and soil tramped down firmly, and to not allow the litter on top to settle or mat. Some people get fair results from putting the spawn among potatoes, but much larger crops will be produced when more care is taken. A bed will produce muchrooms for about two months.

The Gardener's Corner

Clump Planting.

If the garden is a small one be satisfied with few varieties. It is much wiser to grow five plants each of ten varieties than one each of fifty. Plan for broad masses of color to create an impression of spaciousness. In other words, avoid making a botanical museum of the ordinary small garden. For the bulk of the planting one is well advised to stick to such old favorites as Coreopsis, Gaillardia, Delphinium, hardy perennial Aster, hardy Phlox, Iris, Peonies and Dianthus in the perennial part, and Asters, Phlox Drummondi, Zinnias, Verbenas, Petunias, Cosmos, Nasturtiums and Marigolds for immediate returns. Avoid planting perennials that are unsightly when the bloom is gone, unless the space will allow for placing annuals to hide them.

Window Boxes.

It is now time to think about the window boxes which can be set out after danger of frost is over. One must remember that a window box is simply a very intensive form of gardening, producing about ten times the amount of growth for the same area in the ordinary garden. On this account it is essential that the soil used in the box be very rich, containing plenty of fertilizer, and that it be kept damp by daily waterings. As they are exposed to the sun and wind on nearly all sides evaporation is very rapid, hence artificial moisture every day is imperative.

Window boxes should be as long as the sill, about eight inches wide at the top, six at the bottom and at least seven inches deep, all inside measurements. Reinforce the corners on the inside with iron straps and make sure the box is strongly attached to the window-frame. It is usually stained green or brown, but may be painted to match the other woodwork. Holes must be made in the bottom, and also a thin layer of broken crockery or cinders to provide drainage. If possible, put in a layer of well-rotted manure before filling up with rich soil. Plant trailing vines, such as Nasturtiums and German Ivy along the front, and also edging material, with Geraniums and larger plants at the back. Protect from sun and wind with newspapers for a few days after material is transplanted to box.

For Shaded Spots.

It is often considered quite a difficult problem to brighten up shady er gardens where all corners come corners, particularly in those small-in this category. But this should not cause any trouble because there are actually some plants which prefer shade or semi-shaded conditions. The tuberous rooted Begonias, for instance, will not do well unless they are grown in shady corners, such as under tree foliage. Among those flowers which are recommended for partial shade are Verbena, Phlox, Nicotine, Pansy, Marvel of Peru, Uemophila, Lupine, Larkspur, Godetia, Clarkia, Alyssum and Candytuft. Practically all annuals will hold their bloom longer and also their depth of color if they have a little light shade, particularly around noon hour when the sun's rays are strongest.

Big Crops From Small Plot.

It is really remarkable the amount of vegetables that can be produced in a plot twenty feet square. Sufficient tomatoes for a small family will be grown on six or eight plants. These, of course, should be staked and may be set in eighteen inches apart. The stakes are six feet long and are driven in close to the plant when the latter is set out. Pinch off all side shoots, training the single main stem along the pole and tying it about every foot. Each week during the growing season the plants should be inspected and all side shoots nipped off.

In between where the tomatoes are going to be planted grow lettuce, using an early and late type, and also the Cos variety, which will supply the table during the late summer and early fall. One or two rows of beans are advisable as these yield very heavily for the amount of space taken up. Make two plantings about two or three weeks apart. Fifteen inches is sufficient space between rows. Carrots and beets will give very good returns and should have from twelve to fifteen inches between rows.

Spinach is also a heavy yielder, and as it comes on early is out of the way before the later vegetables require full room. On this account it, as well as lettuce and radish, can be planted in between the rows of carrots, beans, beets and tomatoes. Swiss chard will supply a huge quantity of greens from ten or fifteen feet of row. The inner stalks are used like asparagus and the leaves like spinach. Onions could be included in the small garden and only need about eight inches between rows.

Corn takes up quite a lot of room, but as it is never quite so good as taken fresh from the garden, it is well to include it. It yields an average of three cobs to every two stalks and it may be planted in hills about a foot apart. Along the fences one can grow melons, cucumbers, pole beans, squash and similar trailing things. Peas require rather too much room for the very small garden as at least fifty feet of row will be required to give meals for a small family.

A Body Builder —Cheese

Here is an interesting item prepared by the Milk Utilization Service of the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch: "Is cheese eaten for its flavor, or for its food value?" The low per capita consumption of cheese in Canada clearly indicates that the majority of people do not recognize it as a muscle-building food in concentrated form, but consider it merely as a condiment or garnish. It is interesting to note that one pound of cheese supplies almost as much protein and fat as one gallon of milk and, in addition, has a high calcium, phosphorus and vitamine content. The muscle building foods are limited in number, and, since it is necessary that the diet contain a percentage of this type of food, cheese should be more extensively used, particularly at a time when health and strength must be maintained on a lowered food budget.

FEED SHORTAGE IS KEENLY FELT

Burnbrae District Farmers Forced to Turn Herds Out Before Pastures Ready.

WARTIME PRICES

BURNBRAE, May 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—A return of summer-like weather has hastened the growth of pastures here, and not too soon for some farmers whose hay mows have been empty for weeks. Never in local history has the feed situation been so acute and the fortunate farmer who had a surplus of feed was in a position to make a nice penny. Hay prices which were low in this district all during the early winter, have soared to almost war-time figures during the past month. Alfalfa was selling from $10 to $13 a ton at the barn with baled stuff up to $18 a ton. Of course at this figure it is unreasonable to expect a profit from feeding but in many cases it was a matter of feed at any price or starvation for cattle and horses. Grain prices are also stronger with the exception of wheat, though mill feeds particularly bran and shorts show marked advance.

Herds Out Too Soon

With the feed shortage in evidence many herds were turned to grass too soon for the good of the pasture lots and the evil of this course will be seen in mid-summer.

Cheese makers report the feed shortage as affecting the herd averages in many instances. Only a small percentage of patrons are sending milk to the factory as yet, most of them patronizing the creameries. Neither cream or cheese prices are such as to leave much margin of profit from feeding cows at the present time. Egg prices and also hogs show a slight advance but are still below cost of production. Hog prices reached the lowest figure in the present century during the first half of May and coming so soon after the good prices of the last decade these figures are very disappointing.

Seeding Held Up

Spring seeding operations have been held up somewhat by rainy weather here and the completion of the job will be crowded into the last week of May. According to expert advice mangels should be sowed before May 24 but few farmers will be in position to do this.

No depression was evidenced in the report of the National Holstein Sale in Toronto on Tuesday last. P. B. Nelson of Seymour West, a former Burnbrae boy, was an interested spectator and reports prices up to $800 for a show cow milking over 100 pounds daily. The average for about a dozen bulls in the sale was $150 each, while some thirty-seven or eight females averaged almost $205 each. These, however represent a handpicked bunch from all over Canada, with most of the entries carrying great production backing and with a high degree of type and fit.

SPRING SEEDING WELL UNDER WAY

Fall Wheat Crop Showing Well—Some Cattle on Pasture.

BAILIEBORO, May 18 (Examiner Correspondence) — The warm weather which has prevailed during the past few days has greatly advanced spring seeding in this district. There is still a large acreage to be sown and the first grain put in the ground is now sprouting.

The pastures have begun to grow and within a few days if the growth continues the relief will be felt in the feed situation. Some cattle have already been put out to grass as the feed supply has exhausted and the farmers were forced to turn their stock out earlier than they would otherwise have done.

Fall Wheat Rugged

The fall wheat and new seeds are looking extremely rugged and indications point to a bumper crop of wheat and hay in this immediate community.

The buds in the fruit orchards are beginning to break forth into leaf and bloom and signs point to a tremendous bloom this spring on apple, plum and cherry trees.

Hungarian partridge may be plentiful in a few years in the Eastern Townships, Quebec, as a result of the "planting" recently of 64 of these game birds in that area.

HERRIDGE, McNIDER TO ATTEND OPENING OF NEW PEACE GARDEN

Ceremony at Spot on Manitoba-North Dakota Boundary Set for July 14.

TO BE BEAUTY SPOT.

BRANDON, Man., May 17 (C.P.)—Two Ambassadors will attend the dedication ceremony of the International Peace Garden on the International Boundary between Manitoba and North Dakota, M. V. Udall, chairman of the board of trustees of the International Peace Garden Association, stated here today. Assurance had been received, he stated, that both Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to the United States, and Hon. Hanford McNider, United States Minister to Canada, would be present.

Plans for the formal dedication of the garden are well under way, Mr. Udall stated. The ceremony will take place July 14.

Situated practically in the geographical centre of North America the garden will be a memorial to the long years of peace between Canada and the United States. It is comprised of land half in Manitoba and half in North Dakota, donated by the Governments of the Province and the State.

An endowment fund is being raised from contributions from school children in both countries to maintain the garden in perpetuity. International and national associations of gardeners and floriculturalists will plant the park with specimens of every variety of tree, shrub and flower grown in the two countries.

To each of them is coming home, all too slowly, realization that the world is not about to fall into ruin, but that we must face the need of more thrift and industry, of less haste and waste."

HALF MILLION FIRE DAMAGES IN TEN YEARS

City Occupies Enviable Position Among Cities of Ontario.

PREVENTIVE POLICY

During the ten-year period which he has just completed as head of the City Fire Department, Chief George Gimblett has directed fire-fighting operations where the gross loss involved to buildings and contents amounted to $556,727.58.

In comparison with the fires losses during the corresponding period in cities of the same size as Peterborough, it is noted that this city occupies an enviable position.

The comparatively low losses have been maintained largely as a result of the preventive policy which the Chief has pursued ever since he took over his command in May, 1922, and to the effort he has spent in bringing the brigade to its present state of efficiency.

While the total number of alarms received during the Chief's ten year term amounted to 3,977, only 488 proved to be fires of more or less serious proportions. The total amounts of insurance carried on the buildings and contents involved during the period under review was $19,392,916.00, giving a net sum of $18,836,188.42 insurance over fire losses.

The following table gives the details regarding the fire losses in Peterborough covering a period from May 16, 1922 to May 16, 1932:

	Alarms	Fires	Bldgs., contents	Insurance
1922	151	30	$ 15,836.23	$1,195,760.00
1923	427	53	159,981.89	1,580,250.00
1924	436	50	27,386.83	946,575.00
1925	375	51	28,761.82	2,956,647.00
1926	465	52	76,448.20	872,460.00
1927	438	54	33,145.59	2,893,100.00
1928	369	38	61,171.35	1,888,340.00
1929	378	46	74,689.58	2,191,000.00
1930	356	49	20,882.41	1,222,125.00
1931	389	51	44,084.55	3,243,199.00
1932	193	14	14,499.63	403,460.00

Sturgeon Lake is Very Rough —No Attempt Been Made to Find Bodies.

ORANGEMEN VISIT LINDSAY

LINDSAY, May 18 (Examiner Correspondence) — As a result of the heavy seas prevailing on Sturgeon Lake during the past two days, no efforts have been made to locate the bodies of Smith and Sloat, the two Toronto youths, who met death by drowning on Sunday. Yesterday the waves were sweeping over the wharves at the different resorts. It is impossible to drag the lake owing to its depth, and it felt that it will be some days before the bodies come to the surface.

McKay, a farmer of Mariposa township, lost control of the car at the C.N.R. railway crossing. It turned turtle a couple of times before coming to rest and was badly wrecked. Strange to say the three occupants escaped with a slight shaking up.

PLAN TO HELP 6,000 CRIPPLES

Douglas Brenner, President of Quebec Society, Outlines Part of Work Being Done.

ATTENDING CLINICS

MONTREAL, May 18.—(CP)—As a result of a recent survey undertaken by the Province of Quebec Society for Crippled Children it is expected that more than 6,000 cripples will be aided and many of them restored to the joys of normal existence the society's president, Douglas Bremner, told members of the Kiwanis Club. Of this expected number, 2,500 actual cases are being attended to. 2,000 of which are located in the metropolitan area of Montreal. There are in addition 722 potential cripples from infantile paralysis contracted in last fall's epidemic. Seven hundred children are attending clinics and are supplied with braces, splints, etc., without charge.

Exhaustive surveys show that causes of crippling, due to disease, represent 69 per cent of the total; congenital disorders account for 25 per cent; accidents only four per cent; cruelty, two per cent. Of the 69 per cent. mentioned previously, 51 per cent are due directly to infantile paralysis.

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

NO DECREASE ACREAGE SOWN

Ontario Farmers Little Daunted by Prevailing Low Returns for Produce.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS.

TORONTO, May 17 (C.P.)—Ontario's farmers have set about their Spring seeding little daunted by prevailing low returns for produce. Reports received by the Province's Department of Agriculture do not indicate any marked drop in intended acreage.

Wheat sowing will be reduced about 10 per cent, according to the Department's latest figures, but the drop is less than five per cent for oats and barley; mixed grains show a small increase. Intended acreage as compared with 1931 planted areas follow:

	1932	1931
Fall wheat	469,000	526,136
Spring wheat	97,000	99,575
All wheat	566,000	625,711
Oats	2,320,000	2,343,884
Barley	444,000	439,483
Fall rye	50,000	56,358
Flax seed	6,700	7,065
Mixed grains	1,010,000	95,568

Better growing conditions—latest reports are highly favorable—may lead to a yield of leading grains equal to that of 1931. Winter-kill of Fall wheat has been very small this year, amounting only to about four per cent, the lowest in seven years.

Growing conditions for wheat were rated 100 per cent good as at May 1, compared with 58 per cent in 1931. At that time, however, Spring wheat seeding was only 34 per cent completed, against 76 per cent at the same date last year and 48 per cent in 1930. Seeding was delayed 10 to 15 days by cold weather in the latter part of April. In some sections of Eastern Ontario work on the land was retarded almost three weeks.

Hay and clover have suffered considerable damage. It is estimated 13 per cent of the acreage has been winter killed and the conditions of growth is 86.8 per cent of the long time average as compared with 95 per cent last year and 91 per cent in 1930.

Crop correspondents of the Department report a number of farmers in Southern Ontario increasing their acreage of barley for malting.

HOREB SOCIETY IS ENTERTAINED

Janetville United Church Young People Hosts at Social Evening.

PLEASING PROGRAM

JANETVILLE, May 18 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Young People's Society in connection with the United Church at Janetville entertained the members of a similar society from Mount Horeb at a jolly social evening in the Sunday School room of the church on Monday evening.

Victor Blatherwick, president of the society occupied the chair. Music was rendered by Miss Hazel Bradburn. The topic of the evening, "What it means to be a Christian in comradeship and play," and "How can we show our Christianity in sport," were very capably dealt with by Miss James of Mount Horeb and later were spiritually discussed in a friendly manner by various groups.

Following the devotional period an excellent recreation program was presented. Leslie Jones of Mount Horeb delighted his hearers with a guitar selection and Miss Adamson, Continuation School teacher at Janetville followed with an appreciative reading, "The Stone-pipe Hole," by Drummond. A well rendered vocal solo by Miss Marguerite McGahay was followed by a guitar selection and song by Leslie Jones.

Games and contests under the leadership of Cecil Robinson were then introduced adding greatly to the enjoyment of the successful affair.

The young ladies of the Janetville society served sandwiches, cake and coffee and gay conversation happily concluded the evening's program which was brought to a close by the singing of "God Save the King."

Traveller Plans To Take Along Family

Enforced periods of absence from home and family is the natural lot of the average travelling salesmen, yet The Examiner learned of one man who intends to overcome such a difficulty by taking his wife and children with him on business trips that take him practically all over Eastern Canada.

A resident of Montreal this salesman has been in the habit of making periodic visits to Peterborough. Dropping in to see a local carriage builder early in the year he ordered a motor trailer, which is now in course of construction in accordance with his own plans and specifications. It is to be completed early in June.

It is no ordinary trailer, but a veritable bungalow on wheels, which he intends to use as a home for himself and family throughout the summer. It is to be 16 feet long; 7 feet wide and 6 feet in depth from floor to ceiling.

BRIDGENORTH

Miss Phyllis Moore of Smith spent the week-end with friends in Otonabee.

Miss J. Grant of Peterborough was a recent guest at the home of Mrs. Harold Archer of Smith.

Rev. and Mrs. Wright and son of Chemong road are visiting their parents in Toronto and while there Mr. Wright will attend the convention held in McMaster University, Hamilton.

Christie's Arrowroots

Your Mother's Mother gave her children "Christie's" Arrowroots, Canada's original Arrowroot Biscuits, baked in Canada by Christie's since 1853. There is nothing better for your children.

Digestive Disorders

From experience, many pleased Mothers strongly advise giving children BABY'S OWN TABLETS

"My little girl was irritable, feverish and sometimes sick in her stomach . . . what a relief it was, after giving her Baby's Own Tablets, to see how much better she was," writes Mrs. James Halligan, Fenelon Falls, Ontario.

Mrs. Ben Slavenwhite, Armdale, N.S., says: "My baby had stomach trouble and I was nearly frantic until the woman next door gave me some Baby's Own Tablets, and they made her quite well".

"My baby has no more gas, fevers or digestive trouble since I have known about Baby's Own Tablets," states Mrs. Herman Belsher, Arnprior, Ontario.

"I think Baby's Own Tablets are wonderful. My baby has no more colic pains," says Mrs. Allan MacDonald, Northfield, Ontario.

No need for YOUR child to suffer. Baby's Own Tablets can be given with absolute safety—see certificate in each 25-cent package. They're recommended by Mothers for teething troubles, upset stomach, indigestion, colic pains, simple fevers, constipation. More than 1,250,000 packages sold in 1931. 224

HAVELOCK LOOKS SPICK AND SPAN

Householders Enter Into Spirit of Clean-up Week With Splendid Results.

W. I. PLAYS BIG PART.

HAVELOCK, May 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—"Clean-up Week" was the slogan in Havelock during the past week, and all civic property was cleaned up, and rubbish carted away to the municipal dump. All householders entered into the spirit of the week, and the result is a cleaner, better village. The plot to the east of the town hall has been graded, and is now in readiness for the trees, shrubs and perennials which the Horticultural Society will plant there, as soon as they arrive from the nurseries. The plot west of the hall, planted last year by the local branch Women's Institute is flourishing despite the set-back it received when it was badly trampled during a dance held at the hall.

The Prince of Wales peonies, presented to the village a number of years ago, and cared for by Mr. Lancaster and the late Mr. Curtis, were turned over to the Institute when the plot was planted, and are making a brave showing, as are the other perennials planted there.

Altogether it looks as though the efforts of the Institute, augmented by the newly-formed Horticultural Society, will in time greatly improve the whole appearance of this small and heretofore rather-neglected village.

It only remains for the school board to interest teachers and pupils in the appearance of the school grounds, and have a few trees or shrubs set out around the school building, and interest the scholars in protecting them, which will add greatly to the appearance of the beautiful school building and make it a credit outside as it now is on the inside.

The general opinion here is that Havelock never was cleaner, nor looked better.

Premiums Arrive

The Horticultural Society premiums were received by the secretary, Mr. L. A. Gould on Monday morning, and the work of assorting the various orders was proceeded with, Mr. Bonney and Mrs. Gould doing the greater part of the assembling. The order was rather late being placed, and as a result there is a shortage in some lines. The work of sorting was a colossal task, and some of the shrubs of an inferior quality. However, the men did their very best and should receive the hearty thanks of all members. Word was received from the nurseries that a number of their roses had been winter killed and they had been forced to procure additional bushes from other sources. So the members are asked to be not too exacting this year, and it is hoped that another year orders will be placed much earlier, with better hopes of satisfaction.

Institute Lays Plans

The dressmaking course sponsored by the local branch Women's Institute, will commence here Monday, May 23, and all who handed in their names are asked to be on hand at 2 p.m. Miss McLaughlin of Toronto is the instructress sent out by the department to look after the local class. Twenty-nine ladies have handed in their names as being anxious to avail themselves of the advantages of this splendid course.

Programs for each month of the Institute year were drawn up at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. Lancaster on Friday evening. The June meeting will be Flag Day, when the Union Jack, formerly owned by the I.O.D.E. and recently turned over to the Institute, will be unveiled in the council chamber.

The roll call for Flag Day is, "What the flag means to me," and Captain Moore of the Girl Guides will give a talk on "The Flag." Another meeting which will be especially interesting is "Grandmother's Day," which will be held on July 7. An effort will be made to have all the really old ladies in the community present, and a special program has been arranged for them. If all interested will hand in the name of an old lady, a grandmother in the community, those in charge will be glad to send an invitation for her to be present at the meeting. A demonstration of making hats from rye straw will be a feature of this meeting which will interest the younger members, and the demonstration will be given by a grandmother.

The November meeting, on November 7th, will be devoted to Remembrance. A demonstration of poppy making will be featured at this meeting, and a talk "Memoirs of France" will be given by Mrs. Reynolds.

A demonstration of bandaging will also be given at this meeting.

CELLOPHANE SHOES NEW YORK STYLES

New Shoe Material Closely Resembles a Woven Fabric.

Among the various new materials for shoes this season, Cellophane has stepped into the mode with all the high style and gaiety demanded of 1932 summer fashions. This new shoe material closely resembles a woven fabric of high luster and is made by process of twisting Cellophane around cotton threads. These new Cellophane shoes, styled in the season's popular open-shank, T-strap sandals, pumps and oxfords with slashed or closed vamp, and with discreet kid strip and piping trims, are smart not only for sports but for all-day summer wear. In fresh summery colors and with medium high walking heel, these airy, light-weight and, at the same time, durable shoes are to be had monotone and two-toned effects. Featured in the monotone weaves are beige and white with harmonizing kid trims. In the two-toned weaves, dark blue-and-white with dark blue kid trims are important likewise the red-and-white with red trims.

CHATAUQUA ENDS AT CAMPBELLFORD

Sue Hastings' Marionettes and "Old Crusty" by Havelon Players Closes Annual Run.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—The four day Chautauqua being presented in Campbellford came to a close last evening when the appearance in the afternoon of Sue Hastings "Marionettes" and the comedy, "Old Crusty Takes the Air" staged in the evening by the Havelon Players, a successful run was complete.

The evening pres...tion was very humorous and drew many laughs from the audience. "Old Crusty" proved to be a very lovable character despite the fact that he was a crusty and excitable old fellow, and around him and his charming daughter the theme of the play is woven. As ever, the Havelon Players have a very strong cast and excelled in character portrayal.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WHY THE DEATH RATE IS HIGH IN APPENDICITIS.

When there is a death rate of one out of every five cases of appendicitis there must be something wrong. The death rate in some country communities has reached that figure.

When you compare these figures with what is found in large city hospitals where the rate is less than one in a hundred when patient is seen within the first thirty six hours after attack starts, you can likely see what is the cuase of so many deaths.

It is not because the country physician can't recognize appendicitis and get patient into hospital quickly for operation, but because he is not called in by the family for one or two days and then only after castor oil or other purgative has been used.

Your doctor will tell you that he has been called in to see a patient who has had a vomiting spell, and now has a pain in the stomach, with only a slight temperature and but a slight increase in the pulse rate. In former days, as stomach ache is so common and there is usually a history of having eaten something that was 'different,' very 'rich,' or a little 'tainted,' the treatment was castor oil and no food for 24 to 36 hours.

Now, however, your doctor takes no chances but watches the case carefully for a few hours.

If appendicitis is at hand the pain usually shifts down to the right lower side of the abdomen and stays there. It is then that the pain is likely to become more severe, the abdominal muscles tighten or become hard in their efforts to 'guard' the appendix and the whole region about the abdomen over the appendix is very tender to pressure.

When these symptoms occur, and before they are very well marked, your doctor will advise immediate operation.

If immediate operation is performed the percentage of deaths, as mentioned above, is less than one in one hundred.

Now it is possible for some cases of appendicitis, even with the above symptoms to get better without operation, but the chances of death by a delay of a few days increases the death rate to as high as twenty in one hundred, and the danger is most extreme if purgatives—castor oil or salts—are given, or when food is eaten.

To prevent such a high death rate, now that appendicitis has become such a common ailment, the best plan in any pain in stomach or abdomen is to do without food and take no purgative until more definite symptoms occur, or the pain has passed away.

U. S. BUSINESS LEADERS DISCUSS PROHIBITION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Discussion of prohibition formed a controversial background to-day for study of economic problems by United States business leaders.

At a preliminary meeting to the annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the national council decided to go on record publicly with a stand for or against prohibition.

The 20th annual session was officially opened last night by Silas Strawn of Chicago, President of the Chamber. Strawn called for reduction of Government "extravagance" and safeguarding of credit.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

IT WOULD BE A GOOD IDEA for many women to learn to work while reclining. They, very often, can be accomplishing just as much as if they were on their feet or sitting upright.

• • • • • • •

They might be resting over-wearied feet so that they could be of more efficient service when tasks must be done which would keep them on their feet.

• • • • • • •

Moreover, there is a spirit of relaxation which is associated with the reclining posture, and the very idea of lying down is restful. So it is wise to know when to lie down and work as well as when to be actively busy on one's feet.

• • • • • • •

The woman who is not very strong and who gets up early in the morning to prepare and serve breakfast may find it conserves her strength to lie down after the meal is over, the food put away, and the dishes scraped and piled or put to soak, ready for washing later.

• • • • • • •

She does not need to be idle. She can put the stocking bag on the bed by her and get a good deal of darning, or it may be mending, done while she rests the muscles of legs and body.

• • • • • • •

Or she can have paper and pencil and make out the list of things to be ordered, or she can set down important things to be done and make her plans accordingly.

• • • • • • •

Then these inactive duties should be followed by active ones, of which there are so many in the routine of a day's housework. In the middle of the day, after luncheon has been prepared and served, comes another period when it may be wise to work lying down.

• • • • • • •

Perhaps relaxation of mind is needed as well as of body, in which case a "forty-wink nap" is restoring. Have you ever heard it said that if one holds a book in the hand and wakens just as it drops to the floor, that enough actual rest has been enjoyed to do as much good as longer sleeping?

• • • • • • •

Whether this is absolutely true or not, I would not like to certify, but I do know that the little sleep is most refreshing.

• • • • • • •

Reading in bed or reading lying down is a luxury even though the reading may be study or research. Be sure the light is right, or eye-strain may be fostered.

• • • • • • •

If the light falls on the pages and the book is held properly, all is well.

• • • • • • •

There is a vast difference between lazily idling in bed and letting the work remain undone, and working while one lies down, whether it be in bed or out.

• • • • • • •

The first plays havoc with accomplishment, while the second is conserving energy for better accomplishment.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

AVOIDING THE FINESSE

The course adopted by some Contract players of refusing to disturb the Opening bid, which has not been raised by the partner of the Opening bidder, is a losing course if the hand contains sufficient strength to justify an attempt to take the contract away from him and play it on the attack.

Partial scores are valuable, and even a game can sometimes be found hidden in the unrevealed honor strength and distribution of the partner. This is clearly shown in the hand discussed today.

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

	♠ 5 4 3 ♡ 6 ◇ J 8 7 6 5 3 ♣ 7 4 2
♠ A 7 6 2 ♡ K 5 4 3 ◇ Q 4 ♣ 6 5 3	N W E S	♠ K 10 ♡ A J 10 9 2 ◇ 10 9 2 ♣ A Q 10
	♠ Q J 9 8 ♡ Q 8 7 ◇ A K ♣ K J 9 8

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1NT(1)	Pass	Pass	3♡(2)
Pass	3♡(3)	Pass	4♡(4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South's hand certainly qualifies for an Opening bid, of one notrump. The hand contains 3-½ honor-tricks with the plus value of the heart Queen.

2—East correctly reads the honor distribution as showing considerable honor strength in the South hand, with West and North probably weak. If West has the balance of strength, they may well be able to make a partial score, while South might make one notrump if the bid were uncontested.

3—East struck oil. His partner's hand contains 2 honor-tricks and strong support for the heart bid. West reasons that if East was unwilling to permit South to play the hand at one notrump, his hand must be quite strong. His strength is sufficient to justify a Raise.

4—Assured that his partner's hand contains support for the trump suit and other tricks as well, East bids for game.

In the play South opened the Ace of diamonds and followed with the King. If North can win a trick, the return of the diamonds will assure South of a trump trick. This manner of playing his diamond honors showed no more in that suit. South then shifted to the Queen of spades, which East won with the King and immediately returned the suit, winning with the Ace in the Dummy.

Another spade was led from Dummy and trumped in the closed hand. East now laid down the Ace of hearts and followed with the Knave. South covered and West won with the King. A small heart was led from the Dummy, East winning and South was void of trumps.

East now led his last diamond and trumped with Dummy's last trump, South discarding a club. This confirmed East in his reading of the distribution. He now led the 7 of spades from Dummy, discarding on it the 10 of clubs. South, forced into the lead, was compelled to lead a club as East, through his accurate play, had eliminated all other suits from his hand.

East, through avoiding the marked losing finesse in clubs, had assured the success of his contract.

VICTORIA TEACHERS

LINDSAY, May 18.—The Women Teachers' Federation of Victoria County met in Lindsay, and many lively discussions took place. The President, Miss F. The teachers also discussed means of overcoming difficulties on time-saving devices and in the teaching of current events.

Turkish Houses

The house belonged to an old minister of war, and one-half was still occupied by the owners. But our side was even as large as our old house in Beshiktash. . . . The whole quarter had a number of immense wooden houses purpled with age and on the brink of decay, each belonging to some grand vizier of half a century ago. Granny, repelled by the raw ugliness of new things, unerringly chose these beautiful old places in spite of their being half tumbled down. The house itself and a great part of the whole quarter is now burned, but I have several times since wandered among its ashes in my visits to the old haunts. . . .

After moving to several houses of the same type as the one I have already described, we took one at Ayazma by the seashore, on the Scutari side of the Bosphorus. This also was spacious and had a lovely back garden with a rich cluster of plum-trees. In front of the house men used to come and wash, in the sea, the pretty printed muslins which are made by the hundreds in Turkey. Hung on strings between sticks stuck in the sand, they fluttered their colors above the bright beach, of which, at times, each pebble would seem to catch the evening sun, all together glistening in a thousand hues, while the sea-waves with their frothy crests washed them in a slow harmony.

Leander's Tower was only a hundred meters away in the sea, in front of the house. I bothered Ahmed Iga so much about this that he hired a caique one day and took me to see the inside of it. It was only a prosaic lighthouse after all, kept by guards, who, however, happened to be from his country. I wanted to know exactly from which chamber the Greek princess had been stolen, but no one in the place was able to gratify my curiosity. — From "Memoirs of Halide Edib."

Cool Spring Supper Prepared In a Jiffy

QUICK MEAL.
Asparagus on toast.
Egg salad. Sliced tomatoes.
Coffee, Strawberries.

For the quick meal I am choosing a regular spring menu. The most important dish is asparagus on toast, which seems so hearty in itself that we hardly miss meat. If, however, meat is an indispensable factor in every dinner or supper, as the meal should more justly be called, cold sliced ham or tongue can be added.

When asparagus is served on toast a cream sauce is often used. Melted butter, browned slightly and flavored with lemon juice or plain melted butter may be preferred. You may like to sprinkle Parmesan cheese over the asparagus after it has been dressed with butter.

If possible, plan ahead for an egg salad and cook the eggs at breakfast time so that they can be chilling in the refrigerator all day. Watercress, which is unusually good this year or lettuce or chicory, may be used with the eggs, which have been sliced or just cut in halves. Mayonnaise, it seems to me, goes with an egg salad, but we will choose a French dressing for the sliced tomatoes. Extra toast can be made to serve as bread for the meal.

Strawberries are so delicious just now that they make a favorite dessert. They may be hulled and served with cream or, if they are large, they may be served with the hulls around a mound of powdered sugar. Perhaps you will like to serve them with ice-cream.

MRS. WM. ALLAN GUEST SPEAKER AT BIG BANQUET

250 Mothers and Daughters Present at Banquet in St. Paul's.

THE STORY OF RUTH.

Mothers and daughters numbering two hundred and fifty sat together in the Sunday School rooms of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last night, for the Mother and Daughter banquet held there. With them, evoked by memory, were the shadowy presences of other women who came back from the Far Country for a little space. Mothers who had been dead for long decades and mothers over whose graves the grass has not yet grown green companioned the thoughts of their daughters while they listened to songs of motherhood and to talk of mothers and their ways.

It was a pleasant and friendly gathering that had its inception in the minds of the young women of the church, while members of the men's clubs assisted as waiters, wearing spotless white coats and conducting the service of a sumptuous meal, with efficiency and despatch.

The big Sunday School auditorium, with its many little alcoves, was filled to capacity by the large gathering, seated at white-clothed tables crossed by green streamers of crinkled paper and arranged with large bowls and baskets covered with yellow, tied with green bows, and filled with the cheerful faces of bright marsh marigolds. At the head table, tall lighted yellow tapers in brass holders flanked the big brass bowl filled with the same gay spring flowers. Seated here were the chairlady of the evening, Miss Maisie Cowan, representative of the young women of the church; the guest speaker, Mrs. William Allan; the leader of the junior clubs, Mrs. J. A. McNab, who had charge of the arrangements; Mrs. D. Jordan, Mrs. F. H. Rowan, Mrs. A. T. Barr, Mrs. C. Blewett and Miss Clara Patterson, who, with Mrs. McNabb, led the jolly sessions of community singing, with Miss Mary Nixon at the piano.

"Our Mothers."

Miss Cowan welcomed the mothers who came as guests of their daughters, and Miss Clara Patterson proposed the toast to "Our Mothers" in happy fashion.

"Let the lips but repeat the word 'mother' and what a panorama unrolls to the mental view. No task is too great for the mother. She showers her love on us. Her hands are every ready to do for us. We grow used to her loving care and it is only when some jolt has shaken the foundations of our lives that we know what she has been to us. Let us try to be all that she would want us to be. Let us remember that poem of Rudyard Kipling 'Mother o' Mine', in which he speaks of the everlasting and wonderful love of a mother for her child: 'If I were hanged on the highest hill, I know whose love would follow me still—If I were drowned in the deepest sea, I know whose love would come down to me—If I were damned in body and soul, I know whose love would make me whole, Mother o' Mine, Mother o' Mine.'"

Mrs. C. A. White responded to the toast in a very nicely worded brief speech that pointed out the manner in which the mother understands the problems of girlhood.

"At times, you may think us old-fashioned in our views, but when you get to the half-way point in life, you will wonder where mother gathered her wisdom. Girls, go to your mother with your problems. She wants only what is best for her daughter. They know the dangers of life and they want to keep your feet from perilous ways."

In a thoughtful little talk, Mrs. E. H. Howson said some very pungent things when she proposed the toast to "Our Daughters."

To the girls "standing with reluctant feet, where the brook and river meet," she spoke of this wonderful age, filled with "opportunities and advantages never realised by your mothers and grandmothers. But don't forget that the girl who is really worth while in this or any other age, is the one who is refined, gentle and industrious, and that does not mean that she may not at the same time be well educated, cultured and athletic, and free from hypocrisy and cant.

"Try and cherish a liking for the sweet and simple things of life, the beauties of nature, a sound body and a peaceful mind. The best things of life are not in view in shop windows. Tennyson said that the requisites for happiness were 'self-reverence, self-knowledge and self-control.' These lead life to sovereign power and the happiest life is a life of service."

Miss Lily Kay, responding briefly to the toast, thanked the mothers collectively, and also spoke with appreciation of the efforts made by the "church mothers" of St. Paul's who do so much in leadership of the various girls' clubs.

The Story of Ruth.

Mrs. William Allan of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, was the guest speaker of the evening and delivered an address that was thoughtful and impressive and carried with it a savor of those unseen shadowy presences that words and memory evoked for the mothers who sat and watched their daughters last night.

The story of Ruth and Naomi, the Biblical tale of the girl who chose to fare forth with her mother-in-law and to make the choice which thereafter ruled her life, was the basis of Mrs. Allan's eloquent address.

Addressing the mothers, Mrs. Allan reminded them of the problems confronting the youth of today. "Never before has motherhood been faced with such duties as devolve upon it at the present time. Things go swifter, problems are keener, and so there is a double load of responsibility on your shoulders.

"There are certain things about which we must make up our minds and there are certain things we have to give up, so that we may be the kind of mother that knows the needs of our daughters, as we all wish to do.

"There are mothers who have neither sons nor daughters and yet they are mothers to many daughters. They have a wonderful influence over the lives of the youth about them. Let us resolve, not only tonight, when we are all keyed up, but later when things are down to normal, to get our daughter's point of view. For if we cannot do that, we will be forever saying and doing the wrong thing."

Self-examination, sacrifice and prayer were the watchwords of a woman referred to by Mrs. Allan as an ideal mother to her two sons. She "prayed them through" to a victorious life of service. "It was nothing else and nothing less than that. And what a glorious thing it is to feel that we have something to which we may anchor, something that will never fail us in time of stress and trial."

Women bread-winners of the world, said the speaker, totalled in America 14 per cent of the population, in Britain 25 per cent, in Germany 20 per cent and in Japan 56 per cent. In Japan, women worked as coal-passers on the docks, many of them with babies hanging from their backs, but even then, the mother knew what to do when her baby was in danger.

Saint Genevieve.

To the daughters, the speaker addressed the admonition to take Ruth as an exemplar, in the manner in which she never hesitated in making a difficult decision that influenced all of her life. "Thy God shall be my God," she told Naomi, and in making that choice she secured for herself a lifetime of happiness and of service.

To the daughters, she told the simple little story of that mild and gentle figure of Old France, the little Genevieve who, through the power of unfaltering and unfailing prayer and belief in God and His Goodness, was able to save the people of her town in time of great stress. "It is wonderful what we owe, both to our mothers and to the church we are called upon to serve. I would say to the mothers that you should do as Mary did of old; sit at His feet. It takes away so much of the strain and worry and with it comes a wonderful understanding. It will make of you the kind of mother whose daughter hurries home to from school, because she has something to tell her.

"To the daughters, I would say: Your life has been purchased by Christ. Will you not give it back to Him? As you squander it for others, so you retain it. There is nothing so wonderful as service for Him. Your mothers need you. The church needs you. The world needs you."

Mrs. Allan concluded with a tender little poem: "She always learned to wait for us, anxious if we were late; In winter by the window, in summer by the gate; And if we mocked her tenderly, it was such wondrous care; That the long way home but seemed more safe, because she waited there. Her thoughts were all so full of us, she never could forget; And so I think that where she is, she must be waiting yet. Waiting 'till we come home to her, anxious if we are late; Watching from Heaven's window, leaning from Heaven's gate."

The vote of thanks to Mrs. Allan for a speech that evoked much applause, was voiced by Miss Sybil Jackson and seconded by Miss Nina Davidson, while Mrs. C. Blewett spoke appropriately of the work done by the girls in making arrangements for the banquet and a standing evidence of appreciation was given by the guests.

The girls concluded the session with three cheers for their mothers.

The music of the evening was a pleasant part of the program. Miss Isabel Weddell's sweet voice was applauded generously for her rendition of an appropriate solo, "Mother Machree," with a dainty encore, "The Second Minuet." Her accompaniments were played by Miss Mary Hendren.

Supper-hour music at the piano was played by Miss Mary Nixon and Miss Velma Strong.

Miss Marion Armstrong, who has been appointed as Junior instructress at the Presbyterian church's summer camp at Beaverton, announced camp dates and asked the girls to patronize the camp.

Mrs. J. A. McNabb announced a tea to be held on May 28th by the Young Women's Association of St. Paul's, to secure funds to send representatives to the Beaverton summer camp, and asked the ladies to attend.

TIME FAILS TO LIFT VEIL OF MYSTERY OF LOST CHILD

Wee Girl Vanished From Her Home in Winnipeg Four Months Ago.

WAS AGED 5 THEN.

WINNIPEG, May 18. (Special to The Examiner).—Torn and yellowed with time, a circular hangs on the bulletin board of Winnipeg's central police station offering a reward for information leading to the discovery of Julia Johnson, a mute reminder of Winnipeg's parallel to the recent kidnapping of Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Four years ago Julia, a laughing-eyed Polish girl, vanished from in front of her home as mysteriously as the little son of the flying colonel. Efforts of the police of an entire continent were immediately enlisted in an effort to trace the tot, but without success.

No demands for ransom were received following Julia's disappearance. She was reported as having been seen in various sections of the city in the company of an old man. Police dogs were put on her trail and hundreds of citizens organized search parties which led into remote corners of Manitoba in a fruitless attempt to find a solution of her disappearance.

To-day Julia would be nine years old. Her parents still believe she will be found. Each year a candle is added to decorate a birthday cake in her home here: and the sympathy of a Winnipeg mother goes out to Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh in the loss of her baby in a way that only a fellow-sufferer can understand.

TOKYO, May 18. — (A.P.)— Leaders of the Seiyukai party decided to-day to offer the olive branch to the army and proposed a compromise on a coalition party government to succeed the cabinet of the slain Premier Suyoshi Inukai.

The compromise proposal followed an ultimatum from the army yesterday demanding a non-partisan, National government. Army officials threatened to boycott a party government if one was formed.

Orioles Defeat Leafs 7-2 - Red Wings Gain Second Place

Disastrous 5th for Leafs

Cantrell's Wildness, Coupled With Toronto Errors, Wipes Out Early Lead.

PUTS ORIOLES IN FRONT.

Art Mills Holds Birds to Two Hits in Last Three Innings.

TORONTO, May 18. — For the first four innings of yesterday's ball game at Maple Leaf Stadium it appeared as if the Leafs were headed for their second straight victory over the visiting Baltimore Orioles, but the fifth inning changed the entire complexion of the pastime, and the locals absorbed a 7 to 2 beating, for which they had only themselves to blame.

On Monday, it was the Orioles who were charitably inclined, their errors assisting the Leafs to victory. Yesterday, the Dalymen donned the Santa Claus garb and the Birds were quick to accept the favors bestowed upon them.

Guy Cantrell, opposing Walter Tauscher, formerly of the Washington American League team, was the better pitcher for four innings. During that time, he limited the Birds to three hits, and they failed to score on him, even though he walked three batters in the fourth, and a single was inserted between two of the passes. Arlett spoiled the Orioles' prospects in this frame by attempting to steal second. Meanwhile, the Leafs had been making trouble for Tauscher, and had collected two runs off him on four hits, one run coming in the second inning and one in the fourth. Had they been able to get a hit or two in the third, Tauscher might not have survived that inning.

The Sad, Sad Fifth.

Then came the fifth. Cantrell got the first two men to face him, but four runs came in before he could retire the side. It was a sad session, indeed, for the locals, and with it went their hopes for a win. The trouble started when Cantrell walked Regan after two were out, for his fourth pass in two innings. Jorden came up then and tripled to right centre and Regan registered. Arlett also walked, and McGowan singled Jordan home with the tying run.

All might have been well even then had not Frank Doljack, whose playing here has been the despair of the management, dropped Jim Strong's heist to left. This wretched error enabled Arlett and McGowan to score and put the visitors in possession of a lead which so inspired them and so discouraged the Leafs that the game was all Baltimore from then on.

Cantrell was taken out after the Marylanders scored three runs more off him in the sixth, a base on balls, three hits, including a double by Arlett, his only hit in the series to date and an error by Hughes causing the damage on this occasion. Cantrell walked Linton to start the inning, but the visiting catcher was retired at second on Tauscher's fielder's choice. Boyle punched a single to centre, and Hughes allowed the ball to get past him, Tauscher and Boyle completing the circuit before the ball was relayed to the infield. Regan was thrown out, but Jordan's single and Arlett's double accounted for the final run of the game.

No Runs Off Mills.

Art Mills faced the Orioles in the last three innings and held them runless, yielding only two hits. After the fourth inning the Leafs got only three scattered hits off Tauscher, who registered his fourth victory of the season.

The Leafs scored the first run of the game in the second inning when Hughes, first man up, was hit by a pitched ball. Michaels advanced him on a sacrifice and Doljack walked. Walker grounded out to Jordan, the runners holding their bases. Stack drove a weak grounder toward second which Tauscher tried to field but merely stopped the ball without being able to pick it up. Hughes scored and Stack reached first safely, but Regan, who fielded the ball, caught Doljack trying to get back to third.

In the third inning, Cantrell opened with a single and beat Tauscher's throw to second on Morehart's bunt, both runners being safe. Linton tried to pick Cantrell off second and the ball hit the bag and rolled into centre field, the runners advancing. With men on third and second a hit would have produced two runs at this stage, but Owen lifted to Regan, Pritz was tossed out by the same player, and Hughes ended the inning when Jordan took his grounder and threw to Tauscher, who covered first.

Leafs' Final Run

Ralph Michaels opened the Toronto fourth with a double to right and went to third on Doljack's sacrifice. Walker's fly to Arlett brought him home after the effort to threw to the plate. Stack walked and Cantrell singled to right in this inning, but Morehart hoisted to Jordan.

In addition to being caught off third and dropping a fly ball in the outfield, Doljack looked bad in the Baltimore third when Linton got a double on a hoist over short which Doljack stopped running on although it was plainly too far into the outfield for Owen to get.

McGowan had a perfect day at bat for the visitors. He had three singles and two walks in five trips to the plate.

The series will end this afternoon with a doubleheader, Ken Holloway, the pitcher who ended Montreal's winning streak will likely face the Leafs in the first game. Frank Barnes is the probable Toronto selection. Glen Liebhardt and Smythe will oppose each other in the second game.

On Thursday, Truett Sewell will pitch the opening game of the Montreal series with Al Yarnell facing the Detroit Tigers in the exhibition game afterward.

DRAW POSTPONED

DUBLIN, Irish Free State.—Officials of the Irish Hospital Trust Derby Sweepstakes to-day were flooded with such deluge of money and money orders before the sweep closed that they decided to postpone the draw from May 27 to May 30.

World's Fastest Race Won And Lost

COMES IN FIRST BUT TAKES SECOND PLACE.

The fastest race in the world, the British Empire Trophy Race, organized by the British Racing Drivers' Club, was won and lost at Brooklands. John Cobb was first across the finishing line, but George Eyston protested that Cobb had baulked him, and the stewards awarded the race to Eyston. Photo shows John Cobb's Delage (No. 47), which finished first, but was relegated to second place, with all wheels off the ground, followed by Jack Dunfee in Woold Barnato's Bentley during the race.

AVERILL'S HOMER SPOILS YANK'S CHANCE FOR MARK

New Yorkers Out to Set Runless Inning Mark—Eight-run Rally Puts Cubs on Top.

CARDS AND PIRATES WIN.

(By Gayle Talbot—A.S. Sports Writer).

Gone their hopes of creating a new all-time record for holding the opposition scoreless, the Yankees were free to-day to devote their energies to winning the American League pennant.

And if ever a ball club looked like a champion in May, it is Joe McCarthy's high-powered outfit. Their pitching over a stretch of eight straight victories has been well nigh perfect, their hitting timely and their fielding almost inspired.

What makes the New Yorkers' streak even more impressive is the fact that their closest rivals, the Washington Senators, have hit hard sledding against the Western clubs and dropped three straight to St. Louis. Yesterday's 11-2 triumph over Cleveland while the Senators were losing to the Browns, 11-2, put the McCarthymen a half game in front of the field.

As for that record the Yankees sought, it practically exploded in their hands, when Johnny Allen, who started the run of four scoreless performances, faced the Indians yesterday he needed to pitch only one scoreless chapter to tie the 29-year-old mark of 41 in a row. He got by the first two batters to face him, but the third, Earl Averill, belted a homer into the right field bleachers. An alert fan put the pellet in his hip pocket and a pitching epic had come to an end.

It was a painful loss for Mel Harder, Indian righthander. He granted the Yankees only four hits, but Ben Chapman's home run in the fourth with Gehrig on base tripped him up. Some great fielding by Tony Lazzeri pulled Allen out of bad spots in the late innings.

The Philadelphia Athletics bunched three singles with a wild throw in the seventh inning to score twice and lick the Detroit Tigers, 2-0. George Earnshaw allowed only four hits. The Chicago White Sox made it three straight over the luckless Bostons, 7-3, when Danny MacFayden was accorded ragged support.

Giants Lose To Reds 2-1.

Bill Walker, New York Giant southpaw, lost his own game to Cincinnati by a score of 2-1, when he out loose a wild throw past first on Manion's bunt in the 10th and Grantham scored from third base. Bill Terry's eighth home run of the season gave the Giants their only run off Ray Kolp.

Pittsburgh made it two out of three over Brooklyn, 3-1, as Bill Harris pitched scoreless ball for the first seven innings. The Pirates bunched their blows off Babe Phelps in the third and fourth frames.

Philadelphia's Phillies blew sky high in the seventh inning and Chicago scored eight runs in a body to win 9-4. Six hits, three walks and three Phillie errors contributed to the Cubs' large inning.

"Pepper" Martin returned to the Cardinals' line-up after being out several weeks with a dislocated shoulder and drove in two runs with a double as Bill Hallahan bested Lefty Brandt in a hurling duel, 4-3. Hallahan struck out 10 and contributed a triple of the Cards' attack. "Red" Worthington drove in all the losers' runs with a home run and a single.

SACRED HEART BEATEN

St. John's Boys, Madoc, Wins Game 42 to 9.

MADOC, May 16. — (Examiner Correspondence).—St. John's team met Sacred Heart in the Church Softball League on Monday evening with a victory for St. John's of 42 to 9. This gives St. John's one win and two losses, while Sacred Heart have piled up three straight losses.

The line-up was as follows:

St. John's—Jim Watson, pitcher; Clinton Nickle, catcher; Jack Avery, first base; Scott Edwards, second base; Hubert Nickle, third base; Ken. Nicol, short stop; Fred. Akey, c. field; Everly Springham, r. field; Campbell Walkbridge, l. field.

Sacred Heart—Jim Golan, pitcher; Boniface Rivers, catcher; Mike O'Connell, first base; Francis Feeney, second base; Jim Meraw, third base; Stafford Merew, short stop; Jim O'Riordon, c. field; Joe Shorkey, r. field; Dan. O'Connell, l. field.

SOFTBALL LOOP RE-ORGANIZED

Clerks, Mill and St. Andrew's Signify Intention of Entering League.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The organization meeting of the Campbellford Softball Association was held last evening in the Public Library, with the 1931 president, G. H. Free, in the chair, and the tone of the meeting indicating that another successful season of the Town League will be enjoyed this year. To date, three teams are sure to enter the group: Clerks, Mill and St. Andrew's, and it is expected that a fourth outfit will be in the field. The Hydro, it is felt, will not be in the running this season, but either an Outlaw team or one sponsored by the creameries will probably fill in their place.

If a four-team league is arranged, a double schedule will be played. The opening date for the first game is Friday, May 27. Another general meeting for the reception of team entries and the drawing up of the schedule being set for Friday, May 20.

Officers Elected.

The officers elected for 1932 were: Honorary President, G. H. Free; President, A. J. Mayers; Vice-President, J. Storie; Secretary-Treasurer, H. Dunk; Chairman of Umpire Committee, Vince Farrell; official scorer, R. H. Lewis; auditors, Jack McAvoy and J. Heptonstall. The executive will consist of one representative from each team.

It was decided that this year all league games should be run seven innings, the innings for semi-finals and finals to be set by the executive before these games are played. The schedule will consist of two games a week to be played on Tuesdays and Fridays, and will be played as last year on the High School grounds, subject to the approval of the Board of Education, who will be approached on the matter.

A twelve inseam ball will be used at all games this season, these being supplied by the club. The same membership fee of twenty-five cents a member will be assessed.

The association will start this season under very favorable conditions, with a very substantial balance on hand to work on and with the support of the public which is always behind softball in Campbellford. A very successful season is predicted.

SLUGGING WINGS TAKE 2 GAMES

Puccinelli and Shelvin Lead Rochester Batters in 10-2, 11-3 Victories.

BEARS ALSO WIN.

(By the Associated Press)

Billy Southworth finally has his Rochester Red Wings clicking and that constitutes bad news for the other seven clubs in the International League.

Champions of the circuit for the past four years, the Red Wings today had won seven of their last nine games and had moved into second place in the standings, although their margin over the Buffalo Bisons and Montreal Royals, with whom they were virtually tied in games won and lost, was based solely on a few percentage points. Rochester's was .593; Buffalo's .586, and Montreal's .581. Newark still was in first place, two and a half games ahead of all three.

Southworth has been getting excellent pitching of late, especially from Del Wetherill, Bud Teachout, Bigg Wysong, Al Eckert and Ira Smith. The chief batting punch has been furnished by the sensational outfielder, George Puccinelli, who has hit safely in every game the Redwings have played this year.

Puccinelli collected six hits in seven times at bat yesterday as Rochester beat Reading in both ends of a double header, 10-2 and 11-3. The slugging outfielder's string included his 11th and 12th home runs, a triple and three singles, driving in seven runs. Wysong and Teachout gove the Keys eight hits in each game.

Turn Back Royals 5-4

Newark turned back Montreal, 5-4, Ripple's ninth inning home run serving only to make the score close. Ripple and Head got four hits apiece of the 14 Montreal collected off Bots Nekola and Byron Speece, but most of them were wasted.

The game, the first period here under the new arrangement of four fifteen-minute periods instead of three twenties, was the best of the local season to date. Speed, fast-passing, and heavy hitting defensive work were features that were sustained from start to finish.

Maroons Defeated By Maple Leafs, 7-4

TORONTO, May 18. — Montreal Maroons occupy the International Lacrosse League cellar alone today, following the 7-4 reverse they absorbed here last night when they opposed the Maple Leafs in one of the cleanest games ever seen in this loop. It wasn't a thriller, by any means, but the players earned brackets by not resorting to rough stuff.

The old rivals fought it out most of the way fairly well on even terms, but in the third period the locals got two goals to their opponents' none and the game was won and lost right there. "Bucko" McDonald scored early in the last session, but George Dussaut got that one back midway in the period, and gave Maroons a fighting chance to pull the game from the fire. This, however, they were quite unable to do, so Bill Anthony and Oddie Core finally combined to get the final tally.

THAT SETTLES THAT

When Mr. Harper, the referee at the English F.A. cup final whistled for half-time at the instant when a corner kick was being taken, he caused almost as much discussion as occurred after the disputed goal.

Many experts were of the opinion that the ball should have been kicked back into play before the interval was sounded, but a large number of letters that have appeared in the English press suggest that even those with the greatest knowledge of the rules can't say.

The most authoritative note comes from Mr. S. Pritchard of the southern division of the Referees' association. He shows a copy of the referees' chart, law 13 of which in part says this: "The referee should be careful in deducting time for stoppages, etc. He should blow his whistle for time or half-time at the exact moment, whether the ball is in play, or not. The only case in which time can be extended is that of a penalty kick."

MANY IMPORTANT BOUTS

The administrative stewards of the British boxing board of control have agreed to recognize the contest between Harry Crossley (Mexborough), the holder and Jack Petersen (Cardiff) at the Ice Rink, Queen's Rd., Bayswater, on May 23, as for the light-heavyweight title.

The board decided to adjourn discussions as the the fight between Reggie Meen (holder) for the heavyweight championship till after the Crossley vs. Petersen match.

Alf Howard (Liverpool) is matched to fight Willie Hamilton, the Scottish welterweight champion, under the auspices of the Liverpool Stadium, and the board have agreed to recognize it as an eliminator for the welter title.

Yesterday's Stars

Bill Harris, Pirates. — Kept Dodgers' six hits well scattered and beat them 3-1.

Bill Hallahan, Cardinals. — Struck out ten men and beat Braves 4-3.

Lance Richbourg, Cubs.—His four hits led Cub attack on Phillies.

George Earnshaw, Athletics—Blanked Tigers with four hits and fanned five.

Ben Chapman, Yankees.—His homer with one on produced winning runs against Indians.

Schulte, Campbell and Levey, Browns.—Collected three hits apiece against Senators.

SIGNING OF PLAYERS.

Jack Pilling was elected president of the East Peterborough Baseball League for 1932 at the organization meeting held in Duffus' last night. Cogs, C.G.E. and Crescents, with possibly a fourth team, will make up the league this year, the opening game being on June 7th. Considerable other business was done at this session.

Charlie Curtis, as secretary, opened the meeting by reading off the list of players signed up the senior baseball team. These included: Heckman, Kitchen, Holmes, Rogers, Collins, Ash, Hickey, Rose, Scully, Hillier, Hollingsworth, Nicholls, Dallin, Foley and Beavis, with Bob Ross acting as Manager Art Primeau's assistant.

Cogs and Crescents both signified their intentions of entering the E.P.L.; and the C.G.E., which has suffered most by losing players to the senior club, practically assured the league they would enter a team. Some mention was made of a fourth entry, but nothing definite was announced for the present.

Officers Elected

The election of officers followed. Jack Pilling let his name stand for the presidency when no other was nominated, and he was elected. Three vice-presidents, to compose the executive, were then nominated and elected, being Ken Sloan, Vince O'Connell, and Jack McCusker. Charlie Curtis was returned unanimously as secretary-treasurer.

There was considerable discussion over what two men would represent this league on the newly-formed Peterborough Baseball Commission. The feeling generally was that two should be chosen who were familiar with baseball in this city but impartial in their judgment. Those elected were Ken Sloan and Vince Hayes.

After further discussion, June 7 was named as the opening date of the schedule, with C.G.E. and Cogs drawn as the teams to play at this time. The matter of a schedule calling for two or three gamesl weekly caused much controveray and was finally left over for another meeting. Playoffs, admission charge, and other questions of like nature were also left over for further discussion.

Signing of Players

Fifteen certificates were given out to each team, with the managers informed they could sign up any free player including those not at present signed with the senior club, but who may be used by the latter later on. Should the seniors want any E.P.L. player from now on, they must apply to the Baseball Commission and if granted that player, they must replace him with a satisfactory one.

The question of picking and All-Star E.P.L. team to play an exhibition game with the seniors this Saturday met with approval and this will be done at once. Future exhibition games of this type may be arranged later. With a few other matters decided upon or left over, the meeting adjourned.

Box Lacrosse Rules

(As Revised April 6, 1932)

The following rules were adopted for box lacrosse in addition to the rules appearing in the O.A.L.A. and C.A.L.A. Rule Book. When box lacrosse played, the rules as given below will prevail over the O.A.L.A. and C.A.L.A. rules for the 12-man game:

Lacrosse sticks for box lacrosse shall not be more than 46 inches nor less than 42 inches in length over all, with the exception of the goal keeper, who may use any length of stick.

Each goal shall consist of two poles 4½ feet apart, which shall stake in the playing surface at a above the playing surface, and they shall be joined by a rigid top crossbar. The poles must be fitted with a cone-shapped netting of not more than one and one-half inches in mesh, which cone-shapped netting shall extend and be fastened to a stake in thep laying surface at a point 6 feet back of the centre of the goal. The netting shall be so made as to stop the ball after it has passed between the goal posts from the front, and the bottom of the netting must be fastened closely to the playing surface with staples. The netting shall not be drawn taut but be left baggy so that when the ball strikes it it will not rebound.

The goal crease shall be in the shape of a semi-circle, having a radius of 9 feet from the center of a line drawn between the goal posts and an imaginary line extending on each side to meet the semi-circle, from which point on each side a line will be drawn at right angles extending to the back stop. The goal crease line and the line between the posts will be in white and 2 inches wide.

When box lacrosse is played indoors the playing area shall be at least 160 feet long and 60 feet wide. Any smaller areas must be sanctioned by the executive. When box lacrosse is played outdoors the playing area shall not exceed 200 feet long by 90 feet wide, or less than 160 feet long by 60 feet wide. Larger areas must have the sanction of the executive.

A box lacrosse team shall consist of 7 players on each side to be designated as follows: Goalkeeper, right defence, left defence, rover, centre, right forward, and left forward.

No others than the regular team of 5 substitute players and substitute goal-keeper shall appear in uniform where a match is played.

Each player shall have a large conspicuous number, not less than 10 inches in height, on back and front of sweaters. No two players of a club shall use the same number during any playing season—for benefit of spectators and officials. The playing time of the match shall be 3 periods of 20 minutes each, with a 10-minute rest between periods.

In no case shall the ball be faced closer to goals than 15 ft. from goal crease and when out of bounds at least 10 feet from boundary.

Players may substitute at any time providing that returning player reaches players bench before change is made.

No player on the defending side may throw the ball back to the goal keeper when in possession of the ball in front of goal.

A free throw shall be given to the opposing side if a player in the opinion of the referee deliberately throws the ball out of bounds.

A minor penalty shall be 2 minutes, a major 5 minutes, a match penalty the rest of the game, but after 15 minutes—if specified at the time of penalty by the referee or judge of play—the club may use a substitute for the player receiving a match penalty.

All disputes during a game will be settled by the referee and his decision will be final.

BOX LACROSSE MORE POPULAR

Local Sport Fans to Get First Taste of New Pastime on Thursday Night.

IN BROCK ST. ARENA.

Orillia box lacrosse team, champions of the Tri-County League last year, is being brought here for an exhibition game with Peterborough Intermediates to-morrow evening in order to properly introduce the new game to local fans. Confidence is generally expressed that the new version of the once-popular lacrosse sport will meet with instant favor with sports followers as a whole, not only lacrosse lovers.

The action is fast and very similar to hockey on foot. There are seven men to a side, a goalie in a net, two defence players in front of him, a centre and two forwards as wingmen, with a rover making the seventh player. The ball is faced off at centre, and is then carried toward one goal or the other rapidly either on lone rushes or on short quick passes. Checking at times is rough, particularly stiff body checks, but the game lacks the brutal tactics which harmed the old-time game years ago. Action and thrills follow each other constantly, and box lacrosse promises to become a great national game, being taken up also in the States.

Judging from condition, experience and previous workouts, the local team is likely to be made up to-morrow night of: Goal, Creighton; defence, Goodfellow and Miller; centre, Dundas; forwards, King and Brady; rover, Bolvin; alternates, Magee, Palmer, Fisher, Shaw Rothwel land Reynolds. The Orillia line-up will be about the same that carried them through to the championship last year.

The Brock Street Arena is in readiness now for players and spectators. A new wire screen protects fans from wild balls, while the floor is dry and level. A good springy dirt bottom rolled hard. New lights have been installed for this game which will be played here regularly. The Petes hold a final practice at eight to-night and those anxious to see how the game looks are invited to attend. The contest to-morrow night starts at 8.30, low admission charges prevailing, and ladies being advised to attend for their first glimpse of box lacrosse.

CRICKET HEAD RESIGNS

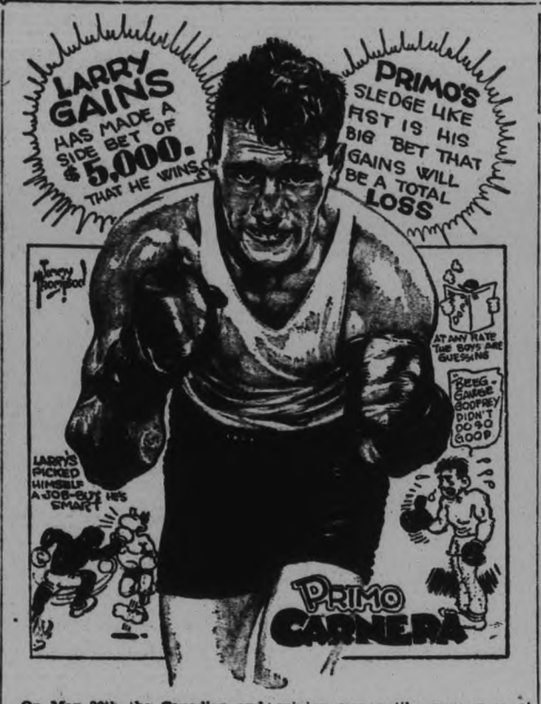
Mr. V. W. C. Jupp stated recently that he had resigned the secretaryship of the Northamptonshire county cricket club, a position he has held since 1921.

The notice does not take effect until September 30, but the general committee have agreed to release Mr. Jupp if he wishes to leave before that date.

Replying to a query whether he would play for Northamptonshire this season, he said that this depended entirely upon the circumstances.

Mr. Jupp has accomplished many fine performances for Northamptonshire since he qualified for them in 1923, and has scored 9,985 runs and taken 700 wickets.

Workmen in the Craigue Graveyard at Mountmellick, Irish Free State, recently unearthed the headstone that covers the grave of John Brock, who was executed in 1725 at the age of 18.



On May 30th the Canadian and British heavyweight champion, Larry Gains, takes on Primo Carnera, the huge Italian, in a match bout at White City, England, and the genial Canadian negro is so confident of trimming the Italian that he has put $5,000 on the side. This is the first side stake challenge ever flung at Carnera and backs up tangibly Gains' long held view that Primo can be put out like any other boxer with a right, and to the jaw. More than passing interest is attached to the scheduled scrape. Gains is immensely popular in the Old Country and has been working hard to have the color ban lifted. Moreover, he is monarch of all he surveys in the English fistic world. And he contends, as ever, that he can whip any man in the game, including Max Schmeling, the champion. There are those who agree. Carnera, by no means a "push-over," won on a foul from George Godfrey, the colored Chicago giant, who, in Jack Dempsey's opinion, was, until a year or so, at least, the best in the world. Gains was also a good match for Godfrey. Now Gains has his chance at Carnera. He ought to trounce him. Gains points to the fact that it took Carnera ten rounds to finish the Frenchman, Maurice Griselle, at Paris the other day, while Gains quickly stopped Griselle at Leicester. Incidentally Carnera was a distressing figure after his bout with Griselle, taking a bad jab on the chin from a 105-pound danseuse in Earl Carroll's Vanities after the fight was over. The danseuse declared she didn't like the way Primo fought the Frenchman and backed it up by landing on his face with a jewel-bedecked fist. "I never argue with a woman," replied Carnera, burying his jaw in an oversized hanky. If Gains trims the big boy, who stands 6 feet, 7 inches, it will probably be the virtual end of Primo's ring career; though, to be sure, critics have generally, declined to take him over seriously at any time.

CASUAL COMMENT

The East Peterborough Baseball League re-organized last night and although there are only three teams entered so far, it looks as if the league will be better than ever. And the reason is because the loop will be really well-balanced which it wasn't last year or for some time back. Three or four evenly-matched Intermediate Class A teams will put on a fine campaign, and the fans crave close, classy ball games.

The slate of officers elected is okay, all being experienced baseball men, while the two representatives on the Peterborough Baseball Commission, Ken Sloan and Vince Hayes, should be quite suitable. Both know the E.P.L. well and have more than a passing interest in local baseball generally, while neither one is likely to be prejudiced in case of a protest.

This commission is composed of Jack Bell and Geo. Hewitt of the senior club; Ken Sloan and Vince Hayes of the E.P.L.; Harry Dinsdale and Ches Mowry, of the City League; and Alex Kay, independent, as chairman. A first-class control board, something needed here for years.

The Peterborough Seniors, as announced last night, will consist of: "Cack" Rogers, Lamb Collins, Al Heckman, Ernie Holmes, Russ Kitchen, Fred Ash, Hickey, Abbie Rose, Frank Scully, Deb Hillier, "Red" Hollingsworth, Nicholls, Tommy Foley, "Red" Dallin and Beavis. The Board of Strategy will be made up of Art Primeau, Max Swanston and Bob Ross.

The local seniors will be seen in action at Stevenson Park, weather permitting, this Saturday afternoon. They'll play an exhibition game with an all-star E.P.L. team, and the line-ups will be out later. It's a good idea for players, managers and fans, not to forget the dough that may be raised.

Lacrosse fans and those curious to see the new game can't do better than drop into the Brock to-morrow night at 8.30 to see the Petes in action against Orillia. Box lacrosse has swept the country, and is proving popular in the States, so should go over big here this year. The Orillia outfit is a worthy one and the local players will have to put up a real battle to match the fast, tricky Northerners.

The Legion officers and members are grateful to Gord Garwood, the Alpha Boxing Club, Len Foster and his club, and Louis Yeates, for his gym—all for their work at the Alpha Club fight show for relief for local war vets. The letter, addressed to J. H. Morgan, in part follows:

• • • • • • •

"On behalf of the officers and members of Branch 83, Canadian Legion, we wish to thank you most kindly for your cheque for fifty-six dollars and thirteen cents, donated to our Relief Fund by the Alpha Boxing Club. We appreciate this to the fullest extent."

A Peterborough bowling team went to Oshawa last night and came back with some scalps, the Petes having 3,284 points as against 2,980 ,high game being 1317 for the visitors. This is how they knocked 'em over: Freeman 645, Crary 677, Morgan 639, Gimblett 653, and Girven 665. With the local alleys closing up, the indoor game is about over for the summer.

The Sugar Bowl softballers this year will bear more than a passing resemblance to "sandwich men" when they trot out in their new sweaters, but they should worry. On the front of each sweater will be a different name, advertising one product on one and a different one on the next, with each product having to pay so much to the team for the publicity. That's smart, Sugar Bowl, but couldn't you carry a small ad on the arms?

GLIONA MATCHED AGAINST MINICOLA

Fred DeCarlo is Headliner of Pioneer A.C. Show on Friday Night.

Mel Gliona, tough Toronto featherweight has been matched with Tony Minicola, in the semi-final bout of the Pioneer Club card at the Legion Hall on Friday evening. Gliona is a husky hard hitter, but not likely to prove as hard against Tony as did Billy Hughes some time ago, and the local boy is looking for a win in what should be one of the best matches lined up for this show.

Fred DeCarlo will appear in the headliner against a good Toronto welter while two other Queen City mittsers, of the same name but not brothers, meet Ned Vitarelli and Harvey Smith. Vic Bagnato goes on against Vitarelli while East City's representative in the tin ear game is against Billy Bagnato. Another West-end A.C. mittser will be brought down here for Jack Chamberlain.

The program should be all arranged by this evening, eight well-balanced bouts. With five of the scrappers being from Toronto and paired off with the best of the Pioneer Club boxers, fans should get a good evening of amateur fisticuffing. The card pretty well features Italian mittsers, and all the local boys are in the best of shape for their bouts on Friday.

DEFEAT CHICAGO 27-18.

CALGARY, May 18 (C.P.)—Overcoming a four-point deficit at half time Edmonton Commercial Graduates, ladies' international basketball champions, handed the Chicago Red Devils their third straight defeat in an exhibition game here last night by a score of 27-18.

LOCAL CRICKETERS LOSE ON SATURDAY

Trinity College Tea mScores 119 Runs Against 31 for the Locals.

Peterborough cricket club played their first match of the season on Saturday last against Trinity College, Port Hope.

The local boys were only able to make the small score of 31 runs and N. Stanger, a new member, scoring 12, was the only player to reach double figures.

The bowling of the College players proved too good for the local batsmen. W. J. Nickle took 3 wickets for 9 runs and W. Whitehead 3 for 6 runs.

Owing to the lack of practise Peterborough players were not up to their usual form. However Trinity College team played brilliant cricket and fully deserved their overwhelming victory, scoring the total of 119 runs for the loss of only two wickets.

Peterborough is looking forward to a return game to be played at the Oval here on the 28th of May!

MINOR LEAGUES IN DIFFICULTIES

Hard Hit By Unfavorabe Weather and General Economic Situation.

DRASTIC READJUSTMENTS.

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, May 18.—Hard hit by unfavorable weather and the general economic situation, baseball's minor leagues plan a conference, national in scope, late this month to discuss ways and means of financial readjustment.

W. G. Bramham, chairman of the executive committee of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, announced in Durham, N.C., last night, the association would meet in two-day session at Rochester, N.Y., May 22 and 23, with the avowed purpose of effecting economies that will permit the minors to weather the storm.

A number of leagues are in a precarious condition financially, Bramham said, and there were intimations that several could not continue to operate unless drastic readjustments were made.

Although it has not been disclosed what specific proposals will be submitted to the Rochester conference, it is understood that the question of players' salaries certainly will be discussed and that they will be included in any scheme of general retrenchment that may be adopted.

The minors have been beset by financial worries for more than a year. The so-called "big minors," the American Association, Pacific and International Leagues, all Class "AA" circuits, enjoyed a fairly prosperous year last season, but two of them at least, the Association and the Pacific, have been forced.

Percy Williams In Prime Of Condition

SEATTLE, May 18 (C.P.).—Coach Hec Edmundson, University of Washington track coach, took a look at the flying legs of Percy Williams, of Vancouver, B.C., Olympic Games sprint champion four years ago, in his first workout here Tuesday.

"Don't count Williams out of the 1932 Olympics yet," Edmundson said later.

"He's in surprisingly good condition, and may yet prove a worthy defender of his sprint titles.

Williams, bothered the past two years by injuries, came here to train under Edmundson.

ANNUAL HANDBA' GAME PLAYED

From two o'clock in the afternoon until darkness stopped play, the annual heandba" game was played in the streets of Jedburgh, Scotland. The opposing teams of "Uppies" and "Downies," each side having hundreds of players, battled in main and side streets, and even in private gardens. All stores of Jedburgh closed during the game, partly as a holiday gesture, and partly to protect show windows.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

JERRY HEARS SOME FLOOD NEWS.

'Tis only justice, only fair
In good or ill we all abou' share.
—Jerry Muskrat.

It was well for Jerry Muskrat that Mrs. Jerry had seen the approach of Hooty the Owl and warned him in time. With that warning all her crossness seemed to have vanished.

"I'm glad you are back," said she, as they swam back to the log from which Hooty had driven them. "We have a lot to do to get ready for a family this spring."

"How is our house out in the Smiling Pool?" asked Jerry.

"There isn't any house there," replied Mrs. Jerry.

"You mean ——"

"I mean," interrupted Mrs. Jerry, "that it has been swept away. We will be lucky if even the foundations are left."

"I was afraid of it," replied Jerry. "What about our house in the bank?"

"The water is out of the bedroom but of course the latter is very wet yet," replied Mrs. Jerry. "Otherwise that house is all right. We are luckier than some folks, for, living in the water so much as we do, we can always take care of ourselves even in a flood. Some of our neighbors on the Green Meadows have had a hard time of it."

"Who?" asked Jerry. "Was anybody drowned?"

"I don't know as to that," replied Mrs. Jerry, "but I suspect that some Mice must have been. You know what a lot of them have been living on the Green Meadows. Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse escaped, but they had a hard time. They were very nearly swept out onto the Big River. If they had been we never would have seen them again."

"You don't say," exclaimed Jerry. "How did you hear about it?"

"They told me," replied Mrs. Jerry. "When I turned back up there in the Green Forest I came straight back as far as I could. Of course it was useless to try to go beyond the edge of the flood. I kept on the high ground close to the water for a couple of days, and it was while I was there that I met Danny and Nanny. They were on a log that floated in near shore. When it got near enough they swam ashore and landed right where I was. They had been on that log floating about for nearly two days and were almost starved. The flood had caught them before they could reach high ground and they had climbed on this log. After a while it floated off and the current took it out toward the Big River. Danny and Nanny were frightened nearly to death, but they hung on. Then the Merry Little Breezes came along and blew that log out of the current and back across the Green Meadows until they reached shore, as I have told you."

"There isn't any house there," replied Mrs. Jerry.

"Where are they now?" asked Jerry.

"I don't know," replied Mrs. Jerry. "They declared that they were leaving the Green Meadows forever; that never again would they live where a flood was to be feared. But you know as well as I do that Danny and Nanny will be back on the Green Meadows after a while. They couldn't be kept away."

"And what about Johnny Chuck?" asked Jerry.

"I met him, too," replied Mrs. Jerry. "He was mumbling and grumbling and very much out of sorts. The flood had driven him out of his home."

"I didn't know that Johnny had spent the winter on the Green Meadows," said Jerry.

"Well, he had," replied Mrs. Jerry, "but he says he never will again."

"Was Polly Chuck with him?" inquired Jerry.

"No," replied Mrs. Jerry. "It seems that last fall they had a foolish quarrel, and that was when Johnny went down on the Green Meadows. He left Polly Chuck at the old home up on the edge of the Old Orchard. He was on his way there when I met him. Mr. and Mrs. Quack the Mallard Ducks and Mr. and Mrs. Blackduck have arrived. The Quacks are thinking of going on, but the Blackducks will stay."

"That is good news," said Jerry.

Palpitation of the Heart Could Hardly Get Around

Mrs. Charles Storms, R.R. 5, Picton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with palpitation of the heart; couldn't sleep, day or night, and was so weak I could hardly get around.

After taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I was greatly relieved of these attacks.

My mother also has great faith in them and finds no other medicine can help her so much for heart trouble.

I can assure you that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a wonderful builder."

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If May 18th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 10:20 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to noon, and from 5 p.m. to 6:15 p.m.

Astrological influences on May 18th will help to put most people in working form, and the sun will set on well finished jobs and clean slates for the coming day. Gain in social prestige for young people, and perplexities in affairs of the heart. Health precautions indicated against alimentary complaints, and a careful diet should be followed.

The child born on this May 19th will have an orderly mind, be neat about its person, and systematic about its work. It will have a rather fiery temper which will needed to be treated with respect. It will not harbor resentment, however, and will generally be the first to "make up" after a quarrel. It will show ability in literary work and the languages.

The May 18th woman is in possession of traits which make her a good friend, comrade or lover. You are always willing to lift the weight demanded, whether it be in your home, at an office, or for your community. You are almost too eager to do your share, or the right thing, to create a comfortable or easy atmosphere. You have a sense of humor which remains undiminished through trying ordeals or domestic crises. You laugh at situations and with people; you are too full of courtesy and have too tender a heart to poke fun at any one. For your complete happiness in marriage you must receive, as you give—a three dimensional love. There must be a sympathetic union of mind, body and soul. Your horoscope, however, does not reveal success through love. A possible marriage is indicated based on homely affection and loyalty.

If a man. born on May 18th, you are sound clear through, and very humble about the things of which you have a right to be proud. You are not given to theatrical moods, and people know they can always find you the same. Your mind is a little on the slow side, but you are capable of very straight and sound reasoning. You are slow to make acquaintances and equally slow to lose them. You are very unselfish with your affections, and should avoid, with your wife or sweetheart, giving that cloying affection which swamps personality and kills love. You are made of too fine clay to become anyone's doormat.

CHANCE UNCOVERS CRIME.

KILLER BLAMES MYSTIC FORCE

Prayed in Cathedral for Riddance of Evil Spirit Before Shooting Doumer.

DRANK COGNAC.

PARIS, May 18. (A.P.) — Dr. Paul Gorgulov, the man who assasinated President Paul Doumer, told an examining magistrate today that he was in a "kind of hypnotic sleep" when he committed the crime.

"A mystic force armed my hand" he said. "I had no reason whatever to murder M. Doumer. I was in a kind of hynotic sleep."

Gorgulov informed Magistrate Fougery that he drank a bottle of cognac beforeg oing to the War Veteran's charity exhibition where he shot down the President.

"When the President entered the room" he said, "I fired without hesitation, not knowing what I was doing."

The prisoner asserted that while on his way from Monaco to Paris before the assassination he "tried to ward off the evil spirit which constantly urged him on to murder."

"On my arrival in Paris" he continued, "I went to Notre Dame Cathedral and prayed to God to rid me of the spirit. I fought to the last against this obsession."

Dear Friend:

Owing to warlike conditions prevailing in Shanghai I have experienced considerable difficulty in getting regular shipments of Chateau Cheese, which is in constant demand by my customers. I therefore appeal to you as an old friend to call personally at the Chateau Cheese Company, Ottawa, and use your best endeavours to have them trace their shipments through, with a view to giving me as prompt delivery as possible, under the circumstances.

MUNICIPAL ACT TIGHTENED UP

Local Improvements Must Be Approved By Municipal Board.

NO PETITIONS REQUIRED.

An amendment to the Local Improvement Act makes it necessary that all work undertaken as local improvements must receive the stamp of approval of the Ontario Municipal Board before they be carried out.

The amendment provides that where the Council determines and a by-law or resolution is passed at any meeting by a vote of two-thirds of all the members declaring that it is desirable that construction of a curbing, pavement, sidewalk, sewer, water main, bridge or other projects, under section four of the Local Improvement Act, should be undertaken as a local improvement, the Council may, with the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board, pass a by-law to undertake the work.

Where the undertaking of a work is approved by the Ontario Municipal Board, no petition as required by section 1 of the Act is necessary, and owners shall not have the right to petition, as provided by section 12 of the Act.

Opportunity for land owners to protest contemplated works is provided by a clause which provides that notice of intent to apply to the Municipal Board for approval of work being undertaken must be made at least once a week for two weeks, and any landowner may within 21 days of the first publication of such notice, file his objection with the Municipal Board. The work must not be undertaken until the approval of the Board to the passage of the necessary by-law has been obtained.

The curtailment of the powers of municipal councils in regard to the carrying out of local improvement works has come as a result of the action of certain municipalities which in former years have proceeded with unwarranted works programs which are now proving financial milestones around the necks of the taxpayers.

NEW ROBOT FIRE ALARM FOR SCHOOLS

Designed to Eliminate Panic in Public Building — Occupants March Out to Music.

MONTREAL, May 18. (C.P.)— A robot "hero" mechanical counterpart of the cool headed person whose calm voice directs less collected folk to safety in time of fire, has been introduced to the world of science through engineers of the Northern Electric Company. The new contrivance, operated by electricity, was designed to remove the panic hazard from theatres, halls and schools.

As soon as a fire starts, and before the acrid fumes of smoke have even gone through the building, the robot whirs to life. "There is a fire emergency but no immediate danger," booms a calm but commanding voice through concealed loudspeakers. "You must leave the building. Leave your hats and coats and take your place in line. Steady now don't rush. Follow the green arrows."

Meanwhile the firemen are on their way to the scene, automatically summoned by the robot which has specified which side of the building the fire originated on. When the firemen arrive, a system of light signals at the front of the building tells them exactly where the fire is located.

Occupants of the building march out to the strains of a military band playing through the loudspeakers while green arrows flash the way to safety. A special phonograph record reproduces the voice amplified automatically.

The automatic fire detector uses special wiring which is sensitive to heat. The core is a fusible alloy enclosed in a steel sheath which is slit along its entire length. At 160 degrees Fahrenheit the alloy melts and expands forcibly. It spurts through the slit and, making contact with an outer metal sheath causes a short circuit that sets off the alarm. In actual installation this wiring is placed throughout a building and a very small current, enough to spring the alarm, is kept flowing through it.

The music reproducer is associated with an amplifier which may be connected to loudspeakers of any size placed in any number of rooms, hallways and auditoriums. The apparatus is "electrically supervised." A small current, about equal to that consumed by an ordinary 60 watt electric light bulb, keeps the amplifier tubes warm and ready to operate instantly, and also notifies the local technician should the slightest misadjustment occur. All the vital apparatus in the system is protected in a fire-proof vault.

The inventors claim that the bell or gong of the traditional fire alarm actually alarms and frightens people, but does not tell them what to do. Modern study of the effect of sound shows that clamorous sounds of that kind even in the absence of an emergency tend to make people feel excited and lose their heads.

OWNERS TRY OUT TURF NOMINEES AS KING'S PLATE DRAWS NEARER

So Far None of Popular Choices Have Shown Any Outstanding Performances.

UNKNOWNS MAKE GOOD.

TORONTO, May 18 (C.P.)—Nominees for the King's Plate, Canadian turf classic, crowded into the Woodbine Park oval to-day in one of their last chances to stage a performance that will decide their candidature for the 73rd running of North America's oldest annual racing feature, Saturday afternoon.

Bright, crisp weather, with a hard, fast track, confronted the horses as they swung into their regular morning workouts, but so far none of the more popular choices has shown any outstanding speed. Queensway, Shady Well, Bronze and Easter Hatter have breezed over the Plate course in no better than 1.58 2-5, but a pair of unheralded maidens from the stable of W. H. Wright have attracted the attention of the racing public by covering the mile and a furlong in near record time. Sprey Crest and Fragrant Gift carrying allotted weights, raced over the stretch in 1.56 2-5, only 3-5 seconds more than the King's Plate record established by Troutlet in 1927.

Many owners have confined most of the trials to the mile distance. In these, Shady Well has shown the best time, covering the route in 1.42, compared with the track record of 1.38 2-5.

Present weather conditions indicate a fast track, but in the event of a heavy track there is a strong contingent of mudders. Despite his brilliant workout on a fast track, Spey Crest is reported to be just as capable in heavy going. Lord Rockville, Easter Dandy, Easter Hatter, Bronze and Wentworth also are noted for their sure-footedness in the mud.

An Ogopogo at The Pas

THE PAS, Man., May 18 (C. P.).— A giant frog-like creature with a tail 10 feet long, huge green eyes, green mottled body and webbed feet, haunts the waters of the north country. Such is the word brought to Pine Bluffs by Indians, and today a number of white hunters were on their way to bag Northern Saskatchewan's own edition of British Columbia's Ogopogo. The beast has been seen both on land and in the water, and Thomas Head, who was first sceptical now vouches for its existence.

AUSTRALIANS TO VISIT HOLLYWOOD

English Born Actors From Movie Colony Have Aussie Cricket Team Trip Extended.

TORONTO, May 18. (CP)—Californians will see some of Australia's famous cricketers in action this summer. Led by C. Aubrey Smith, star of the stage and screen and an old English county player, cricket enthusiasts of the motion picture colony in Hollywood have completed arrangements by which the tour of the Australian team in Canada and the United States has been extended to permit games in California late in August.

Negotiations between Mr. Smith and Harry Dean, Canadian tour secretary, were concluded to-day and as a result the Antipodeans will play in San Francisco and Sacramento Aug. 21, 22 and 23. The following day they will visit Santa Barbara and on Aug. 25 and 26 they will play in Hollywood. Associated with Mr. Smith are George Arliss, Ronald Colman and Clive Brook.

Mr. Smith, familiarly known to older devotees of the English National game as "round the corner" Smith, because of his peculiar manner of bowling, is enthusiastic about the games at the coast. The former Sussex player is of the opinion formidable sides will take the field against the Australians mainly drawn from the English acting fraternity. The matches will be played soon after the close of the Olympic games.

The Australian team which includes such famous players as Don Bradman, V. Y. Richardson and A. A. Mailey, will sail for home from San Francisco instead of Vancouver as originally planned.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 3 By Edgar Rice Burroughs
(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

© 1931, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved.

Terrified, Tantor thought only of escape. Through the forest he ran. The herd followed madly in his wake, leaving behind them felled trees, trampled and uptorn bushes. He did not know that his friend Tarzan lay helpless and injured, at the mercy of the common enemy, man.... The two Arabs and their party pushed forward to where the elephants had been resting.

Fahd was the first to reach the spot. "Wellah!" he cried, "I fired at the elephant and I have killed a naked Christian dog!" The others crowded about in excited curiosity. Motlog stooped and rolled Tarzan over. "He is not dead; there is no mark of bullet upon him," he said to Fahd.

"I will finish him," said Fahd, drawing his knife. "Put back thy khusa," ordered Motlog. "Let the sheykh say if he shall be killed. We will carry him back to the menzil. By Allah! He hath the size and muscles of a giant." Just then Tarzan moved ever so slightly. "Quick! Bind him!" commanded Fahd.

With camel-like thongs they made the ape-man's wrists secure and scarcely was it done when Tarzan opened his eyes. He shook his head like some great lion. He recognized the Arabs as ivory raiders. "Why am I bound?" he asked them in their own tongue. For answer, his captors laughed and jeered at his plight.

An added feature of the program will be a presentation of Royal Life Saving Society medals and certificates won by the following pupils of the Y.W.C.A. live saving classes of 1931.

CONFINED ACTION ON THE MINE MART

Trading Light and Featureless With Large Portion of List in Discard.

TORONTO, May 18 (C.P.)—Confined price action and absence of definite trend marked the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market in the forenoon to-day. Trading was light and featureless, with a large portion of the list in the discard.

Following declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents and an extra 50 cents, payable June 15 to shareholders of record June 1, Lake Shore moved up to $27 for a 50 cent gain, but only a few transactions appeared on the tape.

Pioneer of B.C. recovered 3 to $3.10, and Ventures and Bidgood showed small gains. Kirkland Lake gold and Howey lost fractions a piece. Noranda met some selling and was off 35 to $14.65 when taken at noon. Eldorado was stationary at $1. Acme Gas, off a half to 9½, showed the only change among the lower-priced oils.

Enthused Gathering At The Opera House

The city-wide revival campaign which is being held at the Grand Opera House continues nightly with a fervor similar to that of one-half century ago among the Methodists and Quakers. On Tuesday night a crowd of people took part most enthusiastically in the worship of singing, praying, and testifying.

To one acquainted with the writings of John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, or the mode of worship of his later followers, they could not help but be impressed with the comparison of the service in the Opera House to that of those days. The evangelist, Mr. Bostrom, preached on the subject of "What it meant for a soul to be lost," at the conclusion of which many responded to an invitation to pray in an adjoining room while some knelt in front of seats near the stage to find relief from their sins which were the cause of the lost condition of the soul as explained by the preacher.

Whatever else may be said of the worshippers at the Opera House, it is very evident they have become quite happy in their religion and anxiously endeavor to bring their fellow-men into a like condition.

The meeting is under the auspices of what is known as "The Pentecostal People," whose headquarters are in London, Ont. In about eighteen months a considerably large congregation have allied themselves with the local work in this city and purpose building a church home in the near future.

The Examiner is very anxious to get a mattress and set of springs for a single bed. An old lady who has her husband to look after and is also taking care of an invalid girl, would like to get this. She has the bed frame. Neither of the old people are eligible for the Old Age Pension and life is not too easy for them.

34 DEGREES LAST NIGHT

As they rolled in bed last night under an extra blanket many amateur gardeners in the district felt considerable concern for tender plants because of the cold dip. The temperature dropped to 34 degrees, just two above freezing, and a heavy white frost covered the ground this morning.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

COACH LINE IS SUED FOR $1,000

Case is Being Heard in County Court Before Judge O'Connor.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE.

Father and son are plaintiffs in an action which is being heard by His Honor Judge L. V. O'Connor at a non jury sitting of Peterborough County Court today, and which arises as a sequel to an accident on January 31, this year involving a Gray Coach Lines bus and an automobile owned and driven by Leo McAuliffe of this city.

Plaintiffs are each suing for $500.00 and costs, the elder plaintiff W. C. McAuliffe for alleged injuries received to his wrist and severe shock which he claims were the results of the accident involving the car in which he was riding as a passenger; and the younger plaintiff Leo McAuliffe for damages to the car.

J. A. O'Brien is counsel for plaintiffs, while R. R. Hall, K. C. is counsel for the defendant company.

W. C. McAuliffe the first witness this morning described the accident which occurred near the village of Guthrie between Barrie and Orillia at about 8.30 on the morning of January 31, last and during the course of a snowstorm.

He maintained that he had been driving at a speed of about twenty miles per hour previous to seeing the bus, after which he commenced to slow down. His car was almost at a standstill, he told the judge, immediately before the impact.

Visibility Was Good

Visibility on the morning was good in spite of the snow. At the side of the road the snow was four to five inches and possibly six inches deep. The centre of the highway was practically bare of snow.

Witness also told of the injury he had sustained to his wrist, and described the various X-ray examinations which had been made of the injured limb at St. Joseph's Hospital. "My heart was perfect before the accident, but since then I have had heart flutterings and palpitations, and suffer from nervousness", said witness in reply to a question by Judge O'Connor.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien was the only other witness called before the noon adjournment. He had treated the plaintiff W. C. McAuliffe and as a result of an examination he had made he stated the wrist was markedly swollen and plaintiff complained of pain in the limb.

Dr. O'Brien continued that after his first examination of the wrist he bandaged it and told the patient to come back in the course of a few days. He later advised an X-ray examination. The examination disclosed a fracture of one of the large bones in the forearm. The fracture was evidently a month old, and the ligaments were torn.

Witness expressed the opinion that plaintiff had a permanent disability of the wrist.

He also stated that plaintiff had complained of a dull ache in the sternum. In this case an X-ray examination showed dilation of a large artery leading from the heart, and signs of the breaking of the wall of a blood vessel. The injury could easily have been caused by a severe blow or strain. It was a permanent condition and would greatly interfere with plaintiff's efficiency as a millwright.

In answer to Mr. Hall during the cross-examination witness said, the injury to plaintiff's wrist could not be overcome by exercise. Inflammation still existed and the condition would be aggravated by exercise.

Upon application of Mr. Hall, counsel for plaintiffs agreed to Dr. T. W. H. Young examining plaintiff's injured wrist on behalf of the defendant company, providing that the examination was made in the presenseof Dr. O'Brien.

Six-Pound Pickerel Is Caught At Locks

Pickerel fishermen who have spent many luckless hours this week casting over the river will be envious of James Wheeler, of the Norwood Road. Fishing at the locks last night, Wheeler landed two pickerel that together weighed 10¼ pounds, which sets an early record for this season. The Examiner saw this pair of beauties this morning, one weighed six pounds, while the other tipped the beam at four and a quarter pounds.

Veteran fishermen state that the pickerel are not biting well yet. Some explain this by stating that the pickerel are feeding on minnows which are teeming in the river at this time, and thus have no appetite for the bait cast upon the water by patient rodmen. Others offer the theory that the pickerel are not running in these waters as yet.

Wheeler's catch shows that the big ones seem to be about and are hungry.

SESSION TO END NEXT WEEK

Thursday, May 26, or Friday at Latest Mentioned—Tories in Caucus.

SIMPSON HONORED.

OTTAWA, May 18 (C.P.). — Prorogation of Parliament towards the end of next week is the expectation of the Government, according to reports current in well-informed circles here. Thursday, May 26, or the following day at the latest, is mentioned as the date on which the session will end. It is understood that this question was discussed at the Conservative caucus to-day. And hopes were pinned for prorogation on one of these two dates. Agreement with the official Opposition is believed to have been reached on that point but the attitude of the Progressives and of some individuals among the Quebec Liberals is uncertain.

Whether the Government will proceed with the amendments to the Canada Shipping Act, confining the coastal trade of Canada (in the Great Lakes) to bona-fide British ships, is problematical. Strong representations are understood to have been received urging the Government to postpone this legislation until it can be more exhaustively considered than is possible in the dying days of the session.

The Conservative caucus to-day presented T. E. Simpson, the Government Whip, with a silver rose bowl, in appreciation of his services in that capacity.

NORWOOD MAN SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Two Toronto Women Also Injured When Car and Truck Collide.

Car Completely Wrecked.

Gunston Went to Toronto Week Ago to Undergo Operation.

TORONTO, May 19 (Special to The Examiner).—L. Charles Gunston, aged 42, of Norwood, was seriously injured and two women passengers in his car, were also critically injured, one probably fatally, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the Hamilton-Toronto Highway just west of Gooderham Manor Farm, when a car driven by Gunston met in collision with a transport truck owned by the Speedy Service System, of Toronto.

The women injured were: Mrs. Albert Matthews, aged 62, of 283 Gainsborough Road, Toronto, and Mrs. Albert Barker, aged 52, wife of Rev. Albert Barker, rector of Cardinal.

Mrs. Matthews' injuries will likely cause her death, it was thought at St. Joseph's Hospital, where all three were admitted in an unconscious condition, but hope is held for the recovery of Mr. Gunston and Mrs. Barker. Mrs. Matthews has a fractured skull.

Internal Injuries

Mrs. Barker suffered head injuries and is suffering from shock, while Mr. Gunston also has deep lacerations of the head and a possible internal hemorrhage.

After the impact, the truck was thrown over on its side across the highway with its front torn off. The car was hurled to the opposite side and was completely wrecked.

Gunston was thrown through the windshield of the car. Mrs. Barker crawled from beneath the wreckage in a hysterical condition. Mrs. Matthews was pinned under the car and it is thought that she was seated in the rear seat on the side that received the full impact of the crash.

Mrs. Matthews is the wife of Albert Matthews, an employee of the Property Department at the Toronto City Hall. Gunston regained consciousness about 11 o'clock last night.

NORWOOD, May 19 (Special).—L. Charles Gunston is well-known and popular here. He has lived here for several years and is an employee of the monumental works as an expert craftsman. He went to Toronto a week or more ago to undergo a minor operation in Toronto. Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Barker are his friends, of long-standing, and it is thought that he was taking them for a drive in his car when the collision occurred.

FOOT MANGLED WHEN MAN FAILS TO BOARD TRAIN

Arthur Hall, Attempts to Catch Fast Freight at C.P.R. Station.

GOING TOO FAST.

Hall is Married Man Aged 52 and One of Kitchener's Unemployed.

With right foot badly mangled, Arthur Hall, aged 53, married, of 438 Portland Street, Kitchener, lies in Nicholls Hospital, the result of Hall's unsuccessful attempt to catch a fast freight near the C. P. R. Station at 10.30 to-day.

Running along beside the fast moving train, Hall reached forward to lift himself up. His grip on the iron rail of a car slipped because of the speed of the train. He fell and his right foot was caught beneath the wheels. He rolled free.

Partner Boarded Train.

His partner, George Swailes aged 28, also of Kitchener, had also raced forward to catch the freight and had succeeded. Hanging to a swaying car, he saw the plight of his friend and jumped off. He ran to Hall and tried to lift him, from the right-of-way.

Other transients, who had stood about waiting to catch the train, but had been deterred from the attempt by its speed, also went to the injured man. He was carried into Rehill's coalyard office, where first-aid was administered.

Dr. A. G. Howson was called and Hall was removed to Nicholls Hospital.

The bones of his foot had been squashed and laid bare beneath the wheels. It was reported at noon from the hospital that he was in the operating room and it was expected that part of his foot must be amputated.

The train was a through freight to Montreal and did not stop here. The trainmen remained unaware of the accident until informed over the wires.

Just West of Station.

The men made their attempt to board it just west of the station and almost in front of Rehill's coalyard.

Both Hall and Swailes had been unemployed in Kitchener, and in an effort to locate work had set out to visit the towns and cities in Eastern Ontario. They had been but a few hours here when they decided to pull out.

Swailes accompanied his friend to hospital and waited about to learn the seriousness of his injury. He said he had "no plans."

H. C. SCHOFIELD HANDLED FUNDS IN 1929 FIGHT

Never Received Any Donations From Aird for Tory Party.

HAD ABOUT $16,000.

Never Heard of Aird Making Any Collections for Party.

TORONTO, May 19.—(C. P.) — Hon. H. C. Scholfield, minister without portfolio in the Henry cabinet, was the handler of the Conservative campaign funds in 1929, he told the Royal Commission on Hydro today.

He had never, he said, received any campaign fund contributions from John Aird, Jr., or anyone connected with him in any way.

The war chest had contained $15,000—or perhaps $16,000 that year, he said.

Nor had he ever heard of Aird collecting money for the funds, or of anyone getting a share of either the $50,000 Hydro or $125,000 payment.

He would not say he had handled the entire campaign funds, but did not know of any more than the possible $16,000 he had mentioned.

TEACHER FOILS KIDNAP EFFORT

Claims That Toronto Dentist Sought to Take Child From School.

SAID HE WAS FATHER.

KINGSTON, May 19 (C.P.). — Miss Keitha Smith, primary teacher at Victoria School, to-day foiled what she characterized as an attempt to kidnap six-year-old Joyce Pitchett from the class-room. She struggled valiantly and summoned aid when a man who said he was a Toronto dentist and father of the child sought to take her away with him.

The man called at the school and asked for the child, but the youngster refused to go with him. Miss Smith said the man pushed her aside and picked up the screaming child. The teacher held the man's coat and sent a pupil for the principal, J. G. Ettinger, who insisted the man leave.

The dentist departed with a woman, who said she was his wife. Police, who denied having issued any permission to the man to take the child from the school, have not decided on any steps against him. The child has been living with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pitchett, Kingston, since she was six months old.

HARBOR GRACE IS FIRST GOAL OF GIANT DO-X

German Airliner Carries Crew of 14 as She Leaves New York.

ARRIVED LAST AUGUST.

Will Wait in Newfoundland for Right Weather Before Heading for Azores.

ST. JOHN'S, NF., May 19. — (C.P.).—The German flying boat Do-X, en route here from New York, was reported late this afternoon to have changed her course because of a heavy ocean swell, making undesirable landing conditions off the coast. The ship was reported heading for Holyrood on Chapel's Cove at the head of Conception Bay.

NEW YORK, May 19.—The German airliner DO-X, its giant motors roaring in the silence of Long Island Sound, took off at 6.09 o'clock (E.S.T.) this morning for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on the first lap of its return trip to Germany. The take-off was made from a point 12 miles east of Manhasset Bay.

The roar of the great seaplane's powerful motors was heard by newspapermen scurrying about the bay in fast launches, endeavoring to locate it in the darkness.

It had been lost to them since it taxied away from North Beach last night. First indications of its new position were contained in radio despatches requesting weather reports.

Later it was learned that the ship had not left the water en route to its new anchorage. It had taxied the first mile or so and then was towed by boat.

Capt. Frederick Christianson, the DO-X's commander, did not announce his trip to the open water, where he had apparently decided a safer take-off could be effected.

Weather Favorable

A message from the German air cruiser at 5:30 o'clock (EST) said that weather conditions were "favorable" and quoted the log as recording the take-off from "Port Washington" the radio marine corp. reported.

The airliner was heavily loaded yesterday for its long flight. A full supply of fuel and provisions was placed aboard, and Capt. Christianson, after taking his craft to a point off the J. P. Morgan estate on Long Island, waited for the dawn. There was a crew of 14 aboard.

The DO-X had been thoroughly overhauled since its arrival in New York last August. Plans are to remain in Newfoundland until favorable weather reports for her flight over the Atlantic to the Azores are received.

She is bound for Lake Constance Switzerland, her home Port, which she left in November, 1930.

FAVOR WHOLESALE FIRING PRUSSIAN DIET OFFICIALS

BERLIN, May 19.—(AP)—Sweeping salary cuts and the wholesale dismissal of officials considered non-essential were demanded today by Wilhelm Kube, National Socialist floor leader in the new Prussian diet which will convene May 24.

The cuts and the dismissals will be the first objectives in the Hitlerite effort to bring about fundamental changes in Prussia, Herr Kube declared.

"All economies in recent years have been made at the expense of the middle and lower officialdom," he said. We demand the strictest economy in reference to the high salaries of cabinet members, Lord Mayors, Provincial Governors, District Governors, Police Chiefs and Ministerial Departmental Chiefs.

$90,000 FOR FAIRS.

Total Estimates for Fiscal Year Amount to $363,394,266.

OTTAWA, May 19—(CP)—A decrease of approximately thirty-eight million dollars in estimates laid before the House of Commons this session, for the present year, as compared with last, is shown with the tabling today of the supplementaries by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. The total of main and supplementary estimates tabled this session for the present fiscal year is $363,394,266. Estimates for the last fiscal year totalled approximately $401,400,000.

The largest single item in the supplementaries is one of $650,000 to provide for payments in connection yith the movement of coal, under conditions prescribed by order-in-council. FOREST FIRES STILL RAGING

Rangers and Volunteers Battle to Save Valuable Timber in Quebec and N.B.

SPORT HAUNTS OPENED.

MONTREAL, May 19. (CP). Fire to-day continued to eat into bush lands in many parts of Eastern Canada and large staffs of volunteer fighters, under the direction of forest rangers, were engaged in a stern fight to save valuable timber.

New Brunswick and Quebec provinces were faced with potential danger spots scattered far apart but in Nova Scotia it was believed the situation was completely in hand.

Yielding to requests from hundreds of would-be fishermen, the Quebec department of lands and forests de-opened the forests to sportsmen to-day under ordinary spring, summer, and fall regulations. Entrance to crown lands north of the Ottawa river and the Laurentian Mountains had been forbidden when the fire situation appeared to be getting completely out of hand. Hon. Honore Mercier, minister of the department in the Quebec government, in lifting the ban, appealed to the "common sense and the traditional co-operation" of sportsmen not to endanger the forests with careless fires.

In New Brunswick a squad of men were going by water to the inaccessable territory in northwest Northumberland county to handle a stubborn fire while several other

MAGUIRE DENIES USING INFLUENCE TO ASSIST AIRD

Hon. J. R. Cooke Outlines Payment of $50,000 to John Aird.

NOTHING UNUSUAL.

Maguire Told Heber Smith to See Magrath or F. A. Gaby.

TORONTO, May 19 (CP)—Denial that he had used his influence as a Hydro commissioner to assist John Aird Jr., and R. W. Millard, Aird's partner, was made by C. A. Maguire before the royal commission on Hydro to-day. The commission adjourned early when A. G. Slaght, K.C., and W. N. Tilley, K.C., left to attend a meeting, but will continue this afternoon.

During the morning, Hon. J. R. Cooke, present Hydro chairman, had outlined the payment of $50,000 to Aird after the Ontario cabinet had "okayed" the warrant for $66,000. The cabinet, he said, had received the warrant for the entire amount, with no detailed statement attached, and as was the usual custom the minister responsible had merely presented it for his colleagues' approval. It was the usual practice of the cabinet he said, to question responsible ministers on such payments if they desired to obtain further details.

Nothing Unusual

The payment of $1,800,000 for the Madawaska power rights had been passed by the cabinet, but a few months later, near the end of the fiscal year, the Hydro had balanced its expenditures with the government and then obtained the authorization of $66,000 expenditures for preliminary surveys and investigations of the Madawaska. There was nothing unusual whatsoever in the transaction, he said.

At no time had the Aird payment been considered a gratuity, he said, but was simply payment for services rendered to Hydro by Aird.

He did not know, he said, who had collected or handled Conservative party funds during the year 1929.

Did Not See Sir John

Maguire denied having see Sir John Aird, J. H. Black, E. C. Cousins, Fred Roberts or others mentioned in the investigation to discuss the Madawaska.

Heber Smith, insurance agent, had discussed the project with him, and he had told Smith to tell Aird and Millard to see C. A. Magrath, then Hydro chairman, or F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of Hydro.

At all times, he continued, he

MEMBERS HURT BY STATEMENT FROM HOWARD

Premier Bennett Threatens to Turn Matter Over to Privileges Group.

SUGGESTS EXPLANATION.

Lapointe Protests Objections to Bond Conversion—Observations Are Somewhat Late.

OTTAWA, May 19 (C.P.)—Some members of the Cabinet continue to feel "very keenly" about the observations made in the House of Commons a month ago by C. B. Howard (Lib., Sherbrooke), the Prime Minister told the House of Commons this morning, and if Mr. Howard finds it impossible to make any statement with regard to these observations, Mr. Bennett will give formal notice that the matter be referred to the Privileges and Elections committee.

On April 13, in the course of his speech on the budget, Mr. Howard, speaking of the Conversion Loan of 1931 and of the part which people in his constituency had played in that, declared:

"I told these men: 'If the Government want you to convert your bonds, I think you should do so.' They converted their bonds. What happened? Insiders of this government did not convert their bonds; the people of Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships did."

Questioned by Rhodes

The propriety of Mr. Howard's remarks had been questioned at a previous session by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, when the Speaker ruled that the issue was entirely up to the Hon. Member for Sherbrooke. To-day Mr. Rhodes reverted to the matter, expressing the hope that since Mr. Howard had just returned from Bermuda he might now feel more generously disposed towards his political opponents.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe (Lib. Quebec east) protested that any objection Mr. Rhodes had to Mr. Howard's statement should have been taken at the time the speech was made. To this the speaker ruled that the words were not "unparliamentary" but if Mr. Howard desired to make any statement relating to them, the matter rested with him.

"This matter" declared the prime minister, "is one that has given some concern to some of my colleagues; and if it is impossible for the Hon. member for Sherbrooke to make any statement with regard to it, I shall give formal notice that it be referred to the privileges and elections committee. Some of my colleagues feel very keenly about it.

"Dictatorship"

"You have no right to do that" interjected Mr. Lapointe.

"I have; and I had exercised it" was the reply.

"Dictatorship!" Mr. Lapointe interjected.

"No. Public decency," commented Mr. Bennett.

"The rules of the house are there" said Mr. Lapointe.

A copy of Hansard for April 13 was sent across the floor to Mr. Howard, who examined it and returned it to the minister of finance, but made no comment. The incident ended there for the time being.

HALLADAY MEMORIAL LECTURE IS GIVEN BY DR. J. W. McCULLOUGH

"The War on Cancer" is Subject of Interesting Address in Library Hall.

CAUSE NOT FOUND.

Facts that everyone should know about cancer were told last evening by Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Chief of the Public Health Department of Toronto, in delivering the Halladay Memorial Lecture under the auspices of the Peterborough Medical Society in the Public Library on the subject, "The War on Cancer."

That one person out of every ten over the age of forty is a possible subject of cancer the records show, was one of the startling statements of Dr. McCullough, who is an authority on the subject having been secretary of the Royal Commission which last year visited the United States and various countries of Europe studying means adopted in its cure in the foremost laboratories of the world. 60 FOREIGNERS ARE MENACED BY RED TROOPS

Rev. H. S. Ferguson, Missionary From Toronto, Captured Near Pengpu.

PROVINCES PLUNDERED.

Fear Nanking Forces, Without Pay, Will Refuse to Fight Communists.

NANKING, May 19 (A.P.)—The safety of 60 foreigners, most of them missionaries, was threatened to-day at Pengpu by a host of 30,000 Chinese Communists which was overrunning Northern Anhwei Province.

The Communists had surrounded a force of 7,000 Nanking troops west of Pengpu and threatened to cut the Tientsin-Pukow Railway south of there, blocking the arrival of reinforcements to aid the embattled Government troops.

The Chinese Government rushed troops to Pengpu last Monday at the request of the United States Legation. Three thousand troops were sent from here and another division from Soochow. Apparently it was this force which was reported surrounded by the greatly superior force of Communists.

The Communists, who have been plundering wide areas in Anhwei, Honan and other Provinces in Central China, caused a general exodus of foreigners and Chinese alike from these territories.

Canadian Captured

Most of the missionaries already have left Northern Anhwei Province and only one of them, Rev. H. S. Ferguson, a Canadian from Toronto, attached to the China Inland Mission, was captured. He was taken at Cheng-Yangkuan, 60 miles southwest of Pengpu, May 16.

W. W. Morve, an American member of the same mission had not been captured as late as yesterday when he telegraphed from a village near Chengyankuan saying the situation was precarious but he was remaining to try to assist Ferguson although he did not know where the latter was being held.

The ability of the Nanking government to protect Pengpu or to oppose the Communists effectively was considered doubtful here because of alleged failure to pay the government army which was sent against the rebels.

Nanking soldiers claim that many of the men in the Communist army are former Nanking troops who were forced to resort to outlawry to obtain a living.

The expectation here was that the Nanking forces would refuse to fight and Nanking aviators already were reported to have refused to bomb the Communists in accordance with orders from the government.

Amazing Confession is Made by Kidnapping Intermediary

CURTIS CONFESSES "CONTACTS" WITH KIDNAPPERS "FAKED"

In an amazing confession, John Hughes Curtis (2), Norfolk, Virginia, boat builder, has stated that all his account of negotiations with the alleged kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby were fictitious and concocted for newspaper publicity and personal profit. Although Curtis stated that the kidnappers were demanding $200,000 after the payment of the $50,000 by Dr. Condon, attorney Marshall, of New Jersey, declared on May 14 that Curtis had never proved that he had been in touch with the kidnappers. In (1) is shown Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, former Canadian rector, in whose church Curtis was a communicant, who was associated with Curtis in his alleged contacts with the kidnappers. Rear-admiral Guy H. Burrage (3), was the third member of the trio, only secondary to the celebrated "Jafsie" in the interest engendered by their operations. Dean Peacock and Admiral Burrage, however, explained that they, themselves, had no contact with the alleged kidnappers. They trusted Curtis, who impressed them with his story that he was in contact with the kidnappers.

JURY CONSIDERS SON TO BLAME

Hamilton Father Hit Son in Self-defence is Finding of Jury.

HUSBAND TESTIFIES.

HAMILTON, May 19.—Chief Coroner O. A. Cannon presided at he inquest last night in the death of Samuel Graydon, aged 19, of 66 Victoria Avenue South, who died Tuesday in the General Hospital from a wound he suffered in the head late last Thursday night during an alleged quarrel with his father over a young married woman.

The jury returned a verdict late last night, in which it found that Samuel Graydon had died from a blow on the head by some weapon, and that, from the evidence submitted, it was believed this blow was administered by the deceased's father, Walter Graydon, under extreme provocation and in self-defence.

Statement Read.

The father was present at the inquiry, but did not testify, although a signed statement he made to Detective Speakman was read in this statement, the father said he pleaded with his son not to keep company with Mrs. Harold McCall, aged 18, of 35 West Avenue South. The son refused to give her up, the father's statement said, and a quarrel ensued last Thursday night, in which Samuel took off his coat and rushed at his father. The father said he threw part of a brick at his son, which struck the son in the forehead.

Mr. Graydon was permitted to view his son's body yesterday, but will not be allowed to attend the funeral to-day. He is still in custody, as he was unable to raise bail of $5,000. He was arrested last Friday on a charge of aggravated assault and remanded until after the inquest had been held.

Husband Testifies.

Harold McCall, aged 39, who said he had been married eleven months, swore that he was unaware of his wife's keeping company with Samuel Graydon until the latter's parents told him. He pleaded with his wife, he said, but she refused to give the boy up, and said she would end her life before she would do so. Mr. McCall said he was unable to do anything more in the matter.

Mrs. McCall, who is a native of Vancouver, where her parents are said to be wealthy residents, admitted knowing Samuel Graydon for three weeks, and seeing him daily during that period. She admitted that Mrs. Graydon, mother of the deceased, had slapped her face and that she had struck Mrs. Graydon. They fought and pulled each other's hair, until their husbands separated them. That was but a few minutes before the fatal quarrel between the father and Samuel Graydon.

SAYS REV. DOBSON-PEACOCK JOINED HOAX FOR PUBLICITY; TERMS ADMIRAL 'OLD FOGEY'

Dean Denies Charges—Ready to Meet Police Anytime.

BURRAGE EXONERATED.

Police Check Curtis' Movements on Night of Ransom Payment.

HOPEWELL, May 19. — Jersey justice jousted today with a windmill—with a boat-builder's amazing deceit. It was the 79th day of repeating sorrow and multiplied horror at heartbreak house in the Sourland hills, and the murderer of the Lindbergh baby remained unknown, untraced and free.

The constabulary of the state of New Jersey, charged with the responsibility of the hunt for the person or persons who kidnapped the baby the night of March 1, killed him immediately and buried his body in the brush-brown land of the hill country, found its hunt interrupted by the necessity of doing something about the story of John Hughes Curtis of Norfolk, Va.

Curtis, after 10 weeks of promise as a negotiator for the return of the child alive, was in jail at Flemington. The charge was obstructing justice. Conviction provides a penalty of three years in jail, a $3,000 fine, or both.

The 47-year-old boatbuilder who blames financial worries for his attempt to foist a gigantic hoax upon the world, waived preliminary hearing when he was called to answer the charge late yesterday at the Lindbergh home.

Speaks Bitterly

The sight of iron bars loosed rancor and he spoke bitterly of a fellow negotiator, the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, who formerly held charges in Canada, and slightingly of the third member of the Norfolk group, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired.

The clergyman, Curtis said, was a "publicity fiend" and joined the hoax for the publicity it would bring. This the clergyman, at Norfolk, denied, expressing doubt that Curtis would make such a statement.

Burrage was referred to by Curtis as "an old foggy." The retired

Food Store Looted By Hunrgy Miners

AUCKLAND, N.Z., May 19. (C. P. Cable).—An undetermined number of unemployed rioted to-day at the little New Zealand mining town of Huntly, raided a large store after the owner had refused to give them food free, and helped themselves to whatever they could carry away.

Police reinforcements were rushed to the scene and numerous arrests were expected.

Leaders of the mobs said the goods were taken in no spirit of ill will, but merely because the rioters had no intention of going hungry any longer.

JAPANESE PAY PREMIER HONOR

Five Hundred Leading Public Men Attend Simple Buddhist Funeral Service.

NO PROCESSION.

TOKYO, May 19. (AP)—A simple Buddhist funeral service, attended by 500 of Japan's leading public men who crowded into the public hall of the premier's residence marked to-day the nation's farewell to the late Premier Suyoshi Inukai, slain last Sunday by a group of young assassins.

The Seiyukai party, which the slain premier headed during the last two and one-half years of his half century in parliament, conducted the funeral services.

These consisted merely of the reading of messages extolling the virtues and services of the deceased. They were read by the heads of the Seiyukai and Minseito parties in both houses of parliament while messengers representing the emperor and empress burned incense before the altar on which the plain wooden casket rested.

No Outside Ceremony

The general public did not participate in the funeral ceremonies and there was no procession and no outside ceremonies.

Late this afternoon the body was to be taken unostentatiously to a crematorium. Part of the ashes were to be buried in the Zoshigaya cemetery here and the rest of the late premier's birthplace at Okayama.

As soon as the funeral ceremonies were ended the party leaders resumed their parleys over the selection of a new cabinet.

The situation had cleared considerably to-day and the indication was that the army and political leaders had patched up their differences. The belief prevailed that the army would accept a cabinet which would be made up chiefly of members of the Seiyukai party, but would contain also some others. General Sadao Arakai would be renamed minister of war, newspaper commentators predicted.

Because of the prospect for political peace, a strong tone was shown on the Tokyo stock exchange during the morning. Leading shares recovered their losses of Wednesday and several rose above the closing quotations on Saturday.

720 SURVIVORS ON RESCUED LIST

Many Joyous Re-unions on Aden Docks as Relatives Gather.

MANY DIED OF BURNS.

PARIS, May 19 (C.P.). — The Messageries Maritimes, owners of the motorship George Philippar which burned in the Arabian Sea on Monday, to-day issued a list of the names of 720 passengers and crew of the vessel who were rescued by the steamers Contractor, Mahsud, and Andre Lebon.

The list contained all the available information, a statement said, but it gave no indication of the nationalities of those whose names appeared on it.

Le Journal said a Mr. Van Pelt, inspector for a Franco-Indo-Chinese exporting firm here, was saved, with his wife and three children.

Relatives Meet.

ADEN, Arabia, May 19 (C.P.).—The steamer Andre Lebon arrived here shortly after midnight this morning from Djibouti, French Somaliland, where she landed most of the survivors picked up from the burned motorship Georges Philippar.

The Andre Lebon brought 34 of the survivors here, however, to rejoin relatives who were rescued by the British steamers Contractor and Mahsud, which put in here with their cargoes of survivors. There were many tearfully joyous re-unions on the docks as the Andre Lebon arrived.

One survivor said he was certain many had died aboard the doomed ship of burns and suffocation. An unnamed Dutch doctor told of being awakened by the smoke and flames and of rushing to the next cabin where his two children and their nurse were sleeping. He found them enveloped in flames, he said, and never saw them again.

TORY COLLECTOR IS NOT REVEALED AT HYDRO PROBE

Home Smith Handled the Funds in 1930 But Not Previously.

PREMIER APPEARS.

Hon. J. R. Cooke Says $50,000 Not Too Much for Aird's Services.

TORONTO, May 19 (C.P.)—The Royal Commission enquiry on Hydro resumed to-day, with another early start. Efforts are being made to clean up the $125,000 payment to John Aird, Jr., by Beauharnois and the $50,000 payment to Aird by Hydro this week, when it is expected there will be an adjournment of a week or more before the involved Dominion Power and Transmission Limited matter is opened. The purchase of this company for $22,000,000 by the Hydro is the third phase of the investigation.

The Ontario Cabinet approved a warrant for the payment of $50,000 to Aird without knowing anything about it, Premier George S. Henry told the Commission yesterday. The payment had been included in a bill for $66,000 for "preliminary investigation and survey" on the Madawaska River some months after Aird received the cheque, and the entire sum was approved without details being quoted. Too, the Premier denied knowledge of the campaign fund collector in 1929.

Collector in 1930

Home Smith, Toronto real estate promoter, refused to ascertain the identity of this collector. He himself had handled the funds in 1930, but did not know who his predecessor was, nor would he make enquiries, he told A. G. Slaght, K.C., independent counsel.

C. A. Magrath, former chairman of the Hydro, declared the payment to Aird was a moral obligation, because Aird had given a free hand to Hydro so that they might deal directly with his principals, the O'Brien interests of Ottawa, in the Madawaska purchase.

Hon. J. R. Cooke, present Hydro chairman, agreed with this. Aird was paid for "relinquishing his rights and facilitating our acquisition of the rights," he told the Royal Commission, and the payment of $50,000 was not too much for the services rendered.

A steam hauling engine of the beam type, built more than 100 years ago, is still working at Seaham Harbor, England.

stated definitely that cancer is a disease of age.

Cause Not Found.

No cause of the disease has been found but that the cause will some day be located, Dr. McCullough expressed his certainty. Surgery, X-ray and radium have been proved certain cures if cancer were subjected to treatment while in an early stage.

The lecture was given in memory of the late Dr. James T. I. Halliday, for many years a foremost medical practitioner of this city. Dr. McCullough traced briefly the career of Dr. Halladay and expressed his appreciation of the manner in which the local Medical Society is venerating the memory of a man who had so long and largely served the community.

Dr. D. W. Clark presided as chairman of the lecture which was largely attended. The Collegiate and Vocation School Orchestra was in attendance and earned applause with severela well-rendered numbers.

Emphasized Prevention

"Too much attention is being paid to cure rather than to the prevention of disease," stated Dr. McCullough early in his address. "It will not be long until there will be a full time health officer in every community to preserve the health of the people".

He stressed the important role that the family doctor fills in maintaining health because "he sees the beginning of disease." The family doctor will not pass away in Canada, he said, because the country is so large that "there can not be a specialist waiting on every man's doorstep." Some of the greatest contributions to medical science were made by family doctors.

Formidable Problem

Cancer, he declared, is one of the formidable problems of civilization and it is taking the resources of the family, the doctor and the specialist. Viewing the problem as a most serious one in Canada, he outlined the manner in which the Government had appointed a Royal Commission to study it as treated in the clinics abroad.

"We learned that there were no better clinical results to be found anywhere than in Canada," he said in telling of inspections made of clinics in other countries. However, he emphasized that it had been found that means to combat the disease, expensive appliances, radium supply and X-ray machines, were much more plentiful in other countries; in fact Canada's equipment was woefully inadequate.

Not Caused By Germs.

Most advances made in medical science ha dbeen made on preventive side, he said, and mostly in those diseases caused from germs. "A germ, however, is not the cause of cancer," he said. "The cause is not known and until the cause is known, it is probable that one out of every ten persons over the age of forty will develop cancer."

He stressed the disquieting fact that medical records in every country show that the number of deaths from cancer have increased tremendously. He estimated that in Canada at the present time there are 27,000 persons suffering from cancer. In 1930 9,000 died of the disease. In the United States in the same year 120,000 died of it and in Great Britain 58,000 deaths resulted from it.

Europe has a very high cancer rate. It is said that people of dark races are more prone to the disease than the fair-haired, stated Dr. McCullough, who did not say that the facts bore this out.

Death Rate Modified.

However, the startling increase in the number of cases may be modified because of certain facts: First that the records of disease are much better now than a generation ago. Doctors are more skilful in finding the disease. The average life of western peoples has been much prolonged and this adding to the length of age has caused more cancer since it is primarily a disease of age.

Great agencies in combatting the disease were related. The better health education of people in general which arms them to combat the disease early. "Beautiful women rarely get cancer," stated Dr. McCullough, "because if they observe a blemish on their face they take care of it."

Explaining the nature of cancer, he stated that the human body is built up of cells, which when magnified 400 times appear the size of pinhead. Each cell is separate and is complete in itself. Each has a nucleus. When growth takes place the cells divide and become two, the process taking 20 hours. "How often they divide we do not know."

Divides In Healing.

Some cells never divide it was said while others divide continually. "When a cut occurs in the skin it is a division of the cells that repair this breach, but after the healing the dividing stops.

"The cancer cell is an ordinary cell, but instead of dividing as an ordinary cell it continues to divide and subdivide. In this continued subdividing a pile is formed and a cancer is formed."

The furthest gone toward learning the cause of cancer is that it is created through age and chronic irritation. Age is a definite factor, and this is why the countries which have the greatest improvement in health protection has the most cancer, since its inhabitants live to an older age.

The speaker pointed out that cancer from people can not be transferred to animals. Cancer of the breast when it spreads through the blood to the lung will build up breast tissues in the lungs, he said.

Diet No Effect.

Diet has no effect in producing cancer, it has been established definitely. Nor has climate. Also there is no proof that heredity plays any place in it, although it is known that some bodies are more prone to it.

Signs of cancer were listed as follows: Bleeding from an orifice of the body, an unhealing sore—any sore that is not healed within a week should be shown a doctor—stomach troubles that are not allayed in the customary way. It is known that in 300 cases cancers have died of themselves.

Recognizing Signs.

Prevention of cancer, it is said, is mainly in recognizing signs of cancer, observing personal hygiene, and spreading the knowledge of cancer. "Until there is a periodic health examination among the mass of people, then there will be large numbers of deaths from cancer," he said.

Surgery in the treatment of cancer is greatly used and has proved itself, Dr. McCullough stated, but radium and X-ray are now coming to the fore. "Why does radium cure cancer?" asked the speaker and answered the question by saying, "the cancer cells which are in a state of division are more susceptible to radium than are the normal cells and the radium penetrates them."

Moving pictures were shown on the screen in which the cures of cancer by radium treatment were graphically shown.

Dairy Notes

CAMPBELLFORD, May 19. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Mennie cheese factory with Mr. Roy Walker as the salesman made the first shipment of the season from this district, when last week the early make was forwarded to Loblaw's of Toronto.

Mr. Thomas McCaughan of Wellman's Corners, who for ten years was cheesemaker in the Campbellford factory will this year test the composit samples of some of the factories in the Stirling, Belleville, Madoc and Campbellford groups.

Many of the factories in this district have arranged steam connections so that the patrons can sterilise their cans.

The first arrival of cheese for the season at the Campbellford grading station will take place this week, and will open the way to a flow of a possible 30,000 boxes.

To encourage cow testing the Provincial Department of Agriculture provides that any patron delivering samples to the factory from his industrial cows, may have the same tested at 25c a cow for the season and if the patrons continue the work for two seasons this money will be refunded. The charge previously was 50c a cow and no refund. The testing will be done by the Dairy Instructor.

commander has been exonerated by police of any knowledge that he was lending his name and aid to a hoax fashioned about the tragic fate of the son of his friend, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Two telegraphic requests by State police that the Rev. Mr. Dobson-Peacock come to New Jersey and tell the authorities what he knows of the Curtis deception were answered last night with a counter-proposal in which the clergyman suggested that the police come to him.

"I stand ready," he telegraphed to Col. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the State police, "to meet you at any time in Norfolk."

Jafsie Busy.

Another intermediary, "Jafsie" (Dr. John Condon of New York), expected to spend part of to-day looking at more pictures of rogues in police identification bureaus of the Metropolitan area. He is seeking to find the face of the man to whom, the night of April 2, he handed $50,000 of Col. Lindbergh's money as ransom for the baby's return.

"I would know that face anywhere" he has insisted. An inspection of thousands of photographs has been unproductive of clues to the man's identity.

In connection with that graveyard transaction involving the transfer of old style currency of small denominations the police were making a check of John Curtis movements on that night. Their information was that Curtis left Norfolk that day by aeroplane and flew to New York, and where he was while Jafsie, Col. Lindbergh and Col. Henry Breckinridge—Lindbergh's friend and counsel—consummated the transfer of ransom money in the Bronx burial ground.

The guard about the Flemington jail throughout the night was instructed to watch the prisoner closely, both as a precaution for his own safety from any outside violence that might threaten and because of fears that the boat-builder might attempt suicide. Curtis, by his own confession, has stated that financial troubles leading to the bankruptcy of his boat-building business, and worry over the hoax he has perpetrated have weighed heavily on his mind.

Jafsie returned home last night after a busy day looking over the Rogues' Gallery pictures. New Jersey police announced that questioning of Jafsie had produced answers "adhering consistently to the fundamental facts related so far."

The police intended to pursue further their inquiry into the request by Curtis, early in his "ransom negotiations," for $25 000 from Col. Lindbergh. The Rev. Mr. Dobson-Peacock, at Norfolk, said the request for the money was made, but that the money was to be deposited in the name of all three intermediaries.

Confession Not Complete.

There was an intimation from Norfolk police, who have been looking into the activities there of the "negotiators," that Curtis' confession was far from complete that he was holding back "something important." From other sources there were intimations that his detailed account of negotiations with the kidnappers—an account he gave the authorities a few hours before confessing it all was a lie—may in fact have held some elements of truth. These intimations were that some of the persons he named as the kidnapers may be actual persons despite Curtis' subsequent disavowal of the story.

Curtis' appetite was unaffected by his harrowing day. At the Flemington Jail last night he ordered "dinner for two," including two large steaks—and ate them both.

On the list of prisoners at the jail he was Number 13.

PAINFUL PILES

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription—HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protuding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases: HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.

DOMINION READY AID LAND PLAN

Would Pay Third of Total $600 Allowed Each Settler.

SEVERAL CONDITIONS.

EDMONTON, May 18 (C.P.) — The Dominion Government is prepared to embark on a joint land settlement scheme with the Provinces and municipalities to relieve the unemployment situation, according to a letter received by Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta from Hon. W. A. Gordon, Dominion Minister of Labor.

Mr. Gordon's letter includes several conditions under which the Dominion administration would join in the scheme to place selected unemployed on the land. One condition is that the Dominion would pay one-third of the total allowance to each settler of $600, the other two-thirds to be borne by the Province and municipality interested. A maximum of $500 would be alloted in one year, with $100 reserved for sustenance in a second year. No part of the money advanced would be paid for rent or purchase of land.

NORTH BAY FUEL SOLD ILLEGALLY

Crown Timber Agent Claims He Has Documentary Evidence.

INSPECTOR IS AMAZED.

NORTH BAY, May 19.—Culminating a lengthy investigation made by J. T. McDougall, Crown Timber Agent at North Bay, sworn documents were in Mr. McDougall's hands to establish that North Bay City, through an arrangement effected by Mayor Richardson and Alderman W. G. Bullbrook with George Lafleur of Ferris illegally disposed of 150 cords of charity fuel wood to the Northern Development Branch for use at trans-Canada highway camps.

Mr. Lafleur has testified he paid $600 to the City Treasurer under this arrangement, and in turn received $900 from the Northern Development Branch. This is part of the stock of wood cut by transients cared for at the old district jail under a permit issued to L. S. Clarke, and for the express purpose of supplying families in distressed circumstances.

"I have sworn statements by Lefleur and E. H. Kyle, the clerk at the old jail, to establish that this quantity of wood, definitely marked for charity distribution, has been commercialized by being sold by the city," stated Mr. McDougall. He further stated that all the documents, with a comprehensive report on the alleged illegal transaction, will be referred to the Department of Lands and Forests, Toronto, for its information and whatever action is deemed necessary.

"It's a straight steal—no doubt about it," remarked Mr. McDougall, after he had gathered the desired information. Major J. I. Haret, Inspector of Crown Timer Agencies and Supervisor of Timber Operations for the department, who was in the city yesterday, stated that he was amosed when apprised of the breach of the agreement with the department.

L. S. Clarke, to whom the permit was issued on the understanding that the wood cut on Crown lands was free of dues, stated that he was not aware of the agreement effected by Mayor Richardson and Alderman Bulbrook with Mr. Lefleur. The men in charge at the old district jail were to issue the wood on orders issued by A. Tandy, City Relief Officer, and all wood so delivered was covered by Mr. Tandy's order.

RADIO MEASURE ADVANCES STEP, NO OPPOSITION

Bennett Insists No Political Influence Will Influence Selection of Commissioners.

OTTAWA HEADQUARTERS.

Robert Weir Target of Criticism on Government Agricultural Policies.

OTTAWA, May 19 (C.P.).—Casting aside party lines and joining together in a spirit of harmony, the House of Commons yesterday reviewed the Government's Radio Control Bill. With co-operation and unanimity prevailing, it was given second reading and all but one or two clauses were passed in committee stage. The whole discussion lasted less than an hour.

The bill would set up a Canadian radio broadcasting commission to control a nationalized system of broadcasting. Premier R. B. Bennett, its sponsor, said the measure was designed to give Canadians a broadcasting system "not excelled elsewhere in the world."

It would assure Canadian control of Canadian broadcasting, free from foreign interference or influence.

Policies Scored.

Then the House turned to agricultural estimates and the buttons were off the foils. Hon. Robert Weld, the Minister, was the target for endless questions and criticism of Government policies. Once again the Liberals made a mass attack on the agricultural record of the Ministry, pointing to the distress conditions prevailing and the apparent lack of constructive policies.

Morning sittings in the House opened to-day with prorogation slated for the end of next week. A possibility existed that the special Canadian National Railway Committee would present its report today. Its character will be the determining factor in the time of prorogation.

Headquarters of the Radio Commission will be in Ottawa, with branches through the country. Three men will compose it and the Prime Minister suggested a salary of $12,000 a year for the chairman and $10,000 each for the commissioners. One commissioner will be French-speaking and one will be a radio engineer.

Harmony Prevails.

Indicating the harmony and co-operation that prevailed, the Prime Minister, insisting no political considerations would influence the selection of commissioners, suggested to the Liberals they prepare a list of men whose appointments would be satisfactory.

The provinces, the Prime Minister announced, will have something to say over program selections. In provinces where French is spoken to any extent, a proportion of the programs will be broadcast in that language. With an eye to the future, it was incorporated in the Bill that control of television and other scientific developments also would be placed under the commission.

FOREST FIRES STILL RAGING

points in the province were scenes of fire fighting activity.

Grave At Rouyn.

The situation was still grave in the vicinity of Rouyn and Noranda, although information reaching forestry headquarters in Quebec City was to the effect the towns themselves were not endangered. Damage to the Canadian National Railways line along the 25-mile stretch between Rouyn and Clericy, however, was feared as the flames licked their way along the right-of-way.

Two trappers dwelling on the shores of Dufault Lake, just north of Rouyn, were feared missing by John Henry, fisherman and trapper. With his family, Henry was forced to flee from his burning dwelling on Dufault Lake and reached Rouyn yesterday.

Police investigation into the series of bush fires which three times have menaced Rouyn and Noranda with destruction in the past ten days is under way. Search is being made for a man of alleged Communist leanings in connection with the outbreaks. John Rudy, who allegedly has confessed starting fires, is held at Rouyn now.

Hundreds of miles from the mining communities, isolated settlements on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River and in Gaspe Peninsula also were menaced by hungry flames. Reports reaching Quebec City said a fire 12 miles from Bersimis in Ragineau County on the north shore had destroyed nine settlers' homes and might threaten the village of Bersimis unless checked.

L'Alverne township in Matapedia county, Gaspe, was the scene of another fire, concerning which details were not immediately available.

Five new serious forest fires in some of the densest country of New Brunswick, reported yesterday at the head office at Fredericton of the provincial forest service, were being sought out to-day by crews hastily organized and outfitted.

The most inaccessible fire, on Crown land in the north-west corner of Northumberland near Nepisguit Lake, will have to be approached by the Tobique river and Namozekel portage.

One of the most serious fires, near Kedgwick, Restigouche county, was still burning early ito-day, with an augmented force of men fighting it an an effort to prevent a spread to Stillwater.

Difficulty was being experienced in checking the progress of two fires at Tabineau and Baus rivers in Carleton county.

Nova Scotia fire fighters gained their first breathing spell in several days. Excepe near Kempton, in Colchester county, where a blaze was still burning fiercely, forest fires in widely separated sections were mainly under control to-day, according to officials of the Lands and Forest Department.

Dr. G. Travers Kevern, of Wivenhoe, England, whose wish that his yacht be scuttled with his body was prevented by a gale, and whose remains were taken to Ipswich for cremation, was buried at Wivenhoe without having been cremated.

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT.

The Ottawa Journal, while careful to avoid that form of optimism which manifests itself in statements about prosperity being just round the corner, is nevertheless doing good service in frequently calling attention to facts that indicate an improvement in Canadian economic conditions, and these items make cheerful reading.

For example, there is the fact that the month of April showed a substantial increase in the export of Canadian wheat.

There is the further interesting condition that the production of Canadian copper mines is showing a considerable increase.

And another significant development is that the balance of trade for the twelve months ending with April was $23,000,000 in Canada's favor.

A good many similar items are appearing in Canadian newspapers these days, and as the Journal remarks, "they surely must mean something."

At least, they mean that the Dominion is standing up against this world-wide economic slump with more success than other countries, and they indicate that in many fields of industry and commerce a distinct improvement over recent conditions is being brought about.

Let us hope these signs will be multiplied in the near future, and that they will be translated into a better employment and business situation.

THE WEST YORK BATTLE.

The fact that in a typically Conservative stronghold like West York a by-election contest has developed no fewer than four candidates should not be without its significance to political observers.

While the presence in the field of a quartette of aspirants for a seat in the Legislature undoubtedly favors the Government candidate, any rejoicing over that condition is likely to be mitigated by the feeling that the naming of three candidates in opposition to the Government nominee is evidence of a widespread lack of confidence in the present administration at Queen's Park.

Usually when the majority of the people are satisfied with the way their business is being looked after there is no such eagerness to offer candidates in opposition to the powers-that-be.

West York electors have to choose from a field consisting of a Government candidate, a Liberal, a Labor man and a Socialist Labor candidate.

Elections are notoriously uncertain, and never more so than at a time when there is business, industrial and agricultural depression, but with the opposition divided into three camps, it is difficult to see how the Government nominee could lose a riding that in the past has given large Conservative majorities.

However, the Socialist candidate is not regarded as a serious contender, and it may be that Mr. Hepburn's "I swing well to the left" statement will win him enough Labor support to give his candidate an opportunity to stage a record up-set.

BACK TO THE LAND.

It is intimated that part of the relief program to be carried on in Ontario as a result of an agreement between the federal and provincial authorities will be the placing of unemployed men on Crown lands throughout the Province and providing them with cash grants from direct relief funds.

There are possibilities to this scheme, and it will be remembered that several members of Parliament have urged the adoption of such a plan as preferable to maintaining the unemployed in idleness in the urban centres.

Care, it is presumed, will be taken to select men who have had farming experience or who, lacking that experience, have the qualities likely to lead to success on the land.

There must be many men at present out of work in Ontario cities who would welcome a chance to settle on Crown lands where the conditions are such as to permit of successful cultivation, particularly as such settlers would have Government aid in getting a start toward the day when their activities would put them back in the self-supporting class.

Pioneering and all the hard work and possibility of failure that goes with it, it is to be imagined, would appeal to many men of independent spirit as much better than lining up for relief orders, and if the plan can be developed satisfactorily in so far as finding suitable areas for cultivation are concerned there will be little difficulty in finding enough pioneer-minded unemployed men to make the effort distinctly worth while.

ENCOURAGING TOURIST TRAFFIC.

The statement of Fred. L. Ray that despite conditions across the border a large influx of tourists into Ontario during the summer months may be looked for will be welcome to everybody who recognizes how valuable the tourist industry has become to the people of Canada.

The Examiner is heartily behind every effort aimed at building up that industry, and therefore feels that the Department of National Revenue is to be congratulated upon doing everything in its power to facilitate the entry of tourists and to eliminate as far as possible the red tape that sometimes is associated with the administration of tariff regulations.

The department has endeavored to simplify the procedure covering the entry of tourists into this country, and more than that, is insisting that all visitors shall be extended every courtesy by Government officials, a matter of decided importance, as they are the first Canadians to greet tourists, and upon the treatment they accord the guests at our gates will depend whether or not first impressions of Canada will be pleasant.

There is every reason, therefore, to endorse the warning issued by the department to its officials that "courteous assistance must be rendered to visitors at all times."

"Proper protection of the revenue," continues the notice, "can be maintained in a tactful and courteous way. It is the aim of the department to encourage tourist travel in Canada by residents of other countries by prompt and efficient service on the part of customs officers. Remember, courtesy first, last and all the time. This is essential."

WHO SHOULD PAY?

Unemployed men in York Township appointed a deputation to interview Premier Henry regarding getting relief work started in their community. There were 500 men at an open air meeting where the matter was discussed. The spokesman for the York Township unemployed said the Dominion Government had intimated its willingness to pay 50 per cent. of the work undertaken. He suggested that the Provincial Government pay the other 50 per cent., "thus relieving the municipality of any further burden."

It appears that at the beginning of the year York Township set aside $128,000 for relief work, and so far $100,000 of this amount has been expended, indicating that it will not be long before the entire appropriation has become exhausted. The reeve says that figure was arrived at after consulting the township's banker, and that without his consent it would not be possible to increase it. Financial affairs are none too solid in the township and something approaching a dictatorship has resulted.

It is with the suggestion that the Federal and Provincial Governments assume entire charge of the relief situation in York Township that we do not agree. York Township may be separated from Toronto by the difference of municipal government, but it is in a growing district where, when times were normal, expansion was taking place and people were buying up property and making money by re-selling it in small lots. The municipality, we take it, would benefit from taxation from these lots as soon as houses were built on them. Now that things have gone flat we cannot see why the Ottawa and Toronto Governments should take care of the situation unless it is intended to make that scheme applicable to the entire Dominion of Canada. And even if that were done there would be inequality in the plan.

* * * *

Take it this way: A farmer was in this office this morning. He lives about nine miles out. He was discussing what was going on in his neighborhood and on his own farm as well. He had completed his seeding for the season, and remarked that he was getting rather low on feed grain around his place. It might be that he would have to start and buy some. The coming in of pasture land, he said, would be a welcome change this year as he could not afford to barn-feed any longer. He had some hogs of four months, but he would have to finish them off with grain and he would lose money at present prices. There was nothing else he could do. He found that other things he sold were much the same; he could not put his finger on a place where he could make money, and yet he had gone ahead, just as other farmers had done, and put in his seed for the 1932 crop. We are quite certain that he is in the same position as nearly all the other farmers.

The point is here: If the Dominion and Provincial Governments were to take over relief work in York Township it would be necessary for them to borrow money to do so. That money will have to be paid back some time, and in the interval between borrowing and repaying there would have to be something close to six per cent. interest paid on it. When it comes to the serious business of collecting the money for payment of interest or repayment of the original loan, we are quite sure that in some direct or indirect manner the farmer who was in our office this morning, and who is hard pressed to carry on, would have to pay part of it.

The Governments are general collectors; they do not split the population into sections and say "we will collect from these people, but not from those."

The same thing applies to a great number of the towns and villages in Ontario where the municipal bodies are looking after those of their own folk who need assistance. They are not asking any help from the Government, neither are they receiving it. Whatever measure of distress has to be cared for is coming out of the pockets of the people in these communities. And yet in the scheme of Government assistance for certain municipalities where aid is asked, we are certain that in the long run the residents of these villages and towns will be called upon to make their donation. They will, in reality, be paying into a fund from which they have taken nothing out.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Proudly surveying him from head to foot, she said: "Ah jes' doan see whah y'all doan lak to go to patties, Rastus. You looks good in shoes!"

The Exception

"I tell you, gentlemen,' 'exclaimed the open-air orator—"and the experience of a lifetime confirms my statement—that if you want a thing well done, you must do it yourself!"

"How about getting your hair cut?" asked a man in the crowd.—Montreal Star.

The Compliment

Sister: "George declares I have a perfect rosebud of a mouth."

Brother: "A beautiful compliment, indeed, considering rosebuds are usually closed."

Never Mind!

Mrs. Newriche (on her first crossing): "What the matter, Captain?"

Quotation for To-Day

It is nothing for a man to hold up his head in a calm; but to maintain his post when all others have quitted their ground, and there to stand upright, where all other men are beaten down — this is divine and praiseworthy.

NEW POLICEMAN FOR HAVELOCK

C. F. Roberts of Peterborough is Chosen From Thirty-one Applicants.

HAD WIDE EXPERIENCE.

HAVELOCK, April 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—At last a uniformed policeman will keep law and order in this fair village. At a special meeting of the village council on Monday night, Mr. C. F. Roberts, of Peterborough, was selected from thirty-one applicants. The new officer came very highly recommended and has seen service on forces in both Canada and England.

The council have come in for a lot of criticism by some local ratepayers who think a policeman is not necessary, but it is hoped they will stick by their guns and carry on the good work they have started. He will receive $75 a month and will be supplied with a uniform. His duties will include collection of taxes, weed inspector, caretaker of town hall and fire engines, besides his police duties. It is understood he will start work in a few days.

Rumor Quebec Ready To Slash Its Staffs

MONTREAL, May 18.—The Star says to-day:—

"The Provincial Government, because of the decreasing revenues of the Province, is facing the necessity of applying more stringent measures of economy in the administration, if it wishes to balance the budget next year, according to reliable information obtained this morning, and is already contemplating a reduction in the staffs of the various departments, if not an actual reduction of salaries.

"A thorough investigation is being conducted in all sections of the Provincial administration by Government officials, and already certain retrenchments have been made, with much more to come, it is said. The investigation has been going on quietly in Montreal, in the various government offices, our informant said.

Rome now has three-decker buses.

GRAIN, CATTLE, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, May 19.—Trade in butter in the local market yesterday continued strong enough to allow brokers to clear receipts at steady prices. Ontario and Western creamery solids were sold at 17½c for No. 1, and 16½c for No. 2. Receipts were not unusual for this season of the year, and the demand was sufficient to prevent piling up. Shipments from the West have been frequent recently, and brokers have been able to make sales without difficulty.

Cheese.

New cheese did not find a very good demand, but prices quoted by brokers were steady with previous levels. They offered new large at 9½c to 9½c, new twins at 9½c to 9¼c, and new triplets at 9¾c to 10c. Retailers were quoted new makes at the steady prices of 11c for large, 11¼c for twins, 11½c for triplets, and 13½c for new stiltons.

Eggs.

Country egg shippers and retailers were quoted prices steady with those of Tuesday, but the demand was poor. Brokers quoted graded eggs at the steady prices of 15c for extras, 13c for firsts, and 11c for seconds, in used cases, while storage packed were worth ½c better at 15½c for extras and 13½c for firsts. Country shippers were quoted 13c for extras, 11c for firsts, and 9c for seconds, delivered, cases returned. Retailers were quoted extras in cartons at 19c, extras loose at 17c, firsts loose at 15c, and seconds loose at 13c per dozen.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, May 19.—Prices were nominally unchanged yesterday on the Montreal produce and dairy markets, although a little easiness developed in egg and cheese quotations.

The egg market was barely steady with a slight shading in values of firsts and seconds. Spot supplies of graded Ontarios and Prairie eggs were being quoted at 17½c to 18c for extras, mostly 14½c for firsts and 13c or slightly under for seconds. Prices to retailers held unchanged. Receipts were 1,800 cases.

Butter was firm at 16½c for cartots or less of No. 1 quality. Some dealers asked 16¾c per lb. Receipts were only 121 boxes.

Cheese sold generally at 9½c per lb. for current receipts. Tuesday some sales were made at 9¾c. Receipts were 694 boxes.

On the potato market supplies of Bermuda new potatoes arrived and were offered as follows: No. 1, $7.50 per barrel; No. 2, $6.50 per barrel; No. 1 in 50-lb. crates, $2.50; No. 2 in 50-lb. crates, $2. Old potatoes sold unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 19.—Grain markets late yesterday lost efferevescence which earlier had been associated with speculative purchases prior to the Senate vote on beer.

Running into an overbought condition, wheat tumbled back about ¼c a bushel from the day's top figures, influenced partly by bearish behavior of securities and by heaviness of the Winnipg market, as well as by indications that 2,500,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat had been exchanged for futures at Kansas City.

Wheat closed unstable, ⅝c to ¾c under Tuesday's finish; corn unchanged to ⅝c lower; oats, unchanged to ¼c off; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 19. — Reflecting laggard action of wheat quotations at Liverpool prices in all three wheat futures underwent moderate setbacks in the grain pit yesterday. Values at the close were ⅛c to 1⅛d lower.

May closed ⅞c lower at 62¼c, July eased 1⅛c to 1c to 62⅞c to 63c and October a like amount to 65⅛c.

Opening slightly under Tuesday's close the market from the start was influenced by weakness at Liverpool where the market was reported as very dull. Some export was worked on a break in freights to Montreal.

Demand for No. 4 Northern featured cash wheat trade. This grade closed ½c higher. Other spreads were unchanged. Fair sales of the coarse grains were reported with prices slightly higher.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

INSTALMENT NO. 23

The New York newspapers devoted considerable space to the death of Lee Ying, Chinatown's richest and most influential citizen, and the stories were copied in San Francisco and elsewhere. Mott, Pell and Doyers streets were in mourning and their residents prepared to pay the dead importer all the honors due to a person of high importance. His body, dressed in twelve white linen garments and resting in a splendid red lacquer coffin, lay in his princely home where hundreds of his countrymen came to view it before it was returned to China for burial in some carefully chosen spot. Religious ceremonials were under way, public rites and observances were to follow, for aside from his fabulous wealth, Lee Ying had gained a reputation for kindly deeds and his philanthropies were many.

The newspapers announced that Lee Ying's son, who had been traveling abroad, was en route home by the fastest ship, and was due to arrive in a day or so. This young man, Sam Lee, the sole heir to a royal fortune and the successor to a position of unique power in Chinese-American affairs, was a youth of university training and high culture. A delegation of his countrymen, local citizens of prominence, had arranged to meet him at quarantine. This was months before and again recently in dispatches from the French Riveria. Gossip had linked his name with that of a prominent California society girl but their reported engament had been vehemently denied.

Sam met none of his fellow passengers on his way home, for he remained in his stateroom and came on deck for a breath of air only at night when nobody could see the marks on his face and recognize him as the victim of that sensational affair at Paradis.

Hour after hour, he paced the floor of his cabin, tossed and twisted on his berth, unable to erase from his mind the memory of his betrayal and his cruel humiliation. He tried to think only of his father, but thoughts of Alanna crowded in. When he visualized the image of Lee Ying it changed into hers, her figure jostled him—Lee Ying was dying! He was calling to his son! The ship rolled and wallowed in one spot; Same wanted to lash it onward—Horsewhipped! Dishonored! Shamed! He could still see the expressions of those startled face in the tea garden—No taboos, she had said. No race prejudice. The liar! All women were liars, thieves, cheats, blackmailers. How useless to urge this ship onward, faster, faster, when he could never run away from what pursued him.

It infuriated Sam to be so ceaselessly concerned with his own affairs when his thoughts should be centered wholly upon that beneficient old man who had given him being. Fiercely he strove to hold his mind upon that high home which looked down upon the roofs of Chinatown; in fancy he walked with his father through its peaceful rooms and its gardens with their whispering fountains—Fountains! Fountains were chuckling in the gardens of Paradis; the cypresses were stirring over his head; his heart was choking him, for Alanna's arms were around his neck, her lips were damp with his kisses —In God's name, was this chasm that separated East from West?—It was the same old riddle—He gave it up.

In mid-ocean came a radiogram that left him numb. He stared at it in anguish and in disbelief. Lee Ying dead? Impossible! But so the message read. That morning at dawn; in the hour of the Tiger, he had gone on high. To the chanting of priests, the spirit of Sam's honorable father had set forth upon its perilous journey to the Nine Springs.

It was a Chinese youth who met the delegation of yellow men which boarded the ship at Quarantine and onlookers wondered who he might be. They assumed, by reason of the respect and deference shown him, that he was some visiting potentate from the Flowery Kingdom and they remarked upon a fresh red scar that ran down his face.

Lee Ying had left a letter to his son. He had dictated it to Eileen Cassidy shortly before his death and she handed it to Sam on the day after his arrival home. It was a long letter, through it ran a tender concern a wistful yearning that moved the reader deeply. Even at the very last Yee Ying had thought only of his boy, his one regret had been that he must die without Sam's arms about him and his farewell message voiced that poignant disappointment.

Sam read, very slowly, this deep, spontaneous outpouring of paternal love and sympathy and he recognized it as more than merely that. It was a feeble effort to comfort him, a trouble admonition to be what he was and to beware of rebellion against the manifest designs of providence. He wondered what had prompted its tone and he asked Eileen.

"Your letters about Miss Wagner worried him," the girl said. "He read more in them than I did and—he was right. That dispatch telling about your troubles with her was a terrible shock to him, coming so near the end."

"Then—it was published here?"

"Oh, yes! It seemed to drain out what life was left in him."

Sam received this intelligence with Oriental self-control; only heightened pallor showed that he was moved. Eileen realized for the first time how greatly her childhood friend had changed. She had always declared that Sam did not look Chinese, but she could no longer say so.

After a moment she ventured to continue gently: "We're so sorry, Sam; Mother and Father and Jim and I. We loved him. You're almost one of the family. You're badly broken up; won't you come and see us?"

The young man bowed gravely; he made a characteristic Chinese gesture with his clapsed hands. "Your friendship honors me and I shall cherish it as a precious thing. Some day, perhaps—Meanwhile, may I send you from China some gift that will serve as a symbol of my profound respect and as a reminder of my father's affectionate regard?"

"China? You're not going away again?—Oh, Sam!"!

"It was always his wish to lie upon some happy hillside where his spirit would find delight in the beauty of nodding flowers, whispering pines, running water. We go together, the honorable and virtuous Lee Ying in his lacquered coffin made air tight against the malicious devils who nag the soul; Lee Sam, his undutiful son, in grief and repentance—He will be carried in state to his final resting place upon some turquoise mountain slope. A thousand hired mourners will follow him, to the strains of plaintive music. He will be buried with his inlaid chopsticks, with bowls of rice and cooked fowls and dried pork and with rolls of paper money. All things shall be done in accordance with our customs."

"'Your customs!'" cried the girl. "Sam dear, how queer you talk! You're not a Chinese. You're an American."

"Oh, no!" Over the speakers face flickered an expression that chilled his listener. I hoped to be an American. I tried to become one, but there were forces too strong opposing it. I was a fool. A fool who thought he could break a new path through the thorns. All things are ordered by the gods and this is one. I have discovered that there are voids between the races which are too deep to span. We may strain forward and reach out our hands but they can never touch and when we lean too far we tumble in."

"But—you don't believe in all those Oriental gods and those pagan superstitions. You're a college man. We grew up together and I know you better than I know my own brother Jim."

"I believe in nothing," he asserted roughly. "Every belief I ever had was destroyed. I believed in love and charity and brotherhood and all such pleasant nothings. Names! Words! Lies!—Hate and greed and bigotry are real enough but the others—? Bah!—My father was a noble and a benewlent man; he practised all the estimable Christian virtues and yet he was despised by you white people."

"That's not so. I loved him."

Again Sam bowed. "I speak a general truth. You are one among many. The greatest Man of your race was crucified for being too loving and too lovable. I'm not of your race, Eileen, and I no longer wish to be. Lee Ying has made me proud to be of his. When I was a little boy in San Francisco I experienced nothing except kindness and courtesy and fair dealing from strangers. A Mandarin's button was placed in my cap and I was taught that three things only are honorable: nobility, age and virtue. Before I could talk plainly I was made to lisp, 'In a village of ten houses there is sure to be found loyalty and truth. Where a true gentleman lives there will be gentlemanly visitors.' I came here to your greatest city and I found only treachery and contempt. Scorn, derision, injustice, intolerance followed me through the streets. They followed me on to college; they followed me to Europe." Sam uttered an unpleasant sound. "The white friends, the 'gentlemanly visitors' whom I trusted betrayed me. My pals turned out to be grafters. I have never been betrayed by a Chinese. They never grafted from me. For example, I am going to China with my father's body and I plan to remain there indefinitely. His affairs, now mine, will be left in the hands of Chinese men. They will carry on the business. If I return and demand an accounting I will receive it and it will be precise. Not a penny will have been taken by those 'dirty Chinks.'

"You know what happened to me at Eastern. I was innocent of any wrongdoing, but what of that? I was a yellow man. I was told that my train left at eleven. I was denied the privilege of pursuing the higher learning. In Europe it was about the same; as Sam Lee, a white man, however wretched and humble, I got along; as Lee Sam, the wearer of a ruby button, I was publicly flogged."

The scar on Sam's cheek grew more livid at the memory. "You say it—it hastened my honorable father's end. I shall always hate them for that. I shall never masquerade again; I am a Chinese and henceforth I shall live as one."

A day or so later Chinatown paid its last tribute to Lee Ying, the well beloved, and all that was mortal of him began the long journey towards its haven of benevolent contemplation. With it, into the land of nine thousand flowers which lies west of the sunset, went Sam Lee, Son of the Gods.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 19 (C.P.).—Stocks were steady in the final dealings to-day. Numerous leaders, including U.S. Steel, American Can., Santa Fe, American Telephone, New York Central, International Harvester and Standard Oil of New Jersey, showed net gains of a fraction to a point. Tobaccos, however, sagged and several utilities dropped moderately. Loew's lost more than a point. Trading was dull and total sales approximated only 600,000 shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, May 19. (CP) — Prices moved listlessly lower on the Standard stock and mining exchange market to-day all except one or two net changes for the day taking the form of recessions from last night's finals.

Lake Shore sold up another 25 and Teck-Hughes and Hollinger were steady. McIntyre lost a quarter, Pioneer of B.C. and Wright-Hargreaves a cent or two and Dome, which opened strong, completed the session unchanged.

International Nickel slipped 20 to its former low for the bear market of $5.40 and Noranda was off 25. Hudson Bay was firm on denial of reports that suspension of operations was being considered.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, May 19 (C.P.). — Liquidation of Consolidated Smelters drove the price of that stock down 7 points on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Liquidation was reported here to be coming from Montreal, where the stock was freely offered. Uncertainty regarding the June dividend is believed to lie behind the heavy selling to-day.

Stocks which were traded on the free list for the first time, to-day came down from their peg prices and in some cases below what the street had been currently quoting. Canners' issues were all lower. The Common sold at 4½ compared with a peg price of 6; the convertible Preferred sold at 5⅝ compared with a minimum of 9, and the "A" Preferred sold down to 55. Bank stocks came out about the same as recent street prices, and some lost a couple of points, others actually selling higher.

Most of the pivotal shares fluctuated within a narrow range. Oils finished firm. Ford of Canada was unchanged. Bell Telephone unchanged and C.P.R., Brazilian, showed small gains. Nickel, Canadian Dredge, Walkers Common and Preferred were all unchanged.

350,000 FRY ARE PLACED IN WATERS

250,000 Pickerel Used in Restocking Otonabee River—Trout in Cavan and Dummer.

Constituting the second shipment this season 250,000 pickerel fry and 100,000 trout fry were this morning placed in local waters by members of Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association.

S. J. Black, president of the Association, told The Examiner the pickerel fry were placed in the Otonabee River, while the trout fry were used in re-stocking the big and little Ouse in Dummer township and the various streams in Cavan township.

Application for the shipment of fry was made by the Fish and Game Association to the Department of Game and Fisheries. They were shipped to this city from the Picton Hatchery. Mr. Black stated that other shipments are expected through the season and these will include fingerling trout.

A government representative was present to supervise the placing of the fry in the water, great care being necessary to see that the temperature of the water in the cans and the temperature of the various streams did not vary more than 2 degrees. Otherwise there was a danger of the fry being killed.

Other members of the Association who assisted the government man and Mr. Black in the work of this morning were Les Turner, Chris Graham and B. W. Harvey.

TORONTO LIST BROADENS OUT LIGHT TRADING

Removal of Restrictions Permits Free Market for First Time in Months.

LEADERS HOLD FIRM.

TORONTO, May 19.—(CP)—Toronto Stock Exchange list broadened out this morning but the aggregate volume did not increase appreciably. The removal of all restrictions permits of a free market for the first time in eight months, the minimums having been established on Monday, Sept. 21, following England's abandonment of the gold standard.

Westons at 18 was down considerably while Canadian Canners common at 4½ and the "B" preferred at 5⅝ were down from pegged prices of 8 and 9, respectively.

Leaders were firmer this morning. C. P. R. Brazilian slightly higher and Nickel and the oils unchanged to a small fraction above their previous finals. DR. A. S. GRANT DOUBTS REPORT

Presbyterian Board Received No Notification of Missionaries Being Beaten.

KIDNAPPING DENIED.

TORONTO, May 19. — (By the Canadian Press.)—Despatches from Mukden, Manchuria, reporting today that three members of the Presbyterian Mission had complained of beatings from Japanese soldiers were discounted here today by Dr. A. S. Grant, secretary of the General Board of Presbyterian Missions.

Dr. Grant said he believed the missionaries may have reported to the British consul that their work, perhaps, was being interfered with, but he doubted if the complaint was anything serious.

Previous reports that the missionaries, Dr. Jonathan Goforth, his son, Paul and Joseph Koffend, all of this city, had been taken captives, were denied by Dr. Grant.

All missionaries of the Presbyterian Church in Canada have definite instructions to quit the scene immediately any trouble arises and to cable headquarters in Toronto. No word of mistreatment has been received here, Dr. Grant said, which led him to believe there was little importance attached to to-day's despatch.

GENERAL TREND ON MINING LIST IS LOWER TO-DAY

Higher-priced Golds Remain Steady During Quiet Session This Morning.

CHEAPER GOLDS TO FORE.

TORONTO, May 19.— (C.P.) — Only a small portion of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange list appeared in dull forenoon trading to-day, with general price trend showing a slightly lower tendency.

Higher-priced golds were a quiet but steady group, Wright-Hargreaves, Hollinger, McIntyre and Teck-Hughes standing unchanged when taken at noon. Dome opened strong and sold up 25 at $11.25. Lake Shore firmed a few cents to $27.05.

Some blocks of cheaper golds appeared to be pressing for sale, Granada declining a couple to 60, Macassa and Sylvanite a cent apiece to 23 and 44, respectively, and Kirkland Lake Gold a fraction to 27. Pennies were almost completely in the discard.

Hudson Bay steady around $1.06 on official word that no consideration had been given the question of suspending of operations. International Nickel and Noranda were easy, however, former dipping 15 to $5.45 and the latter 10 to $14.50. Sherritt Gordon changed hands in fair volume but was unchanged at 21.

BOND DELIVERY HAZY TO LOGAN

Probe of Reparation Payment in Gypsy Queen Case is Resumed.

$71,000 INVOLVED.

OTTAWA, May 19 (C.P.)—Failure of Senator Hance J. Logan to remember the manner in which he had delivered to Captain Freeman Hatfield of a parcel of $22,000 worth of Canadian bonds, featured the resumed hearing to-day of the investigation into the $71,000 reparation payment for the alleged torpedoing in 1915 of the Nova Scotia schooner Gypsum Queen, owned and sailed by Hatfield.

At a previous hearing last March, Senator Logan, who was Hatfield's counsel in conducting the claim, swore that Captain Hatfield had given him some $30,000 to invest for him in Canadian securities, and he presented a letter in which Captain Hatfield acknowledged receipt of the bonds, presumably between May 1 and 15, 1931. Senator Logan could not recollect whether or not he had sent a covering letter with the bonds, and raised the possibility that he might have delivered them in person, as he had gone to New York about that time.

Lost Off Ireland

The Gypsum Queen was lost off the coast of Ireland in June, 1915, and in 1929 Senator Logan, an old friend of Hatfield, opened a claim before Reparations Commissioner Errol MacDougall, K.C. Affidavits of Captain Hatfield and several members of his crew were to the effect that the schooner was torpedoed by a German submarine. An award of $71,000 was paid in March, 1931.

Subsequent information reaching the Secretary of State was to the effect that the Gypsum Queen foundered in a storm and that an affidavit to that effect was signed by Captain Hatfield when he and his shipwrecked crew were landed at Liverpool from the British steamer which rescued them.

The investigation was opened in February with Chief Justice Horace Harvey of Alberta, sitting as a Royal Commissioner, and sittings held in Ottawa, Montreal, Amherst, N.S., Parrsboro, N.S. (home of Hatfield and Senator Logan and home port of the Gypsum Queen), Saint John, Boston and New York. Adjournment was taken late in March to enable Justice Harvey to attend to duties in his Province, and the enquiry reopened this morning.

had opposed the Hydro dealing with private interests for power. He wanted Hydro to buy power sites and develop the energy themselves, rather than allow someone else to develop the power and sell it to the Hydro.

Letters from Aird to Peter White, K.C., his counsel, had been obviously promotion letters intended to soothe O'Brien, he said. Some of the letters had mentioned Maguire was favorable toward the project, and that he would use his influence on their behalf.

All he knew of Aird's dealings with the Hydro was what he had heard, as a member of the commission, from C. A. Magrath, who was chairman at that time, he said.

Farmer Digs Up Old Jug Full Of Silver Coins

GUELPH, May 19 (C.P.)—The Fergus News-Record carries a story to-day to the effect that James Broadfoot, a young farmer of West Garafraxa, dug up on his father's farm an old crock containing over $1,000 in ancient silver coins. The oldest coin is dated 1816, and the most recent an American half dollar of 1865. The money the man found is listed as follows: $379 in half dollars; $386 in quarters, $56.10 in dimes; $14.75 in five-cent pieces. In addition, there are reported to be 244 British shillings and 113 sixpences. Young Broadfoot, the story says, was digging a hole for a young tree which he was planting, and at a depth of two feet, his shovel struck the crock, which he lifted out, and which broke in a cascade of silver coins at his feet.

S.P.C.A. DELEGATES TO CONVENE HERE

Local Executive of Humane Society Plan to Hold Horse Parade July 1st.

The regular executive meeting of the Humane Society was held Tuesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce, the President, T. E. Sargent presiding.

A. Armstrong reported that he was unable to secure the market building for the dog show and in trying to secure the rink he found that the charge was too excessive. Further arrangements were made regarding the annual meeting and convention of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (S.P.C.A.) which which will be held here this year and for the first time, in the Empress Hotel. This will be Humane Week and the secretary reported having written to the clergymen of the city asking their co-operation on the Sunday previous, May 29. The first session of the convention commences on Wednesday morning, June 1st, at 10 o'clock and the program, which has been received is a promising one. A letter from headquarters, read by the secretary, urged that all members kindly attend. Two luncheons and a banquet will be served and those attending will be the guests of the Ontario society. A full program will appear in the press at a little later date. It was also decided that the delegates, who will be here from all over the province, be given a drive each afternoon after the sessions. Dr. Middleton was appointed convenor of the committee for obtaining cars for this purpose. It was decided that the local Society provide some entertainment after the banquet the first evening and a committee was formed to take charge of this.

The treasurer reported total door receipts from Miss Saunders' lecture, $61.85 with a balance of $14.37 after all expenses were paid. A vote of thanks was passed to Miss C. iLttlefield for the excellent part the "Y" girls took in the program that evening.

The annual Violet Tag Day will be held this year on the Saturday of Humane Week, June 4th. The president was appointed to secure a headquarters for that day.

Dr. Middleton reported that the horse parade committee had a meeting and a resolution was passed at that meeting to have the horse parade again this year on July 1st. The weather last year was so very hot that it was first decided to have the parade on May 24th this year. This change was found to be unsatisfactory with the result that July 1st was again decided upon.

The Inspector, Dr. Thos. Johnston, reported for the past month: 14 complaints investigated; 13 emergency calls; 14 dogs brought in; 20 dogs destroyed; 8 dogs given to good homes; 3 dogs returned to owners; 47 horses examined; 1 horse destroyed; 15 warnings given; 15 cats brought in; 13 cats destroyed; 2 cats given to homes; 3 stables inspected; 8 special street and market inspections.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

GIVE A MAN A JOB CAMPAIGN IS SHOWING RESULTS IN CITY MANY IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE

Citizens Are Ably Co-operating in Campaign to Help Unemployed.

TRADES ARE BUSY.

Waiting for Word in Regards to Lock's Bridge.

Although it is practically impossible to estimate the full extent of the community's response to the "Give a Man a Job" campaign, enquiry around the trades shows that there is considerable activity.

Fred Goodfellow, plumber, reports that he added two men to his staff last week as a result of the increased work he has secured. Most of these jobs are for various repairs around homes, and some of them probably were inspired by the recent appeal.

The Bank of Montreal let a contract for the painting of their building at the corner of Simcoe and Water Streets, and painters generally have been quite busy. A new garage has been built at 843 Water Street; a kitchen addition is under way at 515 Bolivar Street; verandah repairs at 457 Water Street; and a porch is being built at 463 McDonnel Street.

Five houses are beng built or are definitely planned, one of them by Doug. Miller in Ashburnham, and another by George Moloney on Douglas Avenue. A new verandah was built at the south-west corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets, and G. N. Gordon has had the verandah of his home remodelled.

Approximately $1,000 has been spent in reshingling and otherwise repairing Brock Street Rink. Contractors are looking over the plans for alterations to the C.D.S. building, and the remodelling of the Albion Hotel which Wm. Tinker is converting into an apartment building is progressing.

New Locks Bridge.

J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., told The Examiner this morning that he was hoping to receive some definite announcement in the near future in regard to the proposed construction of a new bridge at the Locks on highway No. 7. If a sufficient appropriation is made by the Dominion Government for their part of the cost of this project there is evidently no doubt about the work being started.

Here is another little group of community co-operators: Fred. Shannon, 545 Gilmour Street, shingling, etc.; Alderman Holland, 174 Douro Street, repair job; Keith Lech, 788 Aylmer Street, fence repairs; Dr. Baker, Hunter Street East, shingling job; Paris News Stand, 184 Hunter Street, alterations to store recently occupied; Cain Brothers, Hunter Street, funeral directors and furniture dealers, extensive alterations to rear of store.

And so it goes, work that for the most part was not an absolute necessity but was undertaken because of faith in the future and more or less incidentally as a means of giving some impetus to the "Give a Man a Job" effort.

TIP ASKED POLICE TO FOLLOW LINDBERGH TELEPHONE WIRES

Baby Later Found Close to Police Lines Hinted at in Anonymous Letter.

WRITER, CANADIAN.

NEWARK, May 19.—The Newark Evening News said to-day that 10 days after the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, Chief of Police William Walter of Trenton received an anonymous letter which indentified the writer as a Canadian directing police to "follow the Lindbergh telephone wires" and the baby and "the three other men" would be found.

The body of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby was found a week ago to-day close to the main road from Hopewell to Princeton. Along that road ran special wires laid by police conducting the investigation from the Lindbergh garage.

Chief Walter wrote "attention" across the face of the letter, the paper said, and forwarded it to the police at Hopewell. He never received any report as to investigation of the letter.

The News said Chief Walter favored the theory that the letter might have been written by one of four men who kidnapped the baby.

The Letter

The text of the letter, as published in the News, follows:

"Mr. Chief:

"I am writing this letter from New York. 'I am going home to Canada. When I get to Buffalo I will mail it to you. That will give me more time to safely escape. I figured I'm in enough trouble. I got cold feet and fellows knew it. I promised not to squeal and they gave me money and I'm going home.

Maybe I won't get caught. We all thought we could make some easy money. We got a place near Elizabeth ,N.J., and one of the fellows who is pretty smart runs a wire to this place and listens to everything the Linbergs say.

He must be smart because every time the telephone rings he picks up the receiver and never talks. When he hangs up the receiver he always says, "I never knew I was so smart."

The Linberg baby is taken good care of as is feeling fine when I left the fellows, only it cries too much and the fellows are afraid somebody will hear it. The baby has lots of toys and a small black dog. The fellows don't want no more ransom.

They are all sorry and afraid. There is three more left now. We already stayed in this place eight weeks. I must soon catch the train. I love the Linberg kid. I don't want to see him hurt.

I don't know where is the name of the street or the road, but not far from Elizabeth, N.J. When we took the crib we read 55 minits and not very fast because somebody would see it.

Follow the Wire

I quit the fellers because they don't agree. Follow the Linberg telephone wire and you will find the baby and the three fellers. The fellers were pretty nervous.

If I did not like the baby I would not write this, but if you want the baby and the fellers you must keep this secret. These fellers have a radio and read plenty newspapers. If you catch the fellers and the baby will you let me go free.

The letter was signed simply "Thank you" and bore no signature. It was printed with pencil. The paper was blue-lined and of cheap grade. The letter was postmarked Buffalo, N.Y., March 10, at 6.30 a.m. The printing was similar to that on a postcard mailed from Newark a day or so after the kidnapping.

NEWFOUNDLAND URGED TO FACE HER PROBLEMS

Time for Straight Thinking, Plain Speaking, States Archbishop.

ACTION NECESSARY

Urgent Need for Education is Stressed by Rev. H. G. Peile.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, May 19 (C.P.)—Imploring the people of Newfoundland to face the serious problems confronting the country, divines of the Roman Catholic Church and the Church of England have set forth, in no uncertain terms, some habits they believe must be corrected and works that must be undertaken if the island dominion is to progress.

"This is no time for empty platitudes, high-sounding phrases or vague generalities. It is a time for straight thinking, plain speaking and practical actions," declared Most Rev. E. P. Roche, D.D., Roman Catholic Archbishop of Saint John's, at the conclusion of the 1932 retreat for men. He advocated development of agriculture and fisheries as a basis for growth of the dominion and as a means of providing a livelihood for the thousands of unemployed and restless Newfoundlanders. He deplored the "criminal waste" of money on gambling, liquor and doubtful amusements.

"I doubt if there is any British colony so backward in education as Newfoundland," stated Rev. H. G. Peile, rector and sub-dean of St. John's Cathedral. "We are thirty years behind the times in this respect." . . . "I should like to write optimistically about Newfoundland to-day but I am afraid I cannot honestly do it. We have to face some very ugly truths, and we are simply living in a fool's paradise if we close our eyes to them."

Unemployed

Archbishop Roche stressed the importance of providing work for the unemployed. "There is one outstanding fact emerging from the present situation which does not seem to have been stressed as its importance deserves, and that is the fact that emigration from this country is practically at an end for an indefinite period and consequently that the out-flow of our people to other places, especially to the United States of America, is likely to be reduced to a very small proportion for some years to come. That seems to me to be an entirely new, and very important, feature of the present crisis. In this country we have had our ups and downs in the past, we have had our periods of deep depression and marvellous and rapid recuperation; but I do not think that we have ever been faced with this emigration situation before.

"This will undoubtedly prove a great blessing for the country when conditions readjust themselves; but, just now, it has two important consequences. The first is that the supply of money that all along has been flowing in a steady stream into the country from abroad will be considerably lessened, and the second consequence is that our population—a population which will now increase more rapidly—will have to look to the country and its resources for a means of livelihood.

"As to how this problem is to be met and solved it is possible at the present juncture only to say in the most general terms, that its solution will mean a more intensive cultivation of the soil, wider and more scientific prosecution of the fisheries, and development of our natural resources. Sea and soil are the basic sources of nature's gifts, and they must be the basis of this country's existence and prosperity for by far the largest portion of our population. Our other wonderful resources, mineral and forest—and many minor industries with great possibilities—we must only hope will be developed and expanded with the years, and will benefit our people when the period of depression comes to an end."

Unnecessary Spending

Discussing the situation from another angle, the Archbishop said there were many ways in which unnecessary spending could be curtailed to divert money from unprofitable to profitable channels.

"In the first place there is too much money spent on amusement, sport, gambling and card playing in St. John's. I am quite prepared to admit much of our amusement and recreation is not only harmless but helpful and necessary. Recreation, relaxation, is necessary for all no matter what their state or station. Life here amongst us is dull and drab enough at the best of times, and needs to be enlivened and brightened by sound, moderate, healthy amusement and recreation. But making all due allowance for this, it cannot be gainsaid that there is altogether too much money spent on amusement in this city."

He deplored the fact that St. John's, a city of 40,000 people, spent $500,000 a year on liquor. "It must be perfectly obvious to everyone that whilst this orgy of extravagance, particularly in the matter of drink, continues we can never hope to improve conditions or to make our city what it ought to be. The backwardness of the city of St. John's, the permanent unemployed which we always have to face, the lack of tone in our business life—all this is doubtless due to many and complex causes for which we are not wholly responsible. At the same time, a great measure of responsibility rests with ourselves, and is to be found in extravagant habits of living, in living beyond our means, in possessing luxuries which we cannot afford, whilst not paying just and lawful debts, and, let me add, in the lack of industry, energy, ambition and healthy independence on the part of too many of our people." . . . "Too many of our people." . . . "Too to be settled down in life are dissipating their meagre earnings on drink, gambling and amusements."

Two Main Causes

Rev. H. G. Peile expressed the belief that the downward trend of Newfoundland's corporate life was due to two main causes.

"Sweepstakes have encouraged a very dangerous outlook on life," the rector declared. "They have reduced the dignity of honest labor. They have resulted in people trying to get money without working for it, and this tendency can be seen to-day. The other cause—in my judgment—is the cinema with its surfeit of sex and gangster films." ...The local box offices had shown there was a large public for decent films, and he believed the censors and cinema proprietors should use better judgment in their treatment of pictures.

"The sad feature of Newfoundland life to-day—if I may judge by what I have been told of past years—is that the present generation is losing the adventurous spirit of their forefathers. To-day we seem less anxious to make real efforts to supply our own needs and a certain spirit of idleness can be discerned in many parts. It is no use turning around on God and blaming Him for the hard times through which we are passing. He has given us the treasures of the soil if we will only cultivate them. He has never promised to throw our food at us without labor on our part. As our Wayside Pulpit said some weeks ago: 'God feeds the birds, but He does not throw their food into their nests'."

Referring to education, Mr. Peile said: "What this land needs more than anything else is compulsory education for every child born within its limits. Education helps people think and judge for themselves and not to be led by the nose by fluent speakers. Education should be encouraged in every way and made as cheap as possible. This is not a 'political' matter. It is a national one. Education is the greatest teacher of character. Without decent education we shall never get decent morality. I doubt if there is any British colony so backward in education as Newfoundland. We are 30 years behind the times in this respect. Education based on religion is the finest investment any country can have. A sound education is the most unselfish thing that can be given to a nation by its leaders. God grant it to our dear land of Newfoundland!"

Graveyard Yields Historic Find

In the century-old graveyard of St. Paul's Church, Woodstock (1), the tomb of Rear-Admiral Vansittart and his family has been discovered. Excavations have been made and a restoration is being sponsored by the Vansittart Chapter, I.O.D.E., of which Mrs. Spencer Hunter is Regent. Rev. John Morris is shown in (3) holding the memorial plaque of the Rear-Admiral. The shield-shaped silver plate is the identifying inscription of Carolina Ann East, the Rear-Admiral's sister and the woman after whom Eastwood was named. In (4) Rev. Mr. Morris is shown supervising excavations. Close by is another tomb believed to contain the remains of the Bettridge family. Excavations are likely to be carried out later. Entrance to Vansittart tomb is shown in (5) and the interior in (6). The caskets collapsed when exposed to the air, but one of them, that of Mrs. East, is believed to have been violated by vandals lured on by reports of jewels buried with dead. SOUTH AFRICA PUSHES STATE STEEL PROJECT

Expense of $25,000,000 is Held Valid Despite Slack Revenues.

STARTED 8 YEARS AGO.

PRETORIA, South Africa.—Despite economic difficulties which the country is experiencing, and in face of keen criticism from some experts, the Government of South Africa is going forward with its £5,000,000 scheme for the establishment of a state iron and steel industry at Pretoria.

Two hundred workmen are already engaged on clearing the site and laying the foundations, and later on between 300 and 400 will be employed. Construction of a railway line, at a cost of £150,000 primarily for the purpose of conveying ore to the works will shortly be started.

The state iron and steel works scheme was first broached eight years ago, and the intervening period has been occupied in work by governmental experts. The site chosen is at Pretoria West. Adjoining townlands are rich in ore, the quantity being estimated at 48,000,000 tons. This ore averages 45 per cent. metallic iron, but contains a fairly high percentage of silica. Mining costs are expected to be relatively low.

Properties at Vliegpoort, about 28 miles away on the Crocodile River, have also been acquired and these are estimated to contain approximately 100,000,000 tons of extremely pure hematite iron ore containing about 68 per cent. metallic iron.

The estimated cost of producing pig iron at Pretoria is under 30 shillings a long ton, as compared with 48 shillings f.o.b. at Antwerp which is now being imported and landed on the Rand at a cost of 127 shillings a long ton. The cost of producing pig iron depends to a large extent on the quality of the coke that is mixed with the charge, and experiments have proved that Transvaal coal, when mixed with 25 per cent. of Natal coal, produces a reasonably good blast furnace coke.

When constructed, the state steel works will confine its efforts, as far as practicable, to the production of primary steel products, such as rails, sleepers, building sections, sheet bars, light plates, ordinary merchant requirements, and so on.

Regarding the size of the works, requirements of South Africa in iron and steel products are such that a works can be established to manufacture approximately one-third of the country's supply and still be large enough to warrant spending money on machinery and plant to produce steel at a relatively low cost.

There is, however, a strong body of opinion which believe that the enterprise is ill-timed and foredoomed to failure. Where private enterprise, even with protection and bounties, could not succeed when prices were extremely high, say the critics, no state undertaking can succeed, now that prices are low.

KING TUT PEA IS CLAIMED A FRAUD

McGill Biologist Claims Selling "Mummy Wheat and Vegetables" Racket of Egyptian Guides.

MONTREAL, May 19— (By the Canadian Press.)— The selling of "mummy wheat" and other seed was labelled as a racket of Egyptian guides by Dr. C. L. Huskins of McGill University department of biology on hearing that a Danish farmer near Port Arthur, Ont., had harvested 200 peas from a single one said to have come from King Tutankamen's tomb. The pea was one of six brought from Egypt by a Danish missionary and cost the farmer $35.

"There is actually no evidence that wheat was ever cultivated in ancient Egypt, although of course it was sown by the Greeks and Romans," Prof. Huskins said. "Now and again a few seeds of native Egyptian grains are found in sarcophagi, but so far none have ever been found to germinate, accord ing to the professor, who looked up facts. He found, however, that the "mummy wheat racket" had been worked as far back as 1835 when a learned professor in Prague planted a few precious seeds to find them the ordinary and modern Egyptian wheat when they germinated. He had received them from a "trustworthy traveller" who may himself have been deceived.

"Present day experimentation shows that the seeds of all domestic grains and legumes lose their vitality in a few short years," Dr. Huskins pointed out. "Weed seeds are known to be the hardiest in that they can survive long years. Yet even weed seeds would be most distinctly dead if they had come from King Tut's tomb."

Further information gleaned by Dr. Huskns shows that a research worker, De Candolle by name, in seeking the origin of peas, has found out that they appear to have spread north and east from Sicily in ancient days. Actually remains of peas have been found on the sites of the primeval Swiss lake dwellings, which date back as far as good King Tutankamen. Yet peas were never cultivated in Egypt.

Modern wheat was not cultivated there either. The Egyptians did not know modern bread wheats. They grew what was an ancestor of the present day macaroni wheat.

Yet it is true that some of the members of the leguminous family to which the cultivated pea belongs retain their powers of germination for long years. While only six per cent of the common peas will germinate after a storage of six years, the seed of the Egyptian lotus is said to retain its power of germination for 300 years.

GIVE JUDGMENT IN TRAFFIC CASE NEXT MONDAY

Gray Coach Lines Are Being Sued for $1,000 Damages.

EVIDENCE CONCLUDED.

Conflicting testimony as to the cause of an accident that occurred on the last day of January this year during the height of a snowstorm, and which involved a Gray Coach Lines bus en route between Orillia and Barrie and an automobile owned and driven by Leo McAuliffe of this city, was yesterday afternoon given during an action for $1,000 damages and costs in County Court before His Honor Judge L. V. O'Connor.

All the evidence was in when the court adjourned shortly after 6.30 o'clock and the judge reserved his decision until 10.30 a.m. on Monday next. Plaintiffs W. C. McAuliffe and his son Leo are each suing for the sum of $500 damages and costs, the elder plaintiff for alleged injuries received to his wrist and severe shock which he claims were the results of the accident involving the car in which he was riding as a passenger; and the younger plaintiff for damages to the car.

J. A. O'Brien counsel for plaintiffs concluded his case at 4.20 p.m. after which R. R. Hall, K.C. counsel for the defendant company, moved for a non-suit on the grounds that the evidence had established that the accident was caused by negligence on the part of plaintiffs. Another ground on which he would move for a non-suit, said Mr. Hall, was that plaintiffs gave no warning to the driver of the coach and did not sound their horn. Having regard to all the circumstances he further contended that plaintiffs were travelling at too high a speed. "They should have stopped," he said, "although according to witness, Traffic Officer Bell they had enough room to pass the bus."

The motion was not granted. John H. Montgomery of Toronto, driver of the bus, the chief witness for the defence related that he left Orillia on schedule at 7.35 a.m. bound for Toronto. He proceeded south on the west side of the highway at an average speed of twelve miles per hour.

It was storming badly and there was a high wind blowing. In some places visibility was good and it was then that witness was able to speed up his bus a little. Most of the time he was only able to proceed at about eight miles per hour.

The McAuliffe car was about forty feet away when witness first saw it. "It was coming head on into me and I swerved slightly to the left. He was on my side of the road," the bus driver declared.

In answer to counsel witness said that he swerved to the left to try and avoid the car and at about the same time the car also swerved over to its proper side of the road. Witness then commenced to get his bus back on his own side of the highway.

Car Struck by Bumper

"My front bumper hit the left rear wheel of the McAuliffe car. The car then proceeded along the shoulder of the road and afterwards toppled over into the ditch. When I stopped my left front tire was resting on the tire marks made by the left rear wheel of the car at the time of impact. It indicated I had only travelled two feet before bringing my bus to a complete stop," the driver testified.

He later claimed that W. C. McAuliffe and his son Leo took him back up the road to look over the tracks made by the bus, but would not look back at their own car tracks.

"The McAuliffe's wanted to know what I was doing driving a coach. I pointed out my tracks to them and attempted to point out the tracks made by their car as it came down on my side of the road," said the bus driver.

Both the father and son had told witness that they were not injured. He could not see that either of them had done anything to avert the accident.

Cross examined by Mr. O'Brien, the bus driver claimed that it was impossible for plaintiffs to have seen his bus from a distance of 300 yards.

Not Talking to Girls

On the morning of the accident the bus was carrying three passengers, a man who was asleep at the rear of the vehicle and two young ladies who sat on the front seat immediately behind witness. "No sir, I was not talking to them," he said in reply to counsel.

"What," said Mr. O'Brien, expressing his surprise. "A good looking young man like yourself and two good looking young ladies; and you were not talking to them?"

Mr. Hall—You can't make insinuations like that.

The driver later claimed that the left door of the McAuliffe car was not damaged. He also stated that the car was a fawn colored one. Plaintiffs had previously testified that it was blue.

"You made close observations, didn't you," remarked Mr. O'Brien.

"It pays," was the unconcerted and laconic reply.

Witness subsequently stated, "It was certainly not a blue car. It was a dirty color."

Montgomery told Mr. O'Brien that he had had three accidents in the last five years, including the accident in dispute. According to his schedule he was due at Toronto at 11.05 a.m. On the morning of the accident he was an hour and a half late. He completed the seventy miles from the scene of the accident to Toronto in three and a half hours.

Leo McAuliffe who was the first witness following the resumption of the hearing in the afternoon related how the car had toppled over in the ditch. It was pulled out by a service truck at a cost of seven dollars. Before leaving the village of Guthrie witness changed one of the front wheels on his car because it had been damaged in the smash. Witness then drove the car with his father as far as Lindsay, where they both stayed overnight.

"As a result of the accident I was stiff and sore, and could not work for a week afterwards," said witness.

Car "Just Quit"

He drove through to Peterborough from Lindsay on the day after the accident and reached McDonnel street when the car "just quit." Subsequently the car was sent down to Harnden's Repair Shop where the bill for repairs amounted to $102.65.

The car was not at present in as good condition as it was before the accident. "I can't get the squeaks out of it," witness complained. He also claimed that one of the doors was sprung and the upholstery damaged.

Witness said his father had not worked since the accident. "He tried to work last week but he could not."

Under cross-examination by Mr. Hall the younger plaintiff said the car had gone 34,000 miles before the accident. The upholstery had been in good condition.

It was snowing on the morning of the accident and a high wind was blowing, but witness claimed that it did not obstruct his vision to any appreciable extent. He thought there would be about five inches of snow on the centre of the highway. the coach was 300 yards away when he first saw it. The bus was on the centre of the road as also was witness's car.

"I started to swing to my right as soon as I saw the bus and the bus started to veer to its left. When I saw the bus swinging like that I swung my car out further," witness maintained. To avoid a collision he said he swung out as far as he could on his own side of the road." He did not sound his horn.

"Did you stop your car," asked counsel.

"No. But it was practically at a standstill at the point of impact."

"Why did you not go on the other side of the road," Mr. Hall persisted.

No Complaint of Injury

"That is where he should have been," witness replied. He did not believe that he could have turned out on the left and avoided the accident. It was about fifteen minutes after the accident before the bus proceeded on its way. At no time before the bus driver left did witness believe there had been a complaint made regarding his father's injury.

John Harnden of the Harnden Welding Works gave evidence relative to the damage which he had repaired on plaintiff's car. He was of the opinion that the force of the blow that had caused the damage was considerable.

Following medical evidence given by Dr. J. M. O'Brien before the luncheon adjournment regarding the injuries to plaintiff W. C. McAuliffe's wrist, Mr. Hall secured permission to have a further medical examination made of the injured limb by Dr. T. W. H. Young on behalf of the defendant company. Permission was given on the condition that the examination be conducted in the presence of Dr. O'Brien.

In the course of his evidence Dr. Young stated he would not regard the injury to the wrist as being of a permanent nature. "He will have good use of his hand in the future. The condition of the wrist would improve with exercise," said Dr. Young.

He did not believe that the heart condition of plaintiff as described by Dr. O'Brien in evidence would arise as a consequence of an accident of the nature he had heard described in court.

Room to Pass

Provincial Traffic Officer Donald Fraser Bell of Orillia investigated the accident. He was of the opinion there should have been lots of room for the two vehicles to pass. From what he saw of the marks on the highway some time after the accident, he would not be prepared to express his opinion as to whether the car struck the bus or vice versa. In the event of a collision it would be natural for the lighter of the two vehicles to slide into the ditch.

Regarding injuries witness stated, "I asked if anyone was hurt as soon as I got to the scene of the accident. That is one of the first things we are supposed to do. The elder McAuliffe said, none.

Other witness called by Mr. Clifford Curtis of Curtis Service Station who testified as to a battery recharged for plaintiff; and James Vincent Byrne of Barrie who drove out in a service truck on the morning of the accident to get the plaintiff's car out of the ditch.

First witness for the defence was Wilfred Varley, men's wear salesman of Orillia. He was a passenger in a car driven by a Mr. Lamb, and was proceeding from Orillia to Toronto on the morning of the accident. "McAuliffe senior was at the scene of the accident when witness arrived. He had said that no one was hurt."

Earl Ross Lamb, truck driver of Orillia corroborated the evidence of the previous witness and stated there was "lots of room for the car to pass the bus."

Dorothy E. Nash a nurse at Ontario Hospital, Mimico, was a passenger on the bus on the morning of the accident. She was not talking with the driver she stated. It was a bad morning and the bus was travelling slowly.

Witness could see out of the bus through the portion of the windshield which was kept clear of snow by the wipes. The car was on witness's left side of the road. That is on McAuliffe's right side of the road. The bus swerved to the left. The impact was so light that witness did not feel it.

Witness was not cross-examined by Mr. O'Brien.

Miss Ethel Mary Durnford, a nurse at Ontario Hospital, Orillia, was also a passenger on the bus. She was not talking to the driver. No one was talking to him. Describing the accident witness said, "The bus swerved a little to the left side and the driver applied his brakes. I looked through the front window and saw the car almost in front of us. The bus struck the fender of the car at the rear left side," declared the witness.

Cross examined she said the car was a Ford. She did not know what color it was. In reply to Mr. O'Brien she stated, "the car was over on its right side of the road and the bus was on its wrong side of the road."

That concluded the defence. In reply Mr. O'Brien recalled W. C. McAuliffe. Regarding the statement made by witness Montgomery that plaintiff refused to go back to look at his own wheel marks, witness said, it was untrue.

In answer to defence counsel he stated that during the time the bus was stopped at the scene of the accident he did not examine the wheel marks of his own car. He did make an inspection of them afterwards.

Leo McAuliffe was also recalled. He did not agree with the statement made by the bus driver that he had asked witness and his father to look at the wheel marks made by witness' car.

RESCUERS RUSH EFFORTS TO SAVE ENTOMBED MEN

TEMUCO, Chile, May 19. (AP)—Definite indication that the 50 men entombed in the Las Raices tunnel near here yesterday were still alive spurred the efforts of the rescue crew of 800 to redouble their efforts to-day.

Early this morning it was discovered that the entombed men were handling the air valves running into the tunnel.

In spite of the weather, a crowd of wives, mothers and children of the imprisoned men continued their tearful vigil around the mouth of the tunnel throughout the night.

ROMAN DIE STAMP UNEARTHED IN LONDON AREA BY BUILDERS

Letters on Both Sides of Slate Object Found.

UNBROKEN JARS FOUND

LONDON. — The "star" find among relics of the Roman occupation of London unearthed during building excavations, which found their way into the Guildhall Museum in 1931, is a stamp used by an oculist, Caius Silvius Tetricus, for marking his wares.

This find was unique for London. Some 200 examples, according to Mr. Quentin Waddington, curator of the museum, are in existence on the Continent and a few in other parts of England.

The stamp is made of a kind of slate and is about two inches square and a quarter of an inch thick. Each side is for stamping the label of a jar of different content. The letters are as clear as if they had been cut only a few years ago. The date, Mr. Waddington believes, is about A.D. 300.

Other articles acquired during the year included a bronze cosmetic spoon with the remains of a fine silver ribbon which had been wound in the groove of the spiral stem. Many of these have been found before, and it is thought that every Roman lady had one or more on her dressing table.

A circular enamelled brooch complete with its pin was of first century make; a single coin of the reign of Vespasian, A.D. 70-79; bronze hairpins, tweezers, ear-picks, and a primitive iron key were all found on a site in Upper Thames Street which was formerly under water. The articles were probably thrown into the river, Mr. Waddington thinks.

Another excavation, near Fenchurch Street, disclosed a well, the bottom of which was wood-lined. In this were found several earthenware jars, one or two of which were unbroken. These had probably been lost when used for drawing water. An iron spade-edge came to light, pointing to the times when metal was expensive and the remainder of the spade was made of wood.

A fine specimen of red Samian ware was found. This was a bowl about six inches in height and diameter, with the owner's name, probably, scratched on the bottom. All this pottery was made in France, or Gaul as it was then called, and this piece probably dates from about A.D. 50-70.

So much beauty wasted by failure to heed a few words of expert advice! Tragic!

WHY "magic"? Because there are so many cases just like hers. Because no one needs to have an unsightly skin. You don't. Your complexion can be kept lovely, youthful.

Beauty experts tell how: Simply, twice a day, apply to face and throat a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Work well into the pores with your hands. Then rinse thoroughly with warm water, and finish with a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your face. After this, in the morning, your make-up. At night, if your skin is dry, follow with oil or tissue cream.

BERT GRAHAM LIFE MEMBER OF THE A.Y.P.A.

Superintendent of St. John's Sunday School Honored By A.Y.P.A.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Recognition of many years outstanding service in St. John Church and Parish, where he is at present holding office as Sunday school superintendent was last night accorded to Bert Graham when he was made Dominion Life Member of the A.Y.P.A.

The honor was conferred upon Mr. Graham by Jack Cuff, Dominion representative and district president of the A.Y.P.A. at the annual dinner meeting of St. John's branch which was held in the Parish Hall basement, with Miss Florence Hutchinson, retiring president, in the chair.

It is an interesting coincidence that the only other Life Member of the A.Y.P.A. in this district is a namesake of Mr. Graham, in the person of Miss Blanche Graham of St. John's Church, Lakefield. Incidentally Miss Graham was present on the occasion, and as the guest speaker of the evening delivered a thoughtful and inspiring message dealing with the relationship of the A.Y.P.A. with the church.

She termed the organization as "the service club of the church, designed to meet the needs of the twentieth century." It was an organization founded thirty years ago in the Diocese of Huron on the four-square principles of worship, work, fellowship and edification, she said.

Archdeacon the Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave occupied the chair for the election and installation of officers for the ensuing term. They are as follows:

Honorary President — Archdeacon Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave.

President—Jack Marshall (acclamation).

Vice-president—Woody Thirnbeck.

Secretary—Miss Marion Wigg (re-elected).

Treasurer—Miss Rose Puddick (re-elected).

In asking Mr. Graham to come forward to have conferred upon him, the Life Membership the retiring president, Miss Hutchinson, stated in part: "I have not words to express our gratitude for what this member has done for our association ever since it was first organized in St. John's Church. At one time he was Peterborough district representative on the Dominion A.Y.P.A. executive, and past president of our own branch, but while he is not now holding any particular office in the branch or the district or Dominion, he has one of the outstanding positions in the Parish in his office as Sunday school superintendent."

"I do not know where we could find a more devout churchman than Bert Graham, and when we sent in the request for his life membership we had no trouble in getting it."

Mr. Cuff who conducted Mr. Graham's installation as life member presented him with a parchment certificate and a gold ring with the A.Y.P.A. crest engraved upon it.

In her presidential address Miss Hutchinson reported upon a year of great progress for St. John's Branch of the organization, and tendered thanks to all the members who had given her unstinted support during her term in the chair.

Miss Puddick reported that the year had closed with a credit bank balance of $50.70, while Miss Wigg the secretary gave a very concise report of the outstanding events of the past year.

Another presentation was scheduled to take place last evening, but was deferred due to the unavoidable absence of the one to whom the honor was due, namely Bert Hayter. The club had procured a handsome framed picture for presentation to Mr. Hayter in recognition of the hard work he had performed in his role of producer in making the recent play of St. John's branch one of the most successful they had ever staged.

The program which followed a splendid meal prepared by the members of the Women's Friendly Bible Class, also included the following toasts: "The King"; "The Church," proposed by Woody Thirnbeck and responded to by the Rev. E. R. James; "The A.Y.P.A.," proposed by Jack Marshall and responded to by Miss Blanche Graham of Lakefield; "The Visitors", proposed by Miss Enid Welch replied to by Cecil Hope of St. Luke's Church Branch.

CANADIANS RECEIVE "RIDE OF THEIR LIVES"

The worst roads in Canada would be rubber-cushioned highways compared with the trails this bus, carrying 22 passengers, follows in crossing the Isle of Dominica in the West Indies. A number of Canadians, who recently took the West Indies Trade Cruise, were thrilled with their ride over the Isle, where hairpin turns are confronted with dizzy regularity and inclines are encountered as sharp and precarious as spiral stairways. The natives, they said, handle a fleet of three Chevrolet Trucks with the skill of daredevil stunt drivers, and appear eager to back their boast that the Chevrolets will climb cocoanut trees.

LITTLE ENTENTE REJECTS FRENCH DANUBIAN PLAN

States Oppose Restriction of Commerce, Seeking Widest Markets.

UNION UNSATISFACTORY.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, May 19.—The eleventh annual conference of the foreign ministers of the three Little Entente states, Roumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, which has just concluded a three-day sitting here, definitely eliminated from the sphere of active practical politics the plan of Mr. Andre Tardieu of France for a Danubian economic bloc.

All three of the Little Entente states have from the beginning looked skeptically or unfavorably on the project, but because of their attachment and loyalty to their great ally, France, on which they are financially and politically dependent, none officially or categorically rejected it.

At this conference, however, the Little Entente adopted a more comprehensive formula for economic recovery. It considers the proposed union of the five Danubian states economically unsatisfactory and politically dangerous since such union would not provide the necessary markets for Little Entente products and would revive Austro-Hungarian difficulties.

The Little Entente reaffirms its determination to preserve the status quo and to trade with all countries, not restricting its commerce to Danubian lands.

The conference was characterized by a display of complete outward harmony and by the usual plethora of ardent declarations exalting the power of the Little Entente and stressing agreement on all international questions, notably disarmament, war reparations and economic reconstruction.

CLAIMS CANADA ON SOUND BASIS

Chamber of Commerce Head States Trouble Not Keyed to National Situation.

NO BIG BUSINESS BREAKS.

San Francisco, May 19 (C.P.)—W. L. McGregor, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, to-day stood before the United States Chamber of Commerce as a firm believer in the coming of a golden age to Canada, the British Empire, and the United States.

In a speech before the annual meeting of that institution yesterday Mr. McGregor said Canadian institutions were essentially sound and the country was in a position to go ahead as soon as the world economic horizon clears.

"Canada to-day is absolutely sound," he said, stressing the strong position of banks, trust, mortgage, and insurance companies in the Dominion. "There has not been a single failure among our financial institutions since the war," he told his audience. "Our bank debits are 1 1per cent. more than they were 10 years ago. Our savings deposits are up in the same period more than 22 per cent.

"There have been no important business failures to undermine the people's confidence in the country or to alienate the confidence of overseas investors. Our troubles, with few exceptions, are keyed to the international and not to the national situation."

The average wheat crop of the world, excluding China, for the want of reliable statistics for the last three years was more than 4,000,000,000.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

REV. BLAGRAVE GIVES ADDRESS

Archdeacon Speaks at Meeting of St. George's Church Men's Club.

PRESENTS CUP.

"It is through the Fatherhood of God that the true brotherhood of man can be realized," was said by the Venerable Archdeacon Blagrave at an open meeting of the Men's Club of St. George's Church, held in the basement on Tuesday evening.

Albert Cuff acted as chairman, and referred to this as the closing night of the season. In his remarks he spoke of the club as having been well attended throughout the season, and the achievement of one of the bowling teams in winning the "Hope" cup.

The guest speaker was introduced by Rev. J. L. Hughes, who spoke encouragingly of the Men's Club during the season. The special speaker each month had been a welcome change, and each message greatly enjoyed. The rector said how proud all were that the honor of winning the cup had fallen to one of the St. George's teams, and congratulated Mr. Sims and his team. The cup was on view during the evening.

Archdeacon Blagrave introduced his talk very informally, and with much humor. Dealing with the subject of "Men's Clubs," the Archdeacon showed the value of the "common interest" existing among the members. This brought about true fellowship, which could be a valuable contribution to the community. The fellowship of a club could widen out in a congregation, and show itself in the sacramental life of the church. The speaker instanced how religious sanction was used in order to get things going. In Communism itself there are religious principles with devotion, from which emerge principles of religion in years to come. In the Church we have the sanction of the Supernatural in the gift of our Saviour, and the Holy Spirit binding us in one fellowship with Him above. Our Lord had the ideal right before Him, cementing the brotherhood of man with the Fatherhood of God. It was so often said that the working man was separated from the Church, but this was not in any sense true, said the speaker. He referred very feelingly to the way in which men of all stations in life kneel side by side at the altar to receive the same blessings and divine grace.

The chairman conveyed the sincere thanks of the meeting to the Archdeacon for the very interesting line of thought presented to them.

A program of items which were all greatly enjoyed comprised the following: Vocal solos by Miss Martha Sands, Miss Beatrice Curtis, Audrey Firth and Victor Coleman (gold medalist); vocal duets by Betty Sands and Helen Reader, and a recitation by Frank Harrington. Accompanists were Mrs. R. King and Mr. Jack Cuff. Mr. D. Leether, on behalf of the club, extended thanks to the artists and all who had assisted in making the evening a success. The singing of the National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close.

COPYRIGHT ACT TO BE REMEDIED

Former Law Caused Stream of Worthless Publications to be Sent to Libraries.

MOVE BY SNOWDEN.

(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 19—The burden of the Copyright Act has become intolerable to the trustees of the British museum library, and Lord Snowden is introducing a bill to relieve them.

Up to now a publisher of any printed work whatsoever had been obliged to send a copy to his trustees. The consequence is that services from one little village to another, and nursery wallsheets proclaiming that "A was an archer who shot at a frog." Even trade advertisements had to be sent to the trustees until an act of 1915 allowed them to refuse much of this kind of printed work.

Lord Snowden's act may relieve the trustees somewhat, but even so they will not be out of the deepest shadow cast by wood pulp. The stream of utterly worthless novels, of biographies of 10th rate personages, and of poetry that is a libel upon the name will still pour in upon them. The trustees will suffer from the penalty of privilege, for they will continue to receive free what other people have to pay for—or at least they are expected to pay for.

COMMENDS ACTION OF BOARD

Peterborborough, May 18, 1932.

Sir:—I would heartily commend the local Board of Health, as reported in your issue of yesterday, for requiring a raw milk vendor-producer to produce a certificate of health for his herd if it should prove true that one of his cattle showed tuberculosis when slaughtered. Where tuberculosis has been shown to be present in a herd, every known means should be used to see that the milk is made safe by rigid tests of the herd, or better still, by having the milk scientifically pasteurized. The tuberculin test, carefully applied, shows those tuberculous cattle which react to this test and they can be removed from the herd, and a certificate to that effect will entitle the owner to a license to peddle the milk here in the raw state, but it cannot guarantee that the herd is free from tuberculosis, or that the milk therefrom does not carry germs of tuberculosis. Cows have been found which did not react to the tuberculin test, but were at the same time, riddled with the disease and giving off great numbers of tubercle germs in their milk.

Such cases provide one more instance of a general law of bacteriology; a positive test is good proof of the presence of a disease, a negative test indicates in varying degree, that the disease is not present, but by no means proves that it is not. No milk vendor selling milk in this city can testify that his herd is free from tuberculosis or contagious abortion, or other bovine diseases which may affect man through the milk. The most he can say is, that to the best of his knowledge, such is the case—and that means that it is mostly a matter of form until a diseased animal is known to have been found in the herd. Scientific pasteurization is the only known means of removing disease-producing germs from a milk supply and it kills not only the disease germs of animal origin, but, what is more important, it kills also those of human origin, such as typhoid, diphtheria or scarlet fever, which so readily contaminate raw milk.

For this reason, it is the well established judgment of modern health authorities that no municipality is justified in spending money, time or energy in such things as milk supplies from tuberculin tested herds, until after such municipality has complete pasteurization of its supplies. This would appear to be the policy of the Department in Ottawa under which Dr. Moynihan works. The Veterinary Director General in a letter to me states, in regard to tuberculin tested municipal areas such as proposed by the local Board here: "I would particularly point out, however, that the Department has not for some time accepted municipalities under this plan, nor is it intended to accept municipalities in the future." Quite right. This is no time to waste time and money in an effort which would at best, provide a comparative safety from one disease only, when without expenditure of time or money, complete pasteurization of the city's milk supply would provide safety from all milk-borne diseases.

Neither is it a time to inflict any unnecessary hardship and loss upon the milk producers. The accredited herd plan has several advantages to the breeder of pure bred cattle and he can embark upon it at a time which he chooses so as to be financially advantageous to himself. This other plan has few of the advantages of the accredited herd plan and many disadvantages not found in any other plan. Not the least of these disadvantages being that it would be thrust upon the farmer at a time when he can least afford to incur losses.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

VETERAN SKIPPER IS HAILED AS OLDEST FREE MASON IN N.S.

Captain D. C. Fraser of Chance Harbor, Aged 94, Believes Work Keeps Him Fit.

WENT TO SEA AT 16

HALIFAX, N.S., May 19 (C.P.).—Good manual labor is the best recipe for health, in the opinion of Captain D. C. Fraser of Chance Harbor, Pictou County, who went to sea when he was 16, sailed for 59 years and still is active at the age of 94.

"I have not been sick a day in three years," he told a recent caller who found him at the door of his workshop. Within the shop a farm cart, the woodwork of which has been fashioned by his hand, was nearing completion.

He rises about nine o'clock in the morning and seldom retires before midnight. Taking a keen interest in the affairs of the community, he attends most of the local meetings and functions, and it is not often he misses a birthday party. He is an ardent Liberal, and keeps well informed on proceedings of Legislature and Parliament.

He is hailed as the oldest living Freemason in Nova Scotia. The degrees of the Order were conferred upon him at Pictou town in 1865.

Once a week, summer and winter, he goes to New Glasgow, a town about eight miles from his home, and looks after his affairs in a business-like manner.

Captain Fraser is a grandson of Duncan Fraser, who came out of Inverness, Scotland, on the Lucy Hector, which touched at Halifax on the way to Virginia with a band of settlers. His father, John Fraser, settled at Chance Harbor, where the boy, Daniel C., was born and learned to love the lure of the salt water.

He began his long sea-faring career in 1853, as apprentice to a pilot of Pictou. He first sailed out of Pictou on the Witch of the Waves, commanded by Captain Jim Fraser. This vessel was built by John Fraser, brother of the captain, from timber out on the Fraser homestead. His next berth was on the Pictou Packet, under Captain Currie; then he went to the Ada Purvis, Captain Hugh Cameron. After several years of coasting, he joined the brig Tanna, Captain McGregor, in 1859. The next year found him on the Light Fue, again under Captain Currie, in the West Indies trade.

Takes First Command.

In 1861 he took his first command, on the brig Victory, which carried coal to Boston during the American Civil War. In 1866 he was second mate on the Edgar Cecil, Captain Anderson, in foreign trade; next on the Flambro Head, as second mate; then on the brig Thetis, as first officer, and in 1869 he was on the brig Rambler. He had become a rover.

In 1872 he joined the Edgar Cecil as first mate, remaining with this ship until 1875, when she was sold in Antwerp. Then he joined the barque Lotus, Captain Currie, and took his last post under sail.

He had seen the sign of the times, and in 1876 he shipped as first mate on the steamer Valetta, where he remained until 1882, when he entered the service of the old Black Diamond Line. He was a captain for this line until his retirement from the sea in 1913, commanding the steamers Coban, Bonavista and City of Sydney.

In his 59 years at sea, Captain Fraser passed Quebec more than 800 times.

He was in the harbor of St. John's when the greater part of that Newfoundland city was destroyed by fire. He recalled that a British man-o-war sailed from Halifax to St. John's in 27 hours with food, clothing and other necessities for the homeless.

Captain Fraser tells many stories of the sea. He remembers the loss of the Fairy Queen in October, 1853, about four miles from the mouth of Pictou Harbor. Late in the afternoon the ship was anchored. Without a word of explanation to the passengers, the captain and crew rowed to shore and walked to Pictou, arriving in town about midnight. The boat was sinking, and just before daylight the following morning Captain Fraser's master, one of the Pictou pilots, called the young men to prepare to go to the ship. The ship, however, sank and keeled over. Eleven bodies were picked up near Ponds, Merigomish, later in the fall. The officers were arrested and tried but the case against them was dismissed when they told the magistrate they had left to get help after the ship had sprung a leak and the fires were extinguished. The Fairy Queen carried passengers and freight between Pictou and Charlottetown.

More electric power is being used in Great Britain than a year ago.

POLICE QUIET CHURCH RIOT

Negro Pastors Lock Each Other Out of Church Four Times.

TIT FOR TAT

SAINT JOHN, N.B., May 19 (Special to The Examiner)—When two clergymen announce they are going to occupy the same pulpit at the same time, something is sure to happen. Somebody is wrong. Rev. A. F. Roberson, pastor of the St. Philip's African Methodist Episcopal Church, Saint John, N.B., was padlocked out of his own church by Rev. C. A. Stewart, pastor of the A.M.E. church in Halifax, N.S. and ruling elder for the Maritime provinces of the A.M.E. denomination.

Rev. Mr. Stewart placed a new padlock on the door of the church and ordered the pastor not to enter at any time. The pastor removed the lock and replaced it with one of his own. This was removed a few hours later, by the presiding elder, who sealed up the front door with another padlock. In all, four changes of locks were made during the course of one day. With Rev. Mr. Roberson claiming he had accomplished more in the 3 months, he had been pastor, then Rev. Mr. Stewart, had, in the preceding three years, in the same church. Rev. Mr. Stewart served notice, and the pastor was dismissed. The pastor claimed nobody but the bishop for the district could dislodge him. Both announced they would address the congregation, at the same time, the following Sunday.

The local police were summoned, and took charge of the interior of the church, with the pews completely filled and the standing space also occupied for the first time in years. There were cheers for the deposed pastor, but the controversy was won by the elder, when the trustees of the church called for the resignation of Rev. Mr. Roberson peremptorily. When this was not given within 24 hours, Rev. Mr. Roberson was notified he was an ex-pastor, and off the payroll. The presence of the police in uniform and plain clothes within the church is believed to have prevented a riot between the two factions, supporting the pastor and his superior, the edifice being cleared of everybody except the policemen.

The trouble between the two colored clergymen developed when Rev. Mr. Stewart ordered a tag day promoted by Rev. Mr. Roberson, cancelled. The order was ignored and Rev. Mr. Stewart hurried from Halifax, to be on the battleground.

HAVELOCK ODD FELLOWS PUT ON DEGREE WORK

CAMPBELLFORD, May 19.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.) — As guests of the Campbellford Lodge No. 248, I.O.O.F., a degree team of the Havelock Odd Fellows, under Harvey Gordon, visited the local lodge last evening and exemplified the first degree, one candidate receiving his initiatory degree. About twenty-five guests were present. After lodge work a banquet was served in the dining hall by the local brethren at which about seventy were present. Short speeches were given by some of the visitors, the program consisting of two vocal solos by G. W. Lucy, readings by J. D. McEachern and C. W. Palliser, a vocal solo by James Dafoe, and community singing.

ANCIENT ENGLISH CEREMONY REVIVED

Happiest Married Couple Receives Flitch of Bacon.

CALGARY, Alta., May 19 (C.P.).—Calgary revived an old English custom recently when a ceremony was held at which the happiest married couple was supposed to receive a flitch of bacon.

Inaugurated by the Augustinian Monks in 1111 A.D. at Dunmow, Essex, the ceremony was known as the "Triel of the Dunmow Flitch."

When all the married couples who failed to stand up under the fire of questions were eliminated, there still remained three couples in the running for the token of happiness. Rules call for a judge, prosecutor, counsel for competitors and a jury.

Near the conclusion of the "Triel" held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, argument started over the merits of the three remaining couples. They revealed such wedded bliss that a tie was decided upon and the judge carved the flitch into three pieces.

Alderman R. H. Weir was the judge who exerted the wisdom of Solomon in awarding the three-way victory. The victors were Mr. and Mrs. J. McGibbon and Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Reid, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Long—all of whom had proven that theirs was an ideal married existence.

Competitors had to take an oath, written poetically and in the old English style, which required them to swear they had never "by household brawl or contentious strife or otherwise offended each other in deed or in word, or wished themselves unmarried again." Some participants took this oath quite bravely, but a number broke down under gruelling cross-examination and were released on promise of good behaviour."

LINDSAY BUYER IS ACQUITTED

ROAD CAMPS TO OPEN.

LINDSAY, May 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—W. A. Fanning, stockman, town, who was recently arrested on the charge of issuing worthless cheques and taken to Madoc, has been acquitted of the charge. The main witness in the case of M. E. Grant, manager of the local branch of the Dominion Bank, who declared that the accused had made an arrangement to get credit for his sale, and in order to have this sale, had to purchase a number of cattle in the vicinity of Madoc. These he paid for by cheques drawn on the Dominion Bank here. The local branch had authorized the credit, and in the meantime the head office repudiated it, and as a result, Robert Wood, who sold cattle to Fanning, laid an information. The manager of the local bank assured the court that there was no intention on Mr. Fanning's part to defraud, and that the delay at head office had caused the trouble.

The announcement made by The Examiner a few days ago relative to the reopening of work on the Coboconk-Dorset Highway has been confirmed. Plans are now made for the installing of two camps, each containing one hundred men, on the highway. These camps come under the same scheme as that now under way in Northern Ontario. The wages will be $6.00 a month and board, and the men will work eight hours a day.

JAILING THIEVES TOO COSTLY

At times it is not fair to the State to put the expense of maintaining robbers in prison even though they plead guilty. That was the opinion expressed by Justice Lavery during the trial of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Donohoe in the district court at Cavan, Irish Free State, recently. The pair had selected for their victims such prominent people as Rev. Henry Galligan, priest at Lavery, Tax Collector Andrew Smith, of Drumlnahwn, and Francis Tracey, of Killegrogan. At Father Galligan's they took money, and enjoyed a bottle of altar wine. Money was taken from the others. Donohoe and his wife pleaded guilty, which called for six months' sentence, but the judge said it would cost too much to keep them, so the duo was freed.

'Puerto Rico' Spelling Suits Blanton, But Don't Monkey With 'Texas' He Says

WASHINGTON, May 19 — The House laid aside all such trivialities as billion dollar deficits yesterday to spend two and a half hours debating a bill to change two letters in the official spelling of Porto Rico.

It finally agreed with the Insular Affairs Committee that the present name of the island is an "impure idiomatic compound" which should not be permitted any longer and that hereafter the territory should be known by its Castilian Spanish name of Puerto Rico.

The vote of 88 to 31 was not taken, however, until after heavy tomes had been carted to the well of the House by those who protested vehemently to upsetting tradition, and who recalled the famous thought probably apocryphal congressional debate of days gone by over the name of "Arkansas." At that time, the story goes, purist members sought to change the spelling to "Arkansaw," but Arkansas members stemmed the tide and saved the day.

Representative Thomas L. Blanton of Texas said Puerto Rico was all right with him if the inhabitants wished it, but served notice that the House had better not try to change the name of Texas.

TRAIL OF SPIC AND SPAN CITIES LEFT BY LEAGUE BOARD IN CHINA

Refurnishing Along Commission's Route Showed Nation in "Party Dress."

DEMAND RETENTION.

SHANGHAI, May 19.—The Manchurian Inquiry Commission of the League of Nations has left in its wake a trail of renovated Chinese towns and cities. Apprised of the commission's itinerary through China proper, the National Government instructed provincial and local authorities to clean up the route along which the members passed, and in a few days transformation was accomplished.

Roads were repaired, buildings were whitewashed, opium dens were closed, anti-Japanese slogans were removed, and officials were instructed to don spotless uniforms. The finest railway cars in China were carefully assembled to make up a train such as few travelers in China in recent years have seen. The commission saw a China in company dress.

Especially in North China elaborate preparations were made to impress the commission. Students were asked to make no demonstrations during their stay, and soldiers were instructed to stay out of sight of the commission's train as it passed. The anti-foreign slogans which have decorated the walls of palaces in Peiping since 1928 were carefully painted out, and the original "Peking red" restored.

The Chinese people particularly enjoy "dressing up" for such visitors, and often the process of dressing up results in permanent improvements.

It is therefore possible that the commission's tour through China may have similar permanent results which the League could hardly anticipate. Once the improvements have been made, the Chinese residents of other cities, like those of Peiping, may realize their benefit and demand their retention.

60 ATTEND ANNUAL A.Y.P.A. BANQUET HELD AT LAKEFIELD

Long Toast Program Given By Visitors and Members of Association.

SHORT ADDRESSES.

LAKEFIELD, May 19.—(Examiner Correspondence).—About sixty were present at the annual banquet held by the A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening and a very delightful evening was spent which apparently was enjoyed by all present. The tables were arranged in horseshoe style, with a special table for the past presidents, four of whom were present. The beautiful flowers on the tables, which added a gala note to the appearance of the Parish Hall, were the generous gift of J. W. Ridpath. Blue and white, the A.Y.P.A. colors, were used extensively in the scheme of decoration. The tables were loaded with dainties to which all did ample justice. Following the supper the toast list was run off, with Miss Blanche Graham acting as toastmistress.

The first toast to His Majesty the King was honored in the usual way, and the next toast to the church was proposed by C. C. Stenner, a past president of the association.

According to the usual custom of the A.Y.P.A., a verse of "The Church's One Foundation" was sung.

In replying to the toast, Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., said that the official name of the church was the Church of England of Canada, a good name which emphasizes the fact that wherever the flag of the British Empire floats we are the old church, founded in the first century in Britain. An erroneous impression still exists in the minds of some persons that the Church of England dates from the Reformation, but this is not so. The very early history of the British church is rather indefinite, but we do know its existence in the first century. It was well nigh crushed out by the invasion of the heathen Anglo-Saxons, who were evangelized largely through the old British church which was still in existence in the western part of the island. St. Augustine's labors were largely confined to the south-eastern part of England, Kent County and London.

The church has gone on in unbroken succession down to the present time. We have a kindly feeling toward other religious bodies and hope to see the day when the church of God will be one, even as God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Ghost are one.

Toast to Parish.

The toast to the parish was proposed by Walter Chappell, past president, who briefly expressed his pleasure at the large attendance and urged the continuance of the support given to the parish and its activities which has been given in the past.

Dr. F. H. Lingwood, people's warden, in replying, congratulated the association on the revival of membership which has increased so much. When, five years ago, on first being appointed church warden, he visited the various societies to ask co-operation in financial matters, the first visit was to the A.Y.P.A., and the response given was so hearty and encouraging that it was of greatest assistance in meeting the other societies.

John Hampton, rector's warden, who also replied to this toast, felt that Dr. Lingwood had covered the ground very thoroughly, but he hoped that all would unite as a family to help the dear old mother church we love so well and which stands for so much to us all.

The toast to the A.Y.P.A. was proposed by J. P. Harvey, chairman of the finance committee of the parish, who thanked the local branch for the pleasure of being present at the banquet. He himself was a member of the A.Y.P.A. years ago. One feels that there is nothing wrong with the church when there is still a fine body of young people.

The president, Miss Winnie Payne, replied, thanking the A.Y.P.A. for past support and bespeaking even more for the future.

T. A. Simpson, a past president, proposed the toast to our guests, all of whom are welcome and who have honored us by accepting invitation. He paid a hearty tribute to the work of past officers, some of whom are not in the village now and whose work has built up the society.

Mrs. J. P. Harvey, in what she modestly said, was her maiden speech, replied in a graceful manner, thanking the branch for the invitation which she was pleased to accept.

Lawrence Charlton, a past president, proposed the toast to the A. Y. P. A. girls' softball team which has been newly organized. Miss Grace Watson, the captain replied.

Jack Woodhouse, treasurer, proposed the toast to the ladies. He spoke of the value of the work of the fair sex in all the branch activities. They were members of all the committees and always looked after the "eats."

Miss Hampton replied, thanking Mr. Woodhouse for the nice things he had said about the ladies, who, however, had always received the heartiest co-operation from the men.

Dr. Lingwood is giving a mitt to the ball team, a gift which was heartily appreciated. The announcement was made by the president at the close of the banquet.

The program was interspersed with singing from the song sheets distributed among the members and guests, Mrs. Balkwell at the piano kindly providing the accompaniment.

Following the banquet, the young people played games for an hour or so, and all voted the banquet a great success worthy to be ranked with the many successful banquets in the past.

Obituary

JOHN S. DAVIS

MADOC, May 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—The death occurred in Smithville, Ontario, on Sunday, May 15, of John S. Davis, in his sixty-ninth year.

The funeral took place from his late residence, in Smithville, on Tuesday, May 17, with service at the house at two p.m., thence to the United Church cemetery, Smithville, for interment.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his sorrowing wife, Margaret Nickle, formerly of Madoc, a sister of Mr. T. L. Nickle of Madoc; two daughters, Helen, Mrs. Cecil Putman of Toronto, and Margaret, at home; and two sons, John Nickle Davis of Smithville, and Dewitt Davis of Toronto; also two grandchildren.

The late Mr. Davis was at one time assistant principal of Madoc High School, and was a member of the Madoc Masonic Lodge.

THOMAS SULLIVAN.

LAKEFIELD, May 20.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Thomas Sullivan was held on Tuesday morning with Requiem Mass in St. Paul's Church at 9 o'clock. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors, who gathered to show respect to an old resident and one held in high esteem.

Rev. J. J. Garvey officiated and took the text of his address from the words of St. Paul regarding death which comes to every man, a common ending to the life on earth and one which opens the portal of the life eternal. There is a great object lesson in this for us all to live so that we may not fear to meet the judgment which awaits the soul from the Great Judge of all men. To those who have served God on earth there is reward and for those who disregarded God and His word there is stern punishment. Our souls are saved through the blood of Jesus Christ and in no other way. Surely there is a warning in these days of fast living and careless habits to think about our souls future. To every man upon this earth death cometh soon or late" and it behooves us one and all to prepare for it.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Dwyer, Towns, G. Charlton, H. Nolan, A. Coughlin and J. Coughlin.

Interment was made in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro. The late Mr. Sullivan had lived all his life in this district and was very well known for his kind heart and gift of sympathy to all in trouble, had made many friends for him. He was devoted to his family and enjoyed having his sons and daughters with him. For the past few years his health had failed greatly and he was not able to go about the village in his accustomed way but nevertheless his death leaves another gap in the ranks of the Old Guard of Lakefield, which has been sadly depleted during the past few months. Mr. Sullivan was eighty-four years of age and is survived by five sons, James and Dennis of Peterborough, William of Detroit, Martin and Thomas at home, and three daughters, Mrs. O'Brien of Peterborough, Mrs. Hotchkiss of Toronto and Miss Margaret Sullivan at home. His wife pre-deceased him some years ago. He was a devout member of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church.

MRS. PHOEBE KETCHESON.

TWEED, May 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. Ketcheson was held on Tuesday afternoon from the home of her son to Moira Church. The Rev. Mr. Truscott officiated.

The funeral was largely attended by the people of the surrounding district.

The late Mrs. Ketcheson was born at Clarke's Mills in Lennox and Addington County ninety-one years ago, the daughter of the late Allan and Mrs. McTaggart. For the past eighty years she had resided in Huntingdon and was a very prominent citizen in the social and religious life of the township. She was an ardent church worker and gave freely of her time and substance to aid in church circles. She was a member of the Moira United Church and a life member of the Women's Missionary Society of that congregation. Her husband predeceased her seven years ago.

To mourn the loss are one daughter, Mrs. Archie McLean, Fernie, B.C., and five sons: Royal of Eburne, B.C.; Edward of Upland, California; John of Honolulu; and Fred and Charles W. of Moira; one sister, Mrs. George Clapp of Edmonton, Alberta.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. John Morton, Edward Welsh, David Thompson, George Clare, Clarence Mullock, and Ben Morton.

MRS. GAVIN SHEARER.

KEENE, May 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — The death of Isabel Shearer occurred yesterday morning at her home in Otonabee. She leaves to mourn the loss, her husband, Gavin Shearer, two sons, Russell and Gavin, and one daughter, Mrs. Roy Humphrey of Asphodel.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, with interment in Westwood Cemetery, Rev. H. J. Bell officiating.

HARRY ELMHIRST.

KEENE, May 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — Following an illness of nearly two years, Harry Elmhirst, son of William Elmhirst and Jenny Lancaster of Otonabee, passed away on Wednesday. The deceased was 28 years of age, and had been a student of Guelph Agricultural College for two years up to the time of his death.

He leaves to mourn the loss, his mother and father, one brother Alfred, and one sister Kathleen, all at home. The funeral will be held at 1.30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon from the late family residence to St. Michael's Anglican Church at Westwood, and thence to Westwood Cemetery. Rev. O'Connor-Fenton officiating.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE PLANS BAKING SALE

Mrs. Charles Thorndyke Plays Hostess to Millbrook Grace Church Group.

MILLBROOK, May 19 (Examiner Correspondence) — Mrs. Charles Thorndyke, president, entertained the Women's League of Grace Presbyterian Church for its May meeting at her home, Regent street, over twenty ladies being in attendance, and the gathering concluding with a most enjoyable afternoon tea and social hour.

Miss Jean Syer read the opening scripture lesson and the business items included discussion of the project of holding a home baking sale and afternoon tea on Saturday, May 21, in Mrs. Ellis millinery parlors.

The necessary committees were appointed and the plan will be carried out on the date mentioned. The invitation of Mrs. W. McKnight to hold the June meeting at her home, Seventh Line, was accepted and at the close of the regular session the guests gathered about daintily-laid tables, the hostess being assisted by her daughter, Miss Ruth, and the committee in charge, in serving tea.

Music and a social hour brought to a close a profitable and enjoyable gathering.

Mission Circle

Miss Marjorie Sayles, president of the Golden Links Mission Circle, entertained that organization for its May meeting at her home on Tuesday evening, the special item of business considered being the holding of a musical evening in the church basement on June 14, at 8 p.m., the talent taking part including contestants from Cavan and Millbrook who were entered at the Musical Festival at Bowmanville last week, and who brought many honors to the township and village, from the high standing taken in their several classes.

The committee in charge will include the president, Miss Marjorie Skitch and Miss Gertrude Spence, who will be responsible for the social part of the gathering. Misses Phyllis Kidd and Margaret Luxon will look after the plates at each door.

The study book on "Korea, The Land of the Dawn," was concluded on Tuesday evening, Miss Phyllis Kidd taking the opening and closing sections, others assisting being Misses Lottie Luxon whose topic, "The Task that faces the Church in Korea To-day," Miss Marjorie Skitch, who continued this part of the subject, and Miss Jean Burnham, the leader closing with the words: "Korea calls; what will our answer be?" and with a brief resume of what has been accomplished in the fifty years the Christian missionaries have been at work in this formerly hermit country.

The June gathering will close the Circle's work for the present season, except that the usual picnic will be held during the holiday months.

FRAGMENTS OF TONSILS.

You may be astonished when you learn that in a series of 400 cases where the tonsils had been removed, 300 cases were found to have fragments of tonsils.

There was a time when these fragments were blamed on the work done by the old family doctor, who used to simply cut the tonsils out with a 'snare,' leaving a considerable portion of the root of the tonsil still in the throat.

Can these fragments cause any harm or damage to the system? Yes: It has been found that where these fragments have been removed that there has been a 'striking improvement' in the symptoms of many patients.

Is the family doctor to blame for all these cases where fragments have been found, some time after the tonsils have been removed? No; Drs. Normal L'eshin, and Samuel Pearlman, after an exhaustive study, conclude that there is no method of removing tonsils that will guarantee the patient that there will not be some little new growth of lymphoid tissue at the point where the tonsil was removed. It would seem that it is just the nature of some individuals to grow a little more of this tonsil like tissue, whereas other individuals once the tonsils are removed never have the slightest regrowth of tissue, not even a tiny fragment.

If the usual operation of removing tonsils by the knife, carefully removing every part of them, does not prevent fragments growing afterwards, what about the other methods by use of electric knife, or coagulating them by electricity?

Every throat specialist, including those who use these other two methods — electric knife and electric coagulation — advise that the knife method is still the best as these other methods may dam back some infection beneath the scar tissue. The patient still has the infection, and if surgery is used later the surgeon has a difficult job cutting or clearing out this scar tissue.

However, where the patient is afraid of the operation, or where there may be other reasons for not using the knife, other methods are certainly much better than not removing infected tonsils.

So don't be surprised if there may be a fragment of the tonsil in your throat some time after operation. It is not likely that it will need to be removed, and even if that is found necessary it will not be a serious matter.

Franklin Post Office To Be Discontinued

LIFFORD LINE, May 19 (Examiner Correspondence) — Franklin Post Office will shortly pass out of existence, although the general store in connection with it will continue to do business as usual, operated by Murray Spiers, who has been postmaster for a number of years with his father, James Spiers before him. Two short-termed postmasters had charge of the work at Franklin preceding Mr. Spiers and following Joseph Hadden, who now operates the Bethany Post Office.

John Shea delivered the mail from Franklin along the Lifford and eleventh lines for a period of over twenty years from the advent of rural mail in this locality until four months ago when the postmaster is completing the work. Previous to the establishment of rural mail Mr. Shea drew the mail from Franklin to Fleetwood Post Office for a number of years until Fleetwood and Lifford Post Office were no longer requirements. The Lifford Post Office was operated by Miss Jane Fowler in the times when mail delivery was an individual matter and many a farm home received mail once a week rather than daily as has been the case for the past two decades.

When Franklin no longer touched a railway line with the laying off of the old Grand Trunk Railway, a few years ago, it was found necessary to have the mail drawn from Cavan to Franklin and distributed from there as usual.

In the near future the Franklin, Fleetwood and Lifford Line mail will be sorted in Bethany after delivery from Cavan C.P.R. trains and will be delivered rurally by Thorndyke Brothers of Bethany.

Canada's forest resources are estimated at 224,304 million cubic feet of standing timber or about 54 times the depletion estimated for 1930, including loss from fire and insects as well as timber cut for use.

In England a high tea is much more of a meal than ordinary afternoon tea. Frequently when dinner is served so late as to make eating it impossible if one wishes to go to a theatre on time, those who are going will have high tea late in the day and be sufficiently nourished for it to take the place of dinner.

• • • • • • •

Usually an after-theatre supper of some sort is indulged in either at some hotel or restaurant or at home. These teas are like light suppers with hearty sandwiches, preserves, and cake besides tea a-plenty.

• • • • • • •

The appointments for afternoon tea are a teapot, hot water kettle or pot, cream pitcher, sugar bowl, or dish for loaf sugar, a dish for lemon slices, cups and saucers, and flat silver.

• • • • • • •

Plates and small doylies or finger napkins should be included for all but family teas and they should be included at them whenever needed. It is only when crackers and cookies or things which are not moist or sticky are served that the napkins can be omitted.

• • • • • • •

Plates are essential for good service, although some persons believe that this additional dish is not handy but a bother.

• • • • • • •

The entire tea service as given may be put on a large tray and be carried into the living-room or out on to the verandah or lawn, where a low table is cleared and ready to set the tray down on.

• • • • • • •

These tables are now indifferently termed coffee tables or tea tables since they may be used for a tea dinner coffee or afternoon tea.

• • • • • • •

Milk should be served with tea in preference to cream, but here in Peterborough rich milk is well liked. Instead of lemon slices orange slices may be used—they are considered more delicate than lemon.

• • • • • • •

Each lemon or orange slice may have a clove thrust in it. Maraschino cherries and wee bits of preserved or sugared ginger are frequently served to be put into the tea as liked.

• • • • • • •

For a formal tea the dining table is set with the tea things and the sandwiches, little cakes, olives, salted nuts, bon-bons, etc., are on it. Coffee may be served at one end or chocolate, while tea is served at the other.

• • • • • • •

Those who pour should be seated at each end, and helpers are needed to replenish the pots and dishes and assist in passing the things.

• • • • • • •

Ice-cream or sherbet is apt to be served also, but this comes in individual servings direct from the pantry, and is passed on trays to those who have finished with their tea or other beverage.

SPLENDID DEBATE GIVEN AT MEETING

Young People of Mark Street Church Take Part in Y.P.S. Program.

Interest and expectation soared high last night when a stirring debate was the centre of attraction at the meeting of the Young People's Society of St. James United Church.

William Anderson, convenor of the citizenship department presided. Opening with a brief devotional service which included prayer offered by several members, Rev. Mr. Moorhouse welcomed the large delegation of Young People of Mark Street United Church together with their debating team. Miss Edith Elmhirst and John Hunter, Boy Premier of Ontario. All other guests were also warmly welcomed by the pastor on behalf of the St. James Y.P.S.

Two delightful solos were contributed during the evening, Miss M. Ralston who sang with fine effect "The Organ and the Organist", while Miss Edith Smith delighted all with her sweetly sung solo "He Careth For You."

The president, Miss Connie Wagar presided during the business period and also for the debate which followed.

The subject for the clever clash of wits was of deep interest to everyone. "Resolved that reading is more profitable to the individual than is travel." Mark Street Young People were represented by Miss Edith Elmhirst and John Hunter who upheld the affirmative side of the debate, while Miss Jean Hammond and Ernest Davis, of St. James' Y.P.S. presented the arguments on the negative side.

The judges for the debate were Miss E. Miller, Mr. Pammett and L. J. Pettit, and Mr. Moorhouse acted as time-keeper.

Each speaker was allowed ten minutes in which to present his points and the leader of the affirmative an additional three minutes for rebuttal.

In maintaining the point that reading is more profitable to the individual than travel, John Hunter in his pleasing manner and cajoling voice well nigh persuaded his listeners that travel was very secondary value to people and that reading was the most important thing in life.

Miss Elmhurst so ably seconded the leader that their success seemed almost injured. Nothing but the clever way in which the negative leader, Ernest Davis and his colleague, Miss Hammond, met their opponents, both by establishing their own points as well as in refuting the affirmative side, could have won for St. James Y.P.S. this debate.

The friendly encounter brought the two city societies into a closer relationship and provided a splendid evening's entertainment. The decision of the judges was unanimously in favor of the negative side.

St. James team will in the near future meet the Cavan debating team to compete for the cup presented by the Young People's Presbytery Union of the Bay of Quinte conference.

AFFIRMS HEPBURN NEVER KLANSMAN

"Scribe" Contradicts Statement in Recent Belleville Speech.

LONDON, Ont., May 19.—In a signed statement from Scribe 6087, described as a member of the Klan executive, dated at London, absolute denial is given that Mitchell F. Hepburn, leader of the Ontario Liberal Party, was ever a member of the Ku Klux Klan of Canada. The statement contradicts a speech given at Belleville recently attributed to John G. Hothersall of London, self-styled organizer for the Klan. According to Scribe 6087, Hothersall is not a Klan member at present, having been suspended some years ago. Denial is also given that Mr. Hepburn relied on the Klan for political support at the last election.

Mail dispatched from Berlin, Germany, by the Graf Zeppelin was delivered in Buenos Aires four and one-half days later, breaking all records.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE OPENING BID
Lesson 2.

When the deal is completed each player picks up and assorts his hand. The novice will find it advantageous to separate the suits and possibly to place them in the order of their rank. He must keep clearly in mind the rank of the suits, as explained in the first article.

The second step in the play of Contract is to determine who shall play the hand and which of the four suits shall be the trump suit, if it is decided to play at a trump declaration, or whether the hand shall be played with no suit as trump. When there is a trump, any card, even the lowest, of the trump suit outranks the highest card of any other suit. The cards of the trump suit, of course, rank from Ace down to deuce in that suit. When there is no trump, the highest card of the suit led must, of course, take the trick.

The Dealer has the first right to bid. A bid is an offer to take a certain number of tricks if played at the suit named or at notrump, as named in the Opening bid. After the Dealer the other players may bid, in rotation from left to right. If a player cannot bid, he says, "I pass" or "No bid." Each new bid, of course, must be higher in value than any preceding bid; that is, two clubs is higher than one club, and one spade is higher than one heart or one diamond. If all players pass, the hand is thrown in (not played), and the deal passes to the next player in turn.

The point value of tricks varies with the suit named. The value of a trick at the minor suits—clubs or diamonds—is 20 points; the value of a trick at the major suits—hearts or spades—is 30 points; the value of a trick if there is no trump is 35 points. If the value of the tricks bid for equals or exceeds 100 points, the player undertaking the contract and his partner are planning to score a game.

The accepted standard of determining whether or not a player should make a bid is the possession of a minimum number of "honor-tricks." Honor-tricks are Aces or combinations of lower honors, including King, Queen, Knave and Ten. Naturally, the value of these honors increases or decreases with their rank and frequently (although this will not be discussed at this time) with relation to their position as regards other honors.

The following table of honor-trick values should be studied carefully, as it is the foundation upon which sound Opening bids at Contract are built.

2 Honor-tricks	1½ Honor-tricks
A K	A Q A J 10 K Q 10
1 Honor-trick	½ Honor-trick
Ace K Q	K x Q J x
K x and Q x in different suits K J x	Q x and J x in different suits

The minimum requirement for an Opening bid is 2-½ honor-tricks. If the Dealer finds he has this minimum, he has the first requisite for a bid. What that Opening bid should be depends upon the distribution of the cards in his hand.

It is one of the basic principles of successful Contract that the bidding should be kept as low as possible in order to permit the free exchange of information between the partners, and equally to secure information from bids made by the opponents. Hence, the Approach principle, which provides that the bidding should start low and "approach" a possible game bid gradually and that whenever a hand contains a suit bid, the suit should be bid first. Whether a hand contains a justifiable suit bid depends upon the length of the suits held. No bid of a suit should be made unless the suit chosen contains at least four cards. If it contains only four cards it should include not less than 1-½ honor-tricks.

The following are the minimum biddable four-card suits ("x" is used to indicate any card below the Ten):

A K x x A Q x x A J 10 x
K Q J x K Q 10 x

You will note that each of these suits has at least the minimum number of honor-tricks required in a biddable four-card suit. If the suit chosen for a bid contains five or more cards, it does not require so much strength in honors, as tricks will probably be developed in the suit through length in it. (This will be explained later.) In order to bid a five-card suit, it should have at least ½ honor-trick at the top. Thus a five-card suit such as K x x x x or Q J x x x is a minimum biddable suit. If you hold a minimum of 2-½ honor tricks in the hand you have the first requirement for an Opening bid. If it also contains a suit that meets the requirements above, you should bid that suit. Lacking a suit of the strength outlined above or greater, but holding the minimum number of honor-tricks, you should then bid notrump.

This hand is a sound Opening bid of one spade:

Spades K 10 x x x
Hearts A K x
Diamonds x x x
Clubs x x

while, on the other hand, the correct Opening bid with the following hand would be one notrump, the reason being that the hand has no biddable suit, but sufficient honor-tricks to justify an Opening bid of one (a contract to take 7 tricks):

Spades K J x
Hearts Q J x x
Diamonds A J x
Clubs 10 x x

The student will find it advantageous to commit the honor-trick table to memory.

TO-DAY'S POINTER.

Question: How are short suits counted in the Responding Hand? (They have no value in Declarer's hand.)

Answer:

With 4 or more trumps	With 3 trumps
Void suit = 3	= 2
Singleton = 2	= 1
Doubleton = 1	= ½

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS
Lead Out of Turn, Law 34 (a)—Wrong Information Given by Dummy to an Adversary—Penalty—Equity.

Question: East said, "Is it my lead?" Dummy replied "Yes"—giving to East wrong information. East led, the lead being out of turn. South, Declarer, called upon West, the proper leader, to lead a card of a certain suit and claimed he was not bound by the wrong information given by his partner. May Dummy be penalized for giving wrong information to East? Dummy having advised East that he had the lead, may the Declarer call upon West to lead a card of a certain suit?

Answer: There is no penalty for Dummy wrongly informing East that he had the lead. According to the strict letter of the law, Declarer was within his rights in calling upon West, the proper leader, to lead a card of a certain suit. Every player at a table should know whose lead it is. If one asks "Is it my lead?" no one is bound to give this information. If the question is answered, it is a courtesy extended the player. If East erred through a mistake of Dummy in giving him the wrong information, a mistake which imposed no penalty upon the Declarer and Dummy, while Declarer is entitled to impose the penalty under Law 34 (a), we think it is hardly playing the game to penalize the adversaries under the circumstances. Although Declarer's claim was lawful, it was inequitable. This is a case where the strict letter of the law should not have been enforced.

A Shaded Response.

Question: Both vulnerable, no score on rubber game, Dealer bids one spade, Second Hand passes. What should Dealer's partner bid? Partner holds:

Spades — —
Hearts 10 x x x
Diamonds J x x x x
Clubs A J x x

Answer: Dealer's partner should bid one notrump. The hand contains about 1-½ honor-tricks and no biddable suit. To leave the partner to struggle with a spade contract under the circumstances is unthinkable and there is no other course than to bid notrump as the hand justifies no suit bid.

Don't Bid Same Cards Twice.

Question: South and North hold:

SOUTH
Spades 5 2
Hearts K Q 9 7 5
Diamonds A 9 6
Clubs K 5 4

NORTH
Spades A Q 4 3
Hearts J 10 6
Diamonds 7 4 3 2
Clubs A 2

What should South do after the following bidding?

South	West	North	East
1 Heart	2 Clubs	2 Spades	Pass

Answer: South should pass. South's Opening bid was an exact minimum containing 2-½ honor-tricks. The heart suit is not rebiddable and certainly not at an increase of the contract. The error in the bidding of the hand was by North. North holds almost adequate trump support, the J 10 x of hearts being very close in value to Q x x. North's better bid was two hearts. In support of the heart bid, North holds 2 tricks in spades, 1-½ tricks in clubs and ½ trick in diamonds, a total of 4 playing-tricks with hearts as trump. A suit as weak as A Q 4 3 should rarely be bid on the range of two and certainly not where the choice is between supporting the partner's bid and starting a cruise upon entirely unchartered waters.

This is the second of a series of articles in response to requests from numerous readers designed to explain the elementary principles of Contract Bridge. One of these will appear each week. In them Mr. Culbertson will write especially for the benefit of those who have never played Contract and who may even be unfamiliar with the method of playing it. The articles will cover the game from its basic elements to the higher phases of Contract Bridge. The series in its entirety will comprise a complete course of instruction in "How to Play Contract."

MRS. G. R. LANGLEY ELECTED PRESIDENT

Peterborough's Grenfell Mission Branch Holds Annual Meeting.

Mrs. G. R. Langley was elected as president of the local branch of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission, at the annual meeting which took place on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. R. Morris, Homewood avenue.

The members accepted with regret the resignation as president of Mrs. W. R. Morris, who served the society for many years and who did not see her way clear to again accept the presidential office.

Mrs. Morris was appointed as honorary president, with additional officers in Mrs. G. M. Roger, first vice-president; Miss Florence Edwards, second vice-president; Mrs. D. B. Falkner, secretary; Mrs. F. M. Somerville, treasurer; Mrs. J. C. Smith, convenor of sewing and packing.

The secretary reported a year of added activity for Grenfell workers, which brought with it added satisfaction. The outstanding event of the year was the visit in November to Peterborough of Sir Wilfred and Lady Grenfell, when the former addressed a large gathering in George Street United Church.

The sum of $100 was realized from the offering at this service, which was sent to headquarters at Ottawa to help the work of the Grenfell Association.

In the Fall there was a tea and sale of industrial work; Christmas cards and calendars were sold in December, and two substantial bales of new and used clothing were sent to Harrington Hospital for distribution among the needy on the Canadian Labrador coast.

The treasurer, Mrs. F. M. Somerville, reported a collection of $384.57 from different activities of the year, with a bank balance on hand of $130.

It was decided to send $90 to Ottawa towards the general expenses of the Labrador Mission, also to spend $20 on underwear to be put in the bales, which will be packed during the early part of June.

The local branch expressed sincere thanks to The Examiner, for helping to promote Grenfell activities so generously at all times. Thanks were also expressed to the Grafton Company, who always lend space for packing the bales.

"SKYSCRAPER" IN MEXICO CITY.

Mexico City, Mexico, soon will have its first "skyscraper," and because of the peculiar foundation conditions of the city the new structure is attracting the interest of architects and engineers in many parts of the world. The building is 13 storeys high, is of structural steel and reinforced concrete, and will be equipped with a modern ventilating system, latest-type elevators and other improvements of present-day structure. As Mexico City once was a lake bottom, although 7,500 feet above sea level, buildings have been low and spread out because of the constant settling of foundations. Those of the new building are of reinforced concrete on wood piles. The structure is believed to be earthquake-proof.

FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE

The Blind Spinner Of Tops

WHEN the new family moved into the house next door Don was much interested to find out whether they had any boys; and so from the window he watched the furniture being carried in also keeping an eye out for members of the family when they arrived.

Presently he saw a woman, holding a little boy by the hand, come down the street, stop and speak to the moving men and then go into the house. The boy seemed very quiet, for he walked ever so slowly, with his head held very straight and looking neither to the right nor the left.

Don set him down for a "sissy boy," though he couldn't have told you exactly why he thought so.

"Don," said Mamma a few days later, "you must be very nice to the boy next door."

"Aw, Mamma, he's a little sissy," objected Don promptly.

"No, Don," replied Mamma very gravely, "he's blind."

Don was silent for a moment. Then he spoke up:

"I'm sorry, but, Mamma, how could I play with a blind boy?
